16th Commencement Program Announced

Saturday, June 19 will mark the 16th commencement ceremony for this college and the 16th year President John M. Pfau has conferred degrees on graduates of Cal State, San Bernardino. So that each graduate will have the opportunity to come forward to receive congratulations from the president, the ceremony again will have no guest speaker.

The program will begin with the processional at 9 a.m. on the south of the gymnasium. Music will be provided by the Wind Ensemble, directed by Keating Johnson. Faculty members escorting the graduates, faculty and platform party will be Dr. Judith Rymer (Education), faculty marshal; Dr. John Chaney (Administration), student marshal; and Dr. William Slout (Theatre Arts), college marshal.

The invocation and benediction this year will be given by Maura O'Neil, chaplain with the Newman Center in San Bernardino. In addition to conferring of degrees, Dr. Pfau will present the college's outstanding professor award to Dr. Frederick Newton (Psychology).

The Alumni Association again has arranged for a commercial photographer to take pictures of all graduates receiving their diplomas from President Pfau. Following the ceremony, everyone is invited to the traditional reception in the gymnasium.

Library Renamed
Dr. Pfau Honored

By unanimous approval of the CSU Board of Trustees Wednesday, the college Library will be named in honor of Dr. John M. Pfau. For President Pfau, the trustees waived a policy that requires a building not be named until one year after the honoree's retirement. The action also marks the first time a building on this campus has been named for an individual.

The naming of the library was first proposed by Associated Students Vice President David Menezes and approved unanimously by the A.S. Board of Directors. It was subsequently supported by the Faculty Senate and the Alumni Association. A formal announcement will be made at the Friday, June 4 dinner honoring President Pfau, who is retiring in July after 20 years as president of Cal State, San Bernardino. Late reservations for the dinner will be accepted through Wednesday, June 2 by the office of the vice president for administration, Ext. 7411.

Four awards recipients announced

The Uni Phi Club announced the recipients of its four honorary awards. Out of the more than 30 nominees submitted for consideration, the club selected Vince Vegna, a graduate student in psychology, as the recipient of the Anita Hafberg award; Jo Ann Hartzog (Services to Students with Disabilities) a graduate student in education, the Barbara Sovereign award; Jan Gregoire (Services to Students with Disabilities), the Frank Lootens award; and Dr. Gregory Price (Physical Education and Recreation), the Dr. Fred Kellers award.

WARNING

It's snake time of the year again. Numerous snakes have been spotted on campus. So, when walking around brush area or near the edge of buildings, walk with caution. Report any snake hazards (i.e., inside buildings, along major walkways, etc.) to campus police at ext. 7555.

If bitten:

1. Remain calm,
2. Try not to increase your blood circulation,
3. If possible, seek help. Call, or have someone else call campus police at their emergency ext. 7757.
4. Try to give the police a description of the snake.

This has been another tip from your campus Department of Public Safety.
additional affects that may result from the water diversion. There is also the increase in the likelihood of our last wild and free river in Northern California. Some people argue that there are safeguards built into the bill, but I remember that these safeguards can be annulled by a simple majority in the legislature. It should also be noted that the Metropolitan Water Board does not care about preserving other areas’ environments. One must just look at the destruction of Mono Lake and Owens Valley for proof of this.

We can have more water and more growth without the project (remember: the more L.A. grows, the more smog we get). Urban conservation measures will save 15% of current usage or more than the project shortfall through the year 2000. Other uses besides 85% of all developed water, residential use is 5% and industrial use is 10%. With drop irrigation, less water would be needed and other simple acts, agricultural could easily reduce its share by 8% - 10%, greatly increasing water availability for other uses.

Water reuse could reclaim 4 – .5 million acre feet in Orange and L.A. counties alone.

There are also other alternatives for canals that cost 80% less, like wells or expensive pumping that can be done in the Salton Sea. The SWP will cost twenty-one dollars per acre foot of water.

On Tuesday, June 2, at 12:00 and on Wednesday, June 3, at 12:00 and 5:00, the Environmental Council and SAGA will cosponsor a slide show about Proposition 9 and the proposed Peripheral Canal. An overhead projector will carry the show to an unlimited channel 43 miles long, 400 feet wide and 30 feet deep. It would be capable of diverting 80% of the Sacramento River water around Sacramento - San Joaquin Delta into the State Aqueduct.

What are the implications? First is energy use. Currently the State Water Project (SWP) is the largest user of electricity in California. The Metropolitan Water District is second. The SWP uses 4 billion kilowatt hours of electricity. When the canal is built, the SWP will use 10 billion kWh of electricity per year (10 billion kWh is the amount consumed by 2 million homes a year). Utility companies and business can expect to pay increased prices for their energy due to competition for power, and due to illegal passing on of construction costs for the needed additional power projects. It should also be noted that the cost of the canal was projected when oil cost twenty-one dollars per barrel. By the time the project is started, oil will be around thirty-five dollars a barrel.

There are also other economic impacts. If the state can sell the bonds in the current market what will the current market what will the current market consequences be for the state? Taxes and utility rates are calculated by Sen. John Garamendi that the Times - Mirror Corp., which favors the project via the L.A. Times, which they own, stands to gain from a billion dollars subsidy for its Tejon Ranch operation if the canal is built.

So come to one of the meetings and see why you should join the California Republicans, California Young Democrats or any of the other California organizations that oppose Prop. 9 and the Peripheral Canal.

Profile: The Coolbaugh's

It has been said that busy people can always find time to spend on a worthwhile project. Carl and Kathryn Coolbaugh are busy people, as well as siblings. They've found the time to enrich the educational experience of their fellow campus students while working and maintaining high GPAs.

Kathryn is presently involved in research at Loma Linda University involving hyperthermia and cancer. Those who know Kathryn also know that her mother is a nurse and may have arrived at the not-to-unreasonable conclusion that she is following a family tradition. Kathryn assures us that this is not the situation, "our parents never tried to influence us towards or away from a career in medicine, it's always been up to us.” Kathryn is currently pursuing veterinary medicine because "I like the field of medicine, I plan to do clinical work and, if the opportunity presents itself, I'd like to do cancer research.”

Goethe's FAUST

The German Club is planning an outing to Alpine Village in Torrance to see Wolfgang von Goethe's FAUST on Sunday, June 6th. This modern version of FAUST is in color with German dialogue and English subtitles featuring Gustaf Grundgens as Mephisto.

Alpine Village is a German shopping center with a variety of shops. There are German markets, a card and gift shop, a crystal shop and a restaurant with a German band. This is an excellent opportunity to experience some German culture and cuisine. Everyone interested is invited to participate. Groups will leave the front parking lot around 1:00 on Sunday. This will leave plenty of time for shopping and taking in the atmosphere before the movie starts at 5:30.

Call the Foreign Language Department at 887-7445 or Terri Price at 887-0252 for more information.
