Harriet Stuckey is Regional Educational Manager Of Tambrands

Harriet Stuckey is a regional educational manager for Health Education Division of Tambrands Incorporated in Southern California. Tambrands is an international Tampons Inc. "It's the No. 1 feminine hygiene Company in the world," said Stuckey in a recent interview. The program is a free corporate service funded through corporate sponsorship. The health education division is now celebrating its 50th year.

"I've been working for the company for nine years," said Stuckey, who was born and raised in Chicago. She was forceful in her educational consultant for Tambrands and worked out of her home before establishing an office here in Riverside.

As regional manager, Stuckey works with school administrators to educate and make them aware of Tambrands' services. She also supervises ten lecturers, "I lecture also. They also use me for the national video which is shown all over the country." She works in several counties throughout California from Bakersfield to Riverside.

Stuckey, who has a background in education and raises in Chicago. She was celebrating its 50th year.

"Unfortunately this is still a myth and misconceptions. There is more emphasis on the puberty also won five educational awards. "We have a video of kids talking about puberty. Stuckey is also a member of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and has published articles and other recognized literary work. She has served on the advisory board in the American Red Cross. She is also the wife of Dr. Sterling Stuckey Ph.D., noted historian and author who is a professor of American History at the University of California in Riverside (UCR). Harriet Stuckey, who just organized an alumni committee here in Citrus Valley District on June 15, 1991 at the monthly School of Ushering where Mrs. Ethel McGee, State Recording Secretary, is District Instructor. Mrs. Stuckey will be working with the State Alumni Committee and the William H. Davis Committee. The Alumni Committee, made up of Ushers who have graduated from the School of Ushering, is responsible for planning all of the ushering activities at the State and National Conventions, floor demonstrations, drill teams etc.

Harriet Stuckey, Public Scholarships Chairwoman. She won awards for her work in educational services. In Chicago she was recognized by the Chicago Public School for her contribution in Family Life Education. She won a plaque and received the Education Award. Tambrands' Tim on puberty also won five educational awards. "We have a video of kids talking about puberty. Stuckey is also a member of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and has published articles and other recognized literary work. She has served on the advisory board in the American Red Cross. She is also the wife of Dr. Sterling Stuckey Ph.D., noted historian and author who is a professor of American History at the University of California in Riverside (UCR). He is also noted for his work in literary criticism and Play culture.

"I really enjoy my work," Stuckey said. She said they are particularly looking for lecturers with bilingual capabilities, especially Spanish. "We want to get to everyone." In looking for lecturers Stuckey said they prefer people with background in teaching, have good communication skills and who present a polished professional image. Lecturers get paid per lecture and it's a part-time job. Anyone interested in becoming a lecturer can contact Sarah Raley, program coordinator at (714) 787-7131.

"Health is a area where no one thing can be learned all the time," said Stuckey. She said many people are looking for information. Tambrands Inc. gives them an opportunity to ask questions and answers them. "I really enjoy my work."

The Black Voice News

By Drayton Boyd

In 1987, blacks made up 16.8 percent of the federal workforce, but lead more slowly by age 25-29, far above their 11 percent share of the American work force and promises to increase even more in the years ahead.

The federal government traditionally has been a large employer of blacks. But the growth of federal jobs for blacks in recent years has been significantly less than federal recruitment of blacks in the national workforce. This lag spells an even greater reduction in technical fields could slow growth of federal jobs for blacks significantly has been a large bility for developing programs aimed at improving communication and preparation among practitioners. A recent report, for example, identified a need for more effective strategies to improve the quality of care for patients with acute and chronic pain.

The report concluded that "the current lack of knowledge about the nature, causes, and treatment of pain is a major challenge for the health care system. The need for additional research is urgent, as is the need for better education of health care providers about the importance of pain as a symptom and the potential for serious physical and psychological consequences of untreated pain."
Washington Is Not Encouraging The Development Of Minority Businesses

By William Reed

Washington is showing a brisk opportunity at encour­aging the development of minority-owned businesses. But, according to the Nixon Administration, neither such businesses as "black capitalism," nor the development of minority businesses is being encouraged. The Administration has always included more rhetoric than real assistance, and minority business progress often runs against the brick wall of entrenched, larger­-majority­-owned businesses.

Instead of running interference for fledgling minority firms and helping them to qualify for government contracts, government tends to sit back and ignore the realities of the marketplace.

A good case in point is the giant savings and loan bailout provided over by the Resolution Trust Corporation, the federal agency created to take over the assets of failed savings and loans.

It issues contracts to private companies to manage the financial assets, real estate, and otherholdings of the failed savings institutions now run by the government.

With the bailout estimated at costing some half a trillion dollars over the next thirty years, we're not exactly talking about charity here.

Instead, it seems a golden opportuni­ty to encourage the growth of a wide range of black businesses, including real estate companies, insurance companies, real estate companies, and many others.

Congress recognized this when it passed a law requiring the Resolution Trust Corporation to include minorities and women "to the maximum extent possible."

You would think that the congressional mandate and the enormous size of the potential business generated by the RTC would have led to a significant minority and female role in the government.

But such programs have not lived up to the contract race charge from the rebuilding of Kuwait; they have been labeled the "old-boy" network, whether they are qualified or interested in such contracts or not.

Minority firms that have lost out in the contract race charge the RTC favors white-owned firms, even bending the regulations in award contracts to large firms that would not otherwise qualify.

Kaiser Permanente Awards Grant To Boy Scouts of America

By John E. Jacob

Kaiser Permanente, Medical Center, Fontana recently presented a $5,000 Community Service Grant Fund to the Old Bajdy Council of the Boy Scouts of America. The grant was used to assist in funding the Jamb-O-Rama program, an event for black and white, older boys relating to career orientation, substance abuse prevention and disadvantaged youth recruiting.

The Jamb-O-Rama scouted even involves 10,000 scourers, or younger scouts. So, why is it that when the public is not "unaware" of the Jamb-O-Rama, they have signed petitions for the boys to be able to join the Boy Scouts of America. The grant was used to assist in funding the Jamb-O-Rama program, an event for black and white, older boys relating to career orientation, substance abuse prevention and disadvantaged youth recruiting.

The conflicts and incidents referred to should soon become something that we all sides, refer to one day as the time GOD is smiled on us. Yes, this weekend the LORD allowed me to grow. I want to thank GOD for allowing me to serve mankind.

I am not attempting to continue stories to have my set of values. I have a set of values that make me want to have harmony in my life, and I think that there should be love, harmony, respect, caring and sharing throughout the world for and with purpose.

We have many problems in our society and in the school system. This Board is attempting to do something about it. Concerned Parents, following a partial list of the programs with the dates they were introduced to our school children. 2/7/89, I wrote an article that said, . . . We must look for what is positive in our society because what divides us. We will, if we give ourselves a chance, solve all of the problems that caused the Poor Environmental to make the world God created to be whole, we will never choose up sides.

"I Don't Want To Lose Your Love" Took Angie To #2

By Billy Johnson

MC Hammer released a song called "Pray" last fall featuring a young aspiring singer named Angie B. The young woman was the lead vocalist on the song's background vocals. Now, Angie B is not only singing in the big league, she is leading her own group.

This talented young singer who grew up singing in her dad's church thanks God for answering her prayers in one of the songs she wrote called "My Prayer To You." These answered prayers evidenced by the success of her slammin' debut album, Good Thing. B Angie B (an acronym for Be yourself Angie B) has already gone to number two on Billboard's R&B chart with her first release.

This remake of the Emotions' 1976 hit "I Don't Want To Lose Your Love" is a dream come true for Montrose Mississippi's Angie Boyd. Even though she grew up singing gospel every Sunday, during a telephone interview Angie said "Monday through Saturday I was singing prayer."

"I can get more into them." She sang a verse from her latest single "So Much Love" to illustrate her point; she sounded great. In this song, Angie sings to a lucky man "why does he have to look for love out them/When there's so much love here?" After seeing the video for this song, I would like to ask this lucky man the same question. Not only does Angie's strong gospel vocals come alive in this song, but her look is stunning. During all of her recent television appearances the men have gone crazy for her. Even the women can not help but to love her singing style. This disco and romatic ballad will do well on the Black Entertainment Network's Midnight Love Video Show. It is only appropriate that the single opens for Johnny Gill during his cross country tour this summer. In New York, Angie made her debut on July 7 in Detroit. Unfortunately, there are no California dates. But if her show is anything like her television performances, it should be packed.

When discussing her stage performance, Angie recalls her memorable moment she talked to Hammer about her show. "I told Hammer, 'I want to dance in my shoes' and he laughed. He said: 'Angie you have no rhythm.' This made me all the more Emotion's 1976 hit "I Don't Want To Lose Your Love" chart.

He help me learn all the latest dance moves. Once I learned them, I went back to Hammer and he was impressed." It was this same determination that brought Angie to California.

Emotions' 1976 hit #2 on Billboard's R&B

Angie describes her mother as the one who always helped her find the money to purchase items when cash was low. In Montrose, Angie happily explained "My parents used to be just a Black thing, but now, everyone is supporting me." This supportive climate is one that Angie also finds in the Bust N'MC Hammer's record label, family. In addition to MC Hammer's "Pray." Angie sang on his multi-platinum singles "Pump It Up" and "They Put Me On In The Mix."

Angie's other singles are "So Much Love," a remake of the Emotions' hit "I Don't Want To Lose Your Love," and "Stop."
