Congressman George Brown

The economic program the John passed in August 1992 has generated five issue working groups that have been involved in a wide range. I have suggested language for my jobs ensuing bill and, in cooperation with the Inland Empire Economic Partnership, I am mounting a major technol- ogy conference in June. We have been successful in establish- ing an Inland Empire Congress- ional Caucus, and just this month, an Inland Empire Leg- islative Caucus including fed- eral, state, county and city
LETTER TO THE EDITOR

BY JOHN E. JACOB

The time is the top issue concerning Americans, but if we're really serious about doing something about crime, we'd better face up to reality and not wallow in wishful thinking.

One face to reality up to what? The tough, high-legislation派ed.

When Congress finally passes a law, it will be mild as a measure, it will be a total failure for the gun lobby.

Now our leaders should build on that victory and restrict civilian use of weapons such as semi-automatic weapons, rather than outlawing them completely.

Comprehensive disarray management could easily protect people's right to hunt and kill, get dangerous weaponry off the streets. Despite domestic disarray, the US has to protect its interests.

I hope that The Black Voice wake-up call is not too late and is more than a voice in the wilderness calling for us to return from open-source moon walk maneuvers, and back to our original established homeland. We have to continue to call our shortcoming. Then, and only then, can we look in the mirror unabashedly.

I read with interest your strong January 13, 1994 editorial, "Look in the Mirror." It takes place as another wake-up call for African Americans struggling to achieve this in our miserable. The Black Voice is indeed sending us a strong message.

If we accept the challenge and have the courage to look in the mirror, let us understand that although we are now the most academically blacked out folks on earth, it seems that all we learned was to believe rather than to think. Let us understand that we are mutually dependent on our ability to analyze the various political and legal interests, and which are not often in our best interests.

Let us understand that it is critical that we be about developing a strong sense of identity and non-pretend, of which this Black Community come the solidarity and cohesiveness, self-respect and the ethnocentrically based value system called for in your editorial. Short of this, we will remain an impoverished people wallowing and sliding into another worse. The time to be is now. Let us do better.

Even Before Winning Its First Dogfight, The 99th Fighter Squadron Had Made History.

World War II was in full swing when a group of courageous young men enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Corps. They were known as the Tuskegee Airmen, the first African-Americans ever to undergo training as combat fighter pilots. Faced with a somewhat skeptical military establishment, they quickly set out to prove themselves. And prove themselves they did. Within months, they were organized into the all-black 99th Fighter Squadron and sent to fight in the skies over Italy and Germany. By war's end, the 99th and its all-black sister units had destroyed nearly 50 enemy aircraft and done untold damage to the Axis war effort.

What these brave men achieved is just one of many little-known contributions African-Americans have made to our country. That's why American proudly offers accounts like this in observance of Black History Month. By so doing, the stories of the Tuskegee Airmen and others like them will be heard and appreciated by people everywhere. And their accomplishments will continue to assure them their rightful place in American history.

Van Peebles Leads Catalyst Role In Gunmen

BY BILLY JOHNSON, JR.
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

T his is probably the craziest western movie you'll ever see. First of all, it's 1994, not 18—something. Second, it has a surprise comedy element.

Something in the beginning Cole (Mario Van Peebles) breaks Cole Into Acting Is Easier Than Directing

BY BILLY JOHNSON, JR.
ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

The average person would clearly recognize this as a gangsta rap track, but that's not what my music is. It's not even...hard-core. To me, gangsta rap is just talking about shooting people, and how you did it and how you had the gun on you. Then you talk about the parties. I'm just too busy with my own life to talk about such matters.

Mario Van Peebles taught, "I had really tough decisions to make on this movie. Like whether or not I should get the Margarita or the Pina Colada or how long to sit by the pool as I explain how much easier acting in "Gunmen" was in comparison to directing movies like "Pine" and "New Jack City."

Van Peebles continues, "After you've directed enough, it's like great not too. As long as you don't have to watch your back in terms of politically something like you do not want to see or do. Once you're comfortable with the director and he's cool, he'll do you right and you can do whatever you want to do. Then, I'm happy and easy to work with. It's those people who don't betray Dari, Dari (who has all the guns at this point) does not betray Dari, Dari (who is either downright silly, confusing or plain 'not funny.' It probably was not a good idea, however, to decide to have Dari and Cole do the hard work."

Beside acting in "Gunmen," Van Peebles served as the executive producer for the soundtrack that includes Big Daddy Kane, Eric B and Rakim and Kid Frost. Van Peebles explains, "They let me do the soundtrack. I thought it was interesting to call Rakim and then when it wasn't a 'hood rap song, I said, 'A Last Action Hero.' They call it a work is still hard. When they're going to do 'New Jack' or "Menace" we call the rappers. I thought it was nice to sorta see them get out of that"

Chavez's 90-fight streak ends, but a rematch is already set.

rematch is already

I must not hide what he was feeling at that moment. I feel I won almost all of the rounds, I respect Frankie tremendously, but, out of all the rounds he won it.

Chavez will get his chance to back up that statement, because a rematch has been announced for May 7, back at the Grand Garden.

In this other world title fight, young raising star, Trinidad, stood down. Camache just enough to win a unamiuous 12-round victory. Brown, in another fast paced fight, felt out experienced Walters, winning a 12-round majority decision.

Don King calls Felix Trinidad the next superstar welterweight.

I was certainly surprised when I hit the canvas. "I worked hard for this and I think this victory uplifted my skills. I always knew I had talent, but I just didn't get the opportunities.

Chavez, still in no mood to concede defeat, took a shot at the judges who might have placed much weight on the knockdown in the 11th, saying: "If great fighters like Ali and Sugar Ray Leonard have hit the canvas, then why can't Chavez, and still be rewarded for the total fight. You can't lose a fight with one fall (knockout)." The Chavez, Randall bout served up a dished out and dishing out good job of taking what he thought I did a good job of taking what he thought I did a good job of taking what he dish out and dish out and dish out some of my own, too.

The National Brotherhood of Skiers (NBS) will hold its 1994 Mini-Summit, Annual Meeting, Challenge Cup (AMCC) at Copper Mountain, Colorado, in January 1994. Over 2,000 NBS members are expected to attend the Mini-Summit at Copper Mountain.

The NBS is a non-profit, predominantly African-American organization with a membership of over 1,400. The NBS is the largest ski club in the United States and has been in existence for over 20 years. The Jim Dandy Ski Club of Detroit, Michigan recently celebrated its 50th anniversary as did the Chicago Ski Twisters. On the West Coast the Winter Fox Ski Club celebrated their 15th anniversary.

The National Brotherhood of Skiers was founded by Art Clay of Chicago, Illinois and Ben Findley of Los Angeles, California. The first "Black Summit" ski gathering took place in Aspen, Colorado in 1973. The purpose of the organization is to encourage and support minority youth in quest of membership on the United States Ski Team. In addition, the NBS promotes winter sports among African-American athletes. At present the NBS supports and provides financial assistance to over 25 African-American youth who are members of the NBS A & B national racing teams. In addition to these scholarships, the NBS supports 4 regional programs providing training to over 1,000 young African-American skiers throughout the United States as a part of the NBS youth development program.

The youth program has developed a number of talented African-American skiers. In the Northeast, Kina Picket of Woodstock, Vermont has developed into a nationally ranked skier. Mike Nelms of Edina, Minnesota is on the United States development team. Kenya Bick of Atlanta, Georgia attends Burke Mountain Academy and is on her way as a ranked skier. Jahi Ruthrifer of Denver, Colorado and Jahlis Wier from San Diego, California are competing now and will be the Vanguard of the future for African-American skiers.

The Mini-Summit week will include alpine (downhill) and Nordic (cross country) skiing and snowboarding instruction. Skiers at all levels, beginning with the novice first time skier, are given a helpful and warm welcome introduction to skiing. The 81 clubs compete for honors with the NBS "Challenge Cup" awarded to the club with the best overall combined men's results in alpine and Nordic skiing. Individual awards go to those competing in "NAS-T-FAT" format races. Many of the club activities are sponsored by long-time supporters such as Anheuser-Busch Brewery and the Sterling Winthrop Drug Company.

In general, scientists have not been able to determine which therapy works best with the least amount of fuss. Sciatica usually resolves on its own with treatment. The jury is still out as to the best approach.

The key is prevention. Proper posture and physical conditioning are important. Remember, some muscles support the spine much as rigging supports the mast of a ship. The further away from the body you carry weight the more stress the lower back has to cope with. Sciatica might be the result of a simple fault in human design, an engineering problem some people are destined to face.

Total care lies just beyond the physician’s reach but prevention remains in your hands.
