Race For Council Heats Up

By Juanita Scott

As the election draws near, the race for the City Council Seat of Ward Six in San Bernardino involving incumbent Valerie Pope-Ludlum and Juanita Scott gets more heated.

Riverside County Health Department Reports On Cholera Epidemic

by Marion R. Massey, Ph.D.

MPH

The cholera epidemic, which has been sweeping through Peru in the last several weeks, has now reached unprecedented proportions in the Western Hemisphere. Concern over the possibility of the epidemic entering the United States has prompted a conference call between the Infection Control Branch of the State Department of Health and local disease control officials. Richard Thorsen, M.D., Chief of Disease Control Services for Riverside County, stated that while the health officials closely observed developments in Peru, until recently the dread of cholera epidemic in this country was not thought to be a significant problem. During the past century only occasional isolated cases in travelers returning from parts of Asia have been observed.

According to Dr. Thorsen and other participants in the conference call headed by Dr. Ben Werner, Chief, Infectious Disease Unit, State of California Department of Health, the problem is complicated by reports that the identified number of cases in Peru exceeded 90,000 with at least 31,000 hospitalized and 600 deaths from cholera as of March 20, 1991. Furthermore, the disease appears to be spreading northward into Ecuador and Columbia as well as eastward into Brazil. Although travel to and from Peru has been discouraged for some time because of political unrest in that country, California continues to receive significant numbers of refugees and immigrants from Peru and Ecuador.

The Disease Control Division, which is responsible for cholera in the United States, is concerned that the majority of health care workers including doctors and nurses are not being educated on how to deal with an epidemic. Dr. Werner stated, "I have been to Peru and talked to Dr. Juanita Powell, Thelma Golightly, and Don Lark in by Bethune Student, Jose Parra."

Growth Hormones

Dear Dr. Levier:

I am 18 years old, male, and I am 7 feet 7 inches tall and thin. My dream is to become a professional basketball player. My coach suggests I start growth hormone therapy. My parents, being in the health care and local disease control profession, would like your advice on whether I should proceed with this option.

Dear Mr. G.:

You and your family have overlooked an important reason for your relatively short stature and slight build - heredity. What is the average height and physique of close friends of your family? The answer is probably the descendant of men who are under six feet tall and of slim physique, then your quest is understandable.

There have been some delays in developing evidence of the impact of growth hormone therapy attributable to a number of confounding factors. A low percentage of girls, for example, are infected with conditions as well as transfer of bacteria to food or beverages which are ingested with infected foods.

There is no evidence that the patients which terrorized much of the world during the 19th century will not return. A parting shot, being five feet, seven inches tall does not make you an exception. Dr. Levier welcomes readers mail order catalogs where they are entitled to your input. I will be happy to answer your letters will be incorporated into the column as space permits.

You may direct your letters to:

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC HEALTH, P.O. BOX 1511,
Riverside, California 92502.

Before you make a decision to pursue growth hormone therapy, get a referral to an endocrinologist who can review the case of growth hormone therapy in the United States. According to Dr. Thorsen and Richard Thorsen, Ph.D., our bodies are designed to exist, remember only if you have need and potential. Growth hormone therapy given by injection is expensive, averaging between $5000 to $7000 a year.

If some of yours works out, remember only if the best players make it to the Pro Concentrate on getting a good education.

The Need For African American Business

The formal thinking of most African-American people have been propagated through the generations, that being, "stay in school, get an education, work, 40 hours each week for someCole and in 30 years you can retire, in poverty, but you will have a gold watch." Included within this thinking is the idea that if you have a civil service job you will work for life and as long as you are working from 8 to 5, you have made it, not realizing that we are trapped in an economic enslavement that creates a situation in our local communities that makes us dependent on others to supply our basic needs. We must become students and thinkers of the idea of producers and break the shackles of being consumers outside our community. If this thinking is put into practice the "trickle-down" effect could be very beneficial within our community. By this I mean that when the members of these communities create opportunities within their own communities and they are supported by their own people, one of the things that happens is the creation of a bigger tax base. From this, the educational system goes up, housing and property values increase, jobs are created, recreational activities increase and the financial status of residents within the community changes towards the more positive end and lending institutions are amenable to loaning money for small business creation and/or expansion. However, the key to making it happen is our dollar must turn over within our communities more than once. It must turn over at least seven times to be effective.

When we, as African Americans, engage in economic development and make it a high priority within our community then, only then can we sit down at the table of integration and the impact it can have on our way of life could be thought of in terms of integration. When we speak of it, we often think only of integrating the Black and White communities. Why is there never a cry to integrate our schools, or to make them more than once. They must turn over at least seventeen times to be effective.

The 1991 Black Women of Achievement Lunch will be held on Thursday, May 2 at 10 a.m., at the Tower Hotel, 9th floor, room 9A. This year's luncheon will be sponsored by several organizations, including the Woman's Club of Los Angeles, the BWA, the National Coalition of 100 Black Women, the Los Angeles Business Newspaper, the Los Angeles Black Chamber of Commerce, and the Los Angeles Black Women's Foundation. The luncheon is open to the public and will feature a keynote address by Speaker of the House of Representatives Nancy Pelosi. The luncheon will also include a special performance by the Los Angeles City Ballet. The BWA honors Ms. Pelosi for her leadership in the fight for equal rights, however, LDF has had for over 30 years, a separate agenda to promote civil rights for all.

The BWA awards luncheon is sponsored by the Los Angeles Western Regional Office, LDF for Los Angeles County, Los Angeles Legal Aid, organization, the NAACP, Internal Revenue Service and other organizations interested in equal rights. Temple Baptist Church Elects New Pastor

Rev. Raymond Turner, Executive Pastor of Loveland Baptist Church in Ferrisburg, has been named permanent pastor of Temple Baptist Church of San Bernardino. Rev. Turner served as interim pastor for the past 90 days following the resignation of Rev. N. C. White in October. The election of Pastor Turner was held on Monday, April 22, 1991. William D. Carter, Chair of the 11-member Pulpit Committee said in making the announcement, “We have searched Pastor Turner’s ability to divide God’s word, his dynamic leadership ability, and most of all, his love for and commitment to Temple. We are confident he will become one of the area’s outstanding ministers.”

In accepting the position as the Undersecretary of Temple, Pastor Turner said, “I am blessed that God has given me an opportunity to serve. With the help of God and the fine members of Temple, we will continue to build upon the work of the late Rev. White.”

Dr. Richard Williams, OD CHRIStIAniTY ORIGiNaTEd iN AFRiCa?

Question: Dear Pastor Williams, My question in this is, were the first Jews white or black? Also did Christianity originate in Africa and was it different than it is now?

Edward Taylor, Fallbrook, N.Y.

Answer: The Jews have their geographical origin from a place called Ur of the Chaldees, now known as Tell el-Mukhayyar, which is in the southeast portion of Iraq. God spoke to the patriarch Abraham to leave the land of his father and return to a land “flowing with milk and honey” ( Genesis 15:1). God further promised that He would make Abraham’s descendants a great nation, the people of the birth of a Jewish nation.

TRUTH CRUSHED TO EARTH SHALL RISE AGAIN
And the NJJP Turkeys said: "YOU GON'T FIGHT TO BE FREE. YOU MUST STAND UP FOR WHAT IS RIGHT!"

As we look forward in 1991 to the growth of our community, there will be many challenges we must meet and we must not look at these situations in terms of our personal feelings. People's opinions get involved because they have something to offer or they do not understand. This lack of understanding is usually caused by emotions that are selfish. It could be a person on just coming into the community or someone that has lived here for a long time. Regardless of who is at it, the community that will suffer along with the children. Because of the increasing time it has while individuals are fighting or protecting themselves. The time could be used to provide help for the children and opportunities for families of low income to improve their standard of living.

The Lord does not want us to sit back and do nothing. We should be involved in the roles of reading and teaching in the community. We must not forget that we are supposed to be a network of knowledge so that we can be part of a producing society.

However, we must be more careful as we meet the challenges of life. As we become more involved in the education process, along with the development of our community. There are always those that feel left out. No one can say we will not help them; we need to know that you are there and want to help build and give, not taking or demanding. There are some who are very well qualified people, however, they sit home, house or church and do not want to take part in the projects. We do not want that type of people; regarding to their academic achievements. People that listen to them be careful, a people that will be you, listen to what about this people, the quality after, they start similar to what.

We who are here to serve the people, let us use our talents and resources so that our children will have the best education ever. With our knowledge, let us set an example with a caring, giving spirit to each other. Together we can.

Poverty 24:39 Don't be avenue of evil people, and try to make friends with them. All they know about is creating trouble, every time they open their mouths everyone is going to be hurt.

Students Attend Endangered Male Program

By Michael Henderson
Black Voice Staff Writer

More than one hundred students and professionals came to experience and share the understanding of a dilemma at U.C. Riverside on March 26.

The most positive aspect of the day was the concerns of the black professional leaders within the Inland Empire community that came and supported, contributed and shared with the hundreds in attendance in various ways. The young men from various areas and schools within the Inland Empire to point a positive light amongst themselves and to distinguish themselves from counterparts appearing on the nightly news who seems to attract all the negative attention.

Brian Townsend, publisher of the San Bernardino based Precinct Reporter states: "The conference itself was great, it was good to see so many caring and concerned adults from doctors and lawyers to a colonel give from their hearts to provide a foundation of respect." Mr. Hardy Brown co-publisher of the Black Voice News, was one of the fifty role models for the young men stated: "All Black males must do their part to provide leadership to our youth. The best role model that one can follow is the kind of man, he is not necessarily the basketball star, or actor, he is the everyday person who does what he is suppose to do with no fuss. We however, do need the heroes so our youth will have something to aspire to."

Lieutenant Lee Wagner of the Riverside Sheriff Department another participating role model states: "It was an excellent that was much needed and could help and benefit all communities of which young Black men reside. Considering the prison population in the United States and the proportion of Black Meninstitutionalized, we (the blessed positive Black Male) should give something back to the children in the form of support and direction."

Eric Gravenberg Director of Admissions at University of California, Riverside states: "In some of the conference itself it was long overdue, much needed and attracted the young men as a very important and critical age to help offset peer pressure. I found it to be provocative, profound and timely, and hopefully it would set the stage for others of it's kind in the community. It was wonderful to see so many adults in attendance in an attempt to reclaim our children Co-sponsors of the event were the County District Attorneys office, The Riverside Sheriff's Department, The Riverside County Schools, The United Way of the Inland Valleys and The University of California, Riverside. Committee Members, Lois Carson, Dell Roberts, Tony Blackley, Dr. Oliver Thompson, and Eric Gravenberg join other committee members.

Arthur Townsend, publisher of the San Bernardino based Precinct Reporter states: "The conference itself was great, it was good to see so many caring and concerned adults from doctors and lawyers to a colonel give from their hearts to provide a foundation of respect." Mr. Hardy Brown co-publisher of the Black Voice News, was one of the fifty role models for the young men stated: "All Black males must do their part to provide leadership to our youth. The best role model that one can follow is the kind of man, he is not necessarily the basketball star, or actor, he is the everyday person who does what he is suppose to do with no fuss. We however, do need the heroes so our youth will have something to aspire to."

Lieutenant Lee Wagner of the Riverside Sheriff Department another participating role model states: "It was an excellent that was much needed and could help and benefit all communities of which young Black men reside. Considering the prison population in the United States and the proportion of Black Men institutionalized, we (the blessed positive Black Male) should give something back to the children in the form of support and direction."

Eric Gravenberg Director of Admissions at University of California, Riverside states: "In some of the conference itself it was long overdue, much needed and attracted the young men as a very important and critical age to help offset peer pressure. I found it to be provocative, profound and timely, and hopefully it would set the stage for others of it's kind in the community. It was wonderful to see so many adults in attendance in an attempt to reclaim our children Co-sponsors of the event were the County District Attorneys office, The Riverside Sheriff's Department, The Riverside County Schools, The United Way of the Inland Valleys and The University of California, Riverside. New Viewpoint on Lowering Infant Mortality

By Louis W. Sullivan, M.D.
Scovrony of Health and Human Services

The United States invests billions of dollars every year to prevent infant illness and death. But the rate of improvement is not as striking as you might think. The country, infant disease and mortality, are moving so slowly toward better infant health. Our efforts through new eyes, those of strong, loving families?

Why are we moving so slowly toward better infant health? With all the federal, state and local programs that exist to support maternal and child health, why isn’t America among the nations with the lowest infant mortality rates?

Among many different reasons, one—perhaps the most important—stands out for me. The often taken for granted is the rate at which we improve the country’s health.

Too often we have medical, nutritional and other resources, but little to help the mother herself. After all, the first chance at improving health. But are we drawing attention enough to the most common behavioral threats to infant health, which so many women must confront—especially maternal smoking, alcohol abuse, illegal drug use, pregnancy, nutrition and poverty?

And shouldn’t we also be supporting these young women and their children by vigorously eliminating the responsibility of fathers to be involved with their children, and the important role of many, loving families?

We must indeed look at our efforts through new eyes, those of the low-income pregnant woman who may be among the victims of early pregnancy, and nutrition? But have we done enough to make it possible for babies who are born during those years, those of the low-income pregnant woman who often have the highest disease and death. And we must try new approaches. Some 400,000 babies die each year—that number could be lowered by a full 25 percent simply through better care of the mother. But do we know what to do and how to do it, if we do, will we do it?

We can do better—by targeting communities where infant mortality is highest by enlisting fuller community support and can’t do too much to help those who carry the future of our “offspring” light-birth weight, uncounted millions.

This is the principle behind “Healthy Start,” President Bush’s initiative to lower infant mortality. “Healthy Start” calls on government not merely to provide resources, but also to take active steps through new, innovative models that work. Likewise, “Healthy Start” asks families and communities to be more responsible for their children’s health. It asks that governments cooperate and that communities work together. “Healthy Start” will begin with federally funded demonstration projects in about 30 communities. The results are especially high. The nation is to be congratulated on such high levels of federal support to these communities, women are not taking advantage of available care, communities can provide outreach and home visits. Where transportation and child care needs pose a problem, the community can ask on solutions that work those communities.

Moreover, we must try new approaches to infant health. That is the result of our own choices.

“Healthy Start” requires a new, “one-stop shopping” approach that centers the individual community. Where transportation and child care needs pose a problem, a commitment to the community can ask on solutions that work those communities.

We must move forward with a renewed commitment to infant health. That is the result of our own choices.

The citizens of Saratoga Springs are in this campaign. We must work in concert with local communities across the country. The success or failure of this effort is in the hands of the American people. And we must be committed to improving infant health. That is the result of our own choices.

The sun was blazing and the air was thick with the smell of gunpowder. Suddenly, a loud noise startled everyone. The sound of gunfire echoed through the woods, startling the men into a moment of calm and composure as they dug themselves into the Union lines. For two hours the battle raged back and forth over this clearing in the woods of northern Florida just south of the Georgia line.

As smoke from the burning forest and the muskets and cannon fire swirled above the battle field, men and horses died in their bloodied ranks.

Then, when it appeared the Confederate troops were about to over-run the North's lines and seize the Union force to ruin the 54th Mass. Volunteer Infantry, the 54th Mass. Volunteer Infantry, the 54th Mass. Volunteer Infantry, the 54th Mass. Volunteer Infantry, the 54th Mass. Volunteer Infantry, the 54th Mass. Volunteer Infantry, the 54th Mass. Volunteer Infantry returned to the pre - battle. They with - stood repeated calvary and infantry charges and intense cannon fire by the Confederates. Through it all the 54th held their line in the man and provided a withering covering fire which allowed the Union forces to effect an orderly withdraw with the battleground.

The 54th saved the Union from an embarrassing defeat, which saved lives of not only the regular Union Army troops but also those of 2 units of U.S. Colored Troops as they were called at that time was this a dream, some eyes中心 from the film GLORY left the room.
