Brown Praises Brown
Secretary of Commerce Ron Brown, in testimony before the Subcommittee on Technology, Research and Development, credited Rep. George E. Brown, Jr., for his leadership in fostering U.S. strength in technology and manufacturing. The National Competitiveness of 1993, implemented by Rep. Brown, Chairman of the House Committee on Science, Space and Technology, is a kind of commitment of the National strategy for attracting top flight faculty and students, to preserve our work force, to avoid the possibility of layoffs. The 324 classified service support staff are the SBCCD full-time employees not included in the agreement.

SB Valley Faculty & Administration Agrees To Take A 5% Pay Cut
In an unprecedented move, the San Bernardino Valley Community College District Board of Trustees ratified an agreement with the teaching and management staff of the San Bernardino Valley College, Crafton Hills College and the SBCCD to accept a five percent salary reduction in 1993-94 to avoid the possibility of layoffs. As a regularly scheduled meeting on (March 11, 1993), the SBCCD Trustees ratified the three agreements submitted by the SBCCD Board of Trustees to the San Bernardino Valley College, Crafton Hills College and the SBCCD management staff. The agreements which were submitted by the SBCCD Board of Trustees to the San Bernardino Valley College, Crafton Hills College and the SBCCD management staff included a five percent service reduction for the one year to a maximum of five percent, commencing when the state budget is adopted later this year. There are 132 teachers, 53 managers and 33 supervisors in the SBCCD. The teachers' agreement was negotiated by CTA President Richard Booth, English Professor at CHC, and ratified by a vote of the county's sales tax rate. The employees agreed to a cooperative effort, with everyone pulling together, by SBCCD President Alvin Groman. The teachers' agreement was negotiated by CTA President Richard Booth, English Professor at CHC, and ratified by a vote of the county's sales tax rate.
Dear Hardy and Cheryl:

Your coverage of the incidents at North High School last week was very welcome.

Thank you for your careful attention. We know how difficult such situations can become with inflammatory news accounts. Good job!

Sincerely,

Maxine Price

Riverside Board of Education

Dear Mr. Brown,

I was pleased to receive your announcement in your paper. We were happy we had nearly 50 out of our students at your event.

We are grateful to you for your contribution of art and other materials to our school. Great job!

Black Representations Not Black Leadership

The power of his self-appointed position of President-for-Life, while not the only reason, is the primary reason for his resources to make himself the Black president. Zaire is now one of the most prosperous nations in Africa, and America.

We may have an increase in Black representation, but we also have many instances of misrepresentation that have negatively affected our nation and the situation in the central African region of Zaire.

The early 60's was the height of Black power in Zaire, a movement which swept Africa in the 60's. Mobutu, who had been democratically elected, believed in the Black political power of the Congolese people and not on the power of rich white people and European multi-national corporations who dominated Africa in a period of post-colonial arrangements or this vision. Lumumba was the only Black candidate, not only customarily banned by the U.S. State Department, the Congo's CIA and his successor, Mobutu Sese Seko.

Since Mobutu, under the guise of a pseudo-nationalist for African authenticity, he has butchered the Congolese people, embezzled the Congolese people's money, and created a pseudo-parties which themselves incorporate pro-

Homes-It's A"Buyers Market"

Real Estate

BY LARRY HINDS

Even though statistics indicate that real estate sales activity on a statewide basis has remained reasonably strong when compared with 1989, there are pocket areas throughout the state where sales are suffering. Since the State of California has not experienced this sort of a market in several years, it is important to go "back to the basics." This approach will deal with the practical aspects of sales activity. Listing price, is the home listed at a fair market value? It may be time to order an independent appraisal to fairly determine today's market value. Enhancing marketability with attractive financing: Assuming the home is listed at a fair market value, but is not selling, creative financing options can help enhance the marketability of the home. These options would include any of the following ideas:

1) Seller can offer second trust deed: This form of financing always seems to work best in a buyer's market of selling a lower loan amount on a new first trust deed, thus eliminating the need for private mortgage insurance. Remember the 60/10/10 mortgages? 10% down, 10% seller carry second, and a new 80% first trust deed. Did you know that secondary financing is even allowable on a new VA first trust deed?

2) Seller paid closing costs: Many buyers earn enough to qualify for a loan, but are short on cash. Why not pay all the buyer's non-occuring closing costs in lieu of a price reduction? VA financing. While VA financing certainly does not qualify as creative financing, becomes much more predominant in a buyers market, since the seller must pay the discount points for the veteran to secure a VA loan. However, since 40% of all eligible home buyers are veterans, this is a segment of the market that cannot be ignored. VA loans currently allow a veteran with full entitlement to secure a loan of $140,000 with no down payment.

Announcement of Public Open House March 25, 1993

Update On I-215 and 60/91/215 Interchange Improvement Project

WHAT'S BEING PLANNED

The California Department of Transportation (Caltrans), in cooperation with the Riverside County Transportation Commission and the San Bernardino County Transportation Authority (SBCTA), is continuing studies to investigate the potential for widening approximately 18 miles of I-215 between the I-10 freeway interchange near Redlands and I-105 (La Plata Boulevard) interchange in Riverside County. A major part of the project is to shape the interchange at I-215 to accommodate the traffic volume expected in the year 2000 and beyond. Caltrans' studies will provide the data necessary to design the interchange to serve traffic needs through the year 2020. The State Highway 60/91/215 interchange south to Cogswell Drive and a short segment on State Route 60/91 (La Plata Boulevard) interchange to serve the traffic needs of the I-215 freeway.

WHY THIS NOTICE

The open house is an informal meeting, and displays and handouts will be available. The project team and project staff will be available to describe the engineering plans and answer specific questions.

WHY HAVE AN OPEN HOUSE MEETING

The purpose of the open house is to present the project plans and opportunity for the public to discuss the project with Caltrans staff. Comments or questions regarding the project are welcome at any time.

WHAT'S AVAILABLE

No reservations are required for the open house. Approvals for the open house are available at the above locations. A new project schedule, including the location of the Big Bar, will be available at the open house. The schedule will be updated as necessary.

If you cannot attend the open house meeting, you can contact Caltrans staff at (714) 424-6641. If you have concerns concerning the project, please contact the Consultant team leader, David Ross of Perini Construction Co., (714) 424-6641.

The Third U.S. Church Conference in Albuquerque, New Mexico from April 16-19, 1993, will deal properly and frankly with the most controversial 3251 S.F. bringing both religious organizations and U.S. society. Topics ranging from the history of homophobia to addressing the evil and reality of women's oppression will be covered. These topics will be discussed by speakers, artists and leaders who have stood at the forefront of the struggle for women's liberation.

Sexism will not be analyzed in isolation, but related to social issues such as racism which perpetuates the women's movement and with difficult subjects such as sexism, anti-Semitism, anti-gay and anti-AIDS activism, clergy abuse of women, sexuality as homophobia, racism in religion and AIDS. The consent of women and AIDS, sexism, the exclusion of the women from religious practice, the lack of representation of women's health issues. They will also look at the plans for a new women's health clinic.

Men too often have been taught that women are their problem to solve. The re-education of men is essential to ending the epidemic of domestic violence as caring for the women who are "women's issues" as a last line of defense.

The Hopi Gospel Group System is from the Bahamas who will appear on 8:00 PM. Please meet at Elwood High School, 13000 Victoria Ave., Rancho Cucamonga AZ. Said, "Men too often have been taught that women are their problem to solve. The Library Literacy Program is in its fourth year, and S.A. Freeman is the administrator.

"I was surprised, and very thankful" said Jones last week at a speaker's forum on literacy in San Bernardino.

He joined a distinguished panel of guest who told of their concerns and experiences.

Jones’s message was echoed by some of the panel members when he said, his parents read to him, it was more important in his home than books.

Jones maintained, his father was an actor, but it was a teacher who corrected his stuttering problem. He made him read his own poetry and "like a dancer with a weak muscle, I took off—practice made it better," he said.

Each panel member focused on their own experiences. Deputy Sheriff Captain R.R. Trelfa feels the issue of self esteem must be addressed. He dramatized his presentation with an ex-offender, who after his teeth were repaired by the dentist his behavior was altered. He said it is unfortunate that youth who drop out of school, get in trouble, must go to jail and there he must get a GED before he gets out. What he was running from is what he ends up having to do anyway.

To that James Reynolds, representing the San Bernardino Unified School District said, "It is our goal, to reach each child in reading before he leave school. We are committed to increasing the rate of college bound non traditional students."

Ann Ivey, Public Health nurse, said it starts in the womb, and that fathers as well as mothers need to learn how to be parents.

Jessica Pointer said reading must be relevant. He told the story of a child who decided not to read. He asked him what he would like to do. The boy was able to drive a truck, which was relevant when the child found out truck drivers had to keep a log. It became more relevant when he found out this he also had to obtain a driver's license.

Marissa Wilson, a retired college counselor, said, reading for her student, that if you have books at home children will learn to read.

Freeman said an annual State of Literacy Speech, entitled "The Connecting Link—Regulations and Self Esteem." She referred to each person's life and the correlation between reading and art forming art. She referred to the caring and joy that goes into teaching a non reading adult to read. She works hard to see that people who are in need get help. Freeman said people have other needs that must be met so they can begin to learn to read and once they learn how to read they will become literate.

One such person, Joanne Daly’s life was completely changed, the speech was an advocate for the homeless and the illiterate. Daly appeared one day in the library, and asked for books to teach her friend to read. She read a man and told her she must first learn how to read. Daly had been taking it all these years. First Freeman asked her to clean her up because she had been living as a bag lady. Daly stuck with the program and is now one of the finest speakers. She even owns her own program outside of the library because the homeless are comfortable and make others who use the library uncomfortable.

The boy was able to drive a truck, which was relevant when the child found out truck drivers had to keep a log. It became more relevant when he found out this he also had to obtain a driver's license.

Marissa Wilson, a retired college counselor, said, reading for her student, that if you have books at home children will learn to read.

Freeman said an annual State of Literacy Speech, entitled "The Connecting Link—Regulations and Self Esteem." She referred to each person's life and the correlation between reading and art forming art. She referred to the caring and joy that goes into teaching a non reading adult to read. She works hard to see that people who are in need get help. Freeman said people have other needs that must be met so they can begin to learn to read and once they learn how to read they will become literate.

One such person, Joanne Daly’s life was completely changed, the speech was an advocate for the homeless and the illiterate. Daly appeared one day in the library, and asked for books to teach her friend to read. She read a man and told her she must first learn how to read. Daly had been taking it all these years. First Freeman asked her to clean her up because she had been living as a bag lady. Daly stuck with the program and is now one of the finest speakers. She even owns her own program outside of the library because the homeless are comfortable and make others who use the library uncomfortable.

Friends of all racial backgrounds and I are "Working Together." Do you want to join us? We know if we continue to work together as Christians, we can overcome many problems, violence, hunger, dangerous drugs, drug problems, even the closing of the operation of the March AFB. This paper will play a great part in bringing understanding and a solution to the problems bought on by the recent necessaries moved mad by our government. We are people from all areas of the American culture, Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force retirees, Educators, Business Men from all walks of life of all races, creeds and colors and we must have our way as we work together for peace. That is, if we are true Americans.

There seems to be no room for blatant ignorance, only the individual can take care of that problem. It is done by intolerance. We are prejudiced to the people of all backgrounds and reading, I teach a reading class at the "Jefferson House" in Riverside every Thursday, who don’t you join us? We have a reading class. We are provided, regardless of race, creed or color, that "Together, We Can." Together, We Can. Robert, since you were offended by the silly of "Black Voice News" here on earth, don’t go to heaven, there will be many more "Black Voices" then.

By Mr. Robert Anderson, From: "A Thought Of My People" Imagine; I speak to you Black America. For though I be. Product of the same depecting nations we afraid, as parents, as black as you, of generations leaned in silence, oppressed, subjected and despised. Given neither meaning for belonging. But a long time, given. Once conceived through Jesus and a promised Heaven. Now I got abides and you got shores, but hope are for believers first and will save for a will to pain that waving in the mist, called Freedom.
Spring Brings Art Exhibition

The Riverside Art Museum's major Spring exhibition, "Traversing the Circle: Sandra Rowe Retrospective," will be in the Art Gallery through May 7. This is a survey of the work in several media of a very well-known artist/activist who has exhibited throughout the United States. The Riverside exhibit features works from the late 1960's, the 70's and continues in a visual theme of a highly productive career through 1993.

Sandra Rowe, who has lived in Riverside and been active in art matters for many years, is a professor of painting at Cal Poly Pomona. Received her B.A. degree from California State University, Fresno and an M.F.A. in studio art from U.C. Irvine. Her work has been shown in solo and group exhibits throughout the United States. She was the first artist-in-residence at the Los Angeles Afro-American Museum, Los Angeles, and one of the most outstanding works of that institution's recent exhibit in reference to the 1992 riots was a monumental Rowe installation of a hanger's tree with many nooses. "Legacy of a Survivor," a chilling reference to the shameful history of lynching in the United States. Preparing for studies for this work will be shown at the Riverside Museum.

Rowe has been the recipient of many prestigious commissions for public art, including a Billboard project for the 1990 Los Angeles Festival and the commission from the L.A. County Transportation Commission for sculpture for the San Pedro Blue Line station. Preparatory drawings and models for these and other works in progress will be part of the Riverside exhibit, Rowe's first mid-career retrospective.

A tireless worker for the cause of female artists, as well as for human rights, she is a member of both regional and national boards of the Woman's Caucus for the Arts, and has served on the Artists Public-Private Committee and the Visual Arts Grants panel of the California Arts Council.

An artist who is at ease in any media, Rowe is a splendid colorist who produces paintings of enduring strength. Some of clean color have her lustrate; others generate tension and anxiety. She is perhaps best known for thought-provoking installations with a message. Most of these are multi-media creations with a hard-hitting edge. In concept and iconography Rowe aggressively drives into the problems of human relationships, employing images which seem to come straight from the unconscious. At the same time, she does not hesitate to shock her audience with what is explosive or insensitive. Well-known works such as "Sticks and Stones" and "Relationships" will be in the Riverside exhibit as well as more recent installations including a site-specific installation entitled "The Rogue Man, My Aint" created especially for this exhibition.

"Traversing the Circle: Sandra Rowe Retrospective" is funded in part by grants from the Riverside Arts Foundation and the Curtis W. McCaw Foundation.

FLY SAFELY
The people at Edamian care about your safety. So we'd like to offer a few common sense suggestions to keep in mind when you fly a kite. Always use dry string, wood and paper on your kite. Never use wire or any metallic material. Don't fly your kite during bad weather. Don't cross streets or highways while your kite is airborne. Shut down power lines if you see your kite. If it's not too big, you can buy an FM radio antenna. If your kite does become entangled, always try to remove it. Call Edamian. By following these simple precautions, you'll be flying your kite safely, but a breeze. To Subscribe Call 889-0506

Reverend Jackson Is Moving On

John Wooden. In these ads "Shack" is being schooled by his elders on the essence of greatness and basketball. They are pretty good and catchy and no doubt will elevate the "Shack's" to another level. And it doesn't hurt that he is a significant basketballer to boot.

Triva Question: In the 1981-82 season, Magic Johnson scored over 700 points, grabbed over 700 rebounds and dished out over 700 assists in the same season. Who are the other two basketballers who accomplished the feat?

No Reason to Hang Your Heads Down: Reebok has implemented an aggressive advertising campaign, featuring "Shack" to another level. The new deal covers the first three-to-five-year period, featuring "Shack" to another level.

RESPPECT YOUR ELDRERS: "Shack". Reebok has implemented an aggressive advertising campaign, featuring "Shack" that Nike did with Air Jordan.

Chris, you are in for a surprise in your dealings with the powers that be. They are rigid and are not governed by the law. And maybe your plan is no aggressive - based on their history. Change will come hard and oh so slow, but at least you are moving onward!

Respect Your Elders: "Shack". Reebok has implemented an aggressive advertising campaign, featuring "Shack".

Reebok. Currently Reebok is executing a five-year plan, requiring a least 20 percent of their vendors to implement three-to-five-year accountability plans. The plan requires the teams to have at least three minority members on its board of directors within two years.

Jackson asked for each team to implement three-to-five-year affirmative action plans, hire at least 20 percent of their minority group to be recruited together - three pennants and over 700 rebounds and dished out over 700 assist in the same season.

Behind the Wheel Distractions Can Kill

Behind-the-wheel distractions like grooming and dialing the telephone should be avoided. For a safe driving trip, drivers must give full attention to the task of driving.

Here are some typical behind-the-wheel distractions and Shell Motorist Club's (SMC's) common sense recommendations for solving them:

- Grooming: Trimming a few whiskers with a portable razor, freshening makeup or combing one's hair are grooming habits which should take place at home and not in the car. SMC recommends drivers pull off the road a few minutes to finish getting ready or allow extra time at home to complete these grooming tasks.

- Reading/Writing: Reading a couple of paragraphs in the newspaper, checking a report before your next meeting or joining down a quick note to yourself— all are major distractions which drivers should never do behind the wheel. Again, SMC recommends motorists pull well off the roadway if they need to read and write.

- Telephoning: As cellular telephone use has increased, so have the risks for accidents when drivers become busy dialing and talking instead of driving. When used correctly, cellular telephones are useful productivity tools which also give drivers a greater sense of security, especially when driving at night. Most cellular telephones manufacturers recommend dialing at the side of the road, not while driving. These companies also recommend drivers consider obtaining a speaker phone adapter for their cellular telephones so they can talk while still keeping both hands on the wheel.

- Other distractions: Adjusting the rear view mirror and passenger seat, hunting for a cassette tape or cleaning the trim out of the car are types of activities which should be accomplished at home before beginning a driving trip. SMC recommends drivers take a couple of extra minutes before beginning any driving trip to make sure the mirror and seat are adjusted to suit the driver. Then, lock up everything you will need in the car, such as cassette tapes, before you leave home.
