ROMANTIC CIRCUS PLAY
 TO BE SUMMER THEATRE FARE

A romantic drama with a circus setting, "Tonight in Samarkand," will open Thursday evening, July 14, the College's final production in the Little Theatre.

The director is William Slout, Professor of Drama.

The play by Jacques Deval and Lorenzo Semple, Jr. takes place in the dressing tent of a European traveling circus and deals with the irony of fate as it affects the lives of a lady tiger tamer and a circus magician-fortune teller. It was performed on Broadway in 1955 with such actors as Louis Jordan, Pernell Roberts, Theodore Bikel, Alexander Scourby and Rosemary Prinz.

Tickets are on sale for the summer production. Admission is $2.50 general; $2.00 faculty and staff; $1.50 students. Contact the Theatre Arts Dept., CA-175, Ext. 7454.

The CSCSB student cast is headed by Jodi Brown as the tiger tamer, J.C. Wright Wright, a juggler; Paul DeMeo, fortune teller; and Ted Plummer, a rich man with a yen for the tiger tamer.

TEACHERS HERE FOR STUDENT
IMPROVEMENT WRITING PROJECT

Twenty-five area teachers are the core group for a new Inland Empire program designed to improve student writing and based on the successful Bay Area writing project.

The Inland Area Writing Project, jointly sponsored by the College and UCR, revolves around a five-week intensive workshop for the teachers which began here last Monday. Upon its completion the teachers will serve as consultants for the area project and will be available for in-service programs.

The CSCSB site is one of 12, nation-wide, chosen for the new writing centers. Each of the teachers, selected from San Bernardino and Riverside county schools, received a fellowship including tuition for the summer program and $150 expense money.

Director of the project is Larry Kramer, Professor of English; co-directors are Dr. Dan Donlan, UCR, and Helen Deese, Lecturer in English at CSCSB.

RETIRED TEACHERS ASSN.
MAKES SCHOLARSHIP AWARD

Russell McCloud, CSCSB graduate student, has been awarded a $250 scholarship by the California Retired Teachers Assn.

The scholarship was awarded by the organization through its Laura E. Settle fund, the third time an award of this amount has been awarded to CSCSB students since 1973.

Mr. McCloud will continue his graduate study in education at CSCSB in the counseling area next year.

The CRTA has also given $2,500 for emergency loans to CSCSB education students since 1971. Nathan Kravetz, Dean, School of Education, and Ted Krug, Financial Aid coordinator, accepted the scholarship check from the CRTA representatives.
