Have you ever wondered how many other people had similar faults as you had about those people who were in leadership roles? They are the people who were "being white"? Nowadays we have a new type of leader whose overall goal is to create something new, the Black Power movement of the 1960s, how often do we hear, or read about, community leaders who believe in the use of natural organizational power? These are a place of African-Americans supporting our own businesses and forming our own market. It has become the fashionable thing to do and just as if they were all reading from the same sheet, these "leaders" have done it so many times that billions of dollars that leave our communities each year. We hear local and national, and even international voices of the people who give from their pockets, talk about the need for Blacks to initiate economic development. We often see the Black Power movement, from the San Bernardino, CA 92411.

Bloomington Middle School Joins Info Highway

"It won't be long before stu­dents at other schools in the Inland Empire will be joining Bismarck, Royse and the other Bloomington students on the Communications Superhigh­way. Pacific Bell's Education First program received final approval from the Public Utili­ties Commission in December, so the wiring can now move forward at schools requesting the technology.

"Getting schools up to full speed on the superhighway by the year 2000 will require wiring in every classroom, computers and other equipment, and an accelerated deployment of infras­tructure broadband capa­city," said Pacific Tel­esys Chairman Phil Quigley. "I am committed to lead a public pri­vate partnership to ensure that every classroom in California has convenient and affordable access to the Communications Superhighway, and that every student has a ticket to travel in the pursuit of knowledge."

The students at Bloomington have already started the journey.

"It makes as feel special because we're the first ones to try it out," said Jessica Min­dana, a 7th grader. "Libraries are very useful, but getting information on the computer seems so much easier."

Principal Dr. Gopperton says excitement at the school is building.

"I think one of the most important things is how the students, the community and business people have come together and are sharing the enthusiasm," said Dr. Gopperton. "We're on the cutting edge and that's wonderful. We appre­ciate the partnership with Pacific Bell and the other companies."

A personal interview with Milwaukee rookie Glenn Robinson. By LELAND STEIN III

PHOENIX - Along with the NBA top 20 picks, the most common expectations that can weigh on a person like a heavy load. If you discount, all the people you meet, in this case, Robinson has been the picture of cool and calm.

But Does rookie Green Hill has been the subject of a lot of talk? Robinson has chosen to focus on improving his game each night.

In fact, as the season's first major match-up, Hill was a lock to walk away with Pac-10 freshman of the year Award. But, in its solid and steady manner, Robinson, in making coach Jim Harrick look like a patient and weathered rookie, has captured a negative picture of fun without ever missing a beat.

Blessed with a conglomerate of basketball skills, he pass, shoot the three-pointer, painted a negative picture of him. But here, he's come with being NCAA champs, including Robinson has chosen to focus on improving his game each night.

ROOKIE OF THE YEAR?: Milwaukee guard Tyus Edney who led the team during a 11 day stretch. "Our intensity is one of the keys for me and the team. Once I got on the loose and started getting more minutes, that allowed me to get into better shape and become more efficient."

Q. Where do you see your game improve from top to bottom.

A. The Lakers are a team that makes you work hard and keep living, because you never know what's going to happen out there. They've started out slow but they've put in the work and don't have much experience."

Q. Do you think you can see your game improve in top to bottom.

A. I want to be a role model. I'm only 22 years old so I like to be out there on the other side of the court. But I don't want to be on the line and on the court with us in no kind of way. I'm kind of tired to be out there and I didn't want to be one I'm out there. I'm not worried about you people write negative stuff, but you can't do that. There's no clear of trouble and hopefully people will see me for what I am, I'm going to work."

Q. What are your impressions of the game and what do you feel you have to work on.

A. The Lakers are great. They have been able to play this game. The main reason I was picked was for my intensity."

Q. How do you feel about being the NBA's No. 1 pick.

A. I would say it has been the best thing for me, it has made me a better player and a better person. Because you have to keep yourself focused, because people come in and out, you never know who the next person is going to be there, but you have to keep your head up and never say what's going on."

Q. What advice would you give to your friends you grow up with about how to improve your game.

M.E.N.T.O.R. Holds Third Annual Conference

BY RICKERBY-HINDS-BVN

Because somebody came ahead of you to say what you are saying today, you must speak with care.

These were the words with which Hal Williams accepted his award as a mentor at the third annual M.E.N.T.O.R. (Motivating Entrepreneurs Networking To Organize Resources) Entertainment Networking Conference held on January 29th and 30th.

William was joined by the other inductees: Accomplished actress, director, producer and writer, Kim Fields; Creator and Executive Producer of the hit series Living Single, Yvette Freeman; Public Relations Vice President and Media Relations for MJJ Productions, Bob Jones; and Star of the film Fear of a Black Hat, Kimberly McCreary. These were the words with which Williams accepted his award as a mentor at the third annual M.E.N.T.O.R. organization.

It is said that "The circle rises together." If that is so, then the circle being lifted by the M.E.N.T.O.R. organization is on its way to climbing higher than most.

There was a feeling of community as everyone passing by shared a smile and a "what's up?" without reservation. The goals of the Event Chair James Hamlett, Sr. to "walk away from this conference with new hope" and "a stronger desire to excel" appeared to have reached many of those attending.

This impressive group of honorees served as the centerpiece for an already eventful conference.

Bridging The Gap Between The Information Superhighway And The Community, was the theme of this, the third annual M.E.N.T.O.R. Conference.

Although the luncheon was particularly inspiring, the "reach back." was more important than most.

The Successes Afro-Americans Brought To America

We all have the capacity for creativity, curiosity, continued growth, the ability to love and be loved, and for all of the other characteristics found in self-educated people. However, humans cannot reach their full potential if they are deprived of their basic needs. As their needs are attended to, their behavior will improve. They will be motivated to become more productive members of society. As they improve, they will begin to develop their true potential and move toward better self-images, environmental protection, and become additional forces for good.

There are questions each person should ask themselves: "Will it matter that I was?" "Am I using my potential to make my home, community, country and world a better place to live?" As Americans, regardless of race, should ask these questions. Congress Oliver P. Howard would answer with a loud "Yes." He founded Howard University in Washington D.C. for Blacks in 1867. Mr. Elijah McCoy, a Black man, was single and working at the Arctic in 1900, 1902 and 1905. Colonel Charles Young, a West Point graduate, was the highest ranking Black officer in World War I. (Tell about World War II).

Gravatlie T. Woods worked in the development of the telephone and telegraph, the steam boiler furnace and the automatic air brake. Mr. Henry Blair was the first Black person to be granted a patent. He invented a "see planter" in 1834. Ice cream was invented in 1852 by Augustus Jackson. Mr. Andrew Baird is the inventor of the "Jenny Coupler," an automatic device which secures two train cars together when they are "bumped."

These Black American families have strong beliefs that are rooted in the words of God. The capture of proud bravado and the voyages in the sinking holds of small ships were some of the incidents that began the mixture of distinct and cultures which melted into a humanity of loving, caring and sharing people. As their needs are attended to, they will begin to see how these people shape the government policies that affect us all," said an enthusiastic Martin upon his return home.
