We're Going to College

By Dennis Nadalin

There has been some confusion as to whether Cal State San Bernardino is a college or a university.

It's a college, but it could become a university within a couple of years, administrative officials report.

Edna Steinman, director of public affairs at CSCSB, said the confusion has resulted from a name change for the entire California State University system. On Jan. 1 the name was shortened to the California State University and College system. The other two are Cal State Stanislaus and Cal State Bakersfield.

John M. Pfau, president of CSCSB, said "If our present growth rate continues, we will probably be eligible to become a state university within a couple of years."

According to Pfau, the college must meet four of five criteria put forth by the state university chancellor's office. CSCSB has already met two.

To become a university, 50 percent of the instructors must have doctorate degrees, and more than 75 percent of the CSCSB faculty does. The university designation requires 1,253 post-baccalaureate students, and CSCSB now has 1,582.

Two of three additional criteria must be met for CSCSB to earn the university designation. A student enrollment of 5,081 is required, and CSCSB now has 4,968. A total of 49 degree programs must be offered, and CSCSB now offers 38, and is developing three more. Three professionally accredited programs are required and CSCSB now has two—the nursing program, which is accredited by the National League for Nursing, and the chemistry program, which is accredited by the National Chemical Society.

Pfau said, "There is absolutely no difference between colleges and universities in terms of funding or overall operation." He said the differences are in quantity, not quality.

"There is no difference in status, in reality, just in the public's mind," he said. "Students really get a better education on smaller campuses since students get more faculty contact and the class sizes are smaller."

Kendall Rock

By Viki Regeski

"I've always wondered what that thing was. It probably has something to say about the founders of the college."

If you're wondering what these students are talking about, maybe you should go up to "the rock" and find out.

The rock sits on the east bank of State College Parkway, a few hundred feet past the intersection with Kendall Drive. Weeds encroach upon the granite boulder and a tiny palm tree stands vigil behind it. It's conspicuous. It's hard to miss.

But what is it? There's a plaque on the rock engraved as follows: "Devil Canyon Toll Road. The old Toll Road built in 1875 and maintained by the pioneer Doyle Family for several decades since 1981 passed very near the monument before entering Devil Canyon on its way to the sawmills in the mountains. Dedicated by the Native Sons of the Golden West. Charles E. Kolbert-Grand President. Nov. 1, 1978 in memory of U.S. Senator James D. Phelan."

So where's Devil Canyon, and who are these people?

If you're a ghost story fan or a rattlesnake lover, two legends which might interest you tell the origin of the name of this canyon, located behind Cal State. The only link between the legends is their association with Don Antonio Maria Lugo, once one of the largest land owners here, and in all of Mexican California.

One story has it that Don Lugo's overseer, Don Ignacio Reyes, and some vaqueros were stalking grizzlyly in the canyon when a beautiful girl on a cream-colored horse joined the chase. They tried to go after her to find out who she was. (Cont'd on Page 4)

Islamic Club

The first meeting of The Islamic Club will be held Wednesday, January 27, at 3:00 p.m. in the Senate Chambers in the Student Union.

Anyone interested in asking questions about or discussing the principles of Islam is welcome.

Mopedists Face Fees to Park

Beginning spring quarter, parking fees will be charged for mopeds, which are motorized bicycles. The new requirement is a result of a recently passed State Assembly bill requiring registration or licensing of mopeds. Fees on this campus will be 125 percent of those applicable to automobiles, or $1.25 per month.
Financial Aid Apps Here

Applications are now available for financial aid. The Student Aid Application for California (SAAC) for the 1982-83 academic year is the form to use to apply for all types of financial aid.

The deadline for Cal-Grants, California's state scholarships, is February 10, 1982. For aid directly administered by the CSCSB Financial Aid Office, a priority date of March 1, 1982 has been set. This means that a copy of the Student Aid Application and all supporting documents (1040, financial aid transcripts, etc.) must be on file by that date. Financial aid in the form of grants, loans, scholarships and work-study is available. Late applications can only be considered after the priority applicants have been served.

A very informative book is available at the Financial Aid Office which explains the various aid programs and how to apply. This book and an application can be obtained by calling 887-7741 or stopping by Room 143 of the Student Services Building and requesting a copy.

Remember, the deadline for the Cal-Grants is February 10th. If you do not wish to apply for a Cal-Grant but wish to be considered for other types of aid, a copy of the SAAC must be on file in the Financial Aid Office by March 1st.

Will of Allah Shows Fate

Say you want to stand against God's Will, to harden yourself against it. What do you do? You may lie, cheat, steal, rape, kill, disintegrate yourself in debauchery, obliterate yourself in opiates, set up a statue of Baal or Satan (Iblis) in your living room, be generally perverse to what you believe to be God's Will. And what will you have accomplished? Very likely along the way you will have been considered by your fellows to be not nice, you may have gotten yourself into trouble, you may have killed yourself or seriously degraded your body; and certainly you have forgotten your soul—your human kindness and decency, your grace with which nature endowed you. Have you stood well against God's Will? Only by the cruelest irony: you have ironically done what God wished of you in the first place; you have given up your self. Certainly not to God, but you no longer have yourself either; it belongs to treachery, injustice, violence, vacuousness and oblivion. Or perhaps to the statue in your living room.

EOP Accepts Apps for Fall

The Educational Opportunity Program (EOP) at Cal State, San Bernardino is accepting applications for spring and fall quarters.

Under the program, disadvantaged students are admitted to the college and receive financial aid, tutoring, academic advisement and other support services.

For spring quarter, which begins March 31, EOP is accepting only students who do not meet the regular admission requirements. Applications must be received by Feb. 26. Both students who meet the general admission requirements and those who fail to qualify are eligible to apply for the EOP for fall quarter. They are urged to apply by March 1. It is unusual that the college can admit students under the program in midyear, according to Walter Hawkins, acting associate dean of educational support services.

Fortunately, our college has been one of the few Cal State campuses to have had an increase in enrollment each year. When applications to the college increase, we can accept more into EOP," he said.

"This year, because we've had such a large increase in the number of students we can accept, we have spread the admissions over the whole year. The last time we accepted students in the spring was three years ago," he said.

Because only 25 students will be accepted this spring, and 145 this fall, Hawkins urged early application. Another reason students should apply early is the application process, itself, takes time.

"Students who apply for EOP must also be qualified for financial aid. Assistance is available through EOP and through other financial sources. Students must apply to the college, apply to EOP and complete the application process for financial aid. This can take four to six weeks to complete," Hawkins said.

"If people have been out of school for several years and are planning to return, they might want to look into the program as a transition period; if they haven't gone to college, EOP is a good place to start," he said.

Students interested in obtaining more information about the program may contact their school counselors or call Marco Cota or Shirley Alvarez, EOP outreach counselors, at 887-7395. The counselors also are available to give tours of the campus and schedule visits with faculty in the students' area of interest.

SUPERHEROES Strut Stuff

Who says that superheroes don't exist? Not only do they exist, but Cal State San Bernardino actually had a couple of them visit! Wonderwoman and Superman, two of the super heroes here on campus. What were they doing you ask? Stopping a crime; preventing a major disaster; giving moral lessons to some of the shadier characters on campus? No-they were making a film! Wonderwoman, Julie Agnew, and Superman, Don Gruber, were involved in the making of an experimental film that Dr. Marsha Liss hopes will be shown in Elementary schools.

Dr. Liss is studying the differences in responses from children with regard to hero vs. regular person, especially when the hero is engaged in contradictory or discrepant behavior; such as delivering a moral aggressively. "We want to see the influence of superheroes typical of the Saturday morning shows children watch on their behavior," said Dr. Liss. She is working under a grant from The National Institute of Mental Health for the "Justification of Aggression by pro-social heroes".

Shelli Buchen, David Buchen and Jessica Buchen, also included the cast. "Marsha saw me in 'The Imaginary Players', a children's improvisational group at college, along with Don, and she wanted me to do it. We also recruited my little sister Jessica for the child's role", said Shelli.

Bus Regs Lifted, Bike Dangers Told

by RICK ERGANG

Access Laws Defeated

The December 1981 issue of "Mainstream: Magazine of the Abled-Disabled" reports that this past summer Secretary of Transportation Drew Lewis did away with federal regulations requiring federally subsidized mass transit systems to provide wheelchair lifts on all buses, and elevators on all existing rapid rail systems.

Lewis went on to say, "The Reagan Administration's philosophy of doing away with costly regulations and allowing more local control and flexibility in decision making is embodied in this new rule. We believe each community should be allowed to develop its own programs for providing transit services to handicapped persons."

This was the third in a series of blows to the handicapped community of this nation as a result of recent federal government actions. The first came in June when an appeals court ruled that public transportation does not have to be fully accessible to the disabled. The second came in early July when the architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board voted to rescind a six month old regulation setting minimum guidelines and requirements for accessibility in federally funded facilities.

Dirt-Bike Injuries

Dr. Daniel L. Diamon, director of the Trauma Unit at Allegheny General Hospital in Pittsburgh, has sharply criticized the current dirt-bike craze in an article appearing in the January 1982 issue of "Up Front: The Newspaper for Handicapped and Disabled Persons". In the article he told of the dangers of dirt-bike riding. He said dozens of people come in to the Trauma Unit with torn off arms and legs, broken spines, permanent head injuries, ruptured spleens and livers, and many other types of injuries, all the result of this current fad.
