BOOKSTORE SHOULD BE REALITY NEXT SPRING

A third new building should make its appearance on campus next Spring. In addition to the Creative Arts and Student Union buildings now under construction, the Bookstore is scheduled to join their ranks.

At its meeting last Wednesday, the Board of Trustees of the CSUC approved schematic plans for the College Bookstore. Work is now proceeding with working drawings. A tentative schedule now places the bid opening on the building in December, or earlier, according to Vice President J. K. Thomas.

With six months allowed for construction, the Bookstore facility, a $163,000 project, should be ready for occupancy next Spring or sooner. Financed with non-State funds obtained through the College Foundation, the 5,000 sq. ft. building will be located adjacent to the campus perimeter road, southeast of the Fine Arts Building.

COLUMBUS DAY HOLIDAY TO BE TAKEN NOV. 26

Columbus Day this year falls on Monday, October 11. Although a legal California holiday for State employees, the College will use that day as an in-lieu holiday.

COLUMBUS DAY

Friday, November 26 will be taken in its place and used in conjunction with the Thanksgiving weekend to make a three-day holiday, thus permitting us to celebrate our Finding Father's and early Founding Fathers' achievements at the same time.
