RIVERSIDE DEPUTY POLICE CHIEF DAVID DOMINGUEZ - DEDICATED PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR

Law Enforcement and public safety is strong tradition in the Dominguez family. There was never a question as to the choice of careers for David Dominguez after graduation from Santa Paul High School, Santa Fe Springs and subsequently earning an Associated of Arts degree from Rio Hondo Community College in 1977.

"My father and two uncles were members of the Los Angeles Police Department for over 25 years and were influential in choosing law enforcement and other public safety careers for myself and two of my brothers, who are Los Angeles Firefighters, Dominguez said. "I followed in my fathers footsteps and have enjoyed being in law enforcement for the past 24 years."

Dominguez became a deputy sheriff with the San Bernardino Sheriff's Department in 1979. During a 15-year career, he worked in corrections, patrol, investigations and training. Rising to the rank of sergeant, he supervised the gang unit, detective bureau and community policing team.

THE VIRGEN DE GUADALUPE AND OUR WORLD TODAY
By Father Patricio Guillen

Then she spoke to Juan Diego and let him know her precious will. She told him; be aware and whole, heartedly assured, my son, the most abandoned one, that I am the Ever Virgin, Holy Mary Mother of God of Great Truth. Teod of him by whom we live, the Creator of persons, the owner of what we are and also, the lord of heaven and earth.

I very much want and strongly desire that in this place where my peoples blood they erect my temple. There I shall reveal and give to my people all my love, my compassion, my help and my defense.

These were the thoughts and the profound sentiments that ran through Juan Diego's conscience as he decided to go see Bishop Juan Zumarraga whom the Pope made the first Mexican Bishop and convince him and hold him responsible for coming to the rescue of his people who had become brutally and savagely attached, killed by the Spanish soldiers under Hernan Cortez, decimated by their government, their cultural heritage and their entire way of life. Juan Diego's constant valiant effort to convince Bishop Zumarraga that he was the only person that could save his people—whom Juan Diego considered The Sacred Temple that needed love, compassion, help and protection.

The more one reads the Guadalupana Narrative and strip it of the romantic folklore and the sugarish coat, the more one can appreciate and comprehend that the heart of the message is a powerful plea for help.

Let us suppose that a woman citizen of Iraq would decide to go to the Vatican and after repeated attempts was finally able to have an audience with Pope John Paul II and poured her heart out to him, letting him know that as the greatest and most powerful spiritual leader in the world she was holding him responsible for saving her people, who had not only

LULAC LEADERS MEET WITH PRESIDENT FOX
Immigration, Education Issues Top the Agenda

MEXICO CITY — LULAC National President Hector Flores, Education Commission Chair Rene Martinez and Latin American Advisor Luis de la Garza met with Mexican President Vicente Fox in Mexico City to discuss immigration and education issues affecting the United States and Mexico. LULAC urged President Fox to continue pressing for earned adjustment for immigrants currently working in the United States, legal channels for the future flow of immigrant workers, and a reduction in the vast backlogs in family-sponsored immigration.

Comprehensive immigration reform is a top priority for Mexico, the United States, and the immigrants themselves,” stated Flores. “We need to move the agenda forward and enact much needed immigration reforms that will benefit all of us.”

In addition, the LULAC delegation urged President Fox to strengthen the “matricula program to document Mexican nationals residing in the United States and to support the DREAM Act which would provide undocumented high school students in the United States with the chance to adjust their status and go on to college. Although troubled by some of its components, Flores expressed LULAC’s support of S 1645, the bipartisan Agricultural JOBS Bill which would legalize and stabilize the migrant agricultural workforce in the United States. “LULAC will never support the return of Bracero type programs,” stated Flores. “However, the Agricultural JOBS Bill has enough worker protections in place and the ability for participants to become permanent legal residents to earn our support.”

LULAC officials also discussed the need for Mexico and the United States to collaborate on improving educational opportunities for Hispanics on both sides of the border. “We can not effectively address the educational needs of the Mexican American population of the United States, without simultaneously addressing educational needs in Mexico,” stated Flores. “Whether we recognize it or not, the educational systems of the United States and Mexico have become linked and we need to take a holistic approach at addressing the problems of both systems.”

The League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) is the oldest and largest Latino civil rights organization in the United States. LULAC advances the economic condition, educational attainment, political influence, health, and civil rights of Hispanic Americans through community-based programs operating at more than 700 LULAC councils nationwide.

One hundred twenty Hispanic eighth- and ninth-grade students from San Bernardino, Riverside and Los Angeles counties participated in this year’s Inland Empire Future Leaders Program (IEFLP), held at the Desert Sun Science Center in Idyllwild, on August 9-15.

The program’s goals are to encourage the students to stay in school, strive for academic excellence, get involved in school, church and community and eventually earn a college degree, says Dr. Tom M. Rivera, associate dean of Undergraduate Studies at Cal State, and chair of IEFLP.

Participating youngsters attended a six-day summer camp where leadership and communication skills were emphasized in combination with cultural workshops.

The program first started in 1985, and, to date, over 2,300 students have participated in the program. Four-year follow-up surveys have shown that 99 percent of students attending the program graduate from high school and 90 percent attend college. This high rate of success accounts for the popularity of the program among students, parents, educators, and community supporters.

Several representatives from area school districts and community service organizations joined with 46 former Future Leaders who volunteered their services in conducting the program. Each school group was the Kiwanis Club of Greater San Bernardino whose members used their professional expertise to encourage the students to participate in community service projects.

Funding for the program is provided by several companies, community groups, and individuals including: California State University, San Bernardino; The United States Department of Agriculture, Kiwanis Club of Greater San Bernardino, Congressman Joe Baca; Mr. Bob Fredericks, Frito Lay, Inc.; John Regalado Memorial Fund, Laidlaw Inc.; Ms. Raven Lopez-Workman, The Pepsi Bottling Group; Mr. David Roa Pruitt; Dr. Reyes Quezada; and Southern California Edison.

The Virgin De Guadalupe and Our World Today

By Father Patricio Guillen

People who ignore history are bound to repeat the mistakes previously made. The People of a Democratic government have the serious and important role of listening to the call of Juan Diegos. After all, if we are democratic nations, we have an obligation to listen to the voices of the Juan Diegos in non-democratic nations.

A genuine global peace based on justice will be achieved only, if people are allowed to express themselves in a forum which will lend to a healthy dialogue that will allow a healthy consensus to be reached. Our national democratic governments listen more to the vested interests of transnational corporations than to their civil societies. Ultimately, the religious leaders of the world need to raise their prophetic voice and denounced this kind of barbaric behavior.

When Abraham Lincoln said “and this government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from the earth,” he was echoing Juan Diego’s plea. It is the Juan Diegos of today from all the world that should utter as his Goodness will.

“Very much want and strongly desire that in this very place where the blood of my people was poured out that they erect my Temple. In it will reveal my love, my compassion, my help and my protection.”

During his tenure in the Sheriff’s Department, Dominguez received a B.A. degree in social justice in 1986 and a Master’s degree in public administration in 1989, from California State University Fullerton.

In 1994, Dominguez made a career decision and was appointed as Police Lieutenant in the Riverside Police Department. This was the first time an outside lateral appointment was made at the rank of Lieutenant.

His first assignment was an Area Commander in Casa Blanca and the surrounding area to continue the implementation of Community Policing. At that time, community-based policing involved participation with residents, businesses and developing relationships with the community.

This was a complex phase in Dominguez’s career. He said, in terms of becoming acquainted with a new department, personnel and familiarizing with the city’s culture and environment. “I had to learn policies, procedures and the direction the Police Department was taking. More important, I had to demonstrate knowledge, apply previous police experience to administer my responsibilities and simultaneously earn the respect of the community and the organization.”

In the succeeding seven years, Dominguez held an array of administrative positions: Bureau Commander for personnel and training area commander, executive officer for field operations and bureau commander for investigations.

“This additional experience gave me the opportunity to expand my experience and knowledge in police administration and become an arm of the city’s changing needs” Dominguez said.

The Riverside Police Department, in the latter part of the last decade, went through a difficult phase as a result of a police incident where officers shot a young female. The shooting resulted in public outcry and some citizen groups accusations of police misconduct and subsequent investigations of the Police Department.

The aftermath of the investigations resulted in a change of administrative leadership in the department and a Stipulated Judgement between the City of Riverside and the California State Attorney General. “This gave the City of Riverside and the Police Department an opportunity to make significant positive changes and enhancements in all phases of operational procedures,” Dominguez said. “Clearly, the department is in better shape today as a result of the Stipulated Agreement.”

In 2002, Dominguez was promoted to the rank of police captain assigned to patrol operations. In addition, Dominguez was responsible for ensuring implementation of several mandates in Field Operations as outlined in the Stipulated Agreement.

Dominguez was later reassigned to General Investigations and Special Investigations responsible for managing all detectives in the department.

The highlight of Dominguez’s law enforcement career came in 2007 when Russ Leach, the Chief of Police, appointed him to Deputy Chief. Dominguez is currently the administrative Deputy Chief, responsible for Internal Affairs, Personnel and Training, Budget Office, Records and administrative oversight of the Office of the Chief of Police.

Dominguez is a past President of the California Peace Officers’ Association, a graduate of the John F. Kennedy Center at Harvard University in Executive Development and the Franklin Covey Institute. Dominguez holds a lifetime California Community College Teaching credential.

Dominguez credits his immediate family, his parents and extended family for their guidance and instilling attributes of hard work, high ethics, college education and family unity for success. Dominguez was raised in a family of eight children, all who have received college educations and are working professionals. He is also very appreciative of the support of his proud family, wife Rosella, children Christina, Jessica and Dominic. “Being part of a tight knit expanded family, there were many times when I missed family reunions, holidays and birthdays due to police work, but this was the career I chose I paid my dues.”

The Riverside Police Department has made significant changes in organizational culture, accountability to the public, and implementing the many changes required by the Stipulated Agreement, which has made the city a safer place to live. Riverside is a premier city, progressing toward greater achievements and I am proud to be a member of an outstanding police department.”

She passed away in August, 1996. Throughout the years, politicians, government officials, and persons from throughout the region came to the restaurant, becoming one of the most popular eateries in the Riverside area. The restaurant has had a solid array of faithful customers that patronized the restaurant on a daily basis.

Mr. Medina was always the gracious host and greeted every customer by name. He was known for his sincerity, respect, and compassion to many in the community. He passed away in November, 2002. The Medina family was known for their contributions to many families and organizations in the Eastside.

The Zacatecas Restaurant is the center of community activities, receptions, lunches and dinners for many organizations in the City of Riverside.

NUÑEZ STATEMENT ON ASSEMBLY SPEAKERSHIP

Sacramento – Assemblymember Fabian Núñez, D-Los Angeles, thanked the Assembly Democratic Caucus for giving him the necessary support to become the next Assembly Speaker.

Both Assemblymembers Jenny Oropeza and Dario Frommer – two other candidates for Speaker – met with Assemblymember Núñez and pledged their support. With this action it is expected that official confirmation of Núñez’ speakership will be acted upon very shortly.

“I am humbled and honored that my Caucus has placed their trust in me,” said Núñez. “The State is facing difficult times. It is critical that we turn our full attention to working with the Governor to resolve the budget and other issues facing the State. Our caucus is unified in its resolve to restore the people’s faith in state government.”

Núñez, 36, currently serves as Majority Whip for the Assembly’s Democrats. He will be the 66th Speaker of the Assembly.

One of 12 children, he is the son of an immigrant family of day laborers who rose out of poverty and earned a bachelor’s degree from Pitzer College in Pomona.

“I recognize that the voters of California are watching us closely,” says Núñez. “I want to be the Speaker who continues to make those dreams come true for every Californian and recognizes that for us to solve the big problems we face, we have to put the needs of people ahead of ideological and partisan concerns.”

Before being elected to the Assembly in 2002, Núñez worked or two years with Los Angeles Unified School District and before that was the political director for the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor.

“I look forward to working with Speaker Wesson so that the transition will be seamless. I appreciate the constant support and guidance he gave me during this campaign,” Núñez added.

SBA DISASTER ASSISTANCE TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WILDFIRE VICTIMS TOPS $50 MILLION

SACRAMENTO, CA—U.S. Small Business Administrator Hector V. Barreto said today that SBA has approved $53,488,100 in low-interest disaster loans to homeowners, renters, and businesses whose property was damaged by the Southern California wildfires.

"I am pleased to announce that the SBA has been able to help 433 Californians as they work to rebuild their homes and businesses and communities in the devastating aftermath of these terrible fires," Barreto said. "By making more than $50 million in disaster loans, SBA is putting people back in their homes and back to work. We are helping to rebuild together—not just structures, but communities. There is still a long road ahead but today marks a significant milestone, and there can be no doubt we are making real progress.”

"SBA’s disaster loans are a critical source of economic stimulation in disaster-ravaged communities, helping spur employment and stabilizing tax bases," Barreto said. "SBA helps homeowners and renters, businesses of all sizes and nonprofit organizations fund repairs or rebuilding efforts, and cover the cost of replacing lost or disaster damaged personal property. These disaster loans cover uninsured or uncompensated losses and do not duplicate benefits of other agencies or organizations."

Small businesses only also may apply for Economic Injury Disaster Loans of up to $1.5 million if they have been financially impacted by the disaster. Even without any property damages, small businesses may need these working capital loans to help pay their fixed debts, payroll, accounts payable and other bills that can’t be paid because of the disaster’s impact.

Barreto encouraged all individuals and business owners who suffered damage as a result of the fires to register with Federal and state disaster assistance programs by calling the Federal Emergency Management Agency’s toll-free registration number at (800) 621-3362.

For more information on SBA’s disaster assistance programs, individuals and business owners may call toll-free (800) 488-5323. Hearing impaired individuals may call (916) 566-7388.

COLLEGE APPLICATION DEADLINES DON'T HAVE TO BE STRESSFUL

As if juggling academics, extracurricular activities, after-school jobs, and family commitments weren't enough, high school seniors face the additional stress of getting their college applications in on time. For many students, the prospect of writing essays, getting recommendations, and filling out forms before January deadlines is overwhelming.

Even applying early decision to just one school can be stressful. Early decision plans require students to commit to attend the school if accepted—so students must be very sure before they apply.

But students might be surprised to know that 3,060 colleges—or 85 percent of all colleges in the U.S.—use an admissions policy that allows them to apply at their own pace. These colleges use "rolling" admissions, whereby students' applications are reviewed as they come in. According to the College Board, most public universities, many private liberal arts colleges, and almost all community colleges use rolling admissions.

Renee Gernand, senior director of College Planning Services at the College Board, said: "Applying to schools with rolling admissions is one way to relieve some of the stress of the college application process. "Students typically hear back from schools four to six weeks after they apply. In some cases, students can apply to a school in the fall and receive a decision by December—without the binding obligation that comes with early decision policies."

This flexibility can be crucial for busy students, or for those who need more time to narrow down their list of favorite schools.

Ms. Gernand said: "Most schools with rolling admissions also accept applications into the spring, which can help students who need a little more time to make their decisions."

More information on colleges and their application requirements and deadlines can be found in the College Board College Handbook 2004.

The Handbook, which describes every four-and two-year college in the U.S., helps students understand their options as they plan for college.

It includes information on early decision policies at hundreds of schools, as well as an index of schools that accept applications year round.

The Handbook can be found in bookstores everywhere, or purchased online at www.collegeboard.com.

The riveting story centers around Ana Rosa, who is raped, impregnated, and jilted by her high school sweetheart. She does not abort the child because of her convictions, so the birth is concealed to save the family honor. She begrudgingly gives up her illegitimate son to her childless aunt and uncle to raise as their own, but continues to lavish her love on him while receiving only the kindest of affections which the unsuspecting boy can give a woman whom he simply knows as his cousin. Ana Rosa, nonetheless, vows to always provide for and regard regardless of the sacrifice. Her vow becomes a cross to bear when her aunt and uncle are disabled by ill health, and she struggles against seemingly insurmountable odds to fulfill her pledge. Ironically, her son grows up to become the attorney who falsely convicts a man of murder whom only she, her aunt, and her uncle know he is the boy's father.
