Estrada, Lara win places in run-off

Esther Estrada, the first Hispanic woman to run for the office of mayor in San Bernardino, received the highest votes on the highly charged Tuesday's election in which nine other candidates vied for that position. The unofficial returns gave Ms. Estrada 3,431 votes or 18.4% of the total votes with Tom Minor receiving 3,310 votes or 17.8% with a difference of 121 votes between the two candidates! As a result of the returns in which neither candidate receiving a 50% plus vote, a runoff election is scheduled for May 4.

There is a current review by city clerk personnel of provisional ballots' verification as a result of absentee ballot requests not received by voters prior to the election date. And according to San Bernardino City Clerk Office sources, the official count for Tuesday's election will be announced on Thursday, March 4, at 1:00 p.m. in the city council chambers. Official voter count adjustment will not significantly affect the overall candidates' figures.

The absentee voter returns did not have a major affect in the overall number of votes in the election. Candidates for city offices in previous elections utilized this technique very effectively, principally in the 3rd and 6th wards. However, there has been a continual allegation of abuse of this election system and currently stringent regulations have been adopted to reduce irregularities. Former mayor Al Ballard came in third with a surprisingly high vote 3,035 or 16.3%. Many citizens remember Mr. Ballard, especially the Hispanic population when, during his tenure as mayor, he was instrumental in building the downtown area, including the Carousel Mall. He also opened city hall for employment opportunities for minorities.

The First Ward will have a runoff election between Edward Negrete and David Lara, receiving 549 votes or 41.9 and 394 or 30%, respectively. This election race brought Mr. Negrete, a Westside businessperson, Mr. Lara, a young candidate and Mr. Bob Castaneda, former councilperson, into a hard-fought battle for the seat, in an area that has many problems confronting the citizens of the Westside.

The results of the May 4th municipal elections will change the political and governmental climate in the City of San Bernardino. The problems of uplifting the downtown area of the city, enticing businesses and industries within the city limits, Norton Air Force industrial and business planning and development, redevelopment of the Mount Vernon and Westside areas and crime eradication, are but a few of the acute problems that demand solutions.

The citizens of San Bernardino will be listening to the many solutions that candidates will present prior to the May 4th elections.

San Bernardino Outstanding Students

In January the San Bernardino City Unified School District's Board of Education honored nine outstanding students who were selected for the awards by their teachers and principal. This recognition, based on outstanding citizenship, athletics, fine arts, academics, or most improved, is designed to honor students who excel in various areas, but who are not always recognized for their work.

Muscio Elementary-Narciso Cardona, principal
Audrey Oceguera - Audrey is also in Cathy Lennox' sixth grade class. Her teacher says she is a sensitive and caring student who always listens and participates in classroom activities. Her parents are Eva and Alfredo Oceguera.

Humberto Garcia - Humberto is a sixth grader in Sara Beimbom's class. He is a prolific writer with exceptional English skills even though he has been in America for only two and 1/2 years.

His parents are Humberto and Evangelina Garcia.

Golden Valley Middle School - James Kissinger, principal
Bertha Alicia Garcia - Bertha is in Roger Grotevold's eighth grade class. Bertha came to San Bernardino in the fourth grade and in four years she has mastered the English language and finished the seventh grade with a 3.86 Grade Point Average. Her parents are Antonio and Maria Garcia.

San Bernardino High School - Karen Craig, principal
Jena Valdez - Also an outstanding student, Jena holds a 4.5 grade point average and is the senior class secretary. Most recently she received the National Council of Teachers of English writing award. Jena is also a member of the varsity swim team and works full time. Her parents are Steve and Cindy Valdez.
The Toy Depot - Toy Lending Library Opens

A Toy Lending Library was conceived with the idea of helping children with disabilities (all ages) increase their learning and cognitive skills within the family unit. Because of the cost of these specialized toys, a leading library was initiated to help families borrow and return the toys without any cost. This venture will enable more families, who otherwise would not be able to afford these toys, to benefit.

Presently, in Riverside and San Bernardino counties, there are approximately 22,390 children between the ages of 0-12 with identified disabilities. The needs of these special children are very diverse. Some have medically diagnosed disorders such as Down Syndrome, or Cerebral Palsy. Children who are victims of neglectful or abusive environments are at high risk for developmental delays as well as babies born prematurely, with low birth weights or extensive birth complications. But with early training, toys and learning devices, the potential of these children can be unlocked.

Junior League of Riverside began this year long project by decorating an empty room at the Family Resource Center with bright colors and pleasing wall pictures. Junior League members spent many hours researching and learning about all the specialized toys. Their labor of love produced 150 brand new toys at a cost of $5,000.00. From beginning to end, the Junior League of Riverside provided $6500.00 to establish the first Toy Lending Library to serve Riverside and San Bernardino Counties.

One of the toys that Junior League has purchased is an item called the "Speak easy". This is a communicative device designed for the child who cannot speak (possibly a child with Autism). The child can respond to a question by hitting a button that has the parents' voice pre-recorded. With the Speak easy, the child who could not voice his or her answers would be able to start a conversation, answer questions and experience, perhaps for the first time, the new world of communication. The cost of this toy is $365.00.

Another unusual toy is a Glitter Toll Music Box. When it is spun by the hand, it not only plays music to the beautiful colors of glitter, it will start another toy such as a drumming bear. This toy brings about visual, hearing and touch senses to the child's environment. The price tag on this item is $125.00. Most of the toys have switches that are attached to other toys. Thus, when one function on a toy is fulfilled, it will start up another toy allowing the focus to be placed on all sensory perceptions.

Vicki Wieler, Chairman of the Committee for the Toy Lending Library stated "Now that we have the beautiful Toy Depot completed, our next goal is to let all families with special needs know that we are up and running!"

Texas: In the heavily Mexican-American border area, poverty is felt in voting rights, education and health care as well as economically.

Reprinted from the Los Angeles Times, Sunday, February 28, 1993

By James C. Harrington
Austin, Texas

When Americans talk about human rights, we speak about the condition of civil liberty in other countries. We don't even use the term when discussing the quality of rights in this nation, satisfied as we are with the status of freedom in the United States.

Yet, this is the country in which the highest court of the land permits execution of possibly innocent people and individuals with mental retardation, allows police to search vehicles on a neighbor's word of suspicion, upholds the kidnapping of foreigners for trial in this country and pardons police brutality in the name of "good faith." Moreover, about 70% of those in jail are people of color. Nor do we submit to international tribunals, like other Western democracies, except on a self-selected case-by-case basis.

This is also the country that has its own Third World, right here in the Lone Star State, along the border with Mexico, where the denial of political rights is every bit as evident as the deprivation of basic economic, health, education and social rights. This is the blind side of the "New Texas" proclaimed by Gov. Ann Richards. In this heavily Mexican-American border area, the poverty of health care is as endemic and debilitating as economic poverty. The result is tuberculosis, leprosy and the birth of anemic babies at rates unheard of in the rest of the country.

Many of the border's poorest people live spread out in some 1,000 colonias, rural ghettos, many of which do not have running water, electricity or sewage lines. The unemployment rate is often as high as 50%, but that doesn't include workers who have despaired of ever finding a job; and the unemployment rate is at least twice as high. Texas' school-financing scheme ensures inadequate facilities, a high dropout rate and a less-than-competitive education. No wonder Texas is one of the five states with the highest rates of illiteracy.

The most recent police-brutality statistics from the U.S. Justice Department record more complaints from Texas than from any other state, nearly 20% of the total. Undoubtedly the reported complaints are a fraction of the real number. Poor people, especially those who aren't skilled in English and are used to the heavy hand of the police, don't usually submit written complaints to Washington. Similarly, the Border Patrol and the Drug Enforcement Agency have a sordid history, so much so that it has been popularized in Mexican folk music and movies.

Texas' archaic school-financing scheme is just as bleak. Less than one-third of Texas' assessed property is taxable, the state taxes the same as a county does, and the county taxes as a city does. The result is a statewide political clout remains a dream. The franchise problem is made worse by Texas' convoluted voting system, in which many important elections are held during seasons when the huge migrant farm-worker population based in Texas is moving to other parts of the nation. Ironically, Texas makes it relatively easy for "snowbirds" (retirees sunning themselves in the Magic Valley) to vote, thereby diluting Mexican-American electoral strength.

The large minority prison population is accounted for in part by ineffective legal representation. There is no state public defender system. The result, when coupled with months-long waits in jail for trial, is predictable.

Dealing with day-to-day legal problems, such as Social Security, landlord-tenant issues and access to hospital care, is just as bleak. Less than one-third of those needing legal assistance get it. Texas attorneys steadfastly refuse to treat the large minority prison population, and the courts refuse to recognize the need for more judges.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT STATEMENT AVAILABLE FOR INTERSTATE 215 FROM INTERSTATE 10 TO ROUTE 30, CITY OF SAN BERNARDINO

WHAT'S BEING PLANNED

The California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) and the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) and the San Bernardino Associated Governments (SANBAG) are proposing to widen the freeway and improve interchanges on I-215 in the City of San Bernardino between I-10 and Route 30. Four alternatives are being considered. The No-Build Alternative consists of maintaining the existing freeway in its present physical configuration. All of the three proposed build alternatives consist of total realignment of the roadway to: (1) increase width by one lane in each direction; (2) reconstruct major interchanges and overcrossings; and (3) provide local, one-way frontage roads adjacent to the main freeway lanes. The primary difference among the three build alternatives is the amount of frontage road proposed. For all build alternatives, two options for the use of the additional main freeway lane are being considered: (1) use by all traffic (mixed flow); or (2) use by multi-passenger vehicles only, which are commonly called High Occupancy Vehicles (HOV).

WHY THIS AD?

Caltrans has studied the effects this project may have on the environment and these studies show that it will significantly affect the quality of the environment. The report which explains why is called a Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS). This notice is to tell you of the preparation of the DEIS and of its availability for you to read. A hearing will be held to give you an opportunity to talk about certain design features, and potential environmental impacts, of the proposed alternatives with Caltrans staff before the final design is selected. Maps and other pertinent information will be available for your review and discussion. The tentative schedule for the purchase of land for right-of-way and construction will be discussed, and Caltrans staff will explain the Department's relocation assistance for residents and businesses moved by the project.
