Affirmative Action Brainstorming Session Done

By Cheryl Brown-BVN

The Greater Riverside Urban League has led their monthly brainstorming session for Affirmative Action which is a forum to discuss the effects of minority representation in the community. The session is attended by Clark, who has the past few years, endorsed the rallies extensively. He said, "What we are trying to do with Affirmative Action is create a consciousness society. It is important for all of us to be well informed and well educated on this issue..." There is much being written today and we need to read all very critically and thoughtfully." He cautioned that Affirmative Action could go the other way; when California becomes a minority-majority state.

Jim Hamlin, media officer said, Charles Ray Hooker, 19, of San Bernardino, shot the officer, while running on foot, but was caught according to the police, then began running on foot, but was caught; he was shot at 16th and Somerset Drive in Riverside. The body of 23 year old Angela Daniels was recently discovered in the 4700 block of Sunset Drive in Riverside. Neighborhood investigators were called to secure the area due to the circumstances. The area is an established neighborhood, and the young woman's death is pending the autopsy, but is classified as a homicide.

S.B. Car Chase Ends With Two People Hospitalized And Suspect Arrested

A car chase ended when the car being pursued veered an area head-on into the driver of a lave model station wagon. The driver of the station wagon, Barbie Truitt, was hospitalized and the other driver, James Haskell, was arrested. Haskell had been arrested before for possession of a stolen vehicle.

Clara Thomas

Clara Thomas, 78, principal of the Moreno Valley Elementary School, Moreno Valley is out. She was removed by Dr. William Gantt,ddy and Urban League President Yolanda Nava.

By Cheryl Brown-BVN

The audience voiced their opinion of the issues. Former Urban League Board Member, JoAnn Foreman, said, "This group needs to provide speakers to the people who want to hear about it." She said, "I don't vote it will never win." Martha Garcia, leader of a Latino group invited the audience to join forces with this group which has already organized to defeat the referenda. The invitation was questioned by Gantt, "What is "affirmative action"?" He continued, "It is unemployed. We will lose the vote."

Brown Will Not Seek Re-election

Statement

I have many fond memories that I will cherish for the rest of my life, and I owe them to the wonderful friends and family in this district. I am now in that position where I am not able to serve the community as you, my constituents, deserve. I am not able to continue my representation in the capacity of the influence board members.

Hardy Brown

I've decided not to seek re-election to the San Bernardino Unified School District Board of Education. The current Board members and family obligation on my time will make it impossible to maintain the commitments required to be a good board member. I have been blessed with the wonderful students, staff, and family in this public school district. This community is fortunate to have such a great group of people.

The names or conditions of the victims were not available at press time.
Tighty-witted into the fabric of our society are discrimination and the attitude of White supremacy. However, the vast majority of Black Americans enjoy the benefits of affirmative programs. By the unfair system of blatant "in your face discrimination", it is the subjective standards and personal prejudices of the many newspaper callers to the talk radio show nearly anything having to do with the idea of affirmative programs. Affirmative-Action programs originated as a means to comply with a directive, issued by the Kennedy administration in 1961. They were to provide for persons of color, sex and women the equal opportunity to be heard. Many teachers in the state of Mississippi taught school between many traditional districts. Shark Cartilage

Our Bodies

By Dr. Ernest Lavender, M.D.

DEAR DR. LEVISTER: My brother is dying of cancer. What are the merits of shark cartilage in this disease? V.L.

DEAR K.L.: There is no conclusive evidence that shark cartilage has any effect on cancer or other chronic diseases. Last winter's "infomercials" proclaimed the healing properties of cartilage as something of a miracle. The hunt for the ideal shark cartilage has become a "hyped up superpower" for some 20 years now. In the United States, according to the National Cancer Institute, 1.6 million dollars is spent each year on shark cartilage research.

Some health food and chain stores have sold shark cartilage at $3.00 per bottle. "A manageable" says Dr. John Cooper of California that purports to be an effective chemotherapy drug.

Scientific evidence backed by animal studies is rare. Because sharks rarely get cancer, researchers believe that their cartilage contains a protein that inhibits angiogenesis (the formation of blood vessels) needed to nourish a malignancy.

Although shark cartilage does in fact appear to show possible anti-cancer activity in cells, there is no evidence that work in the test tube never work in animals or humans. The fish market for cartilage collapsed overnight in February, 1995, after 60 minutes featured a Cuban study that purportedly showed the substance cancer fighting properties in humans. The National Cancer Institute (NCI) reviewed the Cuban study and found insufficient data to justify NCI sponsored clinical trials.

In times of medical crisis, especially involving family members, it is normal to becoming emotionally. It is not unusual for you to reach beyond the tried and trusted methods of treatment for cancer.

It is best during this diffi cult time for you to concentrate on ensuring that your mother receives the best care available.

Avoid risky alternative treatments that may be dangerous. Keep her as comfortable as possible. Contact the American Cancer Society and identify their support to assist you to cope. Now is not the time to panic or experiment.

Is Everyone A Christian That Says They Are?

Dr. Reginald Woods, is everyone a Christian that says they are? Almost everyone I know says that they believe in God. They say they pray, and they say that God is in control of their lives. However, their life styles contradict what they say. Is this possible? (Mark, 12:28-31)

ANSWER: The Bible answers your question in several places. Matthew 7:21 says "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Mark 7:6 says "he that cometh unto me with his mouth, but his heart is far from me." It is true, that almost everyone you ask will say that they believe in God. Yet few really live for him. Matthew 12:33 says "a tree is known by its fruit." You can identify an orange tree by the oranges on the branches. You can identify an apple tree by the apples on the branches. If you come to a church Sunday morning, you will see people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. "The people call on the name of the Lord, but not to obey his words." You can identify by their words what they say. Is this possible? (Matthew 7:21) constituents, the Bible says that faith and love work together. So without works it is dead (James 2:26). This means, if there is no life style or actions to back up the words of expression, then the belief is dead. No, not everyone that claims to be a Christian is a Christian. You also don't go sit in at the gospel meeting and then claim to be a Christian. You also don't go in at a church and claim to be a Christian. Jesus says in Matt. 7:21, says "Put your life where your mouth is."

All Aboard, UCLA's Speed Train
Headed To Seattle
Bailey, Edney and Henderson fuel Bruins' first trip to the Final Four in 15 years.

By LELAND STEIN III
BVN Sports Editor

OAKLAND - Connecticut's forward Dony Marshall had for a rebound, leaped out of bounds and tried to flip the ball back into play in one of his teammates, but the ball went straight up and came down on his head. This play signified as much as any other what happened to the Huskies in the NCAA's West Regional final at the Oakland Coliseum before 14,399.

Although Connecticut (28-5) can run with the best of them, they got hit in the head of theirNaz nce, the Bruins' steady pace to Seattle, losing 102-to 90.

The conductor of UCLA's speeding train towards a shot at an NCAA championship has to be senior point guard Tyus Edney. He maneuvered through and over the Connecticut defense for 19 assists and 22 points. With each turn-ment game and like concrete creams, Edney's confidence and control at the Bruins' helm solidifies.

"I just tried to be aggressive, push the ball right at them, and get as many people
as possible involved," Edney said.

Added UCLA coach Jim Harrick: "Tyus controlled the flow, created numerous shots
for us, led our break, and keyed
our defense. He was sensational today."

If Edney is the conductor, then freshman J.R. Henderson (18 points, 9 of 12 shooting)
and Toby Bailey (26 points making 10 of 16) "were the fact that the Bruins' fast break and their exceptional moving down and upward. Bailey supplied showcase finishes on the break and made Connolly's 6-5 Allen work hard for every one of his 36 points. Meanwhile, the 6-4-freshman Henderson snatched at guard earlier in the time, stepped in as a starter for a fouled out George Zick and did a masterful job.

Henderson and Bailey com-
ed to the Bruins for a chance to cut down the nets in a game-high 21 points, the scored 24 points. Meanwhile, Russ scored 24 points.
Meanwhile, the Bruins were ranked No. 1 that year, stepped in at center for a
and you know what that was." It's been 20 years since Charles said, "but we haven't belong, in the Final Four,
they
the National Championship.
They're our team, our school
so we belong, in the Final Four,
they
been at his best today, but with uncontrollable, because the bigger the game he will be there."

"If Edney is the conductor of the Bruins' speeding train to glory and the freshmen are the fuel, then Edney has to be the engineer.

When UCLA takes the floor
Saturday against Oklahoma Stater
and Bryant "Big County" Reeves, it will be Ed's stealy leadership in the court and off that will guide and superimposed his speed-training for National Champions.

Eazy-E Helped Make Their Dream Come True

By Billy Johnson, Jr. special to Black Voice

Local rap group J.J. Fad share memories of Eazy-E who helped them take their 1988 single "Supersonic" to platinum record sales.

"Gangster rapper Eazy-E's death to AIDS Sunday evening shocked many, including Radio residents Anna Burns and Dana Birks, who were a part of the rap's group J.J. Fad which was signed to Ruthless Records.

Burns, who was the leader of the group said she was surprised when she first heard that Eazy had AIDS. "He's always been real healthy, never had any problems, never—nothing. He had a little touch of asthma and that was normal for him. But that's it!"
The statement read by his attorney, however, he described his disease, however, he described his disease, however, he describes it as 'the worst disease' expressed Burns.

Eazy would also openly discuss his real-life experiences that motivated him to write songs, how he wished things were different and how he wished his family would have grown up in a middle-class neighborhood.

During recent years, Eazy-E has also taken a few steps towards breaking away from his standard negative image. Last year, he earned the Ruthless Radio Show, a weekly two-hour music show on KJRF 92.7 FM, where listeners were able to interact with him as a normal, humorous person. He has made numerous donations to charities including the Make A Wish Foundation, which awarded him an invitation to attend a Republican luncheon with President Bush in 1991. There was also talk of Eazy starting a record label just for kids. In his last days, he also married his girlfriend of four years, Tomika Woods, with whom he has a one-year old son.

After releasing Supersonic to Dream Team Records in 1988, J.J. Fad was approached by Eazy-E to be the first artists released on his label, thus broad new Ruthless Records. Impressed with Eazy's team, including now chart topping rappers Dr. Dre and Ice Cube, Burns, Birks, and Franklin jumped at the opportunity.

J.J. Fad and Eazy-E's group N-I-A (With Attitude) (NWA), created with founding gangster rap, climbed the charts simultaneously. As their executive producer, Burns laughs, Eazy was always straight forward in expressing his likes and dislikes in regard to their music, but always allowed them to make the final choice.

"And if it was what we wanted," Burns explained, "he'd just say fine and he'd say, 'All right, you've got it.'" she laughs. "So one record we did, we said that it was going to flop and it sure did." Burns continues lauging admitting that it was right.

More than anything, each wants everyone to know that Eazy-E helped make their dream come true. "Without him, them never would have been a J.J. Fad. We would have never had the opportunity that we had, and because of Eric, we were able to accomplish something that may not have ever been accomplished — and that was one of our dreams, to become rap singers and we got to realize our dream because of him." Billy Johnson, former Entertainment Editor of the Black Voice, is the managing Editor of Rap Sheet magazine.

The conference was held at Ecclesia Christian Fellowship and was sponsored by the Religious Community Task Force. Pastor Ray Turner said this community group came together when Dolly Rush, a member of 16th St. Seventh Day Adventist Church, 40 to 50 ministers, the Mayor, and other dignitaries in a meeting and said we’ve got to do something about street violence, it has taken our children. Rush speaks from experience as her son, Reggie, was killed by someone using violent means.

Rev. Turner, being a fairly new pastor sent out 151 letters to different clergy members. Two people who responded were, Gene Stackley and the late Chuck Yatman. Other ministers came out and the word went forth. "We discovered we could build each other accountable. It wasn’t just African-Americans, they were joined by White pastors who were concerned about the total community. Last year four churches participated in the Black Men’s Conference; this year it more than doubled to nine, "We want to change our community," said Turner.

"It won’t work if God is not in the middle. Like Joshua, we have forgotten where we came from — assimilated with others who don’t know who they are — it is decision time," he said. "(1)We have a choice to make, (2) we have habits to break, and (3) a stance to take."

Turner talked about the heritage of African-Americans. We are the descendants of great queens and kings. The weak ones died before reaching the shores of America. We think our history started on the shores of America. He related every time the Israelites forgot God, they were back in bondage. We have forgotten who delivered us. "You must choose who you are going to serve. The God of your father or horoscopes, palm reading, voodoo, or tarot cards."

"How can a Christian say "I’m pre-choice. It’s alright to fornicate, alright to live together, we don’t need a piece of paper. Choose who you will serve. If he has been there for over a year and doesn’t ask you to marry him, put him out. Make a commitment — How can a woman respect you (a man) if you don’t have a wedding ring on her finger?"

Turner then spoke to the men about their responsibility to their children. He said, "The next generation is shooting each other. They need a daddy. There should be rules of the house. But what happens when you leave your responsibility? There is no strong leadership. There is no strong leadership. Someone must continually be a guardian of that home. We need dads because brothers are shooting each other. "We need dads because dads must tell the boy when he becomes a man."

Over 100 men attended the three day event. Workshops were held on a variety of topics. In addition to the workshops, a mini job fair was held.
