Recently the Inland Empire African-American Chamber of Commerce was host to a 3 day conference in Senegal, West Africa. The delegates were visiting the United States to make trade contact and to learn how the US private and public sector work together to increase international trade and economic development. The group's leader, Mr. Ndiaye spoke to the Chamber members about trade and investment opportunities with Senegal. This was not only an opportunity to network with other business owners, but also a chance to gain knowledge about doing business in Senegal. The event was attended by Mr. Trax, a member of the National African Chamber; Kathleen Barros, Principal Partner of Access International and Chair of the Inland Empire African American Chamber and Advisor of Pacific Investment Advisors.

Jim Trainer (R) makes a point to James Farmer, (L) Vice President of Marketing for Saturn, during an interview. Trainer watched the building go up and is happy to see that it will be ready to open. "We are happy to see it in the Ontario Auto Center," said Trainer. James Farmer, Vice President of Marketing for Saturn, George Doss III, Saturn's Western Regional Sales and Marketing Manager, Lee McElroy, Corporate, Col. Reid, GM Manager-West, Nicky Scott, Vice President of Sales, Rick Thompson, Saturn Marketing Rep, and Tom Jacobs, GMAC Manager, were on hand for the momentum occasion. It was mentioned generally by all the busy schedule, that many GM officials usually most through confirmatory calls. This indicates the special significance placed on this occasion.

"We feel very good about Mr. Trainer," said Farmer. "He has been reliably informed." Trainer is a native of Birmingh, Alabama, where he began the automobile business as the first African American salesperson at Edwards Chevrolet in 1971. In 1984, he became the manager of the Saturn dealer team at Steel City Oils in Birmingham, BMW. In 1990, he became the owner of Trainer Oils, Inc., and GME Truck, in Warner Robbins, Georgia. He was very successful in his business. The number one minority owned Saturn Auto Dealer in Black Enterprise Magazine (1992-1994) and Automotive Fleet Magazine (1994) he sold more cars that any other minority auto dealer makes any cars.

"Jim Trainer typifies our Saturn retail partners," said George Doss III. "They are highly successful and respected sales professionals, with organizations committed to providing superior customer satisfaction and exceptional sales service and customer service." "They are our customers, doing business with us, we are doing business with them, and our customers are doing business with the dealership." With that kind of philosophy, the independent subsidiary of General Motors, based in Spring Hill, Tennessee and Troy, Michigan will give the subcontracts and computer markets a run for their money.

"They are graduates of Western University, Agoura Hills High and a BA in business from National University. They have been married and has three young adult children.

Inequality and Imprisonment

BY W. DANNY MARABLE

The Black Voice News

Dr. W. Danny Marable is a professor at New York University and author of "Am I Blue," a collection of essays.

In a recent editorial, "The Right to Vote," Marable discusses the importance of voting rights and the need for a more inclusive electorate.

Marable argues that "American democracy is not a democracy of one color. It is a democracy of the majority. And the majority is white."

He goes on to say that "the destruction of black voting rights is not just a matter of justice. It is a matter of survival."

Marable also discusses the role of the media in shaping public opinion and the need for a more diverse and inclusive media landscape.

Finally, he calls for a renewed commitment to black voting rights and the need for a more inclusive democracy.

The Black Voice News is a weekly newspaper in San Diego, California, founded in 1980 by Alicia Lee and Dennis Carter. It is a publication of the Southern California Black Press Association and is distributed to over 20,000 homes in the San Diego area.
CCBSBM Holds Annual Conference

The California Coalition of Black School Board Members held its annual breakfast at the annual conference of the California School Board Members Association. The guest speaker was Dr. Marlin Foxworth, Superintendent of the Hayward School District, formerly the Superintendent of the Rialto Unified School District.

After remarks from the Norman Brothers, financing and computer specialists and long time supporters of the organization, Rex Fortune, Superintendent of the Center School District, Foxworth spoke on the need for African Americans on all levels to communicate. And the current climate in the state and nation makes it imperative, I want to set up groups all over the state to discuss the issues affecting us with the changing climate of our nation, he said.

An election was held to replace outgoing state President Hardy Brown. Elected was Bantani Siwatu, Trustee of the Ravenswood Unified School District. The newly elected vice president was Vernicia Green Sanders, Trustee, Perris Elementary School District.

Other school board members from the Inland Empire made presentations at conference workshops. "Open Up The Board Room Doors" was presented by School Board Trustees, Bernadette Burke (Moorpark Valley School District), Dana Knuckenberg (Riverside), and Sonya Wilson (Lake Elsinore).

The highly enjoyable presentation included a skit, poetry, do's and don'ts, sharing experiences and questions from the audience.

Nearly 100 people attended the presentation, which informed other school board members about how to treat citizens who come to the board meetings to address the public. "Some people differ on the way they approach standing before the school board. People from different backgrounds and races approach a microphone in a different way. Many times I get excited when I talk, I'm not angry, it's just the excitement of the issue. We should just sit down and say how they say it and deal with what they are saying. It is valid to listen to what these citizens say. Remember they elected you," said Burke.

"Be aware of how you sit and what is the expression on your face. Give a warm welcome to the citizens," said Sonya Wilson. She used her own poetry to get her point across. Wilson additionally discussed the importance of student input. "Students at one school were very upset about a policy change and the Board convened at the school to let 900 students give input. They came up with some really good ideas. Everyone is important," she said.

Dana Knuckenberg admonished, "Don't let someone else say what you stood up for." She told the story of a board member sightseeing someone who had a t-shirt and jeans. He happened to be a P.L.D. and went back and gave trouble to that board member. "Every citizen has a right no matter who they are and what they are wearing to be respected," she said. Knuckenberg also spoke on the Brown Act, the statute that governs all public meetings in the state.

Out of the audience in a rehearsed skit, came Camelyn Preschen, former Trustee in the Upland Unified School District, who served as a parent just trying to get some books for her child. The skit dealt with the parent who didn't know what to do but was told by the acting board through body language and tone of voice just how uninterested they were in the parent's problem. One member stepped up to the plate and gave a solution to the problem.

For the old man is a-waiting
If you follow, follow the drinking gourd.

The bowl was a bag of black pepper. It was used to throw the fleeing enslaved people. It was a device that enslaved people used to help them escape.

Every town had a secret plan. They were the artisans, the blacksmiths, the carpenters, the shoemakers. They were the ones who knew how to build simple traps or devices to help the enslaved people escape.

The Underground Railroad was a network of safe houses and escape routes used by enslaved African Americans to escape to freedom. It was a system of secret hideaways, and the networks of people who helped enslaved people escape to freedom.

The law helped to turn the tide of public opinion, and by 1865 slavery was illegal throughout the United States. The Underground Railroad was a symbol of hope and resilience for those who were determined to fight for freedom.

North, destiny's child, was indeed well prepared. There was no stopping the Huskies' drive to their first CIF title. It was as if the Heavens were overlooking their run. Through the last six seasons, a team was making a run at North, something - Chris Claiborne, Robert Farias, Bryant Kennedy, Doug Lee, Sam Brandon and Justin Solo - always happened in their favor to have off an opponent's charge a victory. It was more of the same against the Falcons (11-3) in the title game.

LIFEbeat Counter Aid '95

LIFEbeat's Counter Aid '95, which brought together major and mom & pop record stores with celebrities from music, TV, and film to help raise money for those living with HIV/AIDS, proved even more successful than last year, thanks to the support of over 1400 retail outlets nationwide. Throughout the six day span, Word AIDS Day (Dec. 1st) through December 7th, participating record stores asked their customers to round their purchases up to the nearest dollar, with the extra monies being donated to LIFEbeat. On December 2nd, artists and celebrities did their part for the cause by staffing the cash registers at participating record stores in New York, Los Angeles, Miami and Atlanta. Black Publishers Hold 12th Annual Convention he 12th Annual Convention of West Coast Black Publishers Association (WCBPA) ended at Beliard's Hotel and Host in Las Vegas recently on a high note of enthusiasm, but cautious, optimism. The theme, "Charting New Directions - Meeting The Challenges of Diversity," formed an approprigate metaphor for an industry group beleaguered by merging corporations who are not adventuring as they should be the Black press, along with political and social issues that continue to plague African-American by American Minorities as members, Publishers and hosted by Anheuser-Busch, corporations, corporate America, minority-owned businesses and the community must work in close partnership to ensure their mutual success and survival.

Over four days, the assembled delegates from around the country, representing more than 500 companies, civic and political leaders explored various implications and topics of interest vital to their success which directly impact the quality of business and life in the minority community. The characteristics defining these relations with West Coast Black Publishers Association are important because the WCBPA specifically serves a targeted audience and no other medium in the West has the credibility of its member papers. WCBPA's inaugural Youth Day departed from the regular convention pattern, as it was held in Las Vegas because of Gov. Pete Wilson, who was in town on a high note.

Attracting a large gathering to the Welcome Day Luncheon, hosted by Anheuser-Busch, Inc., was Kevin Winfrey, Jr., a member of the National Football League Hall of Fame. With appearances on NBC's Today Show, ABC's Nightline, and ESPN, Winfrey is often called upon to speak about social, political, economic, and racial issues relating to sports. His timely remarks called for a continuing support of the Black press because the Black community then becomes empowered with information that is vital to its welfare.

The West Coast Black Publishers Association was established in 1971 as a trade association for Black owned newspapers in the Western United States. It has 22 members, 34 editions which are published in 18 markets. The newly elected WCBPA officers are Brian Townsend, president, Clifton Campbell, Jr., first vice president, Virginia Taylor, second vice president, Richard Monte, secretary, and Bernard Foster, treasurer and immediate past president. According to Townsend, "We are extremely pleased with the outcome of this year's convention. Our membership takes pride in being champions for progress in the minority community. The Black press is alive and we will work diligently for its survival and for it to be the best that it can be."

The 12th Annual convention was initially planned for Los Angeles but was aborted when the publishers voted to move to Las Vegas because of Gov. Pete Wilson's assurance of affirmative action in California. They were staunchly supported by corporate hosts and sponsors, national and state association executives as well as media representatives. Corporate participants included Act 1 Personnel Services, American Minorities Media, Anheuser-Busch Companies, Brown & Williamson Cable News Network (CNN), Canadian Club, Cox Broadcasting Company, Kraft Foods, Inc., Miller Brewing Company, Nasser Motor Corporation, Kraft Foods, Inc., Miller Brewing Company, Nasser Motor Corporation, USA, Northstar, Pabst Brewing Company, Philip Morris USA, Rodeo, The Public Relations Firm of Reynolds, the Southland Corporation, Sony USA and Walt Disney Company. The 12th Annual WCBPA Convention was coordinated by the Public Relations Firm of Alfred Brown, president of African Book and Associates in Stamford, Conn.

Recently, at a reception held to welcome new teachers, Hardy Brown, former member of the Sam Bernardino Board of Trustees was honored by the African American Educators Association for twelve years of service. In the presentation teacher Sally Laffanic said Brown deserved a mighty river. The analogy was from a poem whose anonymous writer said, "Drop a pebble in the water, just a splash and it is gone. But there’s half-a-hundred ripples stippling on and on and on..." LaSane commented, "There’s no way of telling how many lives you’ve touched; nor is there any way of telling how many lives have been influenced by your leadership and direction." After a few of the many accomplishments Brown has made in the last twelve years she said, "we here today want to leave you with the information to continue dropping pebbles where you go because the world needs your rippling effects on the lives of students everywhere."
