CLARK MAYO CHOOSES VONNEGUT
AS TOPIC OF FIRST BOOK

Why Kurt Vonnegut? In choosing the subject of his first book, "Kurt Vonnegut: The Gospel from Outer Space (Or, Yes We Have No Nirvanas)," Clark Mayo states that his book was the natural fall-out originating from a long-standing interest and five-year accumulation of writings on the well-known author.

Dr. Mayo, Associate Professor of English, says he first became interested in Vonnegut because it seemed there was a gap between the author's enormous popularity among college-age students and the divided opinion of the critics, some of whom took him seriously and some who did not. At the time he started to work on the Vonnegut book only one other had been printed about him. Some have come out during the past year.

The CSCSB professor believes "Vonnegut's writing is remarkable for establishing an important new trend in contemporary fiction with his 'Gestalt' technique which provides the reader with a holistic rather than linear mode of perception, as well as his 'naive' vision, which seems to stem from his sense of appreciation and wonder of the world, written with a keen sense of humor."

The Borgo Press of San Bernardino has announced publication of Dr. Mayo's book, Vol. 7 of the Milford Series: Popular Writers of Today, a continuing series of critical studies on the great modern authors of our time.

Dr. Mayo is currently working on a second volume for the series, a study of the works of Roger Zelazny, the well-known author of mythopoeic fantasy.

The Vonnegut book will soon be available in the College Bookstore.
