Cesar Chavez is shown here at his prime. At a news conference in Miami, Florida, 1972, Chavez launches the first contract for migrant workers in Florida's his- toric Agriculture Industry. The agreement with Coca-Cola's Fruit Division, negotiated by Chavez, was the first contract for migrant farm workers in the U.S. Chavez died May 25, 1993. A blue rose and a single red rose from his widow, Helen, were nestled in Chavez' crossed hands.

...he held his organization together during a very difficult period in exile," Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu said today.

Tutu fled the country when the ANC was banned in 1960. He directed ANC activity for decades, working to end apartheid, win the right to diplomatic sanctions against South Africa and organizing training for ANC fighters in for- eign countries.

He returned to South Africa as president of the ANC in December 1990. 10 months after the ban which had been legalised in 1991. The ANC chose Mandela, Tutu's former law partner, to run him as president and praised him as outstanding in his role as the national chairman for the anti-apartheid movement.

"...he strongly supported the ANC's armed struggle against apartheid when it began in 1961, but he later was instru- mental in drafting the Harmony Declaration on Human Rights, which paved the way for negotiations with the White governement," Tutu said today.

COUNCILMAN TOM MINOR IS IRRESPONSIBLE

Last week at an NAACP meeting Councilman Tom Minor, who is responsible for the city's parks and recreation, made comments that said the race were all African Americans. Minor said that it's because they are less intelligent, and read and write, and they weren't brought up properly. They get records and things. What he was saying is that the record these officers told him was misleading. Some of his Black supporters read their records and were shocked to hear what he said. For the information of Minor and other who think like him, according to the Bureau of Justice Statistics, in 1990, 12.8% of Blacks finished high school; Whites were higher with 41.2% completing high school. While the percentage of the population employment while Whites were at 89.3%. Look how far we have come. There is virtually no difference; however, in the past there is a different perception. Minor, in his words, "I estimate an overall African American crime rate of over 1,516 monthly: many times more than a college degree earn the same or just a few dollars more than Whites with a high school diploma.

For information, in 1940, 76.7% of all prisoners in America were White, only 22.4% were Black. With reality, and the excellent working of the Black community, 56 years later, Blacks comprise 43.9% of prisoners as compared to 39.6% for Whites. That represents a 37.1% decrease for Whites and a 22.9% increase for Blacks.

This did not just happen by circumstance or Whites being filled with the Holy Ghost or no violations, but Blacks being possessed with the Devil and violating every law in the land. There is a concerted effort to make sure that Black males are identified as self-owning criminals, and that the community has been doing it their way. Dear Dr. Levison: Is it true that 20 years post vasectomy men cannot have a higher risk of developing prostrate cancer? Vasectomy fans should be aware that 20 years post vasectomy men cannot have a higher risk of developing prostrate cancer.

Dear Vasectomy fans: 15 percent of all American men have had a vasectomy (the severing of the tube through which sperm travel from the testes to the penis). This is probably the saddest and most effective means of contraception. Outside of condoms it is the only available method.

Two studies recently published in The Journal of Urology confirmed that men who are 20 plus years post vasectomy have a higher risk of developing prostrate cancer. Although these numbers were large, well designed and statistically significant, one should note that the main risk factors for prostrate cancer are age and family history. The disease appears to be one of aging, pigment and environment.

There are several reasons why a fear of prostrate cancer based on these two studies is not well founded. Our Bodies

Q: How long should I store food in the refrigerator?
A: This is a very general question because the condition of the food, the condition of the refrigerator, and the shelf life of the food are all factors.

A: Temperature: From 34 to 40°F. If food is below 40°F, odors, clean refrigerator containers.

Recently Kathleen Brown, State Treasurer, came to town to announce a new bond issue. "The Bond will allow working people to save for their children's education," she told the Thursday Morning Group and their guests, at Petrosino Restaurant. She was introduced by Attorney Jane Carney.

Carney said this event was not a fund-raiser, and was called to introduce the community to Brown. Carney called her "the most exciting person in public life in the State of California. Brown, who will probably be the first female Governor, also said she has gone up and down the State with an unofficial survey asking what makes our State unique. "I asked Publisher Brown, the question and she said the diversity of the people, what makes it unique." Brown continued, "We must address those strengths and build upon them."

Brown sounded as though she was concerned about the survival of our State and had more concern for all the people than any Governor we've had for several years. She will be even more compassionate than her brother. She privately told Black Voice News she will be running for the State's top post.

Brown will be the most knowledgeable governor we've ever had. Her experience is wide. She is responsible for managing the state's $30 Billion investment portfolio.

She will also be attending the Women and Business Expo, May 27, at Raincross, co-sponsored by Black Voice News.

Attorney Elise Traynum welcomes Brown.

Human Relations Commissioner Ben Johnson gives his card to Brown.

The Great Minivan Search: Ford Wrap Up

By Carl Damron

Last week we ran out of space as we discussed the attributes of the Ford Aerostar. For those that missed the beginning of the article we will renew the entire review of the Aerostar.

Carol, my girlfriend who is limited to give me 13 children. That's a joke. Mine, her and the present child Kelley a four-year-old that looks like he is eight or ten. I hope will be a seven footer with a great three drivethat does not get your usual dealership stuffy because with Riverside Chrysler Plymouth (see last issue for the details)
The next stop was Pete Ford in Riverside. They have Hispanics, and African-Americans openly working at their establishment.
Our first sales representative was Hispanic, but he had to help another customer. Our next guy was a Jim d'Anjou. A nice, but frightened European-American.
The Aerostar is a nice minivan. Here are the good points.
The interior is decent, the seats are comfortable, and the ride is decent.
There is a nice sound system
with available AM/FM cassette or CD. The middle passenger seat has the child seats and fold

down like the Voyager.
The Aerostar is available with a big 4.0 liter V-6 multi-point fuel injected engine.
The Aerostar has rear wheel drive, which makes it a perfect vehicle for towing anything up to 6,000 lbs. By any other manufacturer. This is greater towing capacity than any other Minivan. There is also a four-wheel drive model available.
The comfort features are all different: electric mirrors, power door locks, rear window
wipers, eight-way power seats, rear
to control with head phones for the rear passengers, and air conditioning vents.
The seats easily move out of the way for rear storage and the middle seat is easily removable.
The bad points - has a boxy unattractive shape and if only has rear anti-lock brakes, not from and rear. The inspector has tons of cheap looking plastic.
There are middle seat air and headrests in the high and Eddie Bauer model only. The other Aerostar models have rear
air.
There are no rear cup holders,
but lots of storage space in mesh covers on the seats and the radio speaker grill fell off of the wall when Carol bumped it.
Our next two top five Aerostar models will be listed and finally number one mini-van in America will be named.

According to Ken Waddell, Sales Manager at Fritz Ford there are 15 Aerostar models. The following base prices are for the two main types.

The XL 400A regular length
two wheel drive is $16,995.
The XL 400A extended length
two wheel drive is $18,395.

The old Ford Aerostar is perfect for towing up to 3 tons.
The XL Plus 401A regular length
two wheel drive is $16,233.
The XL 401A extended length
two wheel drive is $17,775.
The price for the top line
regular length two wheel drive
Eddie Bauer 405A is $23,925.
The extended length four wheel drive Eddie Bauer 405A is $25,795.

For the 4 wheel drive option
on any model add about $3,000.
Overall, I thought the Ford Aerostar was a good product. It has a good, though stiff ride, and it also adequate power.
I do like the rear seat drive.
It would increase the handling characteristics of the Minivan in panic or crisis driving situations.
Rear wheel drive also makes the Aerostar the vehicle of choice if you planned to tow anything big over a long distance.
The price of the XLT Plus we bought was $21,665. For that money I would by the $20,000
company."

Carol, at first surprisingly preferred the Ford Aerostar over the Mercury Villager.
Her rational is that the “Aerostar is an older model than has all of the bags worked out.”
Carol is very frightened of
company."

Regular season comes to a close for Lakers and Clipperse.After covering the Los Angeles Lakers and Portland Trail Blazers, I'm safe to say their regular seasons are full of ups and downs, as they both ended their regular seasons with wins: Clippers over Sacramento, Lakers over Portland and the Lakers campaign was full of ups and downs, as they both ended their regular seasons with wins: Clipper vs Portland and the Lakers come popularity and accepting in the streets and full of playoff fever. But for the Lakers Suns (seeded 1st) Friday at Saturday, May 8, 9 a.m..learning to play the 1st and 2nd at Houston and the Lakers comes to a close for Lakers and Clippers fans the NBA goal of making the playoffs did not last? What? How long will they last?Based on their record against their two rivals Clippers, the Lakers go 4-4 against the Rockets and the Lakers did the Clips one better going 6-0 against the Suns - the first glance gives the appearance it won't be long. In fact it could be shorter - like in a heart stop. What does this grin statistics tell you?It says the odds of the Clips and Lakers advancing past the first round are slim, but there is hope.Lakers head coach Larry Brown noted after their win over Portland: "We got a chance to win based on the last three games, because the effort has been there. In the past I said we would be an easy exit, but I feel different about this team now."Lakers head coach, Randy Brown, said after their season ending victory "Now it's time to go to work. We wanted to fin-lep up with a good one and playing well, and I thought we did that at the score."The Clipper expectations have been given a boost with the injury to Houston starting guard Vernon Maxwell. At the same time the Laker fortunes have taken a dip, with rookie sparkplug Anthony Peeler severely spraining his ankle. The "Peel Man" is projected to miss at least the 1st round of the playoffs.The Clips do have a better chance - on paper - to spot the Hot Rocket. Houston's bench is thin. The loss of one of their main components, Maxwell, may be the formula for cooling down the league's hottest five.Loy Vaught, the Clipper hus­ tle man and power forward, said: "I think the mood of the team is great and that sets the tone for how this team will play. At one point in the season we were worried about problems, but we have put that behind us."The Lakers hustle man A.C. Green is ecstatic about being in the playoffs and about their chances, noted: "It is very exciting to play a team that will force you to play at your best, and that's what Phoenix will do. I know we can beat them. It's a matter of doing it."If the Lakers are going to eclipse the Suns, they will have to find a way to stop the Charles. "No. 1 choice for NBA MVP" Barkley from pouring over their heads. Easier said than done.The Clipper task might be even greater, as they will have to find a cure for Barkley."No. 1 choice for NBA MVP" Olaju­ win, Hakeem, "The Dream" has been absolutely fantastic this season. After a 91-92 season and off season of obscene defensive posturing, by "The Dream" and the ownership of the Rockets, they have kissed and made up the Rocket's have refueled and restored the upper echelon of the NBA elite.David Robinson, Olympic and All-Star center of the San Antonio Spurs, had this to say after a 40 point posturing at the hands of Hakeem: "No center ever played the way that I played. He was unstoppable. The Clippers and Stanley Roberts perform a better job than Mr. Robinson did, or it will be a quick sailing for the Clip­ pers."Whatever happens in the playoffs, the off season will be full of action for the Lakers and Clips. It appears from all indications, there are going to be some major roster moves from both teams:The Clippers and Laker organiza­tions have plenty of young players to build on. Let's not write these teams off for the near future. With the here and a

FOR ABOUT WHAT YOU'RE PAYING IN RENT, YOU CAN BUY THE HOME OF YOUR DREAMS.

The Big Difference Between A Renter And An Owner Is Who Gets Your Check.

Every month millions of Americans put their hard earned money into their landlord's pocket, instead of paying it toward their future. Why? Because they didn't know that for about what they're paying in rent, they could buy a home of their own.
