CFA Looks To Strike

By Amber S. Miner
Arts and Entertainment Editor

The California Faculty Administration voted to declare effective immediately, a state-of-strike. This SOS requires action only from the members of CFA, not the entire Cal State faculty. The SOS is the CFA's reaction to terms imposed by the Chancellor, Charles Reed, and the Board of Trustees of the CSU.

The terms imposed on Mar. 17 put a 5% pay increase into place. This resolution breaks the pay increase into four sections. First, 1.5% goes to a service increase for eligible faculty. Then, 2.5% is designated as a general salary increase for all faculty members; both of these increases are retroactive to Oct. 1, 1998. The next pay section, $16.2 million, or 40% of the overall increase, is set up as a merit pay pool. Lastly, $925,000 is additional merit compensation for department chairs; both merit pools are retroactive to July 1, 1998.

The imposition of the terms was done without a vote by the CFA. The CFA voted in February to reject the proposed tentative agreement. The general assumption was that contract negotiations would be continued between the CFA, The Chancellor and the Board of Trustees. However, the CFA feels that the terms imposed upon them revert them to a state of affairs which is far worse than ratification of the "Tentative Agreement" would have been.

The TA was based mainly upon recommendations from a neutral fact-finder. The CFA voted to reject the TA due mostly to the merit pay system that it would have put into effect. Merit pay has long been the most controversial aspect of the negotiations. Now that new terms have been imposed, without the ratification by the CFA, members are outraged.

The state-of-strike, or SOS, that was voted on at the CFA Assembly meeting, held Mar. 27-28, is not to be confused with a full-

Cal State Employee Arrested for Pandering

By D'Lorah DeBarge

It is unknown whether he has a criminal past, but Anthony Parrish, an employee in the Student Account's Office was arrested and charged with two felony counts of pandering at the end of last session.

Sgt. Brian Bodily of University Police said a student came forward to report that Anthony Parrish, who worked in the Student Account's Office had allegedly suggested that the student perform sex in return for money to pay tuition.

The student, whose name is being withheld, reported the incident, and an investigation began. Because of the ongoing investigation, Bodily could not say whether other students had come forward subsequently with similar complaints.

"Between the efforts of two investigators and the student, evidence was obtained that lead to the arrest of Mr. Parrish," Bodily said. The investigation was conducted with the assistance of Det. Garrels from Cal-State Fullerton, who has considerable experience investigating this type of crime.

Subsequently, the evidence presented to the district attorney was sufficient to produce a warrant and Parrish was arrested at his home on Mar. 16. He was later released on $25,000 bail.

Cynthia Pringle, Director of Public Affairs, said she was first notified of an investigation on Mar. 8, which culminated in Parrish's arrest. Pringle said Parrish was first hired in May 1996 and had worked without incident until the Mar. 8 complaint.

The university would not release any other information concerning Parrish's employment. A check of Sheriff's records concerning Meagan's Law reveals that Parrish is not a registered sex offender in the city of San Bernardino. In the wake of the allegations Parrish reportedly resigned.
It’s Election Time For ASI

Student elections will be held Apr. 12-13, run-offs will be held Apr. 15 and the results will be released on Apr. 16.

President

Dick Phillips—As ASI president, I will rent limousines with ASI money. I will also embezzle ASI Funds, get caught, and pay it back after a meeting with President Karnig. Does this sound good to you? Well, this is what your current ASI is doing with your mandatory ASI fees. CSUSB students shouldn’t be forced to pay for ASI’s corruption. ASI is nothing more than a political machine that relies on student apathy and ignorance to survive. Rage against the machine! Vote none of the above! Sign the petition to Abolish Mandatory ASI Fees!

Mary Ellen Ables—Re-entry student, single parent, Social Science, Communication minor. Current Vice president for ASI, Chair, Student Union Board, University Ambassador, etc. Vision for next year: Controversial speakers on campus. Wider acknowledgement of club, organization, Greek and Panhellenic contribution to retention rates. Prioritize agenda. Proposal keeping A.S. I. C.V.C. student fees in reserve account for C.V.C. student use only. Discover why C.O.D. dislikes serving C.V.C. students. Save the Coyotes! Bring Coyote Bronze to Coyote Drive entrance as promised. Bring Guinness Book of World Record to campus. Increase student benefits. Hold more events without raising the $36 yearly fee. Show student art on blank walls.

Vice President

Andrew Simakke—Leadership is paramount importance in establishing effective student government. I have been involved in campus life, having held leadership positions in SVA, ASI, Student Union, and the Debate team. Currently, I serve as ASI Internal Affairs Director, Treasurer of SMAC, Campus Involvement Chair for Pi Kappa Alpha, and am a member of the University Ambassadors. ASI lacks the resources to do everything; we need to focus on relevant services such as childcare and events programming that benefit student life. As a student and student leader, I will develop services that enhance the educational experience for traditional and non-traditional students.

Ihab Omar—This past year I have been very disappointed in the direction ASI has gone. I feel that ASI has become less student friendly, and that is the reason my #1 goal as ASI president will be to make ASI more student friendly, and make it an actual representative of all students. I plan to do such things as keep the box office and legal clinic open longer for late students, keep the ASI office open later to accommodate night students. ASI will become more involved in Coyote Athletics and the student union. ASI will promote events and give students support in all of their events. I guarantee that ASI will become a service to students in my administration.

Controller

Luis Portillo—My name is Luis Portillo, and I’m running for ASI controller. I am currently a junior majoring in Business and Public Administration. I’ve been involved with ASI for the past year and while in ASI I have participated in organizing events such as the ASI drawing. As ASI controller, I would increase student involvement by going into classrooms and letting students know what ASI is planning, and getting their feedback. I would also work closer with all the clubs to enhance the quality of campus life for all students.

Iwona Maria Luczkievicz—As ASI controller, my goals will be to make sure all clubs, organizations, and students know where their ASI money is going. But also to inform and educate everyone at CSUSB and CVA about ASI and what it is for the school and students. To inform student/faculty organizations about CAF funding and other sources of money available to them, at CSUSB. But also to bring back the welcomed open door policy to all student s if they have questions or concerns. Having longer office hours so that student can have the same advantages as day and morning students. Being able to help students, organizations, clubs, staff, faculty, and administrators in some shape or form at CSUSB and CVC, is of great importance.

Linh Phan—My name is Linh Phan, a second year Physics major running for ASI controller. As an active student at CSUSB, I’m part of the Forensics Team, the Fees Committee, chair of the Environmental Committee as president of SPAC. I believe that participation is key to a better university and education. As controller for CSUSB, I will support all club and organizational activities on campus because I believe the money of the students should be returned to the students. Hard work, dedication, and objectiveness. These are the values that will enable me to retain the dignity of the controller position.

Mary Ellen Ables—Re-entry student, single parent, Social Science, Communication minor. Strike con’t blown strike. Work will not stop, and if all goes as planned, the students will not be directly af-
The goals of the SOS are to “bring economic, political, and public influence to bear on the employers,” to increase public awareness and support, and to bring about a collective action.
What does this mean to the students of the Cal State system?
Hopefully nothing. The CFA would like to maintain a SOS, without seeing it launched into an all-work-is-halted strike.
For now, the actions that are being taken are meant to allow the CFA to be taken seriously, while at the same time show that they are dedicated to their profession and don’t want students to be affected by the labor dispute.
In a press release, posted on the CFA website, the CFA Assembly stated the main reason for the declaration of a SOS. The CFA feels that the Chancellor and the Board of Trustees failed to “honor the decisive rejection by the CFA membership.” They want it known that the SOS is a condition of active resistance to the CSU’s imposed conditions. Business will not continue as usual.
The idea is for CFA faculty members to engage in activities of non-cooperation, without directly affecting teaching or other services that are provided directly to the students of the CSU.
Instead, the desire is to hurt the administration’s ability to fully function. This is done in three levels. The SOS is currently in the first level.
Level I engage the faculty in active non-cooperation with the administration, both local and central. As stated above, action in the first level should not directly affect the education of the students.
If Level I is not as effective as the CFA would like, then the SOS will progress to the second level.
This level could have slightly more of an effect on the students. In Level II SOS actions, the faculty will actively engage in a “work to rule” policy. Some examples of this would be a refusal to accept late registrations, overloads, or students who have not met all required pre-requisites for a course.
While Level II actions are slightly more effective, if they fail to reach the desired results from the CSU, then Level III action will be implemented. This level could mean stopping work and even a refusal to teach until contract negotiations are revised. This level of action may never be deemed necessary, or it could be implemented tomorrow.
The way it stands now, any level is authorized as a course of action for each chapter sees fit. However, the local chapters must first consult with the statewide coordinating body, which is to be designated by the CFA’s Board of Directors.

Nato Prepares For Ground Offensive?

By David G. Smothers
Chronicle Staff Writer

As air strikes continue in Kosovo, the possibility of a full ground offensive involving NATO forces grows daily.

According to the Department of Defense, the mission is to attack the military infrastructure that President Milosevic and his forces are using to repress and kill innocent people. The military objectives are to deter further Serbian attacks against the people of Kosovo and reduce the ability of the Serbian military forces to continue their offensive operations.

Phase I of the current operation entailed surgical air strikes at targets that have posed a threat to the aircraft to be used in Phase II. Phase II of the offensive will be employed to distinguish more specific targets. The specific targets will include Yugoslav military units that are participating in the killing of innocent civilians.

Of NATO's 19 member nations, 11 are contributing forces to Operation Allied Force, including Belgium, Canada, Denmark, France, Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Spain, the United Kingdom and the United States. Member nations not participating are the Czech Republic, Greece, Hungary, Iceland, Luxembourg, Poland, Portugal and Turkey.

Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic has built his power base on one major pillar since his rise in 1989 as Serbia's president: his passion for a Greater Serbia. He has attempted to do this almost at any cost. The mission has led his military, either directly or indirectly through surrogates, into murderous campaigns against Croatia, Bosnia and now Kosovo. Milosevic's take-no-hostages approach has earned him the title of "Butcher of the Balkans." His policy of ethnically cleansing areas where his opponents reside — by removing entire populations — has led to worldwide outrage.

Milosevic, by his stubbornness and deceptive behavior, has led his nation over the brink into military conflict with NATO.

Joe Lockhart, White House Press Secretary, stated that: "We've seen tens of thousands of refugees moving out of that country, even within the last day. But this is a price that everything we know about Milosevic and the Serbs that they were going ahead with this. And we were faced with a choice here, which was: Do we act or do we not act? And we think by acting, we will make him pay a price — he is paying a price — that is a price that he will not be able to sustain."

A Military Official confirmed suspicions of a shift from an air offensive to a full ground offensive. He stated that: "Based on the terrain and access from the ocean, it would be very possible to not only commit ground troops, but it would also be the natural progression of this type of military offensive. We are prepared for this type of terrain, but it is very difficult and has the potential of sustaining a large number of NATO casualties."

Yugoslav Foreign Minister Zivadin Jovanovic revealed that his country had discussed with "friendly" nations the possibility of supplying Yugoslavia with "assistance to reinforce our defense." U.S. government officials stated that they were aware that Yugoslavia had approached Russia and the Ukraine, but at this time U.S. officials do not think either country will supply Yugoslavia with arms. According to United Press International, Britain's elite Special Air Service (SAS) has begun deploying to Kosovo. The mission assigned to the four-man team according to the British newspaper Mirror is the location and assassination of Serbian officials engaged in genocide. It is possible that SAS as well as U.S. Special Forces and those of other NATO countries have been in Kosovo for an extended period already, working with the Kosovars and providing targeting information to aircraft. This report appears to be a new mission more than a new deployment.

William Cohen, Secretary of Defense, warned that continued Yugoslav resistance would increase the possibility that the final outcome of the conflict will be an independent Kosovo. He said this while he and the U.S. Chairman of the Joint Chiefs were asserting that the air campaign will continue and will be effective.

Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Henry Shelton, stated that "I believe that bombing can accomplish the military objectives that we have laid out." He added. "Every day that goes by, he will have less and less capability with which to carry out the types of repressive operations that he's been conducting in the past."

Undersecretary of State Thomas Fickering has stated that air strikes were just beginning and that the plan was to bomb the Serbs back to the bargaining table or to cripple them so completely that they would not be able to carry out genocide. He also claimed that no ground troops would be used.

On March 27, a Russian presidential spokesman said that Russian President Boris Yeltsin sent a letter of support to Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic. In the letter, Yeltsin condemned NATO's military action and stated his support for the people of Yugoslavia. Is the mission's endgame clear? According to unnamed sources, the goal has not been well defined by NATO and Clinton has acted without much thought as to how to fully accomplish the goal. The U.S. still has troops in Bosnia, Haiti, and other parts of the World where the United States has attempted peacekeeping missions. Such missions where not well thought out, as in the current situation, therefore the end may not justify the means. There are other areas in the World where ethnic cleansing is taking place, but for now, Kosovo is the most strategically viable.

Save over 50% on your long distance bills! Just ten cents a minute! No monthly fees! What in the heck is going on here with long distance?

If you're overwhelmed with all the commercials and feel lost when you want to make a long distance call, you're not alone. There are so many choices that can save you money. But, more often than not, you end up spending more.

After Congress passed the Telecommunications Act putting long distance on the open market there was an explosion in the number of long distance carriers. Since then we have been consistently bombarded with commercials for services like 10-10-321, 10-10-811 and 10-10-220. These services let you keep your current long distance carrier while using their service only when you dial the code.

So, what do you do? How do you save money with these codes? Which one will save you the most? Well, I'm no expert, but I can shed some light on how some of these codes. You can beat the 10-10-220 game if you play it smart.

Tony Danza and the cab driver from the old sitcom Taxi, you've probably gotten the mass mailers too. You know, the ones with all the stickers for you to place on your phone. You can beat the 10-10-220 service. Dial this gem of a service and you pay just ninety-nine cents a minute. Not too bad, right? Well, 10-10-811 seems to be pretty sly too. They only charge ten cents a minute, but they have a minimum of three minutes. Remember that these people are in the business to make money. Now, let's not be too hard on them. After all, Doug Flutie is one of their spokesmen, and they do donate a portion of their profits to Cystic Fibrosis. And when you actually spend the full twenty minutes talking, it only costs five cents a minute.

The key here is to call the person you plan on talking to using your current service. Find out if they're home. Then, tell them you'll call right back using the 10-10-220 service. It's not too hard to make these services work for you. And if you play the game right, this service is one of the best.

The best thing that you can do for big papers that those commercials. Many of these 10-10 companies count on consumer ignorance to make a profit...

MCI and Sprint appear to be at the front lines with their offers. AT&T seems to be lagging behind, counting on the loyalty factor and the fact that people are generally too confused to make any changes. MCI offers something called MCI One Net Savings. Using this plan, you get rates at nine cents a minute. So, 10-10-811 and then hanging up and using 10-10-220. Well, 10-10-811 seems to be pretty sly too. The key here is to call the person you plan on talking to using your current service. Find out if they're home. Then, tell them you'll call right back using the 10-10-220 service. It's not too hard to make these services work for you. And if you play the game right, this service is one of the best.

MCI offers something called MCI One Net Savings. Using this plan, you get rates at nine cents a minute. So, 10-10-811 and then hanging up and using 10-10-220. Well, 10-10-811 seems to be pretty sly too. They only charge ten cents a minute, but they have a minimum of three minutes. Remember that these people are in the business to make money.

Now, let's not be too hard on them. After all, Doug Flutie is one of their spokesmen, and they do donate a portion of their profits to Cystic Fibrosis. And when you actually spend the full twenty minutes talking, it only costs five cents a minute.

Gingko Biloba

By Cheri Dixon
Features Editor

Does Gingko Biloba really increase your brain power? Studies show that this herbal extract made from the leaves of a tree native to China may improve memory skills in elderly patients suffering from Alzheimer’s disease, but may not have any effect on younger people with no memory problems.

"Gingko Biloba is my first choice in people who have age-associated memory disturbance," said Turan M. Itil. "There's no [other] safe, effective treatment available. Itil, a member of the New York Institute for Medical Research team, conducted a randomized, double-blind study on 309 Alzheimer patients.

The results of this study were published in the Journal of the American Medical Association in October of 1997. The gingko extract "improved cognitive performance in 27-37% of treatment patients," said the researchers. "The improvement may be equivalent to a 6-month delay in the progression of Alzheimer's disease."

"Whereas some studies have shown that gingko improves mental functioning in people with dementia, none has proved that it serves as a brain tonic for the healthy," said Gary Stix in an article published in Scientific American in February of 1998.

"No data have demonstrated that it can improve memory in young people," affirmed Dr. Norman Farnsworth, research professor of pharmacognosy at the University of Illinois at Chicago. "But I use it myself, and it's safe," he added.

No life-threatening side-effects to the herb have been reported, but mild stomach aches and headaches have sometimes been experienced. These affects "were no different from those associated with placebo," according to researchers of the Alzheimer patient study.

The good affects of the herb on demented patients may be due to gingko's anti-inflammatory and antioxidant effects and a component called ginkgolides. "It seems to be the antioxidant action of ginkgo that protects delicate brain tissue and prevents damage by inflammation," said Steven Foster in his article "Memory Power from the Herb Garden."

Gingko also reduces the stickiness and clotting ability of platelets in the bloodstream (so it should not be taken with drugs that prevent blood clotting). This blood thinning process can improve cerebral circulation in older people. The natural results of aging may reduce blood flow in a 70-year-old person by 20% and in cases of dementia may reduce blood flow up to 30% according to a spokesperson from the Homeopathic Center of Johnston, Rhode Island.

Gingko will "reduce the risk of arterial deposits and clotting, and scavange or suppress formation of free radicals," explained Foster. Radicals are unstable molecules in the body that can damage healthy cells and contribute to disease and aging.

When asked about the benefits of zinko, Dr. Joseph Pizzorno, president of Bastyr University in Seattle, a top school for naturopathy, replied, "I've taken it, but haven't noticed a difference." Pizzorno continued, "But since I'm fifty, I'll probably start taking it regularly as a way to prevent for-

TAX ADVANTAGED SOLUTIONS FROM TIAA-CREF

UNFORTUNATELY, THIS IS WHERE PEOPLE ARE PUTTING TOO MANY RETIREMENT DOLLARS.

Every year, a lot of people make a huge mistake on their taxes. They wind up sending Uncle Sam money they could be saving for retirement.

Fortunately, that's a mistake you can avoid with SRAs—tax-deferred annuities from TIAA-CREF. SRAs not only ease your current tax bite, they offer an easy way to build retirement income—especially for the extras that your pension and Social Security benefits may not cover. Because your contributions are made in pretax dollars, you pay less in taxes now. And since earnings on your SRAs are tax deferred, your money works even harder for you.

Today, we offer other before- and after-tax financial solutions, including IRAs and mutual funds. They're backed by the same investment experience, low expenses, and personal service that have made TIAA-CREF the choice of America's educational and research community.

Why write off the chance for a more rewarding retirement? Stop by your benefits office or call us at 1 800 842-2776 and find out how TIAA-CREF SRAs can help you enjoy happier returns.

The Final Shot

Thanks for the magical ride

Richard Contreras
Sports Editor

It was quite a magical moment, tuning to AM 1550 on March 17 to hear history being made.

For most of us, who either didn't have time or lacked money to make the trip to Louisville, Ky, there was an overwhelming sense of pride to know that our team from Cal State San Bernardino was suddenly in the national spotlight.

Alas, as it would turn out, the Coyotes ended their exhilarating season with an 84-69 first-round defeat to Florida Southern in the NCAA Division II Elite Eight Championships.

And of course we felt bad for the team.

But I for one wasn't overly disappointed.

After being picked to finish in the basement of the CCAA and starting out the season sluggish, the Coyotes turned more than a few heads going on an 11 game tear through conference; also defeating rival-county and perennial power UC Riverside twice.

As a result, they suddenly they found themselves with a spot in the Western Regionals up at Ellensburg, Washington.

By March 6, they had at least the western half of the nation, if not the state of Washington, in awe, fighting tooth and nail in three games to inexplicably win the Regional Championship.

The Coyotes were pummeled and outrebounded by Florida Southern 84-69 before approximately 3,500 at the Commonwealth Center in Louisville, Ky.

Coach Reynolds was quoted as saying "this team made us as a school and community grow up real quick." And he's absolutely right. For a program that has been in D2 competition for only eight years, not to mention competing in one of the toughest conferences in the nation, this season was a dramatic step in the right direction.

It also put the city of San Bernardino on the college basketball map. Even if most people back east couldn't spell it, let alone pronounce it.

The pain from the first-round loss will soon wear off. But no one will be quick to forget the many accomplishments after seeing the soon-to-be-placed Regional Championship banner hanging in the Coussoulis.

That CSUSB didn't win the D2 Championship — most of us could care less.

The seeming magical element of proving the naysayers wrong by playing with plenty of determination and heart is what makes fans of all of us even those of us who don't know a basketball from a baseball.

Cal State Falls in Elite Eight

This time David couldn't beat Goliath.

Cal State put an end to an improbable and monstrous season losing in the first round of the NCAA Division II Elite Eight Championships Wednesday March 17.

The Coyotes were pummeled and outrebounded by Florida Southern 84-69 before approximately 3,500 at the Commonwealth Center in Louisville, Ky.

CSUSB (23-8) finishes the season as Western Regional Champions and places second in the CCAA after predictions of a ninth-place finish.

“I'd have to give Florida Southern all the credit,” lamented Cal State coach Larry Reynolds. “We knew they were a very athletic team and very good on the offensive boards, but couldn't do a good job containing it.”

The Moccasins only shot a cold 33-percent from the field, but were able to stymie the Coyotes using a full-court press and held a 53-32 rebounding advantage off the boards.

Senior guard Phil Johnson, playing in his final game led with 19 points. Junior guard Jimmy Alapag added 18.

Horoscopes

Carol Nishida
Chronicle Astrologer

Aries: (3/21-4/19)
Spring break is over, but a new quarter is just beginning. Yuck! This doesn't mean you can sit back and roll your eyes. You will feel much better when you find an excuse to be physically active. It's easier to do things with people than it is to sit around talking. Tackle schoolwork with a smile and a sense of excellence. You'll soon feel better and productive.

Taurus: (4/20-5/20)
Don't lose sight of yourself just because you were on vacation for a week. You may be the only one telling the truth. Be generous with your attention, but be a misfit in every other regard. This also applies in your relationships. You'd be mistaken to allow popular sentiment to influence your work at this time. You may be able to let your guard down next week, but play with caution until then. Better to be safe than sorry.

Gemini: (5/21-6/20)
You'll come into the new quarter refreshed and enthusiastic. Due to your creative nature, a handful of good ideas will be flooding your mind. In business, you seem to be the mouthpiece of some larger force that speaks through you. Take some much deserved credit for your accomplishments, mostly in your love life. You know what that is! Wink

Cancer: (6/21-7/22)
Temptation lets you peers through a crack in a forbidden door. Spring break was merely enough to wet your appetite in the love department, but considering the hurt you've experienced, you might still be a little hesitant to be impulsive. Don't worry, you're safe as long as you don't develop unhealthy tastes once you become involved. You never know who might be watching and how your transgressions will get back to you.

Leo: (7/23-8/22)
Even if break is over, you still have a burst of energy. Stick to your plans of doing well this quarter. They'll fall through if you remain dedicated from the start. Friendships are strong this week, but be careful not to over party. Your body may be in school, but your mind is still on break. Once you get back into reality, your relationships and business should fall into place.

Virgo: (8/23-9/22)
The second of April is the one moment when you fully grasp the complexity of your world. Your present role seems to be more the interpreter than the inventor. This is all about to change! The hard work will soon pay off, both in your personal and professional life. Of course, this doesn't give you the excuse to slack on school, but with your natural talent for work, you shouldn't have any problems. Don't forget to enjoy life. You deserve it!

Libra: (9/23-10/22)
Get out of your routine and do something completely different. Eat lunch in a new place or take a spontaneous trip. Even ask a stranger's phone number. You never know who you'll meet. Don't overdo it. You just had spring break, remember? But adventure is where you'll find it! When was the last time you looked for a fantastic opportunity?

Scorpio: (10/23-11/21)
Reach a decision quickly before it is no longer yours to make. The world is constantly in motion, and it's not going to wait for you. An old set of calculations is about to come in handy. As for your personal life, don't be quick to argue with yourself. They have their own problems too. Remember to be yourself and have fun. Just because spring break is over doesn't mean the excitement has to end.

Sagittarius: (11/22-12/21)
You may need the approval of others before you can act. This may be unnerving to you since you usually don't answer to no one, but this week may be slightly different. Leave nothing to chance like you always do. Use simple language to your friends. They may not catch every word you say. Project a smile and a positive mood. An upbeat attitude should be your constant companion to your happiness.

Capricorn: (12/22-1/19)
Even if classes are just starting, there's always more to do. Your stopping point should be determined by your own needs and rhythms, not the set rules of others. Other's confusion or exhaustion can affect you negatively if you allow it. Friends are wonderful this week and romance may be on the rise. Keep your eyes and ears open.

Aquarius: (1/20-2/18)
Everyone around you is motivated and clear about his or her message, including yours. Business and personal partnerships thrive under the light of April. You might spend much of your week in amazement and daydreams, but what else is new? You have bright ideas and creativity when it comes to work, yet have a difficult time grounding yourself to reality. Find a balance between the two and your social life will blossom even more.

Pisces: (2/19-3/20)
Your mind has a tendency to drift like your fellow Aquarian. Pay attention to what you're doing before you get into trouble. You may take advantage of this opportunity and back stab you. If there's any way you can get out of the hot seat, find someone to cool your heels and dream away. Sometimes, dreamland is more fun than actual reality, as long as you don't get too carried away.

I WAS GETTING READY FOR SPRING BREAK! I'M NOT READY FOR THE NEW QUARTER!

Hey Dudes and Duette! How ya guys doin' today?

Ask me what I did for my Spring Break! C'mon, c'mon!

What did you do for Spring Break?

Went to Cancun, Mexico for the MTV Spring Break! There was beer, girls... a lot of girls. As far as partying like the eye can see, crazy! Hardly anyone slept... there were songwriting contests.

Check it out! I have a killer tan to prove it too! Yeah, heh heh.

That's not a tan! That was the Big Brother.
