Why Are People Homeless???

By LOUIS J. REID

GIVE me your proven, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free, the wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these to me, where my hallowed harbor, she is called the Statue of Liberty, where my sympathy, where my people take refuge from the storms and tempests— to me. I lift my lamp beside the golden door!

In the recent past, some people have begun to refer to a "homeless crisis." But is it a crisis? Or, is the homeless crisis merely a case of the government giving the homeless an identity, a face, so that all the rest of us will give the homeless a voice? Or, is it a crisis because we don't want to hear the facts about the homeless?

Not only is this an unprecedented crisis due to the promiscuous use of needles, the contagious nature of the occupational disease, and the chemical catastrophe — not only that, but the widespread use of Black and Hispanic drugs — drug abuse is epidemic.

In fact, while some Blacks, Hispanics and gays not in the United States, and most of the U.S. population does not have the disease, there is one significant new exception: the 100,000 U.S. herd of Hispanics and Blacks whose lifestyles place them in the epidemic, and one or more of whom are likely to be... THE ADVISOR "THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD" HANDGUN

Larry Wolf, 23, was shot to death in a McDonald's restaurant in Santa Cruz. He was killed by a 13-year-old boy who was using a stolen handgun, police said. The gun was taken from Wolf's car, which was left outside the restaurant.

The incident occurred around 10:30 p.m. when the suspect walked into the restaurant and approached Wolf, who was sitting at a table with a friend. The suspect pulled out the firearm, which had been stolen from Wolf's car earlier in the day, and opened fire, striking Wolf in the chest and abdomen.

Wolf was rushed to the hospital, where he was pronounced dead. He was shot at point-blank range, according to police. The suspect, who had been reported as a juvenile to the police department earlier in the day, was arrested at the scene.

The incident is being investigated as a homicide, and the suspect is expected to be charged with murder.

In recent years, there has been a rise in the number of juvenile homicides in Santa Cruz. According to police statistics, in the past five years there have been over 30 juvenile homicides in the city. This is a concerning trend that is being addressed by the police department and local community organizations.

The police department is urging residents to be cautious and to report any suspicious activities to the authorities.

"We are doing everything we can to ensure the safety of our residents," said Detective John Smith. "We urge everyone to be vigilant and to report any suspicious activities to the police."

Pioneers Beside Coleman

Two important breakthroughs set the stage for Blacks to enter the field of aviation. Eugene Bullard organized the first all-Black pilot’s union. He was the first pilot of the White-fronted-Wing, the first Black to fly under British flags. Eugene Bullard was born in Columbus, Georgia, in 1904. Eugene Bullard served as an infantryman with the French Foreign Legion in World War I, in 1917, Bullard flew briefly with the French on the Marseilles Front, gaining 6 combat hours and 150 kills. Bullard was promoted to the rank of Sergeant in 1918.

Bullard was the first American-born Black to fly a military plane and the first African-American to fly a commercial plane.

In 1930, Bullard co-founded the Black International Airmen’s Association. He was one of the leaders of the association. Bullard wrote two books about his experiences in aviation: "The Negro in Aviation" (1930) and "The Negro in Philippine Aviary" (1942).

The story of Eugene Bullard is a testament to the determination and resilience of Black pilots and aviators. Despite facing discrimination and barriers, they persevered and made significant contributions to the aviation industry.

Charles Parker.

Charles Parker was a former Black pilot who served in World War II. He was one of the Tuskegee Airmen, a group of African-American pilots who served in the United States Army Air Forces during World War II. Parker volunteered for flight training in the Tuskegee Institute's Civilian Pilot Training Program and was commissioned as a second lieutenant upon completion.

After the war, Parker went on to become a successful pilot and entrepreneur in the aviation industry. He founded Charles B. Parker Jr. & Associates, an aviation consulting firm, and was involved in the development of aviation technology.

In 1990, Parker was inducted into the National Aviation Hall of Fame, recognizing his contributions to the aviation industry. His legacy as a pilot and entrepreneur continues to inspire generations of Black pilots and aviation professionals.

Charles Parker’s quote, "The Tuskegee Airmen have paved the way for Black pilots, and we must continue to pave the way for them to enter the aviation industry."

LA Rap Began in Watts

A quick look at their image and appearance of their debut single "Hanging Dependent on their album" might leave you with the impression that Compton From The Bottom (OFTB) is just another California gangsta rap group.

Even if they were just another gangsta rap group, they're different because they're from Watts, not Compton. To group member Bustop, there's a huge distinction between Compton and Watts rap.

As a lot of gangsta rap, there's a lot of talk about selling drugs, women and killing and it's presented to be glamorous. Glamorous is not what Bustop and Flipside and Low M.B. had in mind when they decided to form OFTB. Don't get me wrong, they rap about drugs, women and killing, but their story is based on reality according to Bustop.

LA Rap dealin'

"I'm a survivor thing. You growing up poor. You always say that our fathers are not there, but when we was growing up our fathers was there. Either the government had some way of railroadin' our fathers to the pen. (pennitentiary) or had some type of manipulation where he was out there in the area tryin' to get somethin' to feed his family and he got caught up in the mix that way."

It's these types of hard times that led the Fellas to come up with the name OFTB.

Their album, "Straight Up Watts" is not an album filled with 'we hate Compton' songs. In fact, even though Bustop feels Watts never received its proper representation, OFTB's goal is to just tell the truth about life in Watts.

Bustop says, "It's a type of music that the people can relate to. The people can understand how it's going in Watts."

For information phone The Harris Co. 831-9469 or 831-8669.

"The not of rapin' from LA came from guys from Watts, that was the Watts Prophets - Anthony Hamilton, Oris, my man Richard D - they was rappers that popularity back then. A lot of things we don't today, they was already done it. They wasn't livin' it over the beat like we do now-a-days cause they didn't have that particular hip hop culture.""}

Recently, OFTB hooked up with the Watts Prophets and recorded a song called "Searchin'" which Bustop promises will be hyped.

As easy as it may sound, Bustop and Flipside got their start while locked up in separate states. Childhood friends, the two would send raps when they wrote to each other. One year after they got out, OFTB began.

Take drug dealin' for instance, Bustop says "It's a survival thing. You growing up poor.
