"SCIENCE IN THE SPACE AGE," ON CAMPUS TODAY

Hundreds of high school students and their teachers, displaying an enthusiastic interest in the College's Science Day, "Science in the Space Age," are thronging to the Gym, the science buildings and throughout campus today. Of particular interest to the visitors is the talk by Astronaut, Col. Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin, Jr., speaking on "Space Frontiers--Past, Present and Future," and a later talk by Marshall Johnson from Langley Research Center, speaking on "Research Systems Aboard the Viking Mars Probes." Both talks will be held in the Gym, 9 and 11 a.m., respectively.

Between the talks, students will tour the science buildings where the Natural Sciences departments have set up science demonstrations for the visitors.

The previously scheduled evening reception for the astronaut and local community college and university faculties has been moved up to 3:30 p.m. and will be held in the Commons Patio.

Science Day will conclude with a speech by Steven J. Loer, physicist, of TRW Systems, on "Biology Experiments Aboard the Viking Mars Probes," at 8 p.m. in LC-500. The speech is open to the College and the public. There is no charge.

The singular moon rock display may be seen in the Gym from 9 to 10 a.m.; from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in the Commons Patio; and 8 to 9 p.m. in LC-500.

DONATION TO PROVIDE FUNDS FOR FOUNTAIN IN CREATIVE ARTS BLDG.

A $6,000 donation has been received by the College to construct a large reflecting fountain-pool in the courtyard of the new Creative Arts Building, President John M. Pfau has announced.

Jay Dewey Harnish of Ontario, retired architect and former partner of the College's master plan architectural firm of Harnish, Morgan and Causey, has donated the money for the pool. Mr. Harnish has maintained an interest in the College for a number of years, beginning with the design assignment of the residence halls, student union and bookstore buildings, and has watched the campus grow to its present multi-structure size.

The 52-foot-long by 23-foot-wide lighted pool, planned as an embellishment which will heighten the attractiveness of the handsome new Creative Arts Building, will be located in the walled area in front of the main entrance (east side). It is designed to use a minimum amount of electricity. Use of water will also be minimal due to recirculating water. A suitable plaque will be mounted on the fountain recognizing Mr. Harnish's contribution.

Since regulations do not permit construction of such a feature with State funds, the College is very pleased and fortunate to have received Mr. Harnish's donation to finance equipment for the pool, particularly at this time so that it can be completed in time for the official opening of the building, states Vice President J. K. Thomas.

OPENING THURSDAY NIGHT

LADY'S NOT FOR BURNING

Opening night for "The Lady's Not for Burning," Christopher Fry's humorous treatment of a witch hunt in a small English town in the Middle Ages, is Thursday, February 24.

Heroic romance, suspense and comedy all capture the spirit of the satire and contrast found in the playwright's drama. Colorful costumes with exotic flair were designed by Pat Hadlock, drama technician. The set and lighting, designed by Kathy Douglas, Drama Instructor, interpret the prevailing strangeness of the April world, the month in which the action takes place.

Tickets are on sale in the Drama Office, Ext. 7452. General admission is $2.50; CSCSB staff and faculty, $2.00 and senior citizens, $1.50. In addition to the opening night performance other dates are February 25 and 26; March 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5. Curtain time is 8:15 in the Little Theatre.

C. MICHAEL O'GARA,
PROFESSOR OF P.E.,
PLANS RETIREMENT

C. Michael O'Gara, Professor of Physical Education and Recreation, is leaving the ranks of the handful of original CSCSB planning staff pioneers. After 36 years of teaching, coaching, and department chairman, Mr. O'Gara plans to retire at the end of the academic year.

He joined the original planning staff of the College in October, 1964, coming from UCLA where he had been boxing coach for nine years. In San Bernardino he had offices downtown until October, 1965 when the initial three buildings on campus were completed and classes were offered to the 293 students. In those days P.E. consisted of PE-100 in two sections, with 25 students in each section. Classes were conducted outdoors, mostly on the multi-purpose courts. There was tennis, badminton, volleyball and soccer. On rainy days classes were canceled. Students changed their clothes in what is now a storage shed. Now 64 P.E. courses are offered.

When the Physical Education Building was on the boards he served as technical planning consultant and was the proudest person on campus when, in 1968, the building and other facilities were completed.

A proponent of individually-oriented physical education programs to meet the needs of all students rather than the gifted, Mr. O'Gara also believes the ideal situation would be if a college could have both inter-collegiate and individual sports programs with facilities to accommodate both.

Beginning his teaching career in Antioch College, Ohio, Mr. O'Gara served there as P.E. chairman for 10 years. From there he went to Santa Clara County Schools where he was director of outdoor education. Showing his versatility, he then taught at Cloverdale High School in Northern California, where he not only taught P.E., but U.S. history, world history, mechanical drawing and coached.

Upon retirement Mr. and Mrs. O'Gara plan eventually to move to Northern California to be closer to their three children, nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren. He favors the area around Cloverdale or Santa Rosa. He says he also hankers to "play in the clay," since, strangely enough, he was an art major before starting his boxing coaching.
