TEACHER CORPS PROJECT IS AWARDED $152,902 RENEWAL

A $152,902 renewal of the Teacher Corps grant has been awarded to the College by the HEW, Office of Education. This will allow continuation of the two-year training program for teacher interns and teachers up to June 30, 1977.

According to G. Keith Dolan, Professor of Education and Director of the Teachers Corps project, the College will work with only one school this year, the Richardson Jr. High School, in the San Bernardino City School District. Last year Eisenhower High School was also included.

At the end of the year, results will be evaluated, measuring changes in attendance, truancy, the expanded educational program, student learning, pre and post scores in reading and math, and community involvement. The latter, states Dr. Dolan may prove to be one of the greatest benefits of the program. He adds that the College is fortunate to have the services of Madelaine Garcia as Community Coordinator.

This year some CSCSB faculty will work with the junior high teachers, assisting with curriculum and counseling: Tennes Rosengren, Alvin Wolf, Erma Davis and Steven Wagner, in addition to others who will assist with the project throughout the year. The internationally-known consultant, Price Cobbs of San Francisco, will serve as advisor to the staff on human interaction.

A Message from President Pfau. . .

The Jewish holidays of Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur fall on Saturday, September 25, and Monday, October 4, this year. Both holidays commence with sundown on the previous day. In the past, the faculty and administration have taken appropriate steps to work with our Jewish students, faculty and staff so that they may properly observe these important holidays. I would appreciate it if all concerned would again extend these same courtesies to the Jewish members of the College community.

John M. Pfau

NEW WOMEN'S STUDIES
PROGRAM NOW OFFERED

The College, drawing on existing classes and adding some new ones, has designed an 11-course certificate program in the growing field of Women's Studies.

The certificate consists of 30 quarter units of course work, half of which may be taken at the 800 level through Extension. Courses range from psychology, sociology, political science, biology, history, art, English, drama, to administration and foreign languages.

Psychology of women, development of sex differences, women in administration, assertive behavior training and women in literature are some of the topics. Courses may be taken by regular students or by those registered through the Office of Continuing Education.

One of the objectives of the certificate program is to bring to campus new students who may not wish to pursue a degree program but do wish to increase their knowledge, understanding and skills through a series of related courses, according to Gloria Cowan, Assoc. Prof., Psych., advisor for the program.

"The program is a way for women to learn about themselves and an 'intellectual exercise,' but might also help in preparing for a career, Dr. Cowan said.
