Congressman Brown To Oppose Increased Tax Revenue Statement On The Constitutional Amendment On Taxes

I am opposed to the constitutional amendment to require a two-thirds majority in Congress to increase tax revenue. The amendment would not only be ineffective but increase the likelihood that Congress would lean towards more social spending. It would mean you and I would have to pay more taxes which would hurt our families and also hurt the government budget.

In principle, I am opposed because the amendment would give Congress the ability to add one or two more millionaires to Congress and also cause Congress to waste even more money. In effect, the amendment would not only make it more difficult to add one or two more millionaires to Congress, but would also limit the ability of Congress to pass laws that would improve the nation's economy by increasing taxes. As a result, the amendment would not only make it more difficult for Congress to pass the laws that would improve the nation's economy, but would also limit the ability of Congress to pass laws that would improve the nation's economy by increasing taxes.

Congressman George Brown broadly popular solutions to important problems in our nation.

In actual practice, the amendment would make it much more difficult to add one or two more millionaires to Congress and also cause Congress to waste even more money. As a result, the amendment would not only make it more difficult for Congress to pass the laws that would improve the nation's economy, but would also limit the ability of Congress to pass laws that would improve the nation's economy by increasing taxes.

As Americans mourn the loss of Ron Brown, one of the most comforting thoughts is that he died "at the top of his game," doing what he loved most and that all citizens would praise anywhere in the world. Making a difference in real life is what made Brown so different from other political players and media celebrities. Too often when the world looks to a Black man working "at the top of his game," the world is watching just that, a game. It may be a wonderful, exciting game of basketball, football, soccer, or baseball but in the end the outcome doesn't make a very big difference to the real world of schools, families, jobs and health care.

Brown worked his magic at the highest levels of the Democratic Party for many years, where the stakes for African-Americans were higher than anywhere else in the world. During his 54 years, Brown started from Harlem to the White House.

In 1989, Brown decided to run for the chairmanship of a divided and depressed Democratic Party. His rise to the top, that had suffered a shocking defeat in the 1988 presidential election. Many of Brown's friends were skeptical of his chances of winning and even more pessimistic about his ability to pull off a miracle by reinvigorating and revitalizing a moribund Democratic Party. Brown was confident of his ability to perennially be "the White Champion" of the Democratic Party that he was the most qualified person.

Recalled Don Fowler, current National Chairman of the Democratic National Convention, "I was one of the very few rank and file Democrats who offered early support to Brown in his aggressive campaign for the chairmanship. I supported him because I believed in the man and his capabilities. Brown won, and became the first African-American chairman of a major national political party. The dreamers were realized," Fowler said. "This was the quiet possibility that we were peculiar experts who were a full human and legal rights. No person. Fearing no...

Brown reached from Harlem to the White House. As Americans mourn the loss of Ron Brown, one of the most loved people in this world, we join with the rest of the country in mourning his loss. As a member of the Congressional Black Caucus, I am saddened. Indeed, that member of the CBC sits in the house of hope and opportunity, and he has left an indelible stamp on the history of the Caucus. Under new rules of the House of Reps...

American Legion Honors Past Commanders

Dear DR. LEVISTE~:

According to the latest statistics, the median survival rate for a Black male has dropped from 67.7 years in 1987 to 1988.

DEF K.N.:

The problem is complex but, the basic cause for this decline is due to a combination of health care that Blacks are receiving and the poor health habits that they presently have. Drug and alcohol abuse, smoking, violence, cholesterol and stress are the leading causes.

Black Americans are sicker than their White counterparts. Blacks in this country are affected more by every disease than Whites. Blacks are generally poorer than Whites and have less money for good medical care.

The level of achieved education among Whites is higher than Blacks; consequently, Blacks have less knowledge of educational material (which explains health matters to them).

Blacks live on poorer health care, more free, more carbon monoxide, more smoke and more carrot juices. Blacks, as a whole, have less health available and more dangerous jobs which expose them to industrial accidents and disease-causing agents. The stress of poverty, racism and bigotry is primarily responsible for the deterioration of health status of African-Americans.

DEAR DR. LEVISTE: I use White, a mother and teacher in San Bernardino. I recently attended the Third Annual African-American AIDS Conference in Ontario. I was alarmed by the epidemic of AIDS in the African-American community. However, I was more alarmed by the rapidly deteriorating status of health among Black Americans. Please shed some light on this problem, K.N.

DEAR K.N.:
The health status of Black Americans is deteriorating and deteriorating fast. According to the latest statistics, the median survival rate for a Black male has dropped from 67.7 years in 1994 to 1995.

DENVER (UMNS) — A plan for matching vibrant, growing Black congregations with ministers as struggling churches was overwhelmingly approved by the 1996 General Conference.

The proposed $1.7 million funding package for the Black Congregations' Ecclesiastical Renewal Plan will go to the General Council on Finance and Administration, which will make a recommendation to the 1996 General Conference.

"Strengthening the Black United Methodist Church for the 21st Century," is a proposal that has been four years in the making. Led by chairman William White, Bishop Kenneth Carder of the Indiana Area, a task force conducted research on congregations and communities across the United States.

Among the findings were:

• The Black population in the United States grew by 11 percent between 1980 and 1990, and the United Methodist Church has seen a decline in Black membership and the number of Black churches.

• Local churches that are growing numerically and in terms of spiritual and social outreach are doing well, but are involved in leadership.

• Vibrant local churches offer ideas and resources that can be used in strengthening other congregations in other settings.

"Growth in the Black Church is not just a matter of numbers, it’s more a matter of how well you are serving the community," White said.

The plan for matching vibrant, growing Black congregations and churches with ministers to strengthen them will likely be a go-forward plan now will include a funding package for the four-year (1996-1999) period.

St. Paul AME Celebrates 92nd Church Anniversary

On Sunday, April 28, 1996 at 5:00 p.m., St. Paul will celebrate their 92nd Church Anniversary. This year's theme is "Networking" - Psalm 27.

St. Paul, the first Black Methodist Church in San Bernardino, and the largest Black Methodist Church east of Los Angeles County, was founded in 1904 on Easter Sunday, by Mr. Henry & Mrs. Mary Ingham.
Over the span of 90 years, 40 percent have graced the pulpit with tenure from one to 12 years.

"We have grown from a tiny mission to an institutional-like church. With 19 Boards, Associates and Clubs to meet the spiritual and social needs of its members and community. St.
Paul has grown from seven churched minister to a membership of more than 3,100 including children and infants," said
Rev. Charles Brooks, Pastor.

St. Paul Church is located where Rev. Raymond Turner is pastor, who is also with St. Paul to help celebrate the 92nd Anniversary. Rev. Brooks states, "Churches should fellowship for the be-service of the local community. The public is invited to attend the anniversary celebration, which is located at 1355 W. 21st St. (also one of the homes in San Bernardino)".

Starting June 1, your phone number will be given out automatically each time you make a call — unless you block it.

Your phone number will soon be transmitted to the person or business you're calling every time you make a telephone call. Beginning June 1, your number will automatically be displayed on any calls you make to people or businesses who use a new phone service known as “Caller ID,” even if you don't have the service yourself. To prevent your number from being given out when you make a call, you must choose a free “Caller ID Blocking” option.

Here’s the information you need to choose the right option for you, and to understand how this new service could affect your privacy:

What is Caller ID?
Caller ID is a service that displays your phone number on a Caller ID device when you make a call. It is already available in most of the country and will affect phone customers in California on June 1st.

How will Caller ID change the way I use my phone?
You have the right to prevent your phone number from being displayed on the Caller ID device of the person or business you call. This can be done by “blocking” your number from being transmitted. If you don't block Caller ID, your number will be given out automatically each time you make a call to someone with Caller ID service — even if you have an unlisted phone number. This will happen whether or not you have the Caller ID service yourself.

Currently, your number is transmitted when you call 800 and 900 numbers, and 9-1-1. Caller ID Blocking won't change this.

Why would I choose to block Caller ID?
There are reasons why some callers won't want their numbers to be given out. For example, you may be paying for an unlisted number that you don't want everyone to have. Or you may not want salespeople saving or selling your number, or putting it on marketing lists. Law enforcement workers, abuse victims and others may not want everyone to know your location (“reverse” directories list addresses by their phone numbers). Don’t transmit your personal phone number by accident. Blocking options let you decide who gets your number and who doesn’t.

What are my free blocking choices?
- One option is to order “Complete Blocking.” This prevents transmission of your number on all the calls you make — except to 800, 900 and 9-1-1. You can still show your number on certain calls by pressing *82 (on rotary phones, 1182) before you dial the number.
- Or you can choose “Selective Blocking,” which transmits your number on all the calls you make. You can still block your number on certain calls by pressing *67 (on rotary phones, 1167) before you dial the number.

If you do nothing by June 1, you will automatically have “Selective Blocking.”

How do I choose my blocking option?
Look for a special alert in your phone bill and choose blocking options, or call the following toll free number: 1-800-884-8739 to make your choice...and to get answers to all your blocking questions.

With free Caller ID Blocking options, it’s your call: 1-800-884-8739

If you would like more information on Caller ID, or Selective and Complete Blocking options, please call: 1-800-884-8739.

Caller ID Blocking is free. Caller ID service will be available for a change. You're not required to have Caller ID service in order to use the blocking options. Please reply now to ensure blocking by June 1. If you have any concerns or complaints that are not resolved by GTE, you may contact the Consumer Affairs Branch of the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC), 505 Van Ness Avenue, Room 2003, San Francisco, CA 94102. The Consumer Affairs Branch public telephone hours are 10am-3pm Monday through Friday. You can reach them by calling 1-800-649-7570. This information is provided by GTE as required by the CPUC.
