Vote Tuesday, November 2
Proposition 174 - Education Voucher

The Inland Empire Hispanic News strongly recommends that voters vote NO on Proposition 174.

Although the above letter to the editor by Mrs. Shelley Obershaw highlights various segments of the "voucher initiative or parental choice in education," which are strong arguments for voting against this constitutional change, other aspects of the legislation should be considered as detrimental to students in general:

- There are no provisions for regulating the many private schools that would mushroom in effect since 1879, states in Article 9, Section 8, "No public money shall ever be appropriated for the support of any sectarian nor denominational school..." If Proposition 174 were to pass, that provision of the Constitution leaves the public schools.

- The "parental choice" is nonexistent. The decision as to students' enrollment is made by the school. Where does this initiative come from, and who is funding it? It does not appear to be just 14 individuals, many of them advantage.

- The vast majority of Americans were just a bit more equal, who would take tax dollars away from the support of public schools and give them to students in private schools. Make no mistake, this initiative will hurt public education. Its proponents argue that it will improve education, however, if you will read the initiative, you will not find a statement in it anywhere which explains how this will be done. I do know that at present there are over 530,000 students in California public schools. If this initiative passes, $2,600 for each of those students, or approximately $1.4 BILLION, could be taken from public education to support those students if their school chooses to accept voucher money. That is $1.4 BILLION if not one child leaves the public schools.

- The word "choice" is an important word in this initiative. A private school may choose to take vouchers. A private school may choose to take vouchers. A private school may not be able to meet his/her special needs, where do you think that child will go? To a public school, of course where the staff will do its utmost to educate that child to the fullest extend of his/her ability.

Riverside Fire Captain Michael Esparza named to State Board of Fire Service

Riverside Fire Captain Michael Esparza has been named to the State Board of Fire Services, a state agency whose members make recommendations on a wide range of fire protection issues.

"It is quite an honor to be appointed to the Board. I was quite pleased," he said.

James Wait, the Board's executive officer said, "We look forward to have Mike join us." The Board recommended Esparza to Governor Wilson's office, who appointed him.

The State Board meets on a quarterly basis to review fire issues from fire safe roofing materials and fire codes to training standards for firefighters.

Board members from the various agencies serve unpaid, four year terms on the Board. Esparza is a leader in the local fire association and will represent fire service labor on the Board.

Esparza has been with the Riverside City Fire Department since 1981 and had volunteered with the Riverside County Fire Department from 1984 to 1990. He has been involved with the Health & Safety Committee as chair, Hazardous Material Task Force, Emergency Medical Services Task Force, United Way, chair, and Youth Education & Motivational Program.

Esparza recently served as mentor at UCR in the SI Se Puede: Through Education, a program targeted to male youth at the elementary and secondary grade level. "I am honored to be part of a program which will motivate our youth into career ladders and overcome barriers."

His professional memberships include the California State Firefighters Association; Riverside City Firefighters Association; Southern Area Fire Equipment and Research; International Association of Fire Chiefs; and California Burn Foundation.

He received his A.S. on Fire Science & Certificate of Education - Fire Technology from Crafton College and working on a B.S. in Fire Administration - Cogswell Polytechnical College.

Captain Esparza received 22 endorsements from elected and fire officials and community leaders in support of the appointment.

Assemblyman Joe Baca on NAFTA

The North American Free Trade Agreement, more commonly referred to as NAFTA, is a far sighted proposal to deal with the ever changing global marketplace.

The proposal, however, does not adequately address California's economic and environmental concerns to the extent that I can not, in good conscience, support its passage as it is currently drafted.

Supporters of NAFTA argue that it will create 200,000 new jobs nationwide. California, which has been the state hardest hit by cutbacks resulting from military closures, defense related industry downsizing, and a general downturn in the economy has, by some conservative estimates, lost over 400,000 jobs in recent years. The Governor's Office of Planning and Research has estimated that NAFTA will result in a net job gain of only 30,000 to 40,000 jobs in California. Meanwhile, the potential job losses resulting from the NAFTA agreement to the state are estimated to be 750,000.

In addition, recently announced side agreements to NAFTA do not provide a specific plan to assist American workers who lose their jobs when American plants choose to move their operations to Mexico. California's economic condition, which has been teetering on the edge of insolvency, fiscally can not absorb the cost of retraining thousands of displaced workers.

NAFTA, and the subsequent side agreements, furthermore, do not provide any guarantees that federal and state environmental protections will not be the subject of allegations of unfair trade practices. California, which has some of the nations strongest laws which protect our air, rivers and our coasts, would be vulnerable to challenges.

The side agreements do not contain funding for projects to help clean up environmental pollution along the California - Mexico border. The only reference to this matter is the creation of a border environmental agency that would be empowered to provide loans, which would be financed by revenue bonds. But this does not guarantee that money will be available toerek treat sewage flowing into the San Diego shoreline, along with the cleanup of the rivers that could ultimately serve as the depositories of dumped waste.

NAFTA, in its current form is fraught with economic, environmental, and political loopholes. We would best be served by sending it back to the negotiating table. Supporters of NAFTA are asking us to take a leap of faith by supporting its passage, with the illconceived notion that ultimately market forces will iron out any current inconsistencies. The lives of thousands of California workers are too important to be used as pawns in a global chess match that only serves to benefit large multinational corporations.

Baca Bill for Small Business Wins Governor’s Approval

AB 579, by Assemblyman Joe Baca (D-San Bernardino), has won approval by Governor Pete Wilson. This measure, one of five economic development bills by the Assemblyman, would establish a Small Business Development Corporation Expansion Center (SBDC) in the Inland Empire. Currently, there are only eight Small Business Development Corporation’s statewide. The nearest Small Business Development Corporation is located in Los Angeles.

The Small Business Development Corporation would provide an alternative financial source for those individuals wishing to start a small business by providing loan guarantee’s subsidized with state funds. AB 579 would provide much greater financial opportunities towards the creation of small business and provide much needed jobs in the Inland Empire.

"I am absolutely elated about the passage of this measure. Due to elements of military base closures, businesses moving out of state, and downsizing of the defense industry this Corporation is vital to the Inland Empire’s economic recovery," said Assemblyman Baca.

Currently the Inland Empire is estimating a 13.6% unemployment rate which according to recent studies exceeds California’s overall unemployment rate.

"I believe we at the State Legislature must aggressively address the economy by enacting measures that will bring a speedy economic recovery to our respective areas and the State as a whole. A Small Business Development Corporation is ideally suited for this purpose. A Corporation in the Inland Empire would only serve to enhance the economic viability through increasing the number of small business," Baca said.

The bill passed with bipartisan support of required 2/3 majority vote from both the State Assembly and Senate.

Tempest over a T-Shirt at Univ. of Calif., Riverside

By David W. Milbrandt
News Editor

The Inter Fraternity Council Judiciary Committee of UCR imposed sanctions on Phi Kappa Sigma for a T-shirt design that drew protests from campus Latino groups.

The controversy centered on a Phi Kappa Sigma fall rush T-shirt, which depicts a person wearing a sombrero and serape and holding a bottle surrounded by the words, "It doesn't matter where you come from, as long as you know where you are going." The design, which some felt was derogatory toward Chicanos, prompted complaints from groups such as Movimiento Estudiantil Chicoano de Aztlán (MEChA) and UCR's Latino fraternity, La Union Estudiantil de la Raza.

The council took over two hours of testimony and deliberation to decide on the numerous sanctions against Phi Kappa Sigma, but did not expel the fraternity from the Inter Fraternity Council.

The sanctions included letters of apology to the Latino groups and other fraternities, destruction of all "offensive" T-shirts and a one year probation by the national chapter. Phi Kappa Sigma was also banned from participating in community service in a Latino neighborhood.

MEChA, the Latino fraternity and other groups charged that Phi Kappa Sigma violated the Inter Fraternity Council Bylaws by failing to promote "high social and moral values in the lives of the men's fraternity members."

Mario Martinez, MEChA's External Affairs director, added that the Alliance of Oppressed Peoples, UC Riverside, a collection of campus multicultural groups charged Phi Kappa Sigma with cultural insensitivity.

"This shirt is dehumanizing and promotes racist views of the Mexican people," Martinez said.

Phi Kappa Sigma President Richard Carrez began his comments with a letter from the fraternity's national Executive Board, which issued six, sanctions against the fraternity. Carrez apologized for their actions and asked the committee for leniency in additional sanctions.

On behalf of Phi Kappa Sigma, Carrez fully accepted the penalties issued by the committee.

Baca bill offers fee waivers

A bill sponsored by Assemblyman Joe Baca (D-San Bernardino), which changes the California Community Colleges financial aid program from a fee grant program to a fee waiver program has been signed by Governor Wilson.

"The Governor's signature of my AB 1561 ensures that the community college financial aid process will be significantly simplified without having to disfranchise a segment of the student population, who, in light of escalating fees, may not have the financial resources to pay for their college education," Assemblyman Baca said.

Baca's bill, AB 1561, would provide a waiver from certain fee requirements for students who demonstrate a financial need. In doing so, fees would be "waived" rather than "defrayed" with financial aid.

"California's community college enrollment mirrors exactly the demographic make-up of the states population. However, any proposed fee increases are most likely to impact those students with the lowest incomes,"Assemblyman Guichard, Vice Chancellor of Governmental Relations for the Community Colleges, characterized Baca's bill, "as a measure that virtually all community college constituencies are in support of, because it would simplify program administration and preserve the system's ability to fully offset enrollment fees for eligible students in light of continuing fee increases."
"Peer Exchange Workshop" on drugs, gang intervention

Youth intervention specialist from the United States and Canada met for a five day "Peer Exchange Workshop" in San Bernardino County (CA) to critique current gang and drug prevention tactics and develop ways to implement innovative programs like the department's CHOICES Project in their cities.

Falling in line with President Clinton's recent call for new, non-traditional approaches to dealing with youthful offenders, law enforcement officers, school officials and community-based program representatives from nine different cities, including Boca Raton, FLA., Phoenix, Los Angeles, and even Vancouver, B.C., will draw on the success of the nationally-recognized San Bernardino County Sheriff's CHOICES Youth Program for model project development involving community partners. The CHOICES model, which was profiled by the Police Executive Research Forum (PERF) after a nationwide study last year, includes intervention methods which put officers in classrooms of targeted middle school-aged children for instruction in academic achievement, personal and social skill development, and subsequent wilderness experiences.

The program goes beyond the environment of the school, however, focusing on parent interaction and the development of their parenting skills. All efforts are followed up with the support of local community-based organizations for what is described as a "multi-dimensional, holistic approach" to dealing with potential gang members.

Other participating California communities include representatives from Carlsbad, Orange County, Hermitage, San Jacinto, and Pomona. The workshop was held at the Arrowhead Springs Hotel.

The CHOICES Youth Program was developed in 1987 by Deputy Ruben Gonzales of the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department, a former East Los Angeles street gang member.

Maris was born and raised in East Los Angeles. She began her performing career after attending Boston University and the University of California at Los Angeles. Her stage credits include regional theater productions of "I'm Getting My Act Together and Taking It on the Road," "Sugar," "Corridos," "Get Happy," "In a Pig's Valise" and "At Long Last Cole" (with Carol Burnett). She also performs her one-woman stage show, "I Want to Be An American," in nightclubs in and around Los Angeles.

A MARTINEZ - (Daniel Morales on "L.A. Later, while attending UCLA, he got his first feature film experience in "Born Wild," followed in quick succession by other movies, including "The Cowboys" (starring John Wayne).

Medicare Patients Be Aware

This month, the Department of Health and Human Services urges Medicare beneficiaries to be aware. In order to protect Medicare beneficiaries from being overcharged, in 1991, Medicare initiated a Physicians Payment Reform. This reform limits the amount physicians, who do not accept Medicare's approved costs as payment (Medicare assignment), can charge Medicare beneficiaries. In 1993, physicians are only allowed to charge Medicare beneficiaries. In 1993, payment (Medicare assignment), can collect charges in excess of the limiting caps; or if a physician's charge is $100 and Medicare approves the service to cost $85, the physician can only charge the patient $97.75 (multiply Medicare's approved cost by 115 percent). In efforts to avoid these charge limits, some physicians have begun to pursue questionable practices, even requiring their patients to sign waivers to relinquish their protective Medicare rights. Medicare beneficiaries should be cautious of the following list of questionable practices.

Be aware of physicians requiring patients to:

• waive their rights to have their doctor bill Medicare; and
• pay for never before billed services:

- telephone calls with the doctor,
- prescription refills and medical conferences with other physicians. Also, look out for physicians who are attempting to:

- sue patients in small claims court to collect charges in excess of the limiting caps; or
- bill patients for services that do not have a set fee, claiming that no charge limits apply.

If you have encountered a physician enacting any of the above practices, contact HICAP at (800) 273-4227 to schedule a counseling appointment. Founded by the California Department of Aging, HICAP is a nonprofit program which provides free, unbiased Medicare counseling to senior citizens throughout Riverside and San Bernardino counties.
