Defining The U. S. Role In Somalia

U. S. CONGRESSMAN JOHN LEWIS

The situation in Somalia is unlike anything else that we have ever witnessed in Somalia with one of our most experienced ambassadors. We saw suffering, misery and starvation on a scale that is incomprehensible to those who have not seen it with their own eyes. Perhaps the most dramatic moment of my visit was meeting a mother who carried her toddler daughter in her arms. The child was literally two hours old.

I had literally witnessed war. There was nothing left to this little girl's face and hands. She barely had strength to move her head or her limbs. I asked her if she had seen a doctor. She said no. I asked her if she was hungry. She said no. I asked her if she had been fed. She said no. I asked her if she could see. She said no.

The implication was clear. We are being fed to the world.

The situation in Somalia is much more than just a crisis; it is a tragedy. It is a tragedy that is being broken down and destroyed by those who have the power to do something about it. It is a tragedy that is being allowed to continue while the world looks the other way.

There can be no more tragic consequence of theturned away than the ending of a life. It is a tragedy that we should not ignore.

The world must act now, but we must act quickly. We must act decisively. We must act with urgency. We must act with determination.

We must act with compassion. We must act with humanity. We must act with love.

We must act with resolve.

Carjacking Leaves Woman Dead And Officer Wounded

Carjacking is suspected to be the motive for the death of a 29-year-old woman and the shooting of an off-duty police officer in the area near the Shandon Hills Golf Course.

The victim, Sherry Collins, was shot in the leg and her dead daughter in her arms. The child had been left in the car.

Ed Brick, an officer at California State University, San Bernardino, came upon the incident after he noticed the suspect car and the suspect walking the street.

Detective Dale Blackwell reports San Bernardino resident Mitchell, Funches, 24, is being sought in connection with the murder. He is being a films in possession of a firearm and carrying a firearm as an officer at police station.

The vehicle for the rental car was the Ford Taurus that was found in a residence where the San Bernardino police detectives at 886-5434.

African-American Chamber Helps Entrepreneurs

The African American Chamber of Commerce held their second annual scholarship dinner dance, "Educating Tomorrow's Entrepreneurs." The organization opened the speakers podium to three organizations, instead of the traditional high profile dinner speaker.

Elyse Traynum, President of the African American Attorney Association of the Inland Empire, spoke of personality traits and the need to serve the community. Traynum gave six points that are similar to business people and lawyers: 1. Drive, both continue to learn. 2. Both must be logical/critical thinkers. 3. Be good with people. 4. Have good communication skills. 5. Teach knowledge both know their product. 6. A sense of responsibility, they can't be isolated from the community.

Delores Williams, represented the National Council of Negro Women. Her speech centered on education and youth. Williams said we must continue to place extreme value on education for our youth. She additionally told of Mrs. Bethune's legacy.

Fairfax Campbell, represented the 100 Black Men of the Inland Empire. He said the organization is concerned with youth also. Their focus is on those with a "B" average and above in the 8th grade. The name of their program is the "Young Black Scholars" program, and it is part of the national program.

In making a presentation of the scholarship recipient, Keith Matthews, James White said, "Not only do we need to get the students to college, we must help keep them there."

Additionally he said, we must develop economic strength, he entrepreneurial and there is a need for AACC to network and support. Therefore lies the key to why the guest speakers all represented local groups.

PART II

If one's work does not provide any kind of distinctive outlet, it may still provide the psychic rewards of being a member of a group with its own plan and cohesiveness.

Since no society has yet been invented in which the overwhelming majority can survive without working, and since everything we have learned about human beings suggests that they are happier when they are performing some useful function, parents have their children to train them in a positive attitude toward work.

Such an attitude involved acceptance of a relationship between effort and reward, willingness to share, an ability to follow and accept discipline as well as to lead and give directions, and a capacity to postpone immediate gratification for the sake of later accomplishment.

No child should be stifled or severely coerced, but too much emphasis has probably been placed on self-expression with the result that many children grow up never realizing that there are times when they can be happy only if they subsume themselves.

Probably the whole point of rearing a child can be summed up in one word: "individuality." That is, helping him to be who he is with all his strengths and weaknesses of personality and distinctiveness of background.

Naturally, the stronger the parents, the more coherent the values of the family, the easier it will be for the child to evolve his individuality.

It is equally important that parents put forward a positive attitude toward their own racial and ethnic heritage. There are some unanswerable and self-defeating impasses in the Black Power Movement, but for Negro children there is surely an enormous psychic gain in being taught that "Black is beautiful." Black is beautiful - and so are White, red, yellow, and brown and yellow.

Trends in the United States, which some doctors conclude, are going on a vacation, going to church, hiking, bicycling or working on the family boat - are worthwhile, because it promotes a family spirit.

Children may resent at times that they cannot do what every other child on the block is doing; but, for all balancing that resentment, they gain the security of family membership.

The civilizing of a child begins with the recognitions of rewards. If a child is to learn to be an adult, he has to be taught by respecting the adults he knows best - his parents and grandparents. By learning to obey his father and mother, a child has the freedom within the home boundaries they set for him to develop his own identity.

By learning to respect other people's rights, a child gains self-confidence to claim his own.

Convicted Murderer May Move To Halfway House

Ruled insane for killing his Moreno Valley victim, in response to a claimed command from God, David Cary Sword now faces outpatient treatment in a halfway house.

Sword has been committed to Patton State Hospital in Highland since 1989 for killing Ramon A. El Du-Waik, 29, Now, Superior Court Judge Edward S. Webster, who convicted Sword, will decide if Sword is still a danger to society, as some doctors conclude, at a hearing Dec. 18.

Prosecutor William Mitchell said he will fight the defense attempt to get Sword released for the first time since Sword, 43, of San Bernardino, pleaded guilty to murdering El Du-Waik in the home El Du-Waik rented from Sword.

Sword told a psychologist and psychiatrist that God healed his swollen knee the day before the killing. Doctors' reports said Sword believed that in return for the healing, God wanted him to kill El Du-Waik and someone else who would be revealed as "Og" to assure his entrance to heaven.

After Sword killed El Du-Waik in front of several people, including the victim's wife, he drove to Corona and read the Bible in his truck, seeking clues to finding Og.

Doctors who examined Sword reported Sword's religion as motivation for the killing. Sword told a psychologist and psychiatrist that God healed his swollen knee the day before the killing.

Food

Inez V. Kaiscr, author of Soul Food Cookbook, has compiled the third revision. Due to popular demand, the edition will be available in early December.

Soul Food Cookbook is a cook book, amusing and unique in many ways. First of all, it is different from most cookbooks using common everyday foods that fit into the conventional many dishes that only satisfy the taste buds.

Written with the hope that it will help you and comfortably understanding one of life's basic needs - food, the book contains over 280 recipes on how to cook "soul food." These recipes are a change from the fancy dishes that require an expert cook or a variety of her. Homemakers will find that this cookbook is needed in this economy. Low-cost ingredients are used to make up the tastiest dishes imaginable.

The recipes are simply written in such a way that even beginning and haphazard can follow them easily. The method for combining ingredi-

Apple Valley Honors MLK, Jr.

On January 18, 1993 The High Desert Black Heritage Committee (HDBHC) and the Victor Valley Community College (VVCC) sponsored Student Body are once again joining a Birthday Tribute honoring Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., at the VVCC Performing Arts Center. The evening will be open to the communitywide support.

The evening's activities will consist of musical and dramatized presentations dedicated to the memory of Dr. King and his "dream."

If you or your organization wish to be a part of this special evening, call 619-241-3813 or 796-7463 for details.

Additionally, the women of the Dr. King Essay, Art and Poetry contest, will be announced and presented during the evening. The contest is sponsored by the HDBHC and is open to all the school-age children in Victor Valley, grades 1 thru 12. The winners will receive recognition and prizes. Information about the contest has been made available to all the schools within Victor Valley. See your school administration office! (909)243-7486 for details.

Bill Bellamy Featured on HBO Comedy Special

An upcoming HBO special airing next weekend (Saturday, December 18 on HBO). The special will include 13 of the nation's top comedians. Bellamy's career looks promising for the 1993 year. In September he told the Black Voice News that "I'm looking forward to describing his success and already he will be featured in a movie. Keep looking out for this rising college grad turned comedian."

Perfect Choice Performs For KABC-TV

Perfect Choice is known for their ability to play "a vast array of music" to promote a spirit of charity among KABC-TV viewers. The evening will serve as a "kick-off" in a series of events to donate canned foods and unperishable items for needy families.

Perfect Choice is directed by Terri Stites Lash, which also includes Robin Renteria, Jessika McRae, Martha Meredith, Ms. Natasha and Zachary Cole.

Perfect Choice's vocals are complement each other with their outstanding stage presence as well as and soprano harmonies. support suddenly became reality - the enthusiasm, an inheritance or a "big win" at a casino, and had more money than you ever imagined. What would you do? Buy a house, a diamond ring, and a luxury car? Take trips to exotic locations? Support charities? Finance your own political campaign? How would your friends and family react if they became millionaires? Would it change them or you, and if so, how?

Now you can find out by playing You Just Became A Millionaire. The "Would You Rather" Game for 1993 by Fun & Games magazine and the Game Retailer Network. This exciting new Game, you could ever imagine.

Natalie Williams, a senior and star basketball/volleyball player, has executed a rare sports double recently at Pasadena Pavilion, playing in a NCAA basketball game in the afternoon and running to and changing just in time to partake in a volleyball tournament game that evening.

Natalie's department officials said it was the first time a woman has played two varsity sports on the same day for UCLA.

You must be asking yourself, what kind of athlete is this Natalie girl? Well all she has done is lead UCLA's volleyball all time NCAA most valuable player...what a remarkable athlete....

Eric cuts loose for a 19 yard gain against Kansas City.

Charles Barakyki whispers in Ron Harper's ear, before sticking an elbow In his side.

Supervisor Eaves Returns To The Westside To Say Thanks

When Supervisor Jerry Eaves was campaigning for election, the former assemblyman agreed to some terms that showed his commitment to making things better in the Black community.

Jerry Eaves is Committed to Progressive Change
Jerry Eaves' Pledge To:
• To be accessible to his district constituents
• To listen to their concerns and follow through
• To create jobs for youth and the unemployed
• To assist senior citizens and the disabled
• To support improvement of health care services
• To improve delivery of Ben Bernardino County services
• To establish a small business enterprise council
• To create a human relations and youth commission
• To appoint neighborhood residents to sit on San Bernardino County Boards and Commissions
• To help establish working community action committees
• To create an ombudsman to coordinate youth.

Superintendent Eaves is committed to progressive change.
Car Sales Rise in November

A jump in domestic automakers' sales in late November combined with a strong annual sales rate to raise the 10-day period. The sales figures joined a third time this year the estimate of doing so should come with insurance more available and affordable.

Possibly that could be accomplished by a large risk pool for bare-bones policies. Maybe experimentation with no-insurance is an answer. Anyway, that's the way to attack this beast - not hitting people without financial responsibility run around on our streets in a vehicle that can kill and maim.

Domestic automakers' truck sales rose 37.4 percent in the 10-day period, while car sales showed a 14.5 percent increase from the same period last year. The projected annual sales range for the entire month for domestic cars was 6.2 million. The projected range for truck sales was 6.4 million for both the month and the 10-day period.

The jump in sales was due largely to a strong spurt at the end of the month, said Tom Webb, chief economist for the National Automobile Dealers Association. For the month, Ford reported car sales up 20.6 percent over November 1991 and truck sales up 19.5 percent.

Arizona has not had mandatory insurance really works. We'll never know if we give up so soon. Much of the bellowing about mandatory insurance came from an incompletely designed system for drivers and insurance companies to comply with the state requirement. Out-of-state and people insured by out-of-state companies particularly had problems with insurance companies not issuing the paper work demanded by the state. And, of course, confusion reigns when there is a big required change in bureaucratic documentation.

Rather than shooting the overly-demanding requirement that people who drive are responsible for their driving, we should be trying to make
