The Simpson Case: The Danger Of Crying Racism

BY EARL OFARI HUTCHINSON

Every single African-American not only you think O.J. didn't do it, answers, the questioner says: "Well, I don't think he did it." When I ask, "How do you know," they reply: "We're not trying to make a comedy of murder, innuendo, gossip, half-truth and stuff; only the family's world war is all we're trying to get the truth.

When I intently suggest that the circumstantial evidence against him is still evidence, they return, "He was framed." When I ask: "What if, what if?" The list of "suspects" includes: the Mafia, Columbia drug dealers, the LAPD, the L.A. County District Attorney, O.J., the lawyer or O.J.'s attorney.

When Newsweek asked O.J. before he went to jail, "Do you still think you're innocent?" O.J. simply said "by persons unknown." When I ask: "Why?" They say: He was innocent. The only one dead is O.J. and critically wounded is the prosecution.

Violent Hits - Two Shot, One Dies

BY C. BROWN BLACK VOICES NEWS

A "death cry" is a that is too deep to be dead. The shot was fired in the presence of everyone near the scene. The "death cry" was LaVelle Morris, who heard about the shooting of his brother, Lon'dell Morris, drove up in a car to see his brother's lifeless body covered only with a sheet. The pain gripped his body as a police officer held him off, hand on gun, backed up by some ten other officers. He just fell on the ground surrounded by his friends who tried to console him in his grief. "That's my brother," he cried. It took all six young men to pull him to the car as he got in, his grief further manifested itself when he kicked and screamed in the front window of the car. "I'm going to come back enough to be driven away. LaVell's grief, and the pain felt by everyone who had, then, we called in two male Hispanics and one lady to take Lon'dell and wounded the lady, Larry Bal­ low.

According to witnesses and from what Lon'dell's uncle, Calvin Palmer said, they were driving down 19th Street in San Bernardino when two Hispanics were following them throughout the whole 15 miles. One woman was an eyewitness. The gas station and the blue Camino went out of control when the driver was hit and knocked down a one-way sign. "They knew, they saw Lon'dell fall," said Palmer, "He drove up to a car and in the apartment complex (it is a gang-ridden area). Low Income Families Shouldn't Finance Utilities $400 Million Gamble

BY CELES KING

Would you be willing to give multi-billion dollar companies your hard-earned money every month in order for them to gamble with it? If you knew you were going to get nothing in return?

Neither would I. But that's exactly the offer that the "Big Four" utilities in California are making to the tune of nearly a billion dollars. Southern California Edison, Southern California Gas, Pacific Gas & Electric and San Diego Gas and Electric want you to pay money every month to quienes "can fix the power grid" and "should get multi-billion dollars from the state". The companies have told the state you're supposed to pay up to fix the power grid because they have the cash and another car for fueling. The utilities ask you to use your money to give them up to $1,500 in cash rebates so they can own what will surely be the least "carbon-friendly" car.

There's nothing wrong with electric cars, but it's definitely wrong for utilities to go to the public trough just as they can generate money from their own shareholders. A lot of other companies are taking the money on research and development of electric cars to make them more affordable for all of us. There's no reason the utilities should be required to live by the same rules.

In the world of this radical equality belief it is unacceptable for these utilities, which have high annual profits in the tens of millions of dollars, to ask families who are struggling to pay for light, heat, and water to finance a $400 million experiment that will only benefit the rich. It's just as unacceptable to force small businesses to pay in high utility bills when they could put the money towards new jobs and opportunities in our neighborhoods.

Although the whole point of the utilities' electric car program is supposed to be cleaner air, there won't even be any significant environmental benefits, according to the California Public Utilities Commission's Division of Ratepayer Advocacy.

Unfortunately, the Public Utilities Commission, which has the sole authority to approve rate increases, doesn't have to listen to the DRA. Too often, the PUC has been more concerned with the interests of the utilities than with public interest.

The Branion Murder Case: O.J. Deja Vu

BY DAVID SMALLWOOD

In his book, "Deja Vu: The Murder, The Mystery, Barbara D'Antono chronicles Branion's baffling trial for the murder of his wife, Andrea. And her husband, Anthony, a Northwestern University law professor spent five years trying to find her killer. Branion is not only being told to not only write the book, but it's being written in legal language.

As the painstaking reconstruction of a complex and peculiar sequence of events and disturbances that proved it was impossible for Branion to have killed his wife.

The case presented to the jury by the Commonwealth was that on December 22nd, 1983, Paul Park, a friend of Christmas shoppers. De. Branion and Andrea met in the store where he served as a security guard. The next day, Paul Park was found dead with his wife. He died in the house of his wife. De. Branion drove to the store where he worked. There was a conversation, and returned home to find his wife's body.

Despite the fact that Branion was convicted or marked from the start, despite his obvious demeanor when he picked up his son, despite the fact that a pathologist who marked the crime took less than 20 minutes to commit, a jury of 11 Whites and one Black found Branion guilty. He was sentenced to 30 years.

The book paints a heart-wrenching picture of the criminal justice system. The police investigation was muddled. The prosecution judge knew the jury was biased. She and her husband worked for the defense attorneys. Donna was no less bloodied or marked than Andrea. De. Branion was also a Swiss-trained OB/GYN who spoke several languages and lived large. High-profile, he owned homes and a boat, raced his Corvette, and had an eye for beautiful women. He was also an extreme activist who matched with Martin Luther King and was a heavy smoker. De. Branion was also a Black foot soldier with no record of the police.

On a bond taken to 1984, De. Branion was convicted or marked from the start, despite his obvious demeanor when he picked up his son, despite the fact that a pathologist who marked the crime took less than 20 minutes to commit, a jury of 11 Whites and one Black found Branion guilty. He was sentenced to 30 years.

National Fire Prevention Week Has Interesting History

The history of National Fire Prevention Week has its roots in the Great Chicago Fire, which occurred on October 9, 1871. This tragic conflagration killed some 300 people, left over 100,000 homeless, and destroyed almost one million buildings. The origin of the first National Fire Prevention Week is not clear, but it is believed that the idea of such a week was championed by a group of Safety Commissioner. It was not until 1941 that the 40th anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire should be commemorated in a way with festivities, but in a way that would keep the inhabitants of the importance of fire prevention. So on October 9, 1911, the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) sponsored the first National Fire Prevention Day.

In 1920, President Woodrow Wilson authorized the first National Fire Prevention Day proclamation. For many years after that, the non-profit NFPA has officially sponsored and selected the theme for the national commemoration of Fire Prevention Week, honoring the anniversary of the Great Chicago Fire and using the event to increase awareness of the dangers of fire. And every year since 1925, the President of the United States has signed a proclamation proclaiming the National Fire Prevention Week to be observed the third Sunday through Saturday period in which October 9 falls.

In 1995, the theme was "Teen Your Duties For Life." The National Fire Prevention Week is the most important event of the year for the NFPA, offering a package of tools and resources to help individuals and organizations promote fire safety.

everal million viewers watched the two-hour movie version of M.A.N.T.I.S., which aired earlier this year on FOX.

When the ratings exceeded the M.A.N.T.I.S. correctly every Friday night.

In his role as biophysicist Dr. Miles Hawkins and his alter ego M.A.N.T.I.S., accomplished actor Carl Lumbly fights crime in the fictional West Coast city of Port Columbia. Filled with action, intrigue and adventure, the M.A.N.T.I.S. series brings us one of television’s first African-American superheroes, each Friday at 8:00 p.m. (Check local listings for your FOX station.)

While M.A.N.T.I.S. is based on the two-hour movie created by feature filmmakers Sam Ham (Batman) and Sam Raimi (Darkman), have been many changes in the production of the series. Most notable is the number of African-American actors who were replaced by Caucasian actors. “I was concerned when I heard of the cast changes,” said Carl Lumbly in a recent interview. “I would be lying if I didn’t say that when I first heard that the show was being reconstituted, I was upset. I had questions, but I also believed there would be a number of Black people who would be employed.”

News reports have leveled charges of racism against FOX and accused the network of attempting to “lighten” the show.

One national press report expressed surprise that at a time when there are more Black superheroes in comic books than ever before that a TV show could be a commercial success. Another newspaper said that the debut was about far more than the simple plus or minus of Black faces. “The story [the pilot] was noted—both ideologically and thematically—in unabashed Afrocentricism.”

Recently, show creators Heman and Rainbow were quoted as saying, “We want to get the series closer to the pilot and we want to see more African-American actors on the show.” FOX-TV has denied charges of racism and said the changes from pilot to series were made strictly for creative reasons—to increase the story possibilities and to make the show flashier. “There was never any direction (from FOX) to cast new characters as Black or White,” said executive producer Bryce Zabel.

“The pilot was a fine piece of entertainment, but we need to make changes in order to create a franchise. It’s frustrating that people think otherwise.”

Over the next few weeks, the producers will decide whether to order more episodes of M.A.N.T.I.S. and keep the series on the air beyond the initial 13 programs. However, the Western Region of the Rose Jessie Jackson’s Rainbow Coalition on Fairness in the Media says they are still getting calls from people who say they feel a sense of betrayal that so much about the series has changed.

“We’ve heard from the press, and the producers have told us to hear from the viewers,” said Lumbly. “We hope our audience will call or write to their local FOX affiliate stations now, and let them know how they feel about the changes in the show and whether they enjoy watching the series.”

For too often, viewers wait until a series or show is gone off the air to express their disdain. “This is an opportunity for truth to speak and we need to hear those voices,” says Lumbly.

M.A.N.T.I.S. is a Western Renaissance Pictures/Hamon and Rainbow, and produced for television by Zabel.

Chargers Light Up NFL, Ridoudoux Does Likewise To The Park

Seay's touchdown nails coffin as Chargers stay undefeated.

SAN DIEGO - The Raiders and the rest of the AFC West had to be looking out for the corner of their collective eyes as the contest between the Kansas City Chiefs and the upstart San Diego Chargers Sunday; wondering, are these guys for real?

Well, the Chargers, two-rounding victory over the Chiefs went a long way in solidifying their position as the top dogs in the AFC West, and a place can be made for NFL rgba, etc.

- At Jack Murphy Stadium before 62,923 - the largest home audience in Charger history - the Lightning Bolt's charged-up Jack Murphy Stadium and fans shock waves through the AFC West, as well as most of the NFL.

NOT THIS TIME: Chargers' Natron Means fights for extra yardage as former San Bernardino Pacific star, Mark Collins, applies the hit. Photo by Gary Montgomery

The Chargers electric defense and efficient offense, had their fans dancing in the aisles and singing their theme song, "San Diego Super Chargers," all night, while, Joe Montana and his troops had their scoreless touchdown streak extended to eight consecutive quarters. Who can deny the Chargers are super? Not the AFC West, because they have beaten every team in the division at least once and now sport a lofty 5-0 record.

But does their super start automatically translate into Super Bowl bound? Among the defensive Charger locker room a voice of reason was present. "Even though we are 5-0, we can't get too excited because we aren't even 1/3 of the way through the season," noted San Diego coach Buddy Ross. "But, what you beat a Kansas City team that is physically and well coached, you can feel good about it."

Add Mark Seay of San Bernadino: "We are going in to enjoy this win, but as soon as we leave the locker room it doesn't matter anymore. We didn't think we were going to start, we just focus on one game at a time, and that's how we are going to do it each week."

Our player who was excited about the Chargers fast start was All-Pro linebacker Junior Seau. "It's been "sticking people pretty good," he said, "and that has never been "5-0 in any league ... so, I'm pretty excited about it."

While the Chargers were basking in the afterglow of victory, the Chiefs were left wondering about their two-game losing streak.

In particular, Mark Collins of San Bernadino Pacific, who has won two Super Bowls as a member of the Los Angeles Rams, felt the pain of the loss. "They out played us today," he said in a quiet monotone voice. "Everything in the Chargers favor now, but it's the playoffs race not a sprint. It's a marathon. It's not how you start, but where you are at the finish."

Added Chief running back Marcus Allen: "We are still in it, so I'm not going to get down about this. Besides, I feel if you prepare each and every week, it doesn't matter who you play, the challenges is with ourselves."

The Chargers are charging forward in with lightning bolt quickness, and with this win they are in firm control of the AFC West. But, as tight end Dwayne Young says, "We have to keep working hard at it and go into every game as if we are 0-5 and we will have no problems staying here."

Riley, Real And tough Defense Leads Rubidoux To Victory

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

RUBIDOUX - Expecting a close encounter, Rubidoux found the going easy, as they blew over and through Baldwin Park 20-0.

Baldwin Park came into the contest with a highly respected passing attack, but it turned out to be a walk in the park for the Falcons, who grounded their air game into submission.

Park's quarterback, Eric Rubley, was held to 6 of 21 for 72 yards. While Rubidoux's quarterback, Jason Reel, made the most of his opportunities, passing for 128 yards on only 3 completions.

The Falcons' Donald Riley was the main recipient of Reel's throws. Riley caught two touchdown passes that covered 92 and 32 yards. Riley also led the team in rushing with 75 yards in only 4 carries, including a 32 yard touchdown scamper.

Concerned defensive back and leading receiver, Victor Cortes: "I didn't think we would beat them as bad as we did. Every week we just keep getting better and better ... everyone is starting to come-up."

Rubidoux (4-1) has always been known for playing smash mouth football, has continued that reputation with this year's version, too. Sophomore defensive back and quarterback, Darnel Knight, speaking like a true Falcon, says his team has been "sticking people pretty hard" and will continue to play "physical Rubidoux football."

Mirroring the fire and boom of the wonderful half-time fireworks, Rubidoux will need that same effort to come out with a win that will no doubt go a long way in determining the league champi-

SERVING OTHERS IS OUR BUSINESS

When it comes to serving the community, few things are as powerful as a well-planned partnership. That's why the California State Package Store and Tavern Owners Association (CAL-PAC) and Miller Brewing Company have teamed together in the interest of our young people.

The fruits of our efforts are programs such as the CAL-PAC and the Thurgood Marshall Scholarship Funds. These funds represent a means for well-deserving students to attain their goals. By making this opportunity available, we are offering our young people all they ever wanted. Simply put, we're offering them a chance.

As we look back, we are proud of our efforts and the positive effect it's had on our communities. But as we look ahead, we realize that our work together has just begun. True service, as it turns out is a never-ending commitment.
Hilliary - Beauty, Brains, Leadership, And Determination

By LELAND STEIN IV

Body Standing Out in Football Play

Not that success, for her is sure, infallible. But never has she been afraid to reach. She knew you always need 100% of the shots you don’t take. So, reaching is her rule.

RUBIDOUX - Out among the sweat and browns of young men practicing football skills, you will find a petite and beautiful young lady. Her name is Hillary Martino and she is listed in the Rubidoux high school football program as a defensive back and kicker.

Sure Hillary came to my attention because she is a member of the proud Falcons football squad. But, a further inspection of this young lady unveils a person of multiple skills and talents.

Leadership: She is regional president of the Black Student Union. Beauty: She was in the running for Homecoming Queen. She did not win but settled for the very fitting Princess title.

Bravery: She is a 3.1 student, in spite of all the obligations she has undertaken, and has designs on attending USC.

Athletic: Rubidoux football, Hillary has always been a soccer standout and has been involved in the sport since she was eleven. She also plays track, competing in the 100 and 200 meters and long jump.

Use of being successful at all her endeavors, football has been a bumbling experience for her.

To be a good soccer player and kicker, I thought it would translate to success at football,” Hillary said. “But I’m not as good as I thought I would be. It kind of bummed me out at first.”

“1’m usually one of the best at everything I do, but on the football field, I’m like this little squirt (she weighs 130 pounds). But I’m not going to quit.”

Hillary says she thought about trying out for the team in her junior year, but she “didn’t have the guts.” Then she decided after much prompting from some of her close friends that she would go to spring practice this year, and here she is, still around.

Martino not only kicks, but plays defensive back and receiver.

“Sometimes they forget I’m a girl,” she says. “And I’ve been bashed, I think you just get back up and not let the couches not you win out.”

Hillary says she has learned many lessons from this experience. She hopes to carry with her the lessons of determination to a task and giving anything you do your best effort.

“If you go out for something and you are not as good as you thought, don’t give up,” she explained. “Never quit and give it everything you have...then you can hold your head up high.”

Says Rubidoux coach and track coach, Pat Thompson: “She is an unbelievable girl. She just wanted to prove she could do the physical thing in practice. I also see her in my classes and she performs in there as well. All the kids love her, including the players. As you can see she is also a very pretty girl.”

Enough said, because Hillary is reaching and no doubt will grab success!!

Are these influences attempt-ing to drag our youth down, or have we survived two world wars, several lesser wars, racial unrest and economic hardships?

Will it be so that our youth will be more interested in worldly things than being strong boys and girls. It does not have to be this way if we work together for a better future for our world and especially our children.
