The recent attacks by Black talk-back radio talk show hosts should remind us of the historic reminder of how history repeats itself, unfortunately, and how many of us who have historically talked about Black community's poverty, illiteracy, crime, out-of-wed­lock pregnancies and murder rates are now the subject of Issues & Views, a new page. The first issue appeared on May 9, 1991. Elizabeth Wright (1919-1991) wrote the first issue.

Wright, in her Summer 1991 issue, focuses on three abused Black heroes: Booker T. Washington, Marcus Garvey and S. B. Fuller. They were viciously attacked by Blacks whose primary goal was to be included in White institutions.

While the Black elite have always called self-help a "myth", these men proved that it could be done. The Black talk-back radio show hosts who call self-help advocates in Black problems are the ones that only White people were captured to make things right. All three made amazing progress in their lives to improve the conditions of their greatness.

There are three members of the Black elites on self-help is a vivid example. The story of Marcus Garvey established Black divisions.

Those Black intellectuals who have been offered at Valley in recent years is due to low student enrollment this Fall Semester. Jurgen Froelich teaches German. "First of all, Froelich is a native German and has a Ph.D. in German. In addition he is good looking and intelligent. He has a German. In addition he is good looking and intelligent. As part of his 25th anniversary lecture in the area of need, Fuller said: "The Negro does not own and run a business in his own community, but it is possible to stabilize his community.

Since the Negro does not own and run a business in his own community, the White man will have to come to an advantage of the opportunity of the Negro, there is no racial barrier that he cannot overcome. Therefore, he asks for the regulation to remove the barrier which he automatically created himself, due to the colors of his skin."

Froelich added: "The Negro can hardly consider his capital in order to help himself. He has little control over his own funds and must also go into light manufacturers. "October has officially been declared National Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and in observance of this month-long, life-saving campaign, the American Cancer Society's Inland Empire Unit is once again gearing up to help spread the word locally on the importance of early detection. Breast cancer should be every woman's concern, especially now since one in nine women will eventually contract the disease. And even though breast cancer is the most common form of cancer among women, it's still over 95 percent curable if detected and treated in its earliest stages. The American Cancer Society encourages women to practice a three step early detection program, which includes monthly breast self-examinations, breast awareness campaigns, and professional physical exams and grating a mammogram performed on a regular basis. Mammography, a low-dose X-ray of the breast, can reveal cancer too small to be felt by even the most experienced examiner. The Society recommends a mammogram every year for asymptomatic women, by age 35 and over, and baseline mammogram for those 35 or 40. Women 40 to 49 should have one performed every one to two years. Those women who've taken advantage of the Society's sponsored Low Cost Mammography Project during the past three years, over 63,000 in Southern California to date, will be mailed information-filled packets in October, reminding them to continue following their mammography schedules. The American Cancer Society's professional and dedicated facilities offering—mammograms—at reduced rates throughout the year - rates ranging from $55 to $95. Screening mammograms are covered by most of California's private and group insurance carriers, and many new laws now require Medi-Cal and Medicare to cover the costs, as well as only upon a physician's referral. Consequently, a second phase of this year's campaign includes public service announcements on television and radio to encourage local health-care providers to refer eligible women to mammography facilities accepting Medi-Cal and Medicare coverage. Gary Wilkins, formerly assistant director of equal opportunity affirmative action at Arizona State University, has been appointed affirmative action officer at the University of California, Riverside. Wilkins, 46, succeeds Peggy Kerley, who retired last spring after 10 years as UCR's affirmative action officer. His appointment became effective Oct. 1.

As the campus's chief affirmative action specialist, Wilkins will coordinate the campus, Academic and Staff Affirmative Action Programs, which seeks to enhance the diversity of UCR's workforce. He will also investigate and mediate affirmative action complaints, advises Chancellor Rosemary S. Sclar on affirmative action issues.

Wilkins was appointed to his first position in action in 1985 when he became equal employment opportunity specialist in the Arizona Governor's Office of Affirmative Action. In 1990, he became manager of the Office of Equal Opportunity/Minority Affairs in the Arizona Department of Health Services and, in 1991, was appointed assistant director of the Office of Equal Opportunity/Minority Affairs at Arizona State University in Tempe.

Prior to the mid-1980s, he held several teaching and administrative positions in higher education, including positions at the University of Colorado, Boulder, and at Metropolitan State College in Denver. "Having observed situations occurring within the work environment from a manager's perspective, I thought through affirmative action I could help enhance opportunities for women and minorities," said Wilkins of his career in affirmative action. "I feel if affirmative action is to be effective, everyone has to be part of the solution from staff all the way up to administration and they all have to buy into that concept completely." At UCR, Wilkins will report to Vice Chancellor Everly B. Fleeton.

With Wilkins' appointment, the campus is bringing increased importance to the affirmative action officer until Wilkins arrives at UCR. "We expect him to serve a key role in completing a resolution and more a proactive role in training and in assisting the campus in more thoroughly addressing the issues of affirmative action," said Gill. Wilkins said he looks forward to the move to Southern California and UCR. "I like the university itself. I think it is in a place where it has some growth but not a place where growth is unmanageable. It's an opportunity to be part of the solution and have an impact," he said. "I've always been interested in moving to California and this was a prime opportunity to make the move." Wilkins earned his bachelor's degree in sociology at the University of Southern Colorado in Pueblo in 1968 and a master's degree in public administration at the University of California in 1974. In 1971-72, he attended law school at the University of Colorado.

He currently lives in Chandler, Ariz. "I've always been interested in moving to California and this was a prime opportunity to make the move."

Sanctions Prematurely Lifted
Letter To A.M.E. Church - South African Missions Update

By Dr. Frederick C. Harrierson

I returned to South Africa to be a part of a delegation on a mission to assess current conditions, the need for economic sanctions, and make recommendations for future business with the government.

The group met with a good mix of both white and black Africans in the Johannesburg, Durban, and Cape Town areas. It was both a very enlightening and enriching trip. Sanctions, despite the fact that the Government were lifted while we were in South Africa, make sense for meaningful dialogue and assistance, an action that was definitely prematurity because the situation in South Africa is not yet to meet all of the terms of the agreement.

The delegation concluded that lifting sanctions now on the national or local levels could cause serious setbacks in the process of change. Not only has Pretoria not met to serious conditions which are indicated in the following:

Despite the repeal of the Group Areas Act of 1950, the vestige of the majority of the population is still captive of the system. The overwhelming majority of the country that has been victim of homophobia and underwilled will have no access to presidency De Klerk's action. Further, critical community services such as health care, housing, education, police, electricity, water supply and sanitation are all under the jurisdiction of "own affairs".

These racially defined areas are erected to provide or deny basic services to the people.

Schools, for example, are segregated and operated by separately racial defined parochial schools. The only exception is that white schools have been forced to accept 90% of the parents are present and 80% of them approve, children must get approval from their parents and the school - as long as they do not become a majority. While white schools have established this option substantial barriers for black children. Getting admission, residence, accommodation, expensive school fees (since the state provides none), transportation for children, but not for blacks.

As you may well note, from this program, two main questions are brought about: When is apartheid still with us, and what can be done to bring it to an end?

Decisions are still being made and actions are still uncovering to bring about the desired changes in the country. At this time, it is very important that the A.M.E. Church become more actively involved in the lifting sanctions issue in South Africa.

Our A.M.E. minister and political priest, is being detained at the Pollsmoor Prison in Cape Town. Of all the political prisoners who were charged with the exact same crimes have been released in the Rev. Nkopola at Pollsmoor Prison while still being detained with the delegation. Through the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, they have clashed for him and me, giving up his right to free consultation with his lawyer, his family, his wife, his friends, his members at Pollsmoor. Nkopola's "behaviour" to the other political prisoners and members of the Correctional Services request to be able to act as they please to release Rev. Nkopola.

Mrs. N. Lampitt, President of the Methodist Church area of the 19th Episcopal District, has made some promises to us to assist some of these areas in this area. We found that there is a great need for medical services and and new born baby clothing at the 19th Episcopal District of the church in Westovia. Also, we have been able to assess the results of our relief efforts in the 17th and 18th Episcopal Districts. More than 30 containers of medical supplies, as well as 13 containers of clothing, books and school supplies have been distributed to the 17th Episcopal District.

We have also been able to verify through the President on the 17th and 15th Episcopal Districts, that the 15th Districts, have arrived.

Further, Gardner's "King James Version" was To Be Released In Wash., D.C.

"King James Version," a critically acclaimed film by African American film maker Robert Gardner, was released in Washington, D.C. in a showing for the first time.

The film, which marks Gardner's directorial debut, is a 12-year-old New York writer and grower of a garden (played by Christina Bragg), who is interested in the conflict of the contemporary values of her mother, Bessie Porter (Joan Pryor), a nurse and her father's relationship with his garden. Black women is to be shown in a separate drama, "The Garden of the South," which is in production.

Gardner can be considered a tremendous success in the filmmaking industry today. Deciding not to travel the usual Hollywood route, Gardner stuck to his own idea of making a unique look and approach making his film known.

"King James Version" and Gardner's first film, "Clarence and Angelus" - both successful in the circuit - introduces unknown actresses and stars creating a very real and down to earth story of the history and the way to make Gardner's film something that everyone can relate to.

To begin revival growth, early church and colleges and universities have to be involved in it. They must be able to provide leadership, and the Methodist Church has been involved in the project for a long time.

Clothing, medical supplies and food should not be considered alone in the leaders that have a different style. One container has specifically been designed for the A.M.E. Church, the other for distribution to the community.

JUSTICE FOR ALL: Last week Sept 25th at the Moreno Valley High School we the students told some 400 citizens not to discuss issues in the present brought on by the rapid growth of Moreno Valley. The meeting began with games discussed as a big problem of the city. We were not able to discuss any issues to the game problem which could be held for young people and more meaningful recreational activities. Some of the citizens were able to tell the audience about the community activities provided by churches, clubs and the Moreno Valley School System.

I think, if our children are raised properly and the young people who listen these habits had a sense of right and wrong, along with a spiritual awareness which would direct them to take proper care of the child, we will find fewer problems in our homes, our schools and other level of society. It is my aim to see that the children, a substantial number of them are coming into our daily society deprived of the training that such them to respect all people regardless of race, creed or national origin.

The other night I suggest that we all call on ‘GOD’ for help, we need him in this. To us there is the much to love. Our children, and our children’s children are going to reap the effects of our present day behavior.

Multicultural education is currently an issue, however, policies are already in place. The values present is not going to help everyone. Value Clarification is a study that will tell all of God’s people that they are somehow and have an important part to play in providing means of peace and prosperity on God’s earth. The schools are inequities of programs were developing worthwhile goods, with the home as a foundation that promotes self-interest in our love to be realized as foster and taught to the child. This can be taught for the child when they are young so that they can grow up having self-confidence, self-love and respect for others.

Especially important is the belief that learning and physical problems, the first year of a child’s life is not to be used as a band-aid for the child. To understand and teaching will produce a young man as well produce for America, not tear it down. I doubt if they will ever just a gang, perhaps the CHON, RON, ENS.

Schools can help by providing the relax training that is lacking in our homes. I could be done on for if there is a problem. We cannot dream on 1 level program is in reading designed to help the child to realize that there is a need for all children and able to learn to respect and enjoy the company of persons from other cultures. Our reading book or factual should be written to help our children see that there are people of all kinds of people.

Perhaps if we work together we can solve our gang problems and Multicultural training in our schools can automatically be included. We have no problem, we need help to all people of all color. We need help in America.

Philip Morris Doesn't Want Kids To Smoke

One of the trying aspects of being a parent is encouraging your child to make the right choices — not just to follow along. In today's complex society, growing up involves more pressures and choices than ever before. Studies show that young people do things because their friends do. Smoking is one of those things.

We don't want children and teenagers to smoke.

That's why the tobacco industry is offering a booklet aimed at helping parents meet the challenge of providing their children with the tools to resist peer influence. The booklet, "Tobacco: Helping Youth Say No," is designed to keep parents and children communicating about important issues like smoking.

To continue its longstanding commitment that smoking is not for young people, the tobacco industry also has strengthened its marketing code and is supporting state legislation to make it tougher for young people to buy cigarettes. We are also working with retailers for strict compliance with state laws prohibiting sales of cigarettes to minors.

Slick Rick's Producer Discovers New Act

"We rap about things that are on the minds of the people that can happen in everyone's life. The only exception is if I'm thinking about low life and I can work a mickle. That's the work we do, we work with, and if you can't do it, come get a little bit of it, but basically, we deal in reality."

-Greyson Salmon

When the Bronx-born duo of Evanston Salmon and Jason Burgess first met in their early teens, they quickly discovered a shared love of rap music. After years of working together, their powerful, heartfeltly rapped real tunes, landed them a recording contract with Atlantic Records. On the debut Greyson & Jason album, "SWAYIN' ME WET" the duo combines fresh-feet lyrics with taxi's as a hard as the street, pulsating music thatスペース you by the throat while it tickles you to the beat. Greyson, Jason, Greyson, and Jason first met seven years ago, when they were just thirteen. Within a year, they were appearing in rap shows at local and non-local hip hop concerts. Jayson calls Rakim and Prodigy his early influences, while Greyson dug deep into the story-telling rymes that he so adored. They made some records in 1987, but they didn't go well, Jason cynically adds. Two years later, they meet DJ LaWright, an established producer who is capable of putting the beats together. ~

Greyson, "I'll either write half-d'ly lyrics, or just the basic story about something. When I write a story rhyme, it's like the dreaming of a movie. On Livin' Like A Troopa," for instance, I'm playing a character who just isn't really me. The first single from "SWAYIN' ME WET" is a get to know him, says Greyson. Doing, "Get Wisty" was a space- of-the-moment thing. We've been talking about doing a record together, and one night, when we were all coointed, he just said, "Yo, let's go in the studio.

Other outstanding cuts on "SWAYIN' ME WET" include the aforementioned "Livin' Like A Troopa," and a very fine singer with us again this year.
