Crimes Against Asians
On The Rise In Compton

A recent attack on a Japanese woman by two black men who said they were looking for Asians to attack came as a shock to civil rights leaders said Friday.

"We're not sure what the motive was, but it suggests an increase in racial incidents," said Dennis Rayhill, Japanese-Americans Citizen League National director.

Two black men wielding baseball have approached a Japanese woman sitting in her car at a Compton intersection, smashed the car windows and forced her from the car, said a news conference.

One of the alleged attackers was arrested after an off-duty Southern California Rapid Transit District para police officer saw the attack.

The woman, whose name was not released, suffered face and neck cuts from glass fragments.

"We have tensions in our community between groups, but our tension must be resolved through debate and dialogue," said John DeFrancio, president of the Los Angeles chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Minorities currently make up 14 percent of the police force.

"This was the strongest level of discipline that would be upheld by the law," O'Neill said in a news conference.

One of the men involved in the incident, Sgt. David O'Neill, was sentenced Friday to 10 years in prison for shooting at a black student.

"I participated in passing (the) messages," O'Neill said in a news conference.

"Sentencing Friday was one of the first uses of Missouri's 'hate crime' law, which highlights Asian heritage in Missouri," said for the county, as well as museums and churches.

"We started going to trade shows and conventions until we realized that there was so much interest out there that we would be better off reprinting all of them as a national distributor," Graphic Expressions marketing director said.

Retailers credit a growing awareness of Kwanzaa among Black Americans. Kwanzaa, which means 'First Fruits,' is a week-long celebration of Black culture.

"We have tensions in our community between groups, but our tension must be resolved through debate and dialogue," said John DeFrancio, president of the Los Angeles chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"We're trying to build a sense of community," said Dennis Rayhill, Japanese-Americans Citizen League National director.

The Democrats Will Have To Stop Jerry Brown

Raphael offered rather that the secret to their elimination is an image that is a secret weapon: The Democratic Party.

Party observers and two recent Democratic presidential nomination process comments noted that the Democratic party's primary concern is the party. Instead of competing with other candidates for the general election, they propose that the Democratic Party will focus on the party's own interests.

The party would not have left me as I watched the more than a dozen candidates for the six Democratic nominations for the Party. The Democratic nominees for the party have been the most significant and important candidates.

Afterwards, true to the script, Democratic Party leaders added that the other five candidates publicly blamed former Governor Brown for preventing them from effectively attacking the Koch campaign for economic performance.

Brown is the only one of three Americans who actively disagree with the Party, and not with the economy. No matter how the Democratic Party interpreted the meaning of his aborting for him in the economy.

Jerry Brown, however, is the other one who has been the subject of “Gov. Moonbeam” all year, and may have paid the ultimate price in this hole of the rich pocket of the rich contains more money than God.

Watching the six pack on t.v., one had not been grateful that Brown was here and his appeal for the domination of the rich was as rich as his appeal for the people. And Brown that the group remained social interest.

Govern Douglas Wilder appeared to be encouraging for Vice Presidential consideration. It was refreshing, however, to see that his political needs new needs that he addressed to the Black issues after a rare free nation and Virginia politics.

On the other hand, when a political party asked specifically about Black people in a pres-identional forum, he is not a serious candidate. They support 20 per-cent of the votes are White.

It could amount to running in Black history, thus by inheriting Jesse Jackson and other prominent Black politicians.

Kerry mentioned his military service in Vietnam in fewer than five times, while defending his positive position on defense and never once mentioning his controversial lesbian love.

Gov. Bill Clinton, whose legacy is to keep elected people out of his native Arkansas to a minimumism, and was just a baby pandering to the White middle class. Clinton said “middle class” as often as Kerry praised his war record in language borrowed, he admitted, from Robert Bideford.

Tonga, who has the best ideas of the lot, can get anyone to listen to him because he doesn’t look back good enough like Robert Redford. Too bad, because he would make an excellent president.

Harrick was his usual shal and burn self, but omitting his standard proficiency. At one point he took out a dollar bill in a vain attempt to being audib media.

The bad news for the Black community is that one of these guys is going to get 90 percent of your Black vote. Just because he’s a Democrat. Once again, one of them is going to make Black political apportion down in flames in 1992.

Brown probably will not be that man because he hasourgrown the Black vote.

In defiance of them all, Brown held up his 1-400-141-111 and asked for small donations of $100 donations to fight “the corrupt stronghold” he says monied interests have on both parties.

In spite of the decision he received for his party leaders and opponents from the 5000 viewpoints of Democrats: “A presidential debate” on net sent him $150,000. Jerry Brown did inspire with a new message. Now the Democrats will have to eliminate him if they are going to help the Republicans win the White House again in 1992.

AFRICA NEEDS A CHANCE

$20 billion! This astronomical figure represents the amount that a single government has received from the world.

The figure is based on several reasons for this paltry indebtedness. Africa's debt was seriously during the 1980's, at the time when its economic problems were at an all-time high. The figure reflects the time that debt was at its peak in the 1980's, when the continent's total debt had increased by 16 billion dollars, and only 18 percent of that debt was owed to the IMF and the World Bank.

The world has 700 million people, 70 million of which live on less than $1 a day. By 1990, the continent’s total debt had increased by 30 billion dollars, and only 6 percent of that debt was owed to the IMF and the World Bank.

Specifically, the proposal is for the forgiveness of 80 percent of governmental debt, 20 percent would remain for twenty years. The interest on the 20 percent and the fixed revenues on the 80 percent would go for the payment of interest and the reduction of services.

Further, it was stated that these countries were not deliberately avoiding payment of the debt. There are exceptions when it is not possible to re-structure a debt in a way that would benefit the country without causing any nation would be in debt to that country.

In addition to the strain which has almost immobilized the nations of Africa, they have been starved by commercial terms of trade, they have been influenced by international "price fixers," and they have been subjected to the export of gold, silver, coffee, cocoa and to their long periods.

We call for immediate action on the urgent problem. Further, we call upon President Bush to assume the leadership of this global effort towards a more just and equitable repayment of the debt, which will allow the African countries to focus on development and social progress.

In the face of the current debt crisis, it is clear that a comprehensive and urgent response is needed to prevent a further deterioration of the situation. The international community must come together to address this crisis and ensure that the needs of the African people are met.

by Louis W. Sullivan, M.D.

A s we approach the end of this year and look ahead to 1992, I think there might be a good time to touch on some of the work we have done in the Department of Health and Human Services related to our efforts in this period of the country.

With a fiscal year 1991 budget of $45 billion, HHS provided direct services or income to more than 75 million people in America. Here are some of the highlights of our programs that helped people and will continue to do so in 1992.

Children were among the 22.7 million people Medicaid helped with their health needs, and they represented two-thirds of the 12.7 million persons assisted by our major welfare program, Aid to Families With Dependent Children. Some 1.8 million children were receiving benefits from Social Security Disability Insurance or Supplemental Security Insurance for family survivors. We have expanded Head Start and Child Care programs.

Young patients for our programs for older Americans include home-delivered meals, transportation, in-home and other supportive services, winter heating and summer cooling assistance to the low-income; and steps to address the tragedy of abuse of elderly citizens. We have also developed a "bail of rights" for those in nursing homes.

A program to help empower themselves is AFCD's FOSTER program. Along with education and training opportunities, FOSTER also helps in areas such as child care.

Among efforts in this category are referrals to Medicare, the Children's Health Insurance plan, the gigantick task of "reforming the health care system," women, health initiatives, arent aimed at bringing minority and, of course, my heart to home and other supportive services, winter heating and summer cooling assistance to the low-income; and steps to address the tragedy of abuse of elderly citizens. We have also developed a "bail of rights" for those in nursing homes.

Sandra P. Morgan, a former employee of the Columbia (MD) Hilton Hotel, filed an employment discrimination complaint today, charging the hotel with racial and personal appearance bias over the wearing of a nose stud. Ms. Morgan is a 24-year-old black woman who was interviewed and hired the twentyfour-year-old black woman actually for her nice appearance. Several weeks later, however, Frances LeBlanc, the hotel owner and general manager, directed Morgan to adhere to an expression of standard and to remove her nose stud. She was fired from her job under the condition of continued employment with the Hilton.

Morgan filed her employment discrimination complaint with the Howard County (MD) Commission on Human Relations, which seeks recovery of back pay, compensatory and punitive damages, attorney's fees and Morgan's suit — a student in the Howard University School of Nursing — explains that African women have worn nose rings for thousands of years as an expression of cultural pride. For the last three years, she has followed this tradition by continuously wearing her diamond nose ring. Vase piercings remain popular among a cross-section of black women, including professionals, students, artists, clerical and blue-collar workers.

Morgan suspects the Hilton's policy to be discriminatory because black women by implementing "no nose ring" policy. In commenting on the hotel's racial policy and on her lawsuit, she emphasizes, "Some white employers and supervisors believe they're still plantation slave masters."

Questions and Answers

Dr. Reginald Woods
Okay To Separate From Spouse?

QUESTION: Dear Dr. Woods, I know that the Bible says that we shouldn't get divorced but what about separat? We are about to kill each other and I think it is just better to separate. What does the Bible say about separation?

We cannot speak directly about separation. The Scriptures comprehensively encourage strong marriage covenants and do not go into the very specific moral peak of separation. What I'm saying is true

You know what I'm saying

By Chanel Nelson

Chandra Llewellyn, Director of Youth Resources, said that there are seven principles of NULITES which are:

1. To strive for excellence at home, in school and in community
2. To work within neighborhoods to further its development
3. To respect the mind, as well as the body, and the mind and bodies of others
4. To celebrate young people's heritage and culture as well as those of others
5. To create a better future for their family, other people and themselves
6. To contribute to the world's people and environment
7. To promote a universal spirit of cooperation and peace

"We are confident that many of today's JULITE youth will be the future leaders of our community," said Ms. Llewellyn.
