Urban League Holds Open House For Project COURAGE

The Greater Riverside Area Urban League held an open house on December 3, to celebrate the Project COURAGE referral program. Speaking at the event was Judge Charles Field, Riverside County Superior Court Judge, and Community Schools Dr. Dale Holmes, and Riverside Police Chief Sonny Richardson.

Project COURAGE is an affiliate of Community Organizations United to Reduce the Area Gang Environment. The program's goal is to keep high-risk youth in school and out of trouble. Currently, the program is sponsored by six Riverside law enforcement, education, and community organizations.

The Greater Riverside Urban League has created a multi-city program segment of Project COURAGE in the valley. This program benefits juveniles currently on probation, as well as those in learning social skills and job training programs. These activities will attend workshops on health, and they will receive anti-drug and anti-gang training.

San Bernardino Black Culture Foundation President and San Bernardino city affirmative action officer, Juanita Scott has been elected to run for San Bernardino City Council. Pope-Ludom is present in the position. Scott is in the first official challenger to come forward for the election which will be held March 1991.

For twenty-nine years, Scott was a secretary first at Norton Air Force Base and then as assistant to the local director of the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department office in San Ana, California. She had been retired for two days, the most customers to call more

Tennessee State Now An Educational Kuwait And Black Leaders Can’t Be Found

A federal judge ruled last month that Louisiana’s system of predominantly one-race colleges and universities is illegal. The 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled previously that Mississippi’s similar system is also illegal because students have the right to go to the college of their choice.

In essence, a 36-year-old lawsuit (“Adams”) by White liberals and Black integrationists, to “desegregate” Black colleges out of existence has failed.

West Virginia State, Bluffdale State and Lincoln (Mo.) are among the states that have shown on the variety of stations available.

The Black Voice News sells over 7,500 copies per week.

It seems NBC’s sitcom “Parenthood” couldn’t make it in the January that Louisiana’s system of predominantly one-race colleges and universities is illegal.

The Nashville Chapter of the Tennessee State Alumni and student-led groups at TSU have resisted. But those you would expect to lead the fight — the ministers, politicians, educators — are, for the most part, silent or, in some cases, suspected of collaborating with the moles.

Whether the Blacks know they are being used in this death from within — Trojan horse — is another matter, but the results are the same. Clearly, higher education for Blacks is being dismantled in Tennessee — an educational Kuwait. And like Kuwait, there is no army of resistance.

The former Black president of TSU, Dr. Otis Floyd, the man who in 1959 watched the White chancellor run his school by White people from a distance, is now the chancellor. But without the same powers.

When Floyd came in as chancellor, so did two White men in newly created positions: one took over the community colleges, the other the state university system. “One could ask what Floyd charge of?”

Rumor has it that the current Black football coach at TSU will be a Black administrator, a faculty member, or some other “Adams” states, but unlike those other states, there is no organized legal resistance.

Another “Save Alabama Black Colleges” mass rally is scheduled for January 20 in Huntsville.

And to attract “other-race students” to these excellent schools, a “minority” (Whites) scholarship of tuition, room and board is offered free to any White in Alabama. Whites of all races are suspecting Black intelligence, have rejected this offer outright. Whites of all races involved in college, of course, make no similar offer to Blacks.

But Tennessee is a puzzle. The intent to polish Blacks for wanting integration by denying desegregation to Black colleges is as evident there as it is in Alabama. The “Adams” states, but unlike those other states, there is no organized legal resistance.

"I wanted to be pregnant. At 15 I felt alone. I didn't care about my body or self-image. I thought I had a baby's life to live. I longed to be somewhere. Having a child has filled my life, but it fills my time."

The Riverside County Department of Health, Adolescent Family Life Program reaches out to teen mothers like the one quoted above. A high-risk group, teen mothers often make their own decisions, self-esteem outside childhood is important. They often leave school before they are 15 and 1/2, and begin parenting education and looking for community services necessary to raise healthy children and further their personal goals.

The program has been in existence in the County since 1985 and is part of a State and County funded network of services which in 1989 was selected to receive the American Maternal and Child Health Association (AMACH) National Congress on Adolescent Health Award for Excellence in Intervention with teenage parents. At June 19, 1989, California Legislation Assembly Act No. 1967 requires a city to be in place in an attempt to raise unannounced and a certain level of safety to the children and their families and to link them to community resources such as public assistance areas, WIC (Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants, Children) by the Department, school programs, job training, medical care, housing and other needed services. The program also identifies gaps in service such as lack of child care in the County, which prevents many teen parents from completing their education. The APLF also contains a testing network meeting of agencies interested in the problem reporting a requirement of monitoring of the water heater. It is also requires the employees of pregnant and parenting teens.

Until September the APLF was only available in the mid-Crater, Pasadena areas of the Riverside County. Because of the increases in State funding, services are now also available in the Corona/Porco and Jurupa areas where the program is provided at the local County Health Centers. Twenty pregnant or parenting teens were enrolled within the first six weeks from the three service areas. Noreen residents Mary Garcia, her husband Raul, and their five month old daughter Rose (not their real names) typify the teens served by the APLF except for their parents and almost all pregnant teens are single. The Garcia's enrolled in the APLF six weeks ago and have received multiple services from medical social worker Donna Kitchin including assistance with medical care when their daughter became ill, and brokering with Medi-Cal and WIC when transfer of these services from Los Angeles County was delayed. Also, Donna helped the Garcia's obtain a referral for legal assistance because of financial difficulties, and helped located local records so that Mary could attend an educational program from which she plans to graduate in December. In addition, the Garcia's received pre-natal education from the Health Department's Preventive Health Education and Family Planning services at the Corona Health Center. Gas Company Says Vapors Can Kill

The vapors which come from gasoline, kerosene, paint thinner and other flammable liquids and combustible materials can ignite when they come in contact with the heat source of a water heater.

And, according to the Southern California Gas Co., the result can cause serious injury or extensive property damage.

"We join with fire departments throughout Southern California in issuing this safety reminder to residents that flammable liquids might be used or stored should be raised 18 inches above the floor," said Luis Estrella, Southern California Gas Co. district manager.

The Plumbing Code requires that new and replacement water heaters in residential garages must have the pipes and burners or heating elements must be raised 18 inches above the floor, the official said.

"Gasoline and most other flammable vapors are heavier than air and tend to accumulate at floor level where they can be ignited by the heat source of the water heater.

Storing or using flammable liquids near a water heater when vapors or an accidental spill might cause a fire is extremely dangerous," the company official also said that combustible materials like rags, maps, cardboard or wooden boxes or stacks of newspapers and magazines should not be stored near or placed on a water heater because of the possibility of fire.

"Should My Husband Be Able to Raise My Mind?"

QUESTION: Am I wrong to expect my husband to know what would make me happy without me having to tell him after being married for three years.

Anonymous, San Bernardino, CA

ANSWER: String marriages are built upon good communication. Marriage is the uniting of two people into one. Your marriage, as well as your communication level, increases with time and effort. Three years is not a long time. There are people who have been married twenty and thirty years who are still getting to intimately know and understand one another; it is unfair for us to demand or expect our mates to read our minds or expressions. If you have a need, the best way to express it clearly and concisely is through verbal communication not through emotional games. Also, we must take care of ourselves and everyone is asked to bring canned goods.

Ban The Bible Too?

The world was shocked when Jehovah's Witnesses bombed bookstore buildings in the UK in 1960. By 1980, the Salvation Army's book, The War Against God, was being passed out as the insanity of terrorism. These actions may be new to other parts of the world, but they are not exclusive to Western settings. The actions, whether out of violent, as has been seen, or simply to promote their respective viewpoints, books, right here in the good old U.S. of A.

Screening Committee Named for SBVC College Presidency

SAN BERNARDINO—San Bernardino Community College trustees granted themselves one additional weekend to select a new president for San Bernardino Valley College. This is the third time the trustees have called for the make-up of a screening committee for San Bernardino Valley College.

According to Allen B. Grench, president of the board, the trustees are making this change after one of the first steps leading to the selection of a committee is the acting president is Dr. Donald L. Singer. The term of office is for two years, one of which will be spent in the initial screening of candidates for the position.

Mrs. Stuart M. Bendy, chancellor, will chair the committee and represent the entire two-college district. It is her responsibility to ensure that those named are qualified and interested in possibly serving as president.

In related action, the board approved a leave of absence for student trustee; Freddie Nunn; another student trustee; Allen J. Leach; five faculty members to be designated by the college; and the college president; five members of the non-teaching staff to be designated by the college; and one member from among the non-teaching staff who have served as a member of the college board and one member designated by each of the seven board members.

One member of the committee was to be appointed by the college's designated by the CSEA chapter; two representatives of SBVC employees designated by the College Fund; five representatives of faculty designated by the professor's representative; one representative of students designated by the student's representative; one representative of administration designated by the chancellor; and one representative of community designated by the city manager.

Lou Rawls is Parade Of Stars telethon, which became one of television's most successful fundraising programs during its first 10 years, will launch its second season June 14, 1991. The telethon will feature a number of famous African-Americans in entertainment and business who will serve the African women's lives. Sage is an African-American woman who has relatively equitable relationships with men; studies that correlate women's literacy levels with their well-being and the mortality rates of their children; and a story of a woman folk singer in Tanzania who promises the singing of songs in Swahili as an art form. It is these images, or ones of green, fertile countryside; cities, large modern buildings; as well as men and are almost all women, that never make it to America.

The story that they tell is one of African women's stories. The new agricultural technologies being brought to Africa should be passed on to women, who do most of the farming and grow most of the food, as well as to men. When women are excluded, as they have been in Ethiopia, they are forced to become less dependent on cash and cashless. All proceeds from the show will benefit the Los Angeles and Cash for Education Fund by calling in their financial support.
“Free will is the mind’s fine. Fine is to evaluate the reasons that control our lives from without and free to examine the emotions that control our perspective from within.”

In his new volume of poetry, musician, poet, and political activist Gil Scott-Heron prophetically and passionately grapples for freedom of spirit and mind. “So Fa, So Good...” it is not a release from Third World Press, containing a commitment to providing both stinging commentary on the contradictions of contemporary American society, and insights for an African American community facing a new decade. One stance at “So Fa, So Good...” and it becomes evident that this is not merely a collection of a songwriter’s lyrics. The songs are not merely a stylistic gift from the “Blues-speaking” triumphantly found on their own, evolving the rhythm and urgency which has distinguished Gil Scott-Heron for 20 productive career years. This collection carries the reader from the local to the global, from the social to the political, from the personal to the universal; Gil Scott-Heron profoundly questions the foundations of freedom.

Gil Scott-Heron’s own resistance to a harmful truth and social vision. Always, WHEN DARKNESS COVERS THE LIGHT, he makes his mission of unveiling America’s hypocracy and searching for a hope for an African American future of self-determination. He refuses to allow America’s creative history to be hijacked and in many cases, even destroyed. Such tenacity creates the edge making any contemplation of Gil Scott-Heron’s work both challenging and significant.

With the publication of “So Fa, So Good...,” Third World Press continues to see its commitment to providing quality poetry, literature, history, and children’s literature to the world of the African American reader. One of the nation’s few independent black publishing houses, Third World Press has published such Notables as Pulitzer Prize winner Gwendolyn Brooks, Sonia Sanchez, Mari Evans, Cheikh Anta Diop, and the Honorable Elijah Muhammad. The new version cuts the 1979's “So Fa, So Good...” down to just 46 pages in hard cover. It sells for $15.95.

Starring Mahaffey, residing in Anaheim, has written a book of prose and poetry titled When Darkness Covers The Light. This, in a sense, is his first powerful and moving collection of poetry, which political views will enlighten you; his invigorating expression, in which love will take you gently, yet firmly by the hand on a highly charged emotional journey. “Wings Will Not Be Broken” is a must-read for lovers of poetry and knowledge, says Angela Kimanore, poetry editor of Essence magazine.

Starring Mahaffey’s work is an emotional associate member of the Academy of American Poets, and Honorary of The Golden Poet Award. He has been published by many publishers, and an article published in a prestigious magazine is also the author of a volume of prose, and a poem. In the Spotlight, he speaks before a prestigious audience, and articles published in Print, are filled with a collection of children’s stories. She is presently working on her first novel, and her promise will be a best seller

SAVE THE CHILDREN: "Blessed are they that put their trust in him." (Psalm 2:12)

During a telephone interview last week, after the shooting on Cactus Street, I said, "The schools and city must work together in our attempt to maintain positive race relations in Moreno Valley." Two very important, vital parts of that solution was committed, I proba­bly did say it (something about home and church) if I didn't. I am saying it now. "The home and the church play a very vital part in the solution to our social problems. The home more than the church, because that is where they are raised. It is in the home where the basic training of human relations begins. The child observes how the father and mother treat each other. If the father is a kind and considerate person that respect his wife, the child will practice this behavior with his friends outside of the home.
