Hendrix Howard Succumbs

Mary Joyce Hendrix-Henderson was born in Tups, Oklahoma on March 20, 1933, and passed away in Compton, CA on July 19, 2021. She was the fourth child of seven children born to Mary Joyce and John Hendrix. Her family left Oklahoma and moved to Yuma, Arizona in 1946 where Mary Joyce attended school and met and married John Hendrix. The couple moved to Berkeley and Jeffery who came from that area. After their divorce, she moved to San Bernardino where she lived since 1971. Mary Joyce accepted Jesus as her Lord and Savior in 1975 and joined St. Paul A.M.E. Church. On July 19, 2021, Mary Joyce departed this life at San Bernardino Community Hospital. Upon entering into eternity was confirmed by her daughter and sister - her passing was very peaceful. Leaving behind the pain and suffering that she had tolerated for long, she was ready for her reunion.

Mary Joyce leaves to cherish her memory, one daughter: Barbaraah Bled; three sons: Jack von Yuma, Arizona; Anthony Bled; two grandsons: Jordan Emanuel, Thomas Miranda; one sister: Tania, Corinthia, Annette, Alex and Kaye. She will be greatly missed by her nieces and nephews: Lawrence, James Hendrix, Willie Melvin, Michael Johnson Sr., Warren and Sarah Elen Sworn; three great nieces: Mychelle, Jordan Hendrix, Jr., and Femmelle Johnson; the host of other relatives and friends.

Masekela Excites Crowd In Riverside

Hugh Masekela, Music Ambassador Of South Africa

When Hugh Masekela came to the University of California in 1976, he was a legend in his own time. Recently, the audience attending a concert, was not disappointed. The master singer, once again delivered the goods.

Masekela, who hails from South Africa, ended the Anandita Aweeet (Power to the people) chant. His excitement with the new freedom was contagious.

Masekela told Black Voice following the performance, he just hoped people would understand Mandela needed time to put forth his program.

What Are America's Blacks Doing About Rwanda?

BY WILLIAM REED
NNPA Director of Communications

Even though it is one of the least watched episodes in world history, African Americans should be very concerned about the ongoing events in the African nation of Rwanda, the French-speaking eastern African country that borders Tanzania, Zaire, Burundi, and Uganda. Researchers estimate that as many as 600,000 Africans died in April and May as the Hutu ethnic group massacred their Tutsi compatriots in a governmental driven race-cleansing madness. Researchers estimate that as many as 600,000 Africans died in April and May as the Hutu ethnic group massacred their Tutsi compatriots in a governmental driven race-cleansing madness.

Reports indicate that as many as one million Rwandans have become displaced. Almost 50 percent of the population is now refugees waiting in camps as the government troops mass in front of them. Rwanda has been "deserted" and "abandoned" by the international community. Rwanda has been "deserted" and "abandoned" by the international community.

Controversial CLS Test Comes To Riverside

For 30 days beginning July 18, the Riverside and National Community Services Center (LCSC) is conducting a controversial CLS test in locations throughout the City of Riverside.

The CLS test, which is conducted by private companies for private organizations, is one of the most controversial tests of its kind. The CLS test is a psychological test that measures a person's ability to read between the lines of printed material. The test is administered in a public setting and the results are recorded and stored in a computer database.

The Riverside County Office of Education invites the public to view the CLS test materials online, and are asking for feedback from the community.

Dear Dr. Levister: What's the scoop, or perhaps gospel, on thigh cream? Do they really work, or is this just a dream?

Dear W.A.: It's a dream. A dream that keeps fat from breaking up. The cream contains Aminophylline, a common ingredient in asthma medications. It is often referred to as "miracle cream." The cream is designed to help break down fat cells by blocking the enzymes that release fat from the cells.

But is it really thigh cream? There's the dream. There's the cream. And there is 100% cream. That's what it's all about. Thigh cream testers discovered after spending three weeks in the lab that Aminophylline is a powerful fat burner. The cream is not a magic solution, but it is a promising treatment for weight loss.

Mary Kay Cosmetics
Names First Recipients of Scholarship for College-Bound African Americans

The votes are in for the recipients of the first Mary Kay Cosmetics Scholarship Award. The first year of the Scholarship Awards Program, the company's first charitable program, has awarded scholarships to 42 students. The awards total $78,000.

The winners were announced at a special ceremony held in New York City. The winners were selected based on their academic achievements, leadership qualities, and financial need.

The scholarship program is the first of its kind for a major beauty company. It is designed to provide financial assistance to college-bound African American students.

Beep Observes Silver Anniversary

At the 1994 annual Black Executive Exchange Program (BEEP) Convention, held recently in Atlanta, a host of corporate representatives, government officials and students gathered to celebrate the program's 25th anniversary. Founded as a means of preparing students at historically Black colleges and universities to take their rightful place in the economic mainstream, BEEP currently has some 3,000 African-American executives and professionals serving as visiting professors, campus recruiters and mentors on some 84 college campuses. John H. Johnson (right), chairman, Johnson Publishing Company was among the notables who saluted BEEP. As the keynote speaker at the annual dinner, Johnson spoke of the commitment demonstrated over the years by BEEP mentors and administrations and of how, with changing economic conditions and global competition, the need to support BEEP's mission has never been greater. Johnson (right) is pictured here with Virgi W. Colbert (left), chairman of BEEP's Executive Advisory Committee and senior vice president—operations, Miller Brewing Company, and BEEP director Renee Du Jean.

Loveland Academy's Dream Comes True, With A Little Help

fter the civil unrest on April 29, 1992, many corporate sponsors donated money to help rebuild the city of Los Angeles. Unfortunately, the problems of the big city, which have caused so many problems in other areas of the state, have not been solved. City officials are not sure how to help children in gang-populated neighborhoods.

The Loveland Church, in the island Empire, has made a commitment to help children of their community by revising the Loveland Academy. The Academy, founded by Loveland Church in 1992, is located in a high crime-gang-infected area. Without a fence around the school, the children are vulnerable to neighborhood crime activities. The school is refurbished with help from Southern California Edison, Hughes Aircraft, and A B Design, an architectural firm in the inner city.

The end result will be a playground including a volleyball and basketball court, access for the physically challenged, play area and recycle pad. The refurbishment will transform the school into a safer environment where learning can take place.

Every project is directed through its commitment to regional leadership, educational and minority achievement. "We see a need to help children and the Loveland Academy has a way to give these children the jump-start they need," says Southern California Edison Human Resource Specialist Debra Williams. "We’re more than happy to know we are steering kids in the right direction.

Despite the donations of time, money and supplies from Edison, Hughes and others, Loveland Academy is still in need of desperate needs of supplies as sand, concrete bricks, cement, lumber and chain-link fencing. The Loveland staff is searching for other corporate sponsors willing to donate supplies, goods and funds. Hughes Aircraft has donated building materials for extra classrooms that will allow larger much-needed space to take children off the waiting list and provide classroom space. "If parents call regularly to find out if a space has opened," says Loveland Academy Principal Barbara Farnsworth, "they want children in school at the beginning of the new school year.

Loveland Academy, located in a high crime-gang-infected area, is founded by Loveland Church in 1989, is located in a high crime-gang-infected area. Without a fence around the school, the children are vulnerable to neighborhood crime activities. The school is refurbished with help from Southern California Edison, Hughes Aircraft, and A B Design, an architectural firm in the inner city.

The end result will be a playground including a volleyball and basketball court, access for the physically challenged, play area and recycle pad. The refurbishment will transform the school into a safer environment where learning can take place.

Every project is directed through its commitment to regional leadership, educational and minority achievement. "We see a need to help children and the Loveland Academy has a way to give these children the jump-start they need," says Southern California Edison Human Resource Specialist Debra Williams. "We’re more than happy to know we are steering kids in the right direction.

Despite the donations of time, money and supplies from Edison, Hughes and others, Loveland Academy is still in need of desperate needs of supplies as sand, concrete bricks, cement, lumber and chain-link fencing. The Loveland staff is searching for other corporate sponsors willing to donate supplies, goods and funds. Inside View: The Inmates Advise O.J.

BY SAMUEL K. ATCHISON

I conducted my regular weekly prayer service at the County Correction center near Riverside, California, a few days ago. It was clear that nearly everyone but J.J. Simpson on their minds.

Most of the prisoners have an aversion to Americans. They had watched, along with the rest of the country, the motion cavalcade up the freeway - a polar parade of former football star in connection with the trial of his ex-wife and her friend.

The great exception made for the most prison population, I was introduced as to the advice they would offer him. So, with our chain in a circle on the floor of our gymnastic chapel, we imagined O.J. in the room with us.

"As Black men and inmates, I have watched, along with the rest of the country, the slow-motion process of the trial of O.J. Simpson. The general consensus was both pragmatic and spiritual: "Get the best lawyer you can, and put your trust in God." It appears that O.J., some 2500 miles away, has taken this advice. He has hired a former American football Hall of Fame coach to handle his case.

The great consensus was also among the most expensive, guaranteed to result in the trial that will take a huge bite from Simpson's personal fortune. As is well known, all the inmates followed the recommendations to seek the guidance of the Almighty, no one seemed to know. Yet, he would be wise to follow that suggestion as well. The evidence against him seems to be mounting. But he is free, thanks to his ability to post the high-priced counsel he has retained.

His most marketable assets — a handsome face and celebrity status — will be little use. Furthermore, a long and costly trial, full of stale raves about his personal life, may leave him bereft of friends. Paper may be the one thing he has going for him. It is then ironic that with all of the high-priced counsel Simpson is receiving, his best advice may well have come from a group of career criminals who have known him well: (The Musings of the "good life" — health, contentment, happiness and respect — flow from a relationship with God.

A Lot of Fun from "The Little Rascals"

By Anhour Hassel

They walk the streets unafraid. They know it's their own rules. They may not see them, but they're everywhere—hanging out in apar- tments, exchanging secret mes- sages, sneaking into the ramshackle buildings. And trouble follows them like a trail of tailpipes.

They're The Little Rascals: Spunky, Alfalfa, Dufty, Spanky, Buckwheat, Petey and the rest—and they're back for more mightier and with a new brand—fresh—look com-

And only one thing can stop them...

Bedtime.

Universal Pictures and King World present The Little Rascals, based on the long-running comedy created by Director/co-writer Penelope Spohers (Wayne's World, The Beverly Hillbillies) brings a whole new generation of Rascals to movie theaters,生动ly evoking the sentiment of innocent fun and unabashed nationwide popularity that made the original series a classic.

As the tales that inspired it, the contemporary version of The Little Rascals puts all of the adventure every kid's day-to-day life.

During the 1990s, all of the author's most famous personalities made their debuts—very cute characters who make up the modern-day Little Rascals. And here they are: Alfalfa, the central romantic, comes with a voice like tinfoil; Club president Spanky and his world-weary pensive manners; Daffy's melting smiles and Simoncini air; Buckwheat and Petey, the young pranksters—proving even that the Little Rascals are capable of big surprises; level-headed Spanky with his trademark derby; Lil' Wynn, whose one-word vocabulary somehow manages to express everything and nothing at the same time; Freeway, the chubby-pint-sized door-keeper, with a voice that creates a subterranean buzz; the obsessive determination of each kid; Waldo's constant harassment by Balboa and Weim. And, of Success: Every man should ask himself if he expects to succeed, he must prove himself worthy of the other man's dollar." Edward H. Hartman.

"Education is of any practical value it should serve to guide us to living, to fit us for the future generation regardless of race, creed or color, can live a happy, productive life. Each generation should be given the opportunity to give more to life as a result of receiving more from "God's World." Together, we can make this a better world to live in.

"Every day is judgment day, and we, through our deeds and words, our silence and speech, are constantly setting in the Black of Life." Martin Luther King Jr. 1964.

Reunion of Moreno Valley

"What Manner of Man," 1958

It is wonderful to have the schools of Moreno Valley recognized for their many accomplishments. In the coming school year 94/95 we will discover that the staff on each campus is well qualified to meet the needs of our children. "Precious Lord, take my hand and lead me on, let me stand tall and strong. I am weak, I am worn through the storms, through the night. Lead me on to the light." Thomas Dorsey, "Precious Lord"

We have a wonderful track program being supported and coached by hard working parents of Moreno Valley. They are doing a wonderful job of providing an activity that is keeping many of our youth busy in a constructive program which has produced champions. This program is under the leadership of Al Phennix who has given his talent and time to the "Moreno Valley Rockers" track team. This group needs your support. Will you decide to do what you can do to help them, and do it?

They have shown the support the area gives to the youth. The rodeo is a wholesome activity that helps deter kids from crime, shows them there is another way to make a living and exposes them to the history of our nation. The cultural aspect is astounding.

Fred "Rerun" Berry, actor (What's Happening?) works with the Black Voice group to his first Bill Pickett Rodeo. The kids were happy and proud to have him on the bus. Other noted attendees: Councilman Maxine Waters, and Nancy Wilson's daughter, Samantha Burns. Lou Yassou, owner, and founder should be commended for his hard work in putting on the outstanding show.

Art Hassel, S.E.L.P. Summer Youth Programs, checks in bus riders to the rodeo.
In The Sportslight With Robin Roberts To Premiere On EPSN

The Sportslight with Robin Roberts, a new ESPN series of Sportscenter specials, will premiere Monday, July 25 at 7:30 p.m. ET. This on-location interview show will present prominent and successful individuals who trace the room of their success back to the fields of their childhood sports dreams. The 30-minute premiere will feature Senator Bill Bradley and rap artist Hammer.

"These specials will show that people can achieve success through avenues other than professional athletics," said Roberts. "They will show that what we learn through participating in sports can be applied to our everyday lives."

Basketball superstar Shaquille O'Neal stars as Grandpa Shaq in TV advertising for Pepsi-Cola's new body-quenching sports drink, All Sports. In the whimsical spot, Grandpa Shaq reminisces with his grandchildren how All Sports with its great taste and advanced formula has made the game of basketball too easy. In another development, Pepsi has stepped aside on certain contractual rights so that Shaq can be named to Dream Team II.
