Students Tackle Fall Registration

by Linda Riddell

Everywhere the white teeth reflected off the bronzy-tanned faces of those students marching into the hallway to await registration after a long summer vacation. One notices those smiles diminishing as the trek to the end of the line becomes equal to a slow walk to Guam! In the new arrivals to CSCSB, freshman and transferring juniors alike, one might detect a somewhat caustic look. Perhaps paralyzed with anguish might even better describe their condition. It's that special look that sets the fall quarter of each year's registration aside from all the rest.

The returning students, however, have a more numbed look to their smile-turnec-scowl; they KNOW what's awaiting them when they arrive for their priority registration appointments. They glide slowly and deliberately to their places in never, never land.

However, some students are more conscientious than others. There are those who may end up 100 people down the line. Perhaps the general consensus is, "If my class is going to close, let it not close before I get in!" But, there are those who are much more laid back. They arrive at three-thirty for their three o'clock slot. These must be the ones who heard from some infinite source that their classes will not close so fear not.

The long lines are a bit scary looking but unless you are a real early bird, the wait is not that long and most of us spend a lot of time visiting.

There's a guy sitting in room 114 of the Student Services building who is probably newer to the room than most students doing what he finds most comfortable: Talking to students. As to the accusation of being impossible to track down, he replies: "I'm going to be out there (on campus)...you have to be where students are to know what's going on!"

Dean Wilson has been active in his new position as Dean of Students for three weeks, and is usually seen wandering around the campus doing what he finds most comfortable: Talking to students. As to the accusation of being impossible to track down, he replies: "I'm going to be out there (on campus)...you have to be where students are to know what's going on!"

Dean Wilson is a transplanted Californian as he is originally from the East Coast. He began working in 1966 as Director of Student Affairs, Housing, and Counseling at UCLA. He stayed in that position until 1972, when he transferred to UC Santa Cruz and began working in the student affairs department. He remained there eight years, the last of which he spent as Director of Campus-Wide Student Programs. Under his jurisdiction fell the Activities Office, Career Planning and Placement, Recreation and Sports, Disabled Student Services, the student newspaper, and the student supplied and run 1200 Watt, F.C.C. radio station.

Then in 1980, his wife, Linda Rogers, was appointed to the position of Assistant Director of Career Planning and Placement at the University of Ohio in Athens, Ohio. "It was her turn to move, so we moved," said Dean Wilson. "I spend my time teaching in the management department."

Dean Wilson interviewed in July, 1983 for the position of Student Dean and on September 1 he moved back to California and took over the job. At present he is trying to work out living arrangements for his wife and himself in anticipation of her arrival to the area. In the meantime, he is living in student housing and sharing student mealtime. As for living with students, he says, "I've enjoyed living in Morongo. It's helped me to get to know the types of students on campus."

By choice, Dean Wilson and his wife have no children because of their devotion to their careers. "We raise and show Siberian Huskies. To us they are just like having children."

As far as the fall quarter goes, Dean Wilson is trying to determine how he can fit into the institutional process. He expects to become involved in outreach for students, and recruiting new students for Cal State. He also plans to attend school functions such as dances and intramurals, and not just as a spectator.

In effect, Dean Wilson's attitude toward his job can be summed up in a statement he made recently, "If I didn't enjoy students, I wouldn't be in this line of work! I really want to encourage students to come in and see me. That's how I know if what we're doing is what we should be doing."

New Dean Takes Active Role

There's a guy sitting in room 114 of the Student Services building who is probably newer to the campus than the majority of the student body, but that won't keep him from doing his job.

Peter Wilson has been active in his new position as Dean of Students for three weeks, and is usually seen wandering around the campus doing what he finds most comfortable: Talking to students. As to the accusation of being impossible to track down, he replies: "I'm going to be out there (on campus)...you have to be where students are to know what's going on!"

Fee Increase At Cal State

Fee Increase
by Michelle Sylvia

While claiming to be an advocate for education, Governor Deukmejian has slashed California education budget in the belief that students should bear more of their own educational expenses.

Education cuts accounted for 67% of the total budget cuts. As a result, students can expect additional fees of $246 per year with total fees averaging $652 per year. While much attention has been focused on the budget cuts, the governor claims that the level of state spending will be approximately the same as in 1982-83.

Governor Deukmejian has cut the California State University (CSU) budget by $90 million, cutting the highest fee increases in the history. Senator David Roberti (Democrat) of Los Angeles believes that the Governor has decided that other priorities are more important than maintaining the state’s reasonably-priced, high-quality educational system. According to Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds, however, campuses will take all possible steps in implementing the increases to minimize the adverse effect the increases will have on low-income students.

On August 24, 1983 a measure that would guarantee access to the California State University system for low-income students was passed, but Governor Deukmejian, Director of Financial Aid at Cal State San Bernardino, has a much more optimistic view concerning options available to CSCSB students. Approximately 1300-1400 students at CSCSB will receive some form of financial aid for the 1983-1984 year. Higher fees, however, have meant that more students are qualifying for financial aid, including Pell Grants that are currently being processed by the financial aid office. Financial Aid Director Krug noted that there has been a 30-35% increase in applications which accounts for the delays in processing time.

The college has also received additional funding, for State University Grants, averaging approximately $400 for qualified students. Although the Associated Students donated $1,000 to the Associated Fund, these funds are being quickly depleted, so Financial Aid Director Krug urges students who may need Emergency funds to apply immediately.

California Loans to Assist Students (CLAS) is a new program being implemented at CSCSB this year. Designed for students to obtain an educational loan at 12% interest. If the student is a dependent, repayment of the loan begins immediately. If, however, the student is independent, he/she would be required to pay approximately twenty-five dollars per month, in the form of an interest payment, and the balance upon completion of his/her education.

Finance Aid Director Krug is especially excited about this new program commenting that he has received between ten and twenty applications so far.

Many students at CSCSB are under the misconception that there are no longer any available funds on campus, but Krug stresses that funds are still available. He also offers some advice for students who are filing for financial aid during the 1984-1985 year. Students should apply immediately after January 1, 1984, said Krug, because this is the time when the funds will be dispersed giving students the best financial aid package available. Students should also be accurate and follow up with any additional information requested.

Opinions, being voiced by the California State Student Association, have been heard in the Capitol. Mr. Van Ginkel, newly-elected Chair of the California State Student Association, feels that Governor Deukmejian is not willing to negotiate or compromise. Asstidents continue to win major victories in the Legislature, the Governor appears to be reneging on ground gained by the students by reversing legislative budget priorities.

Ginkel urges students to get involved with the Student Voice in Sacramento. He is urging students to do three things: Let your Governor and Legislators know how you feel about the Governor’s fee increase and how it will impact you and your family. Register to vote because only through direct student voter turnout will some lawmakers listen to the Student Voice. Finally, continue to work with your local student government leaders in your effort to reprioritize a low-cost, quality system of higher education in California.

Education cuts continue to be the basis for heated discussions in Sacramento. These cuts effect the students only through direct student action on the state and local level, will the Student Voice be heard and recognized.

MacPike Named Graduate Dean

by Pat Alexander

Having a degree in Russian and a graduate degree in English gave Dr. Loralee MacPike her start in Graduate Studies, here at Cal State San Bernardino. Dr. MacPike first arrived at CSUSB in the fall of 1978. In five years Dr. MacPike has moved from Associate Professor of English to her new position, Dean of Graduate Studies. Marketing Club Begins Year

by Mitch Slagerman and Greg Timpany

The Cal State Marketing Association is an organization for students who want to get more out of their college experience than a lecture and a mid-term exam. The objective of the club is simple: To promote student activity in an educational and social atmosphere.

The purpose of the CSMA is to utilize the principles of marketing to provide students with additional education, real job experience, and aid in career planning. In addition, this organization allows its members to meet with one another to exchange ideas and participate in events and activities which are fun and interesting to all students.

The CSMA has many things to offer its members including: Business seminars (with professionals leading informal discussion); Marketing Research and Advertising projects; A chance to relax at club parties; Field trips to businesses; and membership in a highly active and professional organization that is doing things beneficial to students on campus.

The CSMA is one of the more successful clubs on campus because it dares to thrive on being increasingly more active and attempting things which are out of the norm for the CSUSB campus. It is the goal of the CSMA to become the leader of student clubs in creating a new, higher level of awareness and activity so as to create a greater student experience.

CSMA’s first meeting of the quarter will take place on Sept. 29 at noon in the Senate Chambers of the Student Union. This year we will be inviting faculty members to speak on topics of business-related interest, then the floor will be opened for discussion between the speaker and the audience. At this time, scheduled speakers are Drs. Manyak, Sirotnik, Masters, and Moss.

A change of pace for the CSMA this quarter is the inclusion of two night meetings which will begin at 5:15 and run until 5:50. Sufficient participation at these meetings will make them regular features of the association.

Scheduled this quarter is a series of fieldtrips and outside speakers. Our first speaker will be from Fleetwood Enterprises, Inc. Fleetwood is the only Fortune 500 company in the Inland Empire. Our next speaker is Willie Shook, whose topic will be "Selling in the Real World."

Uncle Elmo's Hotdog Stand will be making a return engagement this year. This year Uncle Elmo plans to expand the menu, but has not told anyone which of his down-home Cajun specialties will be added.

On the social side CSMA is planning several parties, beginning with a bash on the first of October. They plan on making the party the biggest the school has ever seen.

Rod, Trish, and Steve Head New Year

by Jill Miller

Are you looking for a way to start the new year off with lots of enthusiasm? Are you wanting to get involved in activities on campus? The newly elected Associated Students officers are ready to kick-off the new year with fresh ideas and a lot of energy!!

This year, the new A.S. President is Rod Hendry. At 23 years old, Rod is looking for a way to serve the Student Body and make a positive impact on campus. Rod believes in team work, not only among students, but also with the faculty and administrators. Much of this team work will come by working with newly elected A.S. officers Steve Winker, Vice-President, and Trish Grimes, Treasurer. Rod also sees the need for team work to keep the students informed and involved in the activities and programs on campus. One of Rod's specific goals is to work to strengthen the structure of the A.S. Organization, so it will function with even better efficiency. Recently, Rod was appointed the Chairman of Academic Affairs for the California State Student Association which acts as the student voice at the state level in Sacramento as well as the Chancellor's Office.

Steve Winker is the new A.S. Vice-President this year. He is a 22 year old Political Science major who ran for this office because of his involvement and interest in the A.S. Organization. Steve would also like to accomplish a sense of team work and a better communication throughout the campus this year. Since everything the A.S. organization does affects the students, Steve would like to encourage a lot of feedback on how the A.S. officers can better serve the student body and enhance student life.

The Office of Treasurer is filled this year by Trish Grimes. Trish in an accounting major in her senior year here at Cal State. Since her freshmen year here, Trish had planned to run for the A.S. Treasurer in her senior year. Because of her interest in student government in addition to accounting, Trish thinks it will be good experience to work as the A.S. Treasurer. One of the goals Trish has this year is to unify the A.S. Office and work as a team. Trish would like to alleviate student apathy and help the students feel good about the school. A definite believer that Cal State San Bernardino is a great place to be, Trish seeks to encourage student involvement and to have some fun doing so.

Clubs Recruit Members

by Lisa Beard

The abrupt weather change on the second day of registration nearly thwarted the attempts of club members to inform their fellow students concerning the many clubs on campus. However, despite the untimely wind and rain, the brightly colored tents and signs attracted the attention of those leaving the registration floor.

For the students who lingered, the clubs offered many opportunities: One could become aware of club related activities, A.S. opportunities, apply for a credit card, and perhaps win a free dinner. Naturally the organizations were recruiting new members and volunteers, but the event had a sort of fair atmosphere about it, so that no one appeared to feel pressured or harassed.

The off-campus Mental Health Association was represented hoping to enlist quality volunteers. They were pleased with the result of their effort, but expressed a desire for still more help. The Business Management Club also expressed satisfaction with the results of the two-day efforts. They felt good contact was made with the student body.

Yes, the sudden wind toppled some of the tents, and the rain dampened some spirits, but Eric Hazas, the ROTC representative, did not feel the weather was a major problem. Hazas proudly stated, "nothing can set back the United States Army!"

Many other clubs might not have articulated this attitude, but it was evident by the number of displays still standing at the end of the second day that Cal State Organizations might not be the U.S. Army, but it takes a lot to set them back too.

Robert Cassinelli, Rita Clark, and Mitch Slagerman discuss their recruitment success at registration.

Dr. MacPike will miss teaching this year because he will not have the direct contact with students; she will, however, still advise graduate students and English majors. Dr. MacPike will begin teaching again next fall. Her courses will include children's literature, graduate classes in English, and freshman composition.

Dr. MacPike describes CSCSB as "wonderful! It's a good place for students and education. The campus is not crowded, and because it is so roomy, this helps people's minds."

When asked about her philosophy on education, Dr. MacPike replied, "I think teaching consists of giving students the tools to learn what they need to know, and how to be responsible for their own education." She also added, "students need to be thinking about graduate work early. The world is becoming more specialized and they need to know more and deeper about their subject or discipline. It's never too early to think beyond the baccalaurate; she urges students to find out about graduate programs."

If you would like more information on graduate programs, call 887-7755 or go to room 182 in the administration building.

Deutchman Gives Face Lift To Student Union

by Carol Leish

Sherri Deutchman, who has previously been Assistant Director of Housing in Serrano Village for the past two years, has begun her new position as coordinator of the Student Union and campus activities advisor.

Sherri received her B.A. in psychology from Cal State, Bakersfield and an M.A. in higher education from Oregon State University. During her stay at Cal State, Bakersfield, she was a R.A. her junior year and an educational program coordinator her senior year. While at Oregon State, she fulfilled a two-year graduate assistantship as head resident in one of the dormitories. She also worked in the student services areas of career planning and placement and student activities advisor.

Since July 1st, 1981, she has previously been Assistant Director of Housing in Serrano Village. Her main duties included advising student staff and planning social and educational programs. She was very influential in starting several new social events at Serrano Village. She started the well-acclaimed Village Living-Learning series this past year.

Sherri says that the Student Union offers many events for students. A student group resource center will be implemented for student clubs to make signs, run off dittos, and to make posters to benefit their clubs. The Living-Learning Series will continue with seminars on various topics, such as hypnotism and international cooking. Weekly Videos will be shown every Friday. Rockworld videos will also be available daily in the Student Union.

The Student Union will also serve as a living room, according to Sherri. With many activities and events planned, she is very enthusiastic and optimistic about this year. She says, according to her philosophy that the Student Union belongs to the students. Since part of students’ fees goes to maintain the Union, students should take advantage of services that are provided.

Get Acquainted at the Student Union

The Student Union staff and Associated Students extend a warm welcome to all new and returning members of CSCSB. The staff is excited and eager to begin the new year. The first week of events has been a tremendous success with the BACK TO SCHOOL FEST, A.S. DANCE & HYPNOTIST SHOW.

The Student Union Coordinator and Associated Students are planning several major programs during the quarter to appeal to the diverse interests of the campus community. They consist of the ESCAPE program (CSCSB’s leisure time activities program), the LIVING LEARNING SERIES (mini-workshops which address current issues and needs), FALL VIDEO FESTIVAL (weekly videos shown Friday evenings), daily concert videos by ROCKWORLD, FAMILY PERFORMANCE SERIES, and more.

More events are in the planning stages: such as a weekly band at noon, an evening coffee house, theme dances and faculty and student nights in the Student Union.

This year the Student Union would like to be the center of student activity. The union facility provides a resting place, comfortable seating for reading and studying, and a place to socialize and meet new people. Remember, your student fees pay for the facility, so make yourselves at home and get involved.

College life is not complete without the events and activities outside the classroom. So jump in and get involved. The campus is small which gives each student the opportunity to take an active part in campus life.

A suggestion box will be at the main desk for constructive criticism, compliments, and interest in becoming involved. The Student Union staff and A.S. are interested in your comments so they can better serve you. Have a successful and enjoyable quarter.

"go-to-school" or "do-I-really-want-more-than-one-class" line, the cashier, the one that gives you the feeling that you are passing the point of no return. And of course, the parking decal line. It's a whiz as long as you remember to tell the officer there that this isn't your first quarter. Then you don't have to listen to that safety and parking procedure lecture.

Euphoria comes when you finally make it to the exit and see sky again. Bags of goodies go-to-school" or "do-I-really-want-more-than-one-class" line, the cashier, the one that gives you the feeling that you are passing the point of no return. And of course, the parking decal line. It's a whiz as long as you remember to tell the officer there that this isn't your first quarter. Then you don't have to listen to that safety and parking procedure lecture.

Euphoria comes when you finally make it to the exit and see sky again. Bags of goodies handed out full of things only they knew you need! And whappo, you feel like you're at the carnival. All those tents! Clubs, win a computer, buy a ticket, and donate money to help lobbyists lower tuition when you just came from paying the increased fees and now you are broke! There are lots of friendly faces under those tents. It is always nice to see a friendly face after the hot and anxious day one has just spent.

Because of the puzzled looks on some faces it seemed appropriate to talk to a few students who were either standing in their line waiting to enter, or those deharking the masses, for feedback to ask what they think might make the procedure a little easier.

The largest complaint for fall registration was the long lines. Of course, however, no one could admit they stood for "that long!" One student from UCLA suggest "by mail" would be faster and less hectic. A junior from Chaffey says although he was "yelled at" in the Business Administration line, she felt the process was efficient and did move fairly fast except at the cashier. A senior who also felt the validation line was a little slow. Many complained that the seniors did not have enough priority outside the 30 unit grad check priority they now receive. Thus, it was suggested by a senior that perhaps the freshman and sophomores should be forced to take all lower division courses and not permitted to delve into the upper division courses and upper division courses. This would make them more available to the seniors. This same senior also suggested extending registration to four or five days break. The large crowds of students would be broken into smaller groups, hence less commotion. She also thinks, despite the criticism, Cal State San Bernardino's procedure is better than Valley Community College and Riverside Community College.

But, the most general opinion, from all those interviewed, suggests CSCSB to go computer. Those who have experienced the computer registration said that it only took perhaps ten minutes to complete the entire process. It was admitted also that the colleges with computer registration are those with approximately 40,000 students! Also, when the computer broke down it resulted in long lines and anxious waiting.

Craig Sees New Position As Challenge

by Jill Miller

Each new academic year brings many changes. This year has brought a change for Dr. Craig Henderson, Housing Director for Serrano Village. Henderson has been moving to the Student Services Building to assist the Dean of Students as a Student Affairs Officer. This move gives him the opportunity to use his abilities and talents to continue to serve the college and work with the students.

As a Student Affairs Officer, part of Dr. Henderson's duties will include policy review and revisions, preparation of an accreditation report, and planning budget analysis. Dr. Henderson feels this will be a great experience to broaden his career. He will also be teaching a Psychology class and a Human Sexuality class. Although he thoroughly enjoys working in the Housing Office, Dr. Henderson thinks of his new position as a challenge and is looking forward to working on new programs.

Before coming to Cal State San Bernardino as Director of on-campus housing, Dr. Henderson was the Director of Student Activities at Rutgers University from 1970-73. His academic background consists of a B.A. degree from Rutgers University and a Masters degree in Student Personnel Administration from Columbia. Then, in 1976, he completed his Ph.D. in higher education administration at the University of Denver in January of 1977. Dr. Henderson became the Director of Housing here at CSCSB. Cal State San Bernardino will soon be conducting a nationwide search for a new Housing Director. In the meantime, the Associate Dean of Students, Mr. Doyle Stansel, will assume the duties as Housing Director. Similarly, a nationwide search has begun for an Assistant Director of Housing. Currently acting as Housing Director is Chris Bruckner, a graduate of Cal State and a former Resident Assistant in the Village.

The Housing Office expects to continue its services and activities for the students in housing despite the changes in the staff. They are all looking forward to an exciting and excellent year in Serrano Village!

Work on Hostage Begins

"The Hostage"
There's no place on earth like the world, there's no place wherever you are, there's no place on earth like the world. That's straight up and take it from me.

Never throw stones at your mother.
You'll be sorry for it when she's dead.
Never throw stones at your mother.
Throw bricks at your father instead.
The South and the north poles are parted.
Perhaps it is all for the best.
Till the H-bomb will bring them together.
And there will let matters rest.

Anyone not knowing the creation date or time period of this poem could easily mistake its circumstances to many places in our very modern world. Its message would certainly apply quite easily. 'The Hostage' however was first presented by the Theatre Workshop on October 14, 1958. The author, Brandon Bean, tries to relate the 800 year old conflict between the British and the Irish to the viewer from a humanistic standpoint. He demonstrates, through drama, how the "human perspective" is all too often shadowed by the overwhelming figure of nationalism which usually becomes the center of heart during the time of war. It fathers our desire to fight, conquer the enemy, and forsake father, mother, brother, and the others, or son and the others? This is Brandon's question.

Although he is an Irishman, he doesn't present a protection anti-British statement. He simply presents the common people represented by a cast of characters.

Distance

Irvine Meadows is located about 65 miles southwest of San Bernardino at Lion Country Safari, near the I-5 and I-405 junction. There is room for about 12,000 fans, nearly half of which are reserved seats; the rest are general admission seats on a sloped grassy area near the top of the bowl.

Irvine Meadows features immaculately groomed landscaping, and 2 wide variety of food services including beer and wine. The permanent sound system and large stage make this facility one of the finest in the state. Just a few miles north of the Orange County Fairgrounds in Costa Mesa is the newest and largest facility of its kind in California, the Pacific Amphitheatre. The seating arrangement is similar to Irvine Meadows, with a general admission grass area surrounding reserved stadium seats. The Pacific seats around 18,000 fans and has scheduled Air Supply on Sept. 30. Men at Work on Oct. 1, Linda Ronstadt on Oct. 7, Santana on Oct. 8, and Jose Luis Rodriguez on Oct. 9.

The oldest of the three outdoor arenas in the area which feature pop/rock acts is the Greek Theatre at the Vermont Ave. entrance to Griffith Park in Los Angeles. The historic tree-lined amphitheatre has been expanded this year, and offers a peaceful, soothing atmosphere in the midst of the hustle and bustle of Los Angeles.

Appearing at the Greek will be Linda Ronstadt on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, Jose-Luis Rodriguez Oct. 6-8, Sparks on Oct. 11, Kool and the Gang on Oct. 21 and 22, and The Temptations and the Four Tops on Oct. 28 and 29.

One of the major drawbacks of living in the San Bernardino-Riverside area is the lack of concert facility suitable of drawing top name pop acts on a regular basis. Since the demise of the Swing Auditorium a couple of years ago, locals have had to put up with the cramped confines of the Orange Pavilion.

Raincross Square in Riverside offers outstanding performers on occasion such as X and the Blasters, but for one of the fastest growing areas in the United States, the Inland Empire definitely lacks a facility for the exclusive purpose of pop and rock music.

The irony of all of this is that if you don't mind driving a little there are several premier concert halls and amphitheatres within ninety minutes of the San Bernardino area, which feature state of the art sound and lighting technology, and top name performers.

The season is drawing to a close at the three major outdoor arenas in the Los Angeles area. Irvine Meadows Amphitheatre will host Diana Ross on Sept. 30, The Motels on Oct. 15, The Little River Band on October 16, and Michael McDonald on Oct. 21.

Intramurals Informally Introduced at Mid-Nitter

by Jack Barnes

Last Friday was the 2nd annual "Back to School Mid-Nitter" sponsored by Coors Beer and the Associated Students. The "Mid-Nitter" is an informal introduction to intramural activities coming to CSCSB in the future. Activities include square dancing and apple biting.

The entertainment was paid for by A.S. and included an open pool for swimming with lifeguard Mary Looney on duty to keep things safe. A guitar soloist, Kirby Garrett, a senior chemistry major who entertained at the beginning and end of the "Mid-Nitter."

One of the first events was an old time "Apple biting" contest. Contestants took an apple and tied a string to it, tied their hands behind their back and without any help tried to take a bite out of the apple. Chris Phelps seemed to get the knack of it and won the contest in a few seconds.

After the apple bite contest there was the door prize drawings. The prizes were several Coors hats, Coors signs, a giant Coors beer mug, ashtrays, and a Coors wall mirror.

Next came an old fashioned "suitcase" relay that got a little extra help from some of the "Mid-Nitter" staff when ever someone got too far ahead.

After the "suitcase" relay everyone moved into the gym where Gail Novotny introduced us to "Play Fair" an audience participation got together in groups and learned what it would be like to walk on the moon. Then everyone got into supportive groups to help out one another. Then everyone broke up into groups and played "Tiger-Pistol-Person" and tried to match up with someone else. Moving right along everyone took a trip to Europe and drove a Ferrari or a Mercedes. With enthusiasm running high everyone learned to dance back-to-back in pairs and trios.

After "Play Fair" ended everyone moved outside where Doyle Bell was all set up to teach square dance. At first the dancers looked like the L.A. freeway at rush hour. Later, with only a few minor accidents, everyone started to look like seasoned square dancers.

Enthusiastically enjoying themselves at a Mid-Nitter event are Sarah Andon and Richard Wall

Intramurals: For a Good Time

Tina Tindal

Intramurals at CSCSB can be fun, rewarding, and give you ways to meet new people. Various activities are offered throughout the year, ranging from basketball to volleyball, golf to softball.

In order to participate in intramurals, students must provide their own health insurance, either through the Student Health Center or their own insurance company. This does not mean intramurals are hazardous to your health. As Joe Long, Director of Intramurals says "during flag football, some people get banged up and then start associating all intramurals with injury."

Flag Football

Flag football season officially begins on Friday, October 7, but several teams are already practicing. If "Jerry's Kids" fail to return for their defense of the 1981 and 1982 titles, the men's division looks wide open.

Co-Ed Flag Football

The coed league returns this season with the defending champs, the "Mojave Z Squad" in full force. For those unfamiliar to coed flag football, a few rules need to be explained. Male players are not allowed to run with the ball and cannot catch forward passes behind the line of scrimmage. This allows female players to be more active in their team's effort.

Women's Flag Football

New this year to flag football will be an all-female league, consisting of at least four teams of six players each. This has been tried in the past with very little success as many women felt the men received the prime playing times. This year the women's league is scheduled for Fridays. Entry deadline for all football is 12 p.m. on October 6.

New Finish on Gym Floor

In order to protect the newly finished gym floor, all participants are advised to carry their gym shoes over to the building or keep them in a locker. Shoes which are worn into the building will not be permitted on the floor.

Sports Shorts

Soccer Club--Anyone interested in playing on the CSCSB soccer club should contact Joe Long, PE 124.

Weekend P.E. hours--Gym and locker rooms will be open Saturday and Sunday 1-5 p.m. through Dec. 4. The gym pool will be open Saturday and Sunday 1-5 p.m. through October 30 for students, faculty and staff with valid I.D.

Hole in One Contest--Winners of the Hole in One Contest from September 19 and 20 were Wayne Dunham, Robert Kuch, Michael Lucas, and Victor Uribe (all scored 3). Casey Chandler, Nancy Fraize, Barbara Goldstein, Davis Hill, Roy Holstrom, John Ireland, Jackie Lee, Manta Roberts, Dave Slator, Lynn Stremelau, and Greg Timpany all won the drawing.

Mascot: Coyote or Saint Bernard

by Carol Leish

For the last several years, popular student opinion has favored the coyote as the school symbol as opposed to the St. Bernard. Most feel the coyote, with its display of vigor, is the more appropriate symbol for the college. Must we then keep the present mascot, which is the St. Bernard, which according to tradition, was one of the original Dean's St. Bernard who walked around campus and left its prints in the wet cement?

According to Robert Cassinelli, a Cal State student, the coyote represents "independence." He also commented that the coyote belongs to this geographic location. "In order to start intercollegiate sports," he added, "the symbol of the coyote should represent the school instead of the St. Bernard.

The new Dean of Students, Dr. Wilson, recommends a study of the issue before the changing of the mascot. Dr. Wilson feels that according to President Evans and himself this issue should be the choice of the students, since the students are those who identify with the mascot. Students will have the opportunity to voice their opinion on which they favor for school mascot and whether they want a $10 fee increase in order to have intercollegiate sports.

According to the procedure by Dr. Pfa, the selection of a new campus symbol can only occur at minimum 10 years intervals. Now is the time for a new image! The President has the opportunity to establish an Ad Hoc Committee of 7 members. The committee, through opinion polls, will become aware of the general consensus of the campus. It is important to follow and realize the importance of tradition in choosing symbols. Any sensitivity that a particular club may have is also taken into consideration.
