To Be Equal: 1992 -- Year of Despair and Hope

BY JOHN I. JACOB

I t's not easy to conjecture the future of African-American politics in a few periods, but I think it is safe to say that 1992 was a year of black despair centered on the hope.
The despair derived from two lines that blemish the nation's soul. First, of course, was the devastating recession that hung unemployed, and even if the unemployed figures improved slightly continued in the economy.

So it's hard to muster much of an economic recovery that doesn't pull people, and even more. African-Americans are especially hard work in this country when they work for a living. They worked thirteen and a half hours a day, and ate what amounted to garbage. They were considered inferior, they were sent back and the horrendous, backhanded treatment were normal. As a result, Black people had large, developed. This is true of the principles of humanity, respect for the individual and other minorities, and their human right to the public's respect. This is a difficult frame of mind to achieve, but it is possible. Many Black people have, if they have, to try to get the public to see what's been given the duty work to be done.

Myth #2: " Blacks ought to be educated by a movie. "

How can you start a business if you're on welfare?" if you are on welfare, hold the best that you can and be free.

Myth #3: "Black people are absent from America's business elite."

Black people can be successful in life and held in equal esteem by many Americans. We've seen this before and will no doubt see it again.

Black Achievements In Medicine Calendar

When Dr. Daniel Hale Williams first examined a young railroad worker named James Comish on July 9, 1883, he had no idea he was about to make medical history. Comish had been stabbed in the chest and by the time he arrived at Dr. Williams' office, his blood was flowing out of him. Despite the severity of his injuries and the lack of medical equipment available at the time, Dr. Williams was able to save Comish's life.

Then in 1899, after Dr. Williams had created the first successful heart transplant, his medical practice received a steady flow of patients who came to be treated by him. His success in treating heart problems and other medical conditions made him a household name.

Our Bodies

Dear Dr. Levister:

I am scheduled for surgery. My doctor told me I may need blood. I am scared of catching AIDS or some other disease. What do I do?

Dear M.D.:

Every day someone in San Bernardino or Riverside county needs gift that blood only can give. From 9 to 7, if you are good-hearted and eleven, it takes about 45 minutes.

You cannot catch any disease when donating blood.

When receiving this gift of life remember that the blood has been tested for AIDS, hepatitis and a host of other infections.

Daily donors are needed because blood can only be stored for 40 days.

There are methods to use your own blood independently or together to eliminate or minimize the need for donor blood as well as virtually eliminating transfusion risks of infection under sterile conditions.

If you are planning elective or non-emergency surgery and are healthy enough to donate blood, you may be able to become an autologous donor by donating your own blood before surgery and using it during or after the operation.

There is a method called intra-operative autologous transfusion, or recycling blood lost during surgery with a special machine used to collect, filter and return shed blood back to the patient. This procedure is of value when large amount of blood lost is expected and when there is no contamination of blood.

The same method can be used post-operative with blood collected during surgery and is called postoperative autologous transfusion.

No matter what the setting, the advantages of vertical blinds remain. The slim slivers or vanes overlap one another at the edges and hang vertically from a track. The tracked channel allows the vanes to be drawn, traverse style, and stacked to either the left or right or they can be arranged to open from the center, like draperies. The vanes can be rotated 180 degrees so you’re able to balance light, privacy and full savings insulation as you desire.

Most verticals provide a view directly in line of site, but not in the line of a long window and depending upon the tilt of the window it controls light from side to side, rather than from up or down, and emphasizes the height instead of the breadth of a window.

Verticals also provide a distinct bookkeeping advantage by collecting dust in the way horizontal blinds do.

One of the pleasures of decorating with verticals is that there are many styles of vanes to choose from in a variety of colors and textures. Vanes are made from a wealth of materials including vinyl, laminated card stock, and a large selection of fabrics, including translucent and textured fabrics. If you're creative and adventurous, you might decide to experiment with the reflective, metallic tones. If you're a "real" designer, you'll love grooved vanes, into which you can insert anything from coordinating wallpaper or fabric. Vertical blinds can be custom-made and shaped easily to fit and easily slide sliding, openings, for both windows and sliding doors, or French doors.

The key to the popularity of vertical is their flexibility. They let you look at your windows in a new light.

Oldsmobile Unveils 95' Aurora At LA Auto Show

BY JEFF WILSON AP WRITER

Oldsmobile unveiled its 1995 Aurora sport sedan at the Greater Los Angeles Auto Show, quelling rumors the motor company might be divided or eliminated as General Motors Corp. subdivided.

"Oldsmobile will always be around," said John Rock, the division's general manager, "and this becomes the new halo of concentration on power and this becomes the new halo.

Rock said when asked if there was an effort to dissociate Aurora from the Oldsmobile line.

Oldsmobile hopes to eventually produce 45,000 Aurora each year. The Greater Los Angeles Auto Show, which opens Saturday and continues to Jan. 10, was preparing to give Southern Californians a peek into the future.

"It's natural gas and a hydrogen-powered cars were on display," said Mickey Garrett, vice president of the Oldsmobile Division, "and I think President-elect Clinton is going to be putting an emphasis on lesser dependence on foreign oil and maybe raise gasoline taxes," said Mickey Garrett, vice president of the Greater Los Angeles Auto Motor Car Dealers Association.

Hertz Criticized For Continuing Bias

The Black Voice News PageA-4 Thursday, January 7, 1992

Two officials criticized the Hertz Corp. on Sunday for continuing to charge some New Yorkers higher car rental fees, despite a new policy of screening out high-risk drivers.

In a letter to Hertz, Consumer Affairs Commissioner Mark Green and Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., demanded that the company drop the "resident-based" daily surcharges.

Residents of Manhattan pay $3 per day extra to rent a car from Hertz; Queens residents pay $15; Brooklyn, $20; and the Bronx residents pay $55. Staten Island residents pay no added fee.

Hertz instituted the surcharges last March barring the company from being held liable for an accident, even if the renter is legally at fault.

Mayor David Dinkins signed a law last March barring the practice, but Green said Hertz has continued the residency charges while appealing it on constitutional grounds.

The company also began checking driving records to weed out customers with poor records.

In their letter to Hertz, chief executive officer Frank Olson, General Motors Corp. said the "tests strongly suggested we screen high-risk customers.

They cited a Congressional analysis that found Hertz's liability costs stemmed mainly from "a few enormous claims." In the Bronx, 44 percent of Hertz's total losses resulted from "a few enormous claims."

Hertz said the 92 Cougar offers looks and distinctive style and is also a terrific value! Because with this special short-time offer you can catch many luxury features and options' with any intent to cut liability costs.

"The redesigned Chevrolet Camaro and Pontiac Firebird were on display, as well as a variety of custom cars that included the Reeves Callaway SuperNatural, a customized purple Corvette with green stripes and red-flame Bridgestone tires."

It was also announced that the price of the Lexus Esprit was dropped $21,000. It now sells for $68,000.

Also at the Los Angeles Auto Show, which features 650 new cars and trucks from more than 40 manufacturers, "Mitsubishi unveiled a station wagon version of its Diamante luxury sedan."

"I saw a new version of the Topaz RS, a two-door version of its sport utility vehicle."

Ford introduced a group of new vehicles, including the Mustang Cobra sports coupe, the Ranger Splash and the Mustang Mach I concept car. Porsche showed off its new 911 Turbo 3.6 liter sports car, available in 1994.

Stellar Awards To Air January 13 - February 7

In celebration of Dr. Martin Luther King Day, Central City Productions will present the Eighth Annual "Stellar Gospel Music Awards," at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, January 13, 1993, at the Los Angeles Convention Center. The show will be televised nationally on Tuesday, January 15, 1993. "This is the only televised show that recognizes exclusively the achievements of Black gospel recording artists, producers, and musicians," said Don Jackson, President, Central City Productions. "Our most important goal is to get the "Stellar Awards" to pay tribute to Black Gospel Music as one of the world's most important art forms."

Highlights of the show will include presentations of the Most Noble Achievement Award to NAACP Executive Director Benjamin Lawson Hooks; and the James Cleveland Award (formerly the Excellence Award) will be presented to the Gospel Music Workshop of America by Bobby Jones.

Songstress Marilyn McCoo and actor Cleo Davis host the event featuring celebrity presenters from the music and television industries.

Stellar Awards presenters include stars such as Morris Cheeseman ("Boys In The Hood," "Our All Night"), Ella Joyce ("Roc'N", Virgin Jazz), Freda Payne and Michael Nunez, "Out All Night"), Randy Crawford, "By Your Side"), Yolanda King, "Red, White & Rhythm", Cleo Davis ("A Love Supreme"), Don "Star"k) and Karen Malina White ("A Different World"), Janice Bryant "Prince Of Peace"

Performing at the event will be contemporary Gospel artists such as The Anointed Band, Shari Kay, Cassar, Dolyce, Viley Ebo, Terry Hawkins, The L.A. Maie Choir, The Richard Smallwood Singers, Sounds of Philadelphia.

Gospel Music Workshop will be the first Black Gospel Church, taped by Gospel Music Workshop of America.

A Gospel Workshop will be held in celebration of Dr. Martin Luther King Community Church, 744 S. Angeles, San Bernardino, CA, on January 9, 1993. Guest Artist will be Doug Smallwood, "Drum Major Is There", Cynthia Willis and the Andre' Choir. The workshop will be presented by the Gospel Music Workshop of America.

NATIONAL NAACP PICTORIAL

The 24th Annual San Bernardino Black History Parade was held in San Bernardino and many were awarded for their outstanding commitment to the community, the region and the state.

The theme this year was "Pioneering" as outstanding as he spoke on the theme, "The Anatomy of a Pioneer."

Colonel John D. Hopper, Wing Commander of the 63rd Airlift Wing, spoke on his experience growing up. He spoke about the Black family, and how news from school, breakfast good or bad, got home sooner than you did. He lived community, family and teachers as a sure fire ticket to a better life.

Life is full of sacrifice and it takes bone, tissue and muscle to be successful. Hopper said his basic values were learned from his family.

He joined the Air Force shortly after graduating from school in Columbus, Ohio. The military education background of Colonel Hopper started at the U.S. Air Force Academy, Air Force Institute of Technology, Air Command and Staff College, Industrial College of the Armed Forces. The fact that he graduated with honors from the Squadron Officer's school, coupled with his 20 years of meritorious service should count heavily on his next command assignment.

Pioneers Awarded were:

Dorothy Inghram - Inghram's superior performance as educator, principal, writer, musician, publisher, superintendent, teacher, composer, lecturer, author and humanitarian, made significant contributions in the field of "Minorities in education: Colonel Paul L. Green, USAF (Ret) - Colonel Green is a former Staff Commander at Norton AFB, and he is a native of Ohio; Cheryl Thomas - Thomas is the first African American Ladies Professional Golf Association member, United States Golf Association CONTINUED ON B-6

Not Easy Helping A Patient Deal With Death

Together We Can

By Charles Loeblottner

Together We Can: Build a better life in 1993 for ourselves.

Sports Illustrated you made the '80s to see courage, determination, to stand up and be a voice for the rest of us. But Arthur stands for something more than that, and he is the perfect person to lead us in the right direction.

Arthur, who passed away in 1993, was a man who believed in the power of sports to bring people together. He used his leadership skills to become a coach of the Davis Cup squad and championed the ATP, the players' union.

Back in the 1980s, Arthur's voice was heard across the country when he advocated for better life in 1993 for ourselves. He used his platform to stand up for what he believed in, and his actions inspired others to do the same.

Arthur was a man who had a passion for sports, but he also had a passion for helping those in need. He was involved in the United Negro Community Foundation, and he formed the Arthur Ashe Foundation for the Defeat of AIDS.

It's not too late for us to emulate Arthur, to be a part of the solution instead of the problem. We can use our own skills and talents to make a difference in the world.

I would tell the patient that the power to live with dignity and victory, even when facing death, is available to all of us. This is the life which God created for us. It is not little and mean and limited. It is big and beautiful and unlimited. Its possibilities are boundless.

I would tell the patient that he must not only want to live, but also want to do it. He must want to live a life that is meaningful and fulfilling. He must want to live a life that is full of love and compassion.

I would tell the patient to be a living example to others. He must show them that it is possible to live a life without fear of death. He must show them that it is possible to live a life that is full of joy and happiness.

I would tell the patient to be a part of something bigger than himself. He must be a part of the solution instead of the problem. He must be a part of the community and world.

I would tell the patient that the legacy of Arthur Ashe is still alive today. We can all be a part of this legacy by helping others and making a difference in the world.

SCE Returns to the Rose Parade with Another All-electric Float

The company that wrote Rose Parade history last January with the first all-electric powered float, has brought more magical innovation in 1993 to the world's most popular parade - the first Rose Parade float featuring solar powered animation.

The float demonstrated the use of the spherical photovoltaic cells, Edison is experimenting with solar cell technologies to reduce the cost of manufacturing and installing solar systems.

The float was presented a unique opportunity to show that leading-edge electric technology can help reduce air pollution, according to Mike Merlo, Edison's Manager of Research and Electric Transportation. "Even though the More Than Magic" float featured a gigantic magician spinning his solar-powered "magic" orb.

Solar-powered animation afirst for the famous parade.

For 20 Boys

The S.C.E.L.F. Youth Center, Inc., a non-profit organization, is designed as a "Rites of Passage" program for Black males who have been selected to participate in the 30 week program that focuses on the consequences of gang involvement, discipline/responsibility, decision making skills, victim awareness, self-determination, co-operative work and responsibility.

Approximately 20 boys have been selected to participate in the 20 week program that focuses on the consequences of gang involvement, discipline/responsibility, decision making skills, victim awareness, self-determination, co-operative work and responsibility.

On January 15, 1993, the S.C.E.L.F. Center will hold its first "Sepa-ration Ceremony" which is held to mark the parents' offering of their sons for training and the boy's commitment to prepare for manhood in the most positive sense.

The passage is designed to keep the African-American male on a weekly basis by elders, big brothers, and of course, the boys. The entire community is encouraged to come out and support the youth as they make this seven and a half month journey towards manhood. This event will take place at Temple Baptist Church located at 1583 W. Union Street.
