There is growing evidence in Yucca Valley that anti Black and other gaps members are having a far reaching impact on the school. In Yucca Valley, a teacher and a Black student were threatened at gunpoint by members of a gap gang. The incident occurred on a school campus where students and staff were present. The Black student, a high school senior, was threatened with a gun by a gap gang member who said, "You're Black, you're going to die.

The victim, who requested anonymity, described the incident to a friend and later reported it to school officials. The school district, however, has not yet released any statement on the incident.

In another incident, a Black student at the same school was threatened with a gun by a group of gap gang members. The victim reported the incident to the school administration, but no action was taken.

The school district is currently investigating both incidents, but no arrests have been made. The district has also increased security measures at the school.

The incidents highlight the ongoing problem of police inaction and lack of decisive action against racism.

Racial Hostility at School

A College Education is Important

A policewoman at the school claimed to have witnessed the incident, however, and refused to leave the front of the school grounds. Students were being waited for.

John Pecorella, said in a written statement, "I am not referring to education's power to make one more knowledgeable, thoughtful, and thereby a better, civic-minded individual, as important as that.

No, I mean the power of the preservation of a value, to help its bearer become a more complete person. The one who has a job that provides him with the "credential" of at least an associate degree from a two year institution, or even, better, a bachelors degree from a four year institution, does not lack the requisite "ticket" to enter the arena of the jobs market and face the likelihood of being pushed to the margins of the society.

The fact that some form of pressure, such as critical requirement for a greater array of jobs has become apparent in the last two decades. So we can say that it will become more rigid in our 21st Century and see that it is an occupational structure more and more people are being subjected to harsh rules of global competition.

Racial minorities—Asian Americans, African Americans, Pacific Islander and Native Americans—have been experiencing increased racial stress and hostility in school and college communities. The pressure to succeed and gain acceptance has increased for minority students. Studies have revealed that minority students are more likely to leave school due to perceived stress and pressure.

African Americans and Latinos have experienced a history of discrimination and oppression. As early as 1854, the California Supreme Court ruled that Chinese Exclusion Act had been issued solely to protect the whites. In 1882, the California Exclusion Act banned all immigration from Asia. As Japanese immigration increased, the discriminatory legislation was reenacted and expanded within the state. California prohibited aliens of Japanese birth from owning property. The 1924 National Origins Act excluded most Asians from migrating to the US. With the outbreak of World War II, 110,000 Japanese Americans were relocated to internment camps. It was only 1945 that the Japanese Americans were permitted to return to their homes. However, the Japanese Americans have not been able to reverse the effects of this racism.

Apartheid in the rural South was an example of racial discrimination that illustrates profound differences between the groups. African Americans and Whites were not able to interact with one another until the late 1950s and early 1960s.

A College Education is Important

There is one reason it's so important that we all work at increasing the educational attainment of all African American youth as possible, and all youth of color: because what kind of post-secondary education we receive has an enormous impact on our lives, and on the well being of our society. If I've said before, given the fact that the middle and upper class color will account for the majority if not all of the student population, evidently necessary that we continue to work toward increasing our available human capital.

But there's another reason, too. There is an absolutely critical requirement on post-secondary education as it applies to our institutions. That reason is that colleges and universities are becoming by making America a more inclusive society.

Given the class and racial divides that are so critical in America and the critical requirement for a greater array of jobs has become apparent in the last two decades. So we can say that it will become more rigid in our 21st Century and see that it is an occupational structure more and more people are being subjected to harsh rules of global competition.

Teen Pregnancy

DEAR DR. LEVISTER:

Teen pregnancy was just another one of society's ills until I learned recently that my 14-year-old daughter was four months pregnant by a 25-year-old man. He is a gang buster, with no job and no future. She wants to have a baby.

What shall I do?

"He who conquers himself is the mightiest warrior"

In his student he seeks to develop a good strong "Yes I can attitude, and to let them know, whatever they dream, they can achieve."

The students are taught how to defend themselves necessary, but to avoid fighting whenever possible, because they have nothing to prove by fighting.

Case in point, most martial arts are designed to skillfully control conflict in win-lose situations.

Mrs. Dunbar, and parents work together to build confidence and self-respect, within the youngsters. It should come as no surprise, that students who study martial arts usually get better grades in school, they're more supple overall, better prepared to meet life's challenges and show more of themselves and at ease with others.

In its third year of operation, The United Martial Arts, dojo student has first competed on the local level. Students compete by belt, age, and weight class.

Hard work and time spent qualified six students for the United States Jr. Olympic Taekwondo Championships in Orlando, Florida.

The contenders fought with courage, gentleness, and the goal of doing their best.

Congratulations! The champions are: Jessica Mason - 1st place gold; Nathan Shepherd - 1st place gold; Craig Mechanick - 2nd place silver; Stephen Conley Jr. - 2nd place silver; Marquis Tillman - 3rd place bronze; James Evans - 4th place.

Jessica Marquez and Nathan Shepherd have qualified for the upcoming 1996 Pan American (International) Open Junior and Senior Taekwondo Championships, September 23-25 at Disneyland Hotel, Anaheim.

Has there been a conspiracy to keep African Americans disorganized, poor and outside the economic mainstream? This may well be the case, but who is heading the conspiracy? Is it a conglomerate of White people, or is it possibly from inside our own group? Thirty years after the America's Civil Rights Era, the African American community is still being led toward socialism by civil rights leaders and their social policies. As a becomes more and more obvious that civil rights solutions can never be translated into economic power, more and more African Americans are becoming discontent with the Black status quo and starting to wonder if the conspiracy is coming from our own ranks. Some Blacks are struggling to understand: "With friends like those who needs enemies?"

Thankfully these days ranks of Blacks are losing their reluctance to focus attention on internal social problems which are at the core of why the vast majority of our community still finds itself in economic hardship. Although conspiracy theories still abound in America's urban communities, more of us are looking at the people who are supposed to be accountable for our well-being and are less willing to accept blindly the notion that racial discrimination is the only reason why Blacks are failing to eradicate poverty. African Americans need to educate themselves on the nature and power of the marketplace. Civil Rights Era leaders are not the proven experts on these matters. Those of us who believe in an internal conspiracy believe our community has been recklessly misled by a tide of propaganda which has been preached (mainly by preachers) that Blacks should not, indeed could not, strive as other Americans in the competitive marketplace.

Even though this nation has hosted a succession of ethnic groups, which struggled its way in, up and out of poverty through the route of business enterprise, we Blacks were too often urged and persuaded to wait on the nature and quiescence of our churches and other groups, which struggled its way into the realm of economic development. In Detroit where the Arabs supply our food and liquor needs with chains of inner-city supermarkets and convenience stores; in Harlem, the Koreans own most of the stores along 125th Street; and in Miami, it's the Cubans and Haitians who are building the economic enterprises from the pocketbooks of African Americans in that city. In Houston, it's the Indochinese and Nigerians, aspiring to compete in the free enterprise arena in the best guarantee of attaining long-term economic prosperity. It is the practical realm of economic development to which we have to turn our attention and formulate effective strategies to permanently reverse the ongoing decline of our communities.

A conspiracy to keep African Americans poor and disorganized. Yes, it is possible. But, it is important for us all to note the old "Pogo" comic strip saying the germ: "We have met the enemy and they is us."

I don't know what to do. What advice do you suggest?

The Bible says in 2nd Corinthians 5:17 that "If any person is in Christ, he is a new creature; old things have passed away and all things have become new." She needs a change of heart, a heart that is willing to help her. She needs to come from the Lord and not support her "worldly" advice. The Bible says in Romans 12:2 that we should not be conformed to this world, but be changed by the renewing of our mind. We should not be reacting to the sin that is not normal. It is not normal for a man to lust for a man or woman to lust for a woman. What you need to do is to help her understand that sin is sin, regardless of the person's gender. She may see you as a potential friend, but you stand against sin in all its forms, as the Bible Counseling. I am in desperate need of help. My best friend just found out she is a homosexual. I don't know what to do. What advice do you suggest?

Questions & Answers

Dr. Reginald Wood

QUESTIONS: Dear Pastor Wood: I am in desperate need of help. My best friend just revealed to me that she is gay. I don't know what to do. What do you suggest? Answers, San Bernardino, CA

ANSWER: First of all, do not panic. Many people do more harm that good by overreacting. Sin is sin, regardless of how we react. We can be a tremendous help to her. Jesus did not reject people. He rejected their sin. I trust homosexuality like alcoholism, smoking, weight problems, a bad attitude, etc. Sin is sin. Your friend needs to know where you stand on the issue. She may see you as a potential romantic companion. Let her know that you stand against homosexuality, as the Bible does, but not against her and not against her choice to be gay. She needs to come from the Lord and not support her "worldly" advice. The Bible says in Romans 12:2 that we should not be conformed to this world, but be changed by the renewing of our mind. of course the Atlanta Committee of the Olympic Games chief William "Billy" Payne. All took the opportunity that this world wide stage presented and sent the call out for peace and togetherness. "We urge all parties involved in armed conflict to observe Olympics," said Samaranch in his opening remarks during the ceremonies. "In Olympic Movement our only weapon is sport. Sport represents friendship, education, health, and life." Added Payne about the Olympic symbol: "An montage of all the worlds cultures ... the sounds awakened the world together in peace and harmony. For a fleeting moment in time a more peaceful world united.

The more than 5,500 people who per-formed in the event and the backgroup crew of 2,100 volunteers and 650 field marshals made all in attendance forget about the hot humid Atlanta night air, as they planned beautiful costume after costume out for our viewing pleasure.

In particular the Olympic Rings were a theme of the night air and the colors that re-present the nations of the world were promi-nently draped throughout the proceedings.

Dominique de Romeo back to the community" said Melleck as he signed autographs for his many young admirers. "The Fellow" took on a new lease of life. From rags to riches they were right on the beat. These six young men were just plain passionate and if the singing didn't get you their ability to dance, dance, dance had to knock you off your feet. I know some of the parents were Sets the music world ablaze, Damu, Tha London and Giggles.

The Mechanics of Clean Air

The mechanisms of clean air are really quite simple. Cars are the single biggest cause of California's dirty air. Help clean the air by getting a tune up, changing the oil, and keeping your tires properly inflated.

When do you either clean the air or you go to a pro, you can help clean the air by maintaining your car. Do your part. A car in top shape runs cleaner, pollutes less and will save you money.

Be a part of the pollution solution. Clean air is everyone's job.

Change The Oil And Tune It Up.
