Barbour Beats Lyne in A.S. Presidential Race

by Brad Johnson

"Ecrasy" is how Pauline Barbour, a 26-year-old accounting major, described her emotions after soundly defeating current A.S. Vice President James Lyne in the Feb. 16 vote.

Barbour capitalized on what she called a "professional, non-slanderous" campaign, receiving 206 votes compared to Lyne's 255. Twenty votes were cast for other undeclared contenders. Barbour vowed to "insure the continued growth and development of the Associated Students" until the January election.

Barbour, who captured 58% of the 655 votes cast, assumes office in June along with Vice President-elect David Menezes, whom she "thanked for work I'm completely comfortable in his ability." The third part of the A.S. hierarchy, the treasurer, will be decided in a run-off election today and tomorrow between Gregg Byrd and Manonno Westery. Barbour has thrown her support behind Byrd, an accounting major.

Following her defeat, Lyne pledged to support Barbour and to return to "being a student and making money flying airplanes."

Menezes New V.P.
Run-off for Treasurer

To almost no one's surprise, David Menezes, the uncontested candidate for A.S. Vice President, swept to an easy victory during the annual student elections last week, gathering 507 votes.

A total of 146 votes were cast for assorted candidates not listed on the ballot, and it is speculated that more students "fail to vote for themselves in a race that would not harm the actual candidate's chance for election. Mickey Mouse and Richard Nixon were conspicuous in their absence among the miscellaneous votes."

In a much closer race, only 34 write-in votes were cast in the bid for the most contested office of the year, that of the A.S. Treasurer. Gregg Byrd, president of the Black Student Union and Business Manager of the PawPrint led the field with 242 votes. Close behind was Manonno Westery, co-chair of the Anti-Tuition coalition, with 233. A third contestant, Sandy Case, received 144 votes. Byrd will face Westery in a run-off to be held today and tomorrow.

No upsets or surprises emerged in the race for the Board of Directors seats, in which all the candidates ran virtually unchallenged. The only bid which faces opposition was the seat for the School of Social Sciences, won by candidate Elise Frayn, who was challenged in a vigorous write-in campaign by Herbert Byrd. Frayn received 96 votes, to Byrd's 51.

The winners of other seats include: Administration, Sheri Mills; Natural Sciences, Kathryn Coolbaugh; Humanities, Robin Perry; Education, Gene Vann Jr.; and Special, Dual Majors, Mary Ann Millard.
Editorials

Dear Editor,

Subject: Reply to your Editorial Reply of April 22, 1981

Regarding your incredible insight of the journalistic point of view, you stated, "Newspapers are not obligated to give both sides of the story. To do so would eliminate editorial personal perspectives, even political analyses from those with opposing viewpoints." Now, I submit that printing both points of view is, or should be, an obligation of journalism. Further, how could this eliminate editorials? In contrast, it would increase them. This is so logical that I am surprised at your statement.

To continue your argument that only one side of the story has been presented, that of the Reagan administration. Maybe we don't read the same newspapers. The L.A. Times is consistently slanted on the liberal side, and their editorials are not limited to the editorial page. Just pick up any editorial page. Just pick up any issue and read the front page. The great majority of the news items are written by 'Times Staff Writer, who present or interpret the news in a biased (liberal) manner.

I fail to mention the terrorist activities of the government junta, but omitted any mention of terrorist activities by the communist revolutionaries. You said, further on, "this point in time." Redundant.

Ed Asner had to scream at a rally attended by those who agreed with him. Screaming at a sympathetic audience is not the act of a rational person, but that of a demagogue. As for the revolutionaries in El Salvador, they may, or may not be communists. But in the story, "it walks like a duck and quacks like a duck, it must be a duck.

In conclusion, I suggest that those who were exposed to another "armed conflict" have a legitimate right to both sides. Your obligation is to see that they have this right. So far, you haven't.

Cal State Extension
Course Offerings

is the process of healthy growth a never-ending series of free courses designed for counseling professionals, social workers and marriage and family counselors.

A one-day course, "Sexual Well-Being: Human Sexuality & A Transpersonal Experience," offered through extension at Cal State, San Bernardino May 9, will explore this and many related questions.

Areas to be discussed include adolescent sexual activity in terms of a new awareness and education, transpersonal sexuality, legal aspects of human sexuality and sex roles and preference.

"Sexual Well-Being" is designed for health and human service professionals, paraprofessionals, educators and concerned individuals. The course fulfills the guidelines for training in human sexuality as mandated by AB 4178 for licensing requirements for psychologists, social workers and marriage and family counselors.

Gary L. Yares, family health education coordinator in the Office of Health Education at the San Bernardino County Department of Public Health, is the instructor.

The session meets from 9 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. on the fifth floor of the Library Building. Registration fee is $44.50 for one unit of credit. Non-credit is $37. Registration is required by May 19, and can be made by calling the Office of Continuing Education at 867-7527. After that date, those interested may call that office to see if space is available.

Renaissance Festival

Glen Carlo Menotti's The Unicorn, The Gargant and The Manticores will be presented at the Renaissance Festival Friday and Saturday, May 1 and 2, in the college Commons.

The musical dinner theater is presented by the Chorister Singers under the direction of Dr. Loren Flagg. Although Menotti is a currier 20th century composer, his fable is done in the style of the Renaissance madrigal.

Planning to begin construction of "The Beer Garden," a patio planned for the south-west end of the Student Union, were approved two weeks ago by President Philp. Funding had approved last year by the A.S. Board of Directors.

The patio plan provides for a four-story high fence surrounding several of the concrete pillars on the south-west corner of the Student Union. An area approximately 15 x 40 feet will be enclosed, extending the present boundaries of the Pub Game Room. Access will be through a doorway which is now open to the Game Room emergency exit, after minor modifications to the door. The fence will be "tiedwood look." It is designed to blend with the building's architecture and landscaping the patio will be a legal alcoholic consumption area, pending final approval by the Alcoholic Beverage Control, as of the A.D.A.C.

The Board of Directors has allocated $10,000 to the patio construction, based on bids sought last spring. A.S. officers had hoped for the project's completion last spring, according to James Lyne, A.S. Vice President. But there were quite a few obstacles, most of them simply schedules.

Lyne credited Dr. Joe Thomas for supplying the project's technical know-how, and for helping in the plan to the Administration.

Dr. Thomas has approved the construction plans, and the Director Richard Bennecke has been asked to secure bids as soon as possible.

President Philp indicated that a meeting of the Board of Directors will be held in the Student Union on Wednesday, March 25.

The patio is expected to take only a few days.

Writing Labs

Offered during Spring Quarter, the Writing Labs are offered in conjunction with the Writing Center, which will be offering at no additional cost help for students who have writing problems. The Writing Labs will be held in conjunction with the Center.

If you have general writing problems, contact the S.A.L. (EXT. 7670) or the English Department (LC 355).

The Coyote 500, a Cal State campus car rally that is open to the faculty, students, and staff, is ready to roll this year on Thursday, May 7th at 6:00 p.m. Joe Long, director of Cal State intramurals, makes the point that the Coyote 500 is open to everybody. "Everybody can win. They just have to keep up a constant speed." The goal of the Coyote 500 is to travel an assigned route at a constant assigned speed. The car that comes closest to keeping that speed will be declared the winner. Last year the speed was 35 miles an hour, and the winners were Kathy Lasser and Debby Morals. Each car is given directions for the route, with the directions ranging from "turn right at 3rd anniversary" to "turn left at the yellow sign." This is the 3rd year for the Coyote 500. Entrants for the race will be announced right up until the 6:00 deadline before the race begins.

College Information Day, Cinco de Mayo Events Planned

"Noches de Azteca," a Latino musical, is being presented as part of the College Information Day for community college students at Cal State, San Bernardino. April 29.

This Mexican-American heritage pageant, under the direction of Eloisa Segovia, will be staged by the San Bernardino Valley College MECHA. The event precedes the Cinco de Mayo festivities which will be held May 5.

This is the first year Cal State has hosted the information day designed to acquaint community college students with the educational opportunities available at four-year colleges and universities. The day is being sponsored by the inland Empire Chapter of Raza Administrators and Counselors in Higher Education (RACHE).

Activities begin at 9 a.m. with presentations in the Commons, followed by presentations by representatives of various four-year colleges.

A welcoming address will be given by Dr. John M. Pfou, Col Store president, in the Student Union Multipurpose Room at 10 a.m.

"In the name of all students," said John Dossey, "I heard the alarms. I thought it was false. I opened the door and smoke started pouring in. I went out the window."

"People were screaming," said Donna Heftin. "At first I didn't wake up. I problems opening up the window screen. Everything looked all black. It was pretty scary."

"The wind was blowing pretty hard," said Kimm Nelson. "I heard the alarm. All I saw was flames. The heat was intense, very intense. I jumped out of my window. Everybody was out like between two or three minutes."

Dutler, "There is some to the connection in that whoever is starting us is focusing on the same dam thing. He has to have an interest in that dam thing."

No suspect has been found so far, but police are actively investigating the situation.

Waterman will be closed for the rest of the year, with some pretty heavy questions to be asked as to how to dam fire regulations.
Steve Heise and Chris Bilecki blow their horns as part of the festivities.

Youngster scolded after putting a damper on an otherwise perfect day and dry sidewalk.
The 25¢ X-rated movie arcade was one of the more popular events at Open House.

The kids, needless to say, had a field day painting, playing, and gluing dirt to pieces of paper.

Honda Volleyball Series in High Gear

by Terry Seal

The Honda Volleyball Classic is now under way. Sponsored by The American Honda Motor company, under the supervision of the Cal State Intramurals Department, the Classic features four divisions of teams playing on a TBA basis.

The Honda Volleyball Classic is basically on experiment by the Honda people, says Joe Long, Director of Intramurals. This is the first year they (the American Honda Motor Company) are testing the project out in 20 schools in the southern California area. If it works, then they will probably go nation-wide with it next year.

Three of the divisions in the tournament are Power divisions, or according to Long, "real" volleyball. Participants are expected to have had some experience with volleyball, and are expected to play according to official volleyball regulations. These divisions include men's 4-on-4, women's 4-on-4, and co-ed 4-on-4. The fourth division is co-ed 6-on-6, playing a more informal brand of volleyball. The only real regulation in this game is the maximum three sets over the net: "It doesn't matter how clean you are. Some people call it "jungle ball." He adds, "What we want is people who played last winter, who maybe just weren't that good, who just had fun and want to play."

A schedule is hung up on the bulletin board in the main lobby of the P.E. building. Issuing games a week in advance along with the phone numbers of team captains so that the games can be scheduled. Everybody who enters will receive a logo patch, and hopefully, a t-shirt if there will be enough to go around. Quarter finalists or losers will receive t-shirts with more prizes to be given out on the day of the finals.

Outward Bound!

"When we left the mountain it looked unchanged. No difference. None of us could say the same about ourselves."

A Outward Bound! It's not just what you do, but how you feel about it afterwards that counts.

Our courses are tough—they're meant to be—but not beyond the reach of anyone who tries. They're fun. And safe as human ingenuity and experience can make them.

At Outward Bound we teach you outdoor skills. From rock climbing to canoeing. But we're also teaching you a course in self-reliance (a course in self-reliance where you also have to learn to trust the group). Outward Bound will not teach you to be a man. Nearly half the students, for one, are women. Few are really athletic. Most are over thirty. What you need is a bit of pluck and the yen to spend some time in some of this country's most spectacular settings.

Everyone brings something different to Outward Bound and takes something different away. But whatever your experience—we guarantee it won't be trivial.

An exhibit of wilderness photographs titled "Turn of a Leaf" is now on display at the Cal State Library.

The 49 color pictures are meant to convey both the beauty and fragility of the environment, according to photographer Michael Philip Carlin. Carlin's theme is that, unless the environment is protected, the miracles of nature which are given for granted might one day become a phenomenon known only through photographs.

Carlin says he chose a visual context to make his statement not only because the visual is often neglected in favor of the written or spoken word, but because pictures can often make an impression that words fail to make. His photography project was supported by grants from Utah State University and the Rockefeller Foundation.

The pictures to be displayed at Cal State represent only a fraction of the hundreds Carlin took. Many of the rest will be published in a book.

The exhibit, which runs through May 24, may be viewed seven days a week during the library's normal hours.
