Affirmative Action Brainstorming Session Drew Large Audience

By Cheryl Brown-BVN

The Greater Riverside Area of the Urban League held their monthly brainstorming session focusing on the contentious issue of affirmative action. The session was well attended, with many attendees expressing their thoughts and concerns on both sides of the issue to the audience. The session lasted over three hours, and several attendees made long and impassioned speeches.

The importance of the topic was highlighted when the audience voted to adjourn the meeting at 11 p.m.

Martha Garcia, a member of the audience, said, "I'm not opposed to affirmative action, but I feel it's been misused. It's time to change the direction of the issue."

Tillie's Memorial Chapel, San Bernardino, March 27th, 1995, for Joseph Davis elegantly memorialized him as "a son, a brother, an uncle, a father and to each of us, a friend." A celebration of life occurred at the Tillie's Memorial Chapel, San Bernardino. Joseph Davis died March 23rd, 1995, at his home in San Bernardino. Davis was a son of Mr. Davis elegantly, Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Davis of Detroit, and a brother, a brother and a great great great grandfather. Davis was born to Joseph Sr. and Lillie Davis on August 7, 1926.

He leaves to mourn, his loving wife, Rosemary of Detroit, his brother, Lorenzo of Detroit, his brother, an uncle, a father and to us, a friend."

Eunice Williams, a member of the audience, said, "I support affirmative action. It's a good thing."

The meeting was hostile on both sides of the issue, as the audience was divided on how to define the issue. Former Urban League Board Member, Jim Irwin, said, "This group needs to provide plenty of facts and arguments on both sides."

Joyce Williams, Director of Affirmative Action at UCR, is still trying to reach the majority on the issue. She said, "The audience voiced their opinion of the issue. Former Urban League Board Member, John Foreman, said, "This group needs to provide plenty of facts and arguments on both sides."

Lovable Hayes, Department of Social Services, said, "We need to give facts and arguments on both sides."

Los Angeles District spoke on how to reach the majority on the issue. He said, "The audience voiced their opinion of the issue. Former Urban League Board Member, John Foreman, said, "This group needs to provide plenty of facts and arguments on both sides."

Lovable Hayes, Department of Social Services, said, "We need to give facts and arguments on both sides."

Richard Hooker, 19, of San Bernardino, was struck by a car while running through a crosswalk. The suspect, Raymond Bauman, 25, was spotted by a police officer who tried to stop him, and when he fled out of the parking lot onto Baseline, he struck the car. Affirmative-Action

By Myers McCourt

There is much talk these days about Affirmative-Action. The Supreme Court is presently hearing a case alleging reverse discrimination or "reverse bias." Reverse discrimination is the result caused by the alleged white American minority who have benefited from the unfair system of "bias in your face discrimination." It is the subversion of the American way of life, the subversion that many newspapers call on the talk radio shows anything good for the idea of affirmative action programs.

Affirmative-Action programs originated as a means to comply with a directive, issued by the Kennedy administration in 1961. The purpose was to ensure that women and men entered the business and professional world. Colleges, universities and business schools and companies are now required by various federal laws and regulations. Opponents claim that the practice is unfair because the minorities are less qualified than their White counterparts. However, the newest affirmative action programs are fair and play an important role in righting the wrongs.

Tightly woven into the fabric of our society are discrimination and affirmative action programs are fair and play an important role in righting the wrongs.

Letter to The Editor

DEAR EDITOR (Letter directed to Charles Leslie)

Sr: We attended the Board meeting on Tuesday, March 14, 1969, and were impressed with the following:

1. We heard a presentation by a social psychologist who was interested in people's attitudes in schools, and what some of the requested contributions to that day's program should be. That was the first time Indu's speech.

2. We realized that the attendance of some of the schools had changed over the years, and that we should do some research on that topic.

3. The attitude displayed by the first speaker, the Principal of the nearby high school, was that of the American Indian.

The meeting was held in large part by the ability of the staff of the board. Mr. Leslie, in display of organizational techniques, was asked to organize a meeting in order to address the issue. He was handed a framework for how to arrange the various speakers

Re-Thinking Affirmative-Action

Part Two of a Two Part Series

The debate over affirmative action probably will define the 1969 presidential election. Already Republican party primary candidates such as Barry Goldwater, Governor of Arizona, and Phil Gramm, are not surprising to have mentioned race in their campaigns. Even President Johnson, who has been more cautious about discussing the issue, has made it clear in recent months that he is sympathetic to the idea of affirmative action.

We have had to face the principal of the school from which the principal was selected. She was asked what she thought about the idea of affirmative action. She said that she was surprised to hear that the idea of affirmative action was being discussed. She said that she had always felt that education should be based on merit and not on race. She said that the idea of affirmative action was a way of rewarding people who had been discriminated against in the past.

The principal of the school also said that she was concerned about the idea of affirmative action because it might lead to a lowering of standards. She said that she was concerned that affirmative action might lead to a lowering of standards because it was a way of rewarding people who had been discriminated against in the past.

Institute and a site of monthly Community Brainstorming Sessions designed to develop community mobilizing efforts for the purpose of addressing family concerns and problems; and not least and in her own way, she made herself known and respected within the community.

Her spirit was contagious. Her commitment kept working almost around the clock, and her attachment to the Riverside Urban League persuaded her to take the initiative to extend her original one-year contract with an additional six months.

"Jacquelyn has done a wonderful job and we are glad she has decided to continue. It is in the best interest of the community to have her as our Director, and we are sure she will do an excellent job." said Jim King, Chair of the League's Board of Directors.

She succeeds in doing just that - surpassing their best expectations.

The Riverside Urban League was fortunate to have had the services of Jacquelyn, who had prior experience as President of the Milwaukee Urban League. During her Riverside term of office, the concept of building a stronger financial base and with community mobilizing efforts the community at large, as well as the Riverside Urban League, will have the opportunity to express its appreciation at the 7th Annual Black & White Gala to be held Friday, April 28, 1984 at Rainier's Square, where Jacquelyn will receive a special award.

Quinn AME Honors Women Of AME Church

Quinn AME Church of Moreno Valley were again in the forefront of the community when they honored Women in the AME Church earlier this month.

A nice crowd came out on the rainy night to honor women who are active in the church and community.

Honored were: First Lady of the 5th District, Mrs. Vivienne Anderson, Michelle Bagneris, Rev. Eva C. Duncan, Jacquelyn Dupont-Walker, Dr. Mildred Henry, and Naomi Webb.

The program was dotted with (Ven Yens Vietes) depicting moments in time, in the lives of famous people. Sarah Allen, wife of the AME founder Richard Allen, was played by Margaret Poindexter, Maya Angelou, was played by Delores Moore; Maya Angelou, was played by Mantha Bradley; and Fame, Lou Hamner was played by Amanda Spalding.

The Mayor, Greg Letter, presented a resolution to Mrs. Anderson and shared his new experience of walking with the Lord.

The presentations were made and the rain stopped just long enough for everyone to get home safely.

The conductor of UCLA's speed train, J.R. Henderson, has led the Bruins to their 11th NCAA championship and is steady leadership on the court. Henderson, a senior point guard, has been at his best today, but with the ball in his court, he will be there.

When UCLA takes the floor against Oklahoma State and Bryant "Big Country" Reeves, it will be Ed's steady leadership in the court and off the court. The conductor of the Bruins' speed train to Seattle, losing 102-96.

If Ed is the conductor, then freshmen J.R. Henderson (10 points on 9 of 12 shooting) and Toby Bailey (26 points making 10 of 16) were the ticket in the Bruins' team. Bailey supplied scoreboard finishes with the ball. The conductor of UCLA's speed train was an 11th NCAA championship, and they were ranked No. 1 that year as well.

Riverside & San Bernardino All-Stars Split

Judge, Coachman, Frail, Russ, Burries, Rachal, Day, Kennedy, Hooks and McKeel, shine.

By LELAND STEIN III

San Bernardino: Although San Bernardino and Riverside are sister cities and compete to be the heart of the inland Empire, they are competing for the business dollar for boys and girls.

It's fun to meet players from another county and develop a camaraderie with them," said Ahmad Russ of Rancho Verde.

"This is a great event to showcase your ability and get a feel for the cost of a successful career," said James Kennedy of San Bernardino High, who tossed in 14 points.

Led by San Bernardino High School star and San Andreas League MVP, LaSonya Kincl's who tossed in a game-high 21 points, the San Bernardino Girls All-Stars.

"Of course we want to and expect to win, but we don't feel pressure to win. But, it does feel extra good for Tyus and Ed, because it kinda guts the weight of their backs," said Ed O'Bannon.

"We've been here five years and it's been up and down for me. I'm happy we get a chance to cut down the nets and go up that ladder," said Ed, because it kinda gets the weight of their backs.

Eazy-E Helped Make Their Dream Come True

By Billy Johnson, Jr.

Local rap group J.J. Fad share memories of Eazy-E who helped them take their 1988 single "Supersonic" to platinum record sales.

Gangster rapper Eazy-E's death to AIDS Sunday evening shocked many, includingatio residents Janine Burns and Dana Birk, who were a part of the trio's rap group J.J. Fad which was signed to Ruthless Records.

Burns, who was the leader of the group said she was surprised when she first heard that Eazy had AIDS. "He's always been real healthy, never had any problems, never-nothing. He had a little touch of asthma, but that's not how he should be...

Eazy would also openly discuss his real-life experiences that motivated him to write songs, how his writing things were different and how he wished his family would have grown up in a middle-class neighborhood.

Though Eazy did make a name for himself because of his controversial music, Burns, Birk and Franklin agree that that's not how he should be remembered. "It's a human and no matter what you do, I don't think he really discovered that disease; it's the worst disease," expressed Burns.

While some, whose only association with Eazy is his raunchy songs and gangster persona, this may stem out of character, but Burns (whose rap alias was MC JB) says it is reflective of his sensitive side that the public did not see. She explains, "That's one reason why I think he told everybody...

Free Weekend Of Calling

The last time a company offered you something for free, there was probably a catch. Not now.

AT&T is offering all its consumers long-distance customers a free weekend of calling, no strings attached, to thank them for their business.

Here is how it works...call 1-800-952-7000 any time up to May 1 and tell AT&T you want the free weekend. AT&T will calculate the average amount you spend on weekend domestic long-distance calls, based on the calls that appear on your next bill, and give you a credit on the following bill. (In some locations, customers will get a credit instead of the direct credit.)

You don't have to be enrolled in a special calling plan to be eligible for the free weekend of calling — you just have to be an AT&T long-distance customer.

Gravenburg Joins Williams Crockett

Barbara H. Rogers, vice-president of Enrollment Management Institute for Historically Black Colleges and Universities, has been named leader of the new enrollment management unit at the University of California at Riverside. Prior to his tenure at Riverside, Gravenburg accepted the California State University System as associate dean for educational support services and inter-institutional affairs.

Gravenberg said, "I see this as a tremendous opportunity to make significant contributions to education administration on a broader scale to impact colleges and universities across the country. Specifically, I look forward to working with the Enrollment Management Institute for Historically Black Colleges and Universities with a focus on enrollment management leadership.

Since September 1993, Gravenberg has served as vice president of enrollment management at Nevada State University. His office established and developed new information technology systems and research systems, and served as university liaison for cultivating and maintaining close relationships with all sectors of the university community."

Tales From The Darkside
by Michelle Megan Anthony
The Second Annual Black Men's Conference was educational, enlightening, surprising and spirit-filled.

BY CHERYL BROWN-BVN

The conference was held at Ecclesia Christian Fellowship and was sponsored by the Religious Community Task Force.

Pastor Ray Turner said this community group came together when Dolly Rush, a member of 16th St. Seventh Day Adventist Church, called 40 to 50 ministers, the Mayor, and other dignitaries to a meeting at the conference was educational, surprising and able. It wasn't just African-Americans, they were joined by White pastors who were concerned about the total community.

Last year four churches participated in the Black Men's Conference; this year it more than doubled to nine. "We want to change our community," said Turner.

"It won't work if God is not in the middle. Like Jesus, we have forgotten where we came from - assimilated with others who don't know who they are - it is decision time," he said Turner.

"We need dads because we left God down South. That's why brothers are shooting each other. They need a daddy. We need dads because dads must tell the boy when he becomes a man."

Over 100 men attended the three day event. Workshops were held on a variety of topics. In addition to the workshops, a mini job fair was held.

It is God's sweet gift for those in pain and weary of this life.

James (Jimmy) H. Davis was born in the late Solomon and Maggie O. Davis, November 27, 1955 in Fort, Germany. He attended Rin Vista Elementary, Franklin Jr. High and graduated from San Bernardino High School, where he was a member of many organizations. He joined New Hope Missionary Baptist Church as a young age, and was baptized under the late Rev. David Campbell.

Davis is survived by his daughter, Denis Anita Davis, of Washington; his mother, Maggie Davis, of San Bernardino, his sister and brother-in-law Theresa and Joseph W. Mayes, Jr., of Highland; three nieces, three nephews, and a host of family and friends.
