City Council Votes To Snub Voters: Only Funded Suppression with Measure Z

The Black Voice News

SAN BERNARDINO

By Cheryl Brown

The San Bernardino City Council was inundated with citizens who were irate that the Measure Z sales tax initiative that voters approved in November for suppression, intervention and prevention of crime was going just to suppression. They won and they lost the fight. While they were deciding to spend all of the money on suppression a murder was taking place near one of the city's high crime areas. Dead was a father of a 6 month old baby.

The City Council voted to take the $114,000 left of the more than $1.6 million already allocated on suppression efforts and spend it on vests and tasers. Then to take another $114,000 out of the $18 million Reserve Fund to fund $75,000 for the Police Activities League and the remaining $39,000 for city run community centers. Nothing was allocated to community based programs for prevention and suppression activities. "All the monies went to the police. I am afraid crime is going to escalate with no programs to balance the suppression," said Councilman Rikke Van Johnson. "The measure was explicit to suppression, intervention and prevention," said

The majority of the Council seemed to be confused about the measure and Councilmember Esther Estrada pulled the pamphlet and the ordinance to help clarify exactly what the measure said and what the voters voted on. "It was the voters, not us, that said where it should go. If we don't follow the rule we are not following our own ordinance or the voters."

Ministers, youth and citizens addressed the council and it seemed that they were listening. That is until the deliberations.

Speakers who spoke one after the other on the prevention and intervention aspect of the measure were rebuffed in comments by Councilmembers Chas Kelley, Neal Derry, and to a lesser degree Wendy McCammack and Tobin Brinker.

Young people came one after the other from a group called ICUC local high school students. None of the at-risk group that the measure was written for spoke at the meeting.

Dr. Elliot of Mt. Zion MBC charged that the council was reinventing the wheel. He told Black Voice News that his congregation and the Book of Acts congregation has invested nearly $100,000 to help

Obama Visits Southland

LOS ANGELES

A crowd of several thousand people waited with excitement and anticipation to see the junior senator from Illinois and presidential hopeful Barack Obama in Los Angeles this past Tuesday. Later that night Hollywood turned out for a fundraiser that put $1.3 million in his campaign coffers.

"The event was well organized with many volunteers," said Calvin Freeman, who took his entire family to see Obama, who many see as a dynamic force in today's national political scene.

Freeman said that many young college age students were in attendance.

Senator Obama spoke on the issues of the economy, healthcare, education and the war.

According to several Inland Empire residents who attended the event, the crowd was very receptive to Senator Obama's comments - especially those on the war. "There is something happening in the country. There is a mood in the air. There's a sense that the way we've been doing business for the last couple of decades has to change--that we are at a crossroads in this nation's history," said Obama.

JUDGE REJECTS GOV.'S INMATE TRANSFER PLAN Critics Say Transfers Punish Children and Families

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

By Chris Levister

A California Superior Court judge Tuesday tossed our Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger's plan to solve the state's severe prison overcrowding by transferring inmates out of state. Two labor unions that represent correctional officers and other prison employees had sued to block the transfers. Three hundred and sixty prisoners have been relocated.

The ruling by Judge Gail D. Ohanesian who acknowledged a "climate of peril" in the prisons comes as the state is under federal order to ease "dangerously" overcrowded conditions or face strict limits on new admissions. Eliminating the option could lead to some inmates being released early and other convicts being held at county jails.

In a statement, Gov. Schwarzenegger called the ruling "an unacceptable threat to public safety." "I will not release dangerous criminals to relieve overcrowding."

While families of inmates like James W. agree prison conditions warrant immediate action, many say the transfers punish the whole family.

"What about the inmate's families? What will become of their children?" asks Malisa Oliver of Rialto.

Oliver remembers the look on her 7-year-old cousin, Danen's face when he pressed his forehead against the inch thick window that separated him from his father James W. who is serving a 10 year sentence at the Chino Men's Prison for multiple nonviolent drug offenses. "He said, 'Daddy, why are you leaving us?' He pounded on the glass petition with his fists and shouted, 'it's not fair. You can't leave me'."

Oliver could only watch and wipe tears from Danen's eyes. "It's like a second death." Thirty-two-year old James W. is one of more than 400 inmates who volunteered to be transferred to out-of-state private facilities in Arizona, Oklahoma and Mississippi. James W. told family members conditions at the Chino prison are 'dangerous, inhumane and shackle his hopes for rehabilitation'.

"He told us he sleeps in a triple bunk bed in the middle of a packed gym. He says he lies awake at night poised to defend himself against violent inmates. He says the place is a powder keg. He just wants to get the hell out of there," says Oliver.

James W. requested transfer after Gov.

As part of Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger's emergency order to relieve serious overcrowding, prison officials have begun transferring inmates to private out-of-state facilities.

This photograph of the 1905 Emancipation Day Parade in Richmond, Virginia served as inspiration for historian and scholar Carter G. Woodson's dream of creating "Black History Week".

BLACK HISTORY IS AMERICAN HISTORY Carter G. Woodson's Brainchild Still Plays and Important Role

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

By Chris Levister

It is said the famous black and white photograph of the 1905 Emancipation Day Parade in Richmond, Virginia helped inspire historian and scholar

Dr. Carter G. Woodson in 1926 to create what is today one of the most widely recognized observances in the world: Black History Month.

Woodson earned a Ph.D in history from Harvard University in 1912 the second Black to receive a doctorate from the University. Fourteen years later, he founded Negro History Week, a seven-day span in February that included the February 7 birthday of abolitionist Frederick Douglass and the February 12 birthday of Abraham Lincoln.

Once denounced as "racist, unnecessary and polarizing" by national leaders and some African-Americans alike, the February observance enlists players big and small. Multinational corporations like Coca-Cola and Toyota dish out millions for 30-second ads during the NFL Super Bowl, soldiers celebrate in Iraq, the London Philharmonic performs two sold-out concerts. Museums billboards, television, radio and the Internet are awash with Black history programming. President Bush celebrates from the White House, while rural schools, local governments and community organizations hold discussions, parades, potlucks and fashion shows. Tourist spots, restaurants, retailers and car dealers line up to

First Lady Laura Bush Loves the Blues

Last week First Lady Laura Bush was on the Rachel Ray Show and Rachel asked her who were some of her favorite singers, Mrs. Bush responded back quickly, "I like B.B. King.

Hardy L. BROWN

He is a great artist." I yelled to my wife, my opinion of the first lady just changed. She also said she likes country music as well but the blues was the first lady's favorite. It made me wonder why she loves the blues. Now according to most current reports our Black blues singers have more whites listening and buying their music than people of color. This is good because it demonstrates again that music has no boundaries and acts as a unifier not a divider of people. I like the blues and B. B. King is one of my favorites. Now I could not help but wonder and put my take on why Mrs. Bush loves the blues and some of Mr. King's songs in particular. I wished Rachel Ray had followed up the first question with, what are some of your favorite tunes. I speculate her response might have been "well you know I'm married to the current president and George is the reason why" Everyday I Have the Blues", or (George is the reason) "Why I sing the Blues", or (George is the kind of guy) "To Know You is to Love You", or (I tell George) "Better Not look Down" (because you are falling in the polls), or (George you should) "Never Make Your Move Too Soon", or (George) "There Must Be A Better World Somewhere" or (George better yet) "The Thrill is Gone" (out of this presidency) because I would rather be "Playing With My Friend". These are BB King songs that fit my mood from time to time as I listen to his greatest hits. Now I am confident that after George would hear her say that, he would respond back to Laura and say, "Laura like B. B. King said in another song, I'm "Paying the Cost to be the Boss" so be patient God isn't finished with me yet, we only have a couple of more years to go."

Who is in charge of San Bernardino City Hall?

The San Bernardino City Council on Tuesday night decided to dip into their reserve (emergency) fund to spend $114,000 on crime prevention rather than use Measure Z funds. Apparently the council is bent on spending all of Measure Z funds on supporting the country's number one growth industry, the prison industrial complex. Quoting Rev. Steven Vines of New Hope Baptist Church, "This was not the intention of the voters when they voted on the measure." Chas Kelley said his constituents in the 5th ward voted for the measure based on the yard signs and the flyers that came in the mail instead of the measure. Esther Estrada said her constituents in the 1st ward voted based on the language used in the official voters guide sent out by the city. Rikke Van Johnson said that any voter who voted on the measure without reading the information was an ignorant voter. Mayor Pat Morris restated to all of them that he wrote the measure, spoke before groups throughout the city and went door to door explaining the measure. The measure funds are to be used for suppression, intervention and prevention of crime in the city. Neil Derry of the 4th Ward said "I don't care what 18 years old want, they don't know what they want," because when he was 18 he did not know what he wanted. Derry and Tobin Brinker of the 3rd Ward said, "we are going to get the police union protected vests and taser guns whether the police chief wants them now or not. This is a promise I made to them and some of my voters," said Brinker. For your information, the police have protective vests vest now but the union claims they are not of the best quality. I now wonder who really is in charge of the police department, the chief, the union or Derry, Tobin, Kelley and McCammack.

Currently, the Governor and Mayor of Los Angeles, just yesterday, announced they are redeploying their efforts to emphasize -- you guessed it, INTERVENTION and PREVENTION to reduce crime in the city and state. That means they will not only look at wholesome activities but job training and job creation. Instead we are spending our money with out of town equipment companies. We as taxpayers are losing the crime battle and the economics on all sides including a city council that refuses to listen to the people who elected them. I wonder what a Chamber of Commerce member would do or say if the Chamber was always promoting or buying goods from other businesses outside of the city while their members had the goods? The only thing the voters can do at this time is file a lawsuit against the city as suggested by the NAACP and prepare for Election Day in November.

I now think that since the council has shown the reserve funds are not there for emergency funds we should repeal Measure Z and give the police the $12 million dollars.

My Thoughts on Anna Nicole

My long time friend Pastor Jim E. James of St. Timothy and former male chorus director of St. Paul AME, stopped by the office Tuesday and asked me what was my take on Anna Nicole Smith. I told him what I was planning to do with regard to the situation. I had shared with my wife that since all of our DNA was mixed and so many people were claiming to be the "baby daddy" and $500 Million was at stake I might as well join the "I'm the father club". I'm sure with that kind of money my wife could find it in her heart to forgive me. I'm sure our church could find a little room in a new church to forgive me. I'm sure with a healthy inheritance my children and grand children could forgive me. I'm sure I will still be invited to and welcome at the family reunions. With some political contributions I am sure resolutions could be written about my contribution to society. With contributions to the United Way Agencies, like Warner Hodgen did when he got out of prison, they will give me a plaque.

Now I'm sure some of you are asking why Hardy would even waste his time to write this piece. He never even met Anna Nicole for your information we (Cheryl) have been to the Playboy Mansion in Beverly Hills with a personal invitation by Hugh Hefner.

This past month I took the Oath of Office to serve a second four year term as your Sheriff - Coroner of Riverside County. When I was a candidate for office five years ago I met with Hardy Brown and asked for the endorsement of The Black Voice News. During my interview I promised we would focus on making our department more diverse. I committed to reach out to all the people of this county and to reach out to the African-American community. I told Hardy that we would work hard to build relationships with the community in churches and schools. I also promised to make the department look like the community we served. I am pleased to tell you that we have been doing just that and the Black Voice News has played a key roll in our outreach and marketing strategy. We have visited more churches and community groups in the past four years than at any time in the department's 114 year history. Lt.

Shelley Kennedy-Smith and Corporal Roosevelt Logan are now familiar names to the community and have made tremendous strides while leading our recruitment efforts for the department. Assistant Sheriff Michael Andrews and his entire team of recruiters have combed the schools, colleges, and churches looking for people willing to wear the badge of a deputy sheriff or take on a challenging job in the ranks of our support staff. The results of this effort have been that we have a better relationship with the community and we have a much more diverse department than when I took office four years ago. As successful as we have been in our outreach and recruiting, I am not done yet and I am reaffirming my commitment to serve you and to continue to actively recruit to diversify this department. I want to thank the Black Voice News and all those who read and advertise in this paper and thank all of you who stepped up to serve your community as a deputy sheriff or member of our support team in the past four years.

REMEMBERING AN ABOLITIONIST

February 23rd is the 200th anniversary of the British Parliament's vote to abolish the transatlantic slave trade. It is also the release date of a film (Amazing Grace) about the man who led the British Abolition movement, William Wilberforce. While the film does not have much to do with abolition in the United States, Wilberforce certainly did. Abolitionism had widely diffused origins and its advocates lived on both sides of the Atlantic. The movement's leaders wrote and visited, financed and supported each other from the late 1780s through the 1850s. In the United States, major figures including Abraham Lincoln, Frederick Douglass, and William Wells Brown publicly praised Wilberforce and were moved by his example. In 1815, one African American minister called him "the immortal Wilberforce," and upon his death in 1833, the principal of a school for free Black children in New York City wrote a sixteen-page eulogy as a tribute to the British leader. The abolition movement was always far more than one man's story. It begins and ends with the millions of Black people who endured, resisted, rebelled, and ultimately overcame. But Wilberforce's is a story that inspires us with a sense of the difference one person can make, and then what can happen when thousands or millions make a similar commitment and rally to a worthy idea whose time is at hand.

HAS THE BLACK LEADERSHIP BECOME THE NEW WHITE MODERATE?

That's the question on the minds of Black same-gender loving people all over the country after the deafening silence from America's Black leaders on the recent controversy surrounding former NBA All-Star player Tim Hardaway's admonition that he hates gay people.

But what if Tim Hardaway would have been a white NBA player? And what if as a White player he said the following:

"You know I hate Black people, so I let it be known. I don't like Black people and I don't like to be around Black people. I am racist. I don't like it. They shouldn't be in the world or in the United States. So yeah, I don't like them."

In his poignant and prophetic "Letter from Birmingham Jail," Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. told is fellow clergyman that he was disappointed with the "white moderate." He went on to explain that he had reached the "regrettable conclusion that the Negro's great stumbling block in his stride toward freedom is not the White Citizen's Council or the Ku Klux Klanner, but the white moderate, who is more devoted to "order" than to justice."

I often feel that the biggest hindrance to Blacks is not the white conservative right but the people that look like us that are too afraid to disrupt the order of things to do any real meaningful work towards my civil rights as a lesbian.

Like the White moderates of King's era who believed that Blacks would eventually receive equal rights in good time, we are living during times where Black leaders know that it is inevitable that gays will obtain all of their civil rights, including marriage, and that the mistreatment of gays based solely on their sexual orientation is wrong. But these same Black leaders aren't willing to rock the boat in the fight for equality and would rather settle for being good Negroes assuring people like me that it will come one day, not today, but one day.

Tim Hardaway's comments were hateful, demeaning, and hurt same-gender loving people all over this country. But the silence from the Black leadership hurts even more. Because from that silence, I was told very loudly that my life as a lesbian has no meaning to them and that it is morally just to hate gays, even if I am Black. Just don't go on a tirade in a comedy club about hating Blacks because then we're coming for you.

The double standard in today's Black civil rights movement has got to stop.

Hardaway's comments were just as bad as what comedian Michael Richards said about Blacks. It's just that today we are living in 2007, some 40 years after the Jim Crow Era and integration where Blacks are now considered equal. We just haven't reached that point with gays. But had Richards made his comments forty years ago, the furor that erupted from his comments today would have been met with white moral justification to defend him and sadly today, Blacks haven't reached the point where it's acceptable to defend gays from verbal attacks like Hardaway's.

If the silence from the Black leadership on Hardaway is any indication of what we can expect as we roll into a heated Presidential campaign season on gay issues, then we very well stand to see a repeat of 2004 where we had Black pastors urging Blacks to vote for a President that opposed gay marriage and abortion while critical issues of importance like health-care, housing, and social security were overlooked.

Ignoring gays isn't going to make us go away. We're here. There were gays before us and there will be gays after us. But like King in the face of rabid opposition from the National Baptist Convention, that vehemently opposed the civil rights movement and wanted King to stay in his Negro place, we too will not be swayed from participating fully, openly, and honestly in our faith, family, and community. It just means it's going to be that much harder on all us when we have to take time to fight with each other over something as small as ones sexual orientation instead of working together on the bigger picture which includes all of us. Thus, bringing new meaning to King's observation that injustice anywhere is a threat to justice everywhere.

Our Bodies

Driving With Parkinson's Disease

Dear Dr. Levister: I was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease last year and I have mild symptoms. I still drive. I've never had an accident in 39 years of driving, however family members worry that my disease puts me at risk. Should I give up driving?

The fact that your family is worried about your safety and that of others in your path should not be taken lightly. The effects of Parkinson's disease (PD) vary with each patient. Sometimes family members and friends can recognize unsafe driving behavior before you do. Many common PD symptoms can affect driving, especially as the disease progresses.

Mild symptoms can include movement difficulties and tremors – as well as problems with mental functions – such as memory, attention, and the ability to react to changing conditions. Visual perception, grip strength, and reaction time may be impaired, and medications used to treat PD may cause side effects such as sleepiness, confusion, blurred vision and dizziness.

There are a host of "peer reviewed" studies that suggest that compared to healthy people of similar age, people with even mild PD may have greater difficulty identifying landmarks and traffic signs while driving, and may be more likely to exhibit unsafe driving habits such as slowing or stopping inappropriately or straying into another lane.

To be safe, you should consult with your doctor, preferably a neurologist about your driving and ask for periodic medical examinations to assess whether you're in condition to get behind the wheel. These office visits should include tests of your reaction time, cognitive ability, vision and mobility. A referral to a Driver Rehabilitation Specialist may reveal whether your driving skills have been impaired by PD, and whether modification to your vehicle might be helpful. Driver safety classes for PD patients are available through the Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV), the AARP and the American Automobile Association (AAA).

Don't fall into a pattern of isolation or depression if you have to give up your keys. Ask your partner or a friend to drive you or check out alternative transportation options such as buses, taxis, car pools or private transportation for seniors.

The Superior Court of San Bernardino County will be holding an informational seminar on Friday, April 27, 2007 for attorneys who are interested in applying for a judgeship. The seminar is scheduled for 4pm-6pm at the County Government Center, Board Chambers, 385 North Arrowhead Avenue, First Floor, San Bernardino.

Along with the Superior Court of San Bernardino County, the event is sponsored by the Superior Court of Riverside County, the California Women's Lawyers Association, the Inland Empire Latino Lawyers Association, the California Latino Judges' Association and the African American

By Joshua Thomas

The West All-Stars, led by Los Angeles Lakers guard Kobe Bryant, topped LeBron James and the Eastern Conference squad 153-132, Sunday night in front of a frenzied crowd of 15,694 in Las Vegas. In the first ever NBA All-Star game outside of an NBA city, Bryant dazzled the fans with 31 points, six assists, six rebounds and six steals at the Thomas & Mac Center at UNLV. Bryant received his second Most Valuable Player trophy from the NBA All-Star game in a cheering fashion from the fans.

"As players, we always want to feel like we're appreciated for what we do," Bryant said, referring to how he was booed for winning the MVP in his hometown Philadelphia in 2002. "To have this type of reaction here in this All-Star game is very humbling. I just feel very blessed to be able to come out and put on a really good show."

Amare Stoudemire and Carmelo Anthony scored 29 points and 20 points respectively, while each contributed nine rebounds to also lead the West. James led the East with 28 points and six assists, and Dwight Howard had 20 points and 12 rebounds.

The West set All-Star game records with 52 assists and 39 field goal attempts in a quarter. "I think we had a little flair, a little Vegas in there," West forward Shawn Marion said. "Hopefully the fans enjoyed it a lot."

The game attracted a star-studded audience, including Jay-Z, Beyonce, Diddy, Prince, Kelly Rowland, Eva Longoria, Dave Chappelle, Adam Sandler, Ludacris, Mary J. Blige, Ciara, Chris Tucker, Cameron Diaz, Barry Bonds and Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger.

The introduction before tip-off had the famed Las Vegas spin that is the signature in the city of gambling and entertainment. The crowd was greeted by magicians Siegfried and Roy, which turned into a sentimental moment when Roy Horn shouted "Wayne Newton," before his electrical entrance. Roy was bitten by one of his white tigers in October 2003. Wayne Newton yelled out "Viva Las Vegas" during flashing of lights, neon and showgirls. Singers Toni Braxton and Christina Aguilera performed at halftime. The East team started the game sloppy missing seven of its first nine shots, including an uncontested dunk by Shaquille O'Neal. Things got worse when Indiana Pacers forward Jermaine O'Neal accidentally tipped in a basket for the West team. The West led 39-31 after the first quarter and immediately went on a surge to burst the game wide open in the second quarter. Bryant scored 11 points in the quarter as the West outscored the East 40-28.

"He played within the flow of the game," West guard Tracy McGrady said regarding Bryant. "It wasn't like he was trying to take every shot, come down and get his game off. He had a few assists. You couldn't tell he was going after the MVP." The East had more dunks than the West in the first half, but trailed 79-59 at halftime. Bryant had 17 points and Stoudemire had 11 points and five rebounds at the half.

Last year the East came back from being down by 21 points and won the game by two points. This year, the West did not allow any sign of a comeback. Stoudemire ignited a 10-0 run that made the score 95-65 with 8:20 remaining in the third quarter.

"We got here at 2 o'clock," Shaquille O'Neal said. "There's a lot of stretching and standing around. We were all kind of stiff, so the game was a little lopsided. But that's OK, they came here to see a show and they got a show."

Life Lessons Through Reality Court TV

conduct there would be a great decrease in the social problems we face daily. People seem to forget that these are real cases, real litigants, real judges, and with real law applied. These shows can actually help viewers make wise decisions in their personal relationships, which could help avoid or legally resolve disputes.

It has been said that a wise person learns from his or her mistakes but a wiser person learn from the mistakes of others. Many schools administrators and teachers recognize that the courtroom is not only a good place for students to get a civic lesson but also a lesson in the life experience. Courtroom field trips enhance students' altitude for critical and objective thinking. Often parents are not objective and cannot draw logical conclusions therefore even parents can learn from viewing such televised civil matters.

When courtroom TV is viewed as a tool for learning, much can be accomplished. Among the life lessons to be learned are (1) your legal responsibility to others (2) how to resolve disputes without violence (3) the necessity of written agreements (4) not to become a victim of a user, and (5) the different between fact and opinion, and/or hearsay. These are the type of lessons that help develop mature adults and decrease prison population.

Preteens can see for themselves that many people are extremely unreasonable and selfish even to their own friends and relatives. Perhaps they will recognize and correct their own unreasonable logic.

Perhaps they will learn early in life not to be so gullible because the world is full of users. Some defendants are exposed as users, especially ex-lovers. All too often a female with credit meets a man without credit and gets him a cell phone, and ends up stuck with a massive bill, which threatens to ruin her credit. Credit is an essential commodity for success and wealth and therefore must not be jeopardized because of questionable friendships and/or dubious affairs.

Sometimes relatives are very unfair with one another. An important lesson is develop is not to make anyone regret doing you a favor. What is even more classless is to come to court and defame the character of the person that extended a helping hand to you. When a person stoops to that level, without realizing it, they are actually saying more about their own character than the target of their defamation. The courtroom TV shows should be viewed together as a family and discussed during intermission and/or after the show. This will help children begin to understand their responsibility and accountability in the eyes of the law and being cute, throwing a tantrum, bullying, or whining does not influence the legal system nor determine liability.

Divine Archetypes Of African Tradition

The story of African Archetypes of the Cosmic Mind starts with the Sublime ("just below the lintel"—i.e. the horizontal cross-bar of a doorway). Heavenly "ether"—in its most concentrated form—fills the Sublime. Ancient Africans deemed the presumed dome sky to be the lintel between the heavens and the material world through which Divine archetypes pass. According to King (African Origins p15), "archetype and seed are synonymous-- both referring to the origin, the basic model of humanity upon which the race is patterned. Archetype means seed and is one of the Ancient African names for seed." African Mythology says the Amenta, present in the lower part of the sky, is partly inside the Cosmic Mind. It encompasses the primordial ocean of Nun and the Cosmic Unconsciousness. "Primordial" means unconditional—not caused by any circumstance—not created—not formed (Gimian, Trungra p22). Since the Cosmic Mind is undifferentiated, free, calm, expansive, peaceful, and uncolored (therefore "black"), it is called the Black Dot, The "Void" (i.e. a plane without mental concepts), or the state of "Nothingness" (a state lacking mental movement caused by thoughts in the Cosmic Mind). Thus, "blackness" has become a metaphor of the Absolute (beyond all mental concepts).

The Nun—believed to be the body of God (Ashby, African Origins, p543, 519, 535, 115)—carries in its womb the unformed embryonic possibilities for all that is to later exist in the light of Cosmic Conscious reality—possibilities that are in chaos and in the dark. The nature of each embryo's Cosmic Mind is formed out of the Intangible contents of all that is within the Sublime—things like love, harmony, unity, and the creative elements required for growth, budding, blossoming, and "fruiting" (Ramacharaka, Gnani Yoga p263). When called into "being-hood", the formless embryo enters a cocoon-like passageway and transforms into an archetype or seed containing the perfect concept of what it is to give rise to once it buds in Conscious reality. However, the Amenta's Divine archetypes nor their offspring are part of conscious thought. Rather, they are primordial images which cause a predisposition to certain behaviors or instinct-like patterned performances. Following "seeding" in the Cosmic Mind, Divine archetypes also "seed" in the Humanity Soul and in the Personal Unconscious. Its "Involution/Evolution" process is likened to a primordial mirror because, similar to a mirror, it willingly reflects anything contained in its nature—anything from the most gross level up to the most refined level.

Furthermore, a Divine African Archetype is a "seed" of creation that fashions things out of itself by itself becoming the thing it makes. In this way the Cosmic Mind becomes, and communicates with, each human mind. Humans can reach the Cosmic Mind through transcendental meditation (i.e. to carry oneself from the realm of mental concepts into the realm of the absence of mental concepts). The offspring of the Original Seed become spiritual models or patterns that can be copied or imitated. By contrast, the Western "archetype" is more material world oriented. It is composed of two main words—arch and type. Its "Type" is defined as a person, thing, or event that symbolizes or represents another—especially another destined to be born. Also, "type" is the general form, structure, plan, or style characterizing or distinguishing a member of a class or group. Western "Arch" is defined as man, chief, principle or as a curved structure—a lintel—used as support over an open space (King).

Until next time let us keep the VALENTINE: One look, One smile, One touch, One embrace, One kiss and One love. Two people, Two minds, Two souls, Two destinies, One road, One journey and One ending together. LOVE!!!! through God's unconditional love in my heart, we give and receive love openly. It doesn't take much to show someone we care. A candy heart or an act of kindness can bring a hint of sweetness to someone's day. It's a blessing to both give and receive when it is done with love all of us desire to love and be loved on a deeper level too.

PHILLIS WHEATLY (1753-1784)
One of the better know poets of the colonial period in American history was Ms. Wheatly. Kidnapped from Africa at the age of nine and brought to American as a slave, the family gave her their name. When Phillis became ill the master took her to England for her health. While in England she begin to write poetry. She wrote a poem to George Washington-- "His Excellency, George Washington." Washington invited her to visit him at his Cambridge headquarters. She was the first American to use the word

"Columbia" in speaking of our country.

Comedy's New Color-line breaking show "Static" Picks Up Where "In Living Color" Dropped Off

cast of unknowns whose brand of humor takes no prisoners. "Static" doesn't floss a double-edged satirical sword like "In Living Color" or later spinoffs like MADtv and "Chappelle's Show." "Static" mines the world of pop culture for subjects to parody like its predecessors, but it does with a slow burn.

"Static" also mixes up the madness with some funny animated characters and on-location comedy sketches that make you laugh out loud. "Static" - which means producing stationary charges of electricity - charges you up with laughter by satirizing weight-conscious white girls, money-hungry Black ministers, wannabe back in the hood Black preppies and many more. The word is out on this Internet-based show. The website, www.staticyabastard.com, logs in hundreds of hits a day without any marketing.

"We're not dangerous, but we are defiant because we want to exert the force of comedy on everyday life; that's what Static comedy is," said Maurice Lockhart, writer and co-creator of Static. "We're like an 'In Living Color' crossed with 'Jackass' except we don't do anything to hurt ourselves. But we're crazy, and we're the only predominantly Black comedy show out there appealing to a multiracial audience."

"Static" is the brainchild of three multitalented men who have formed Professional Hood Entertainment. Lockhart is the company's C.E.O. and writer. His baby bro Bryan Bostic is the editor and musical engineer and Jeff Gordon is a co-writer and director. The triple threat are as talented and as they are resourceful. They pooled their finances and came up with about $20,000 to become independent producers, turning intense creativity into immense opportunity to become a new comedy show.

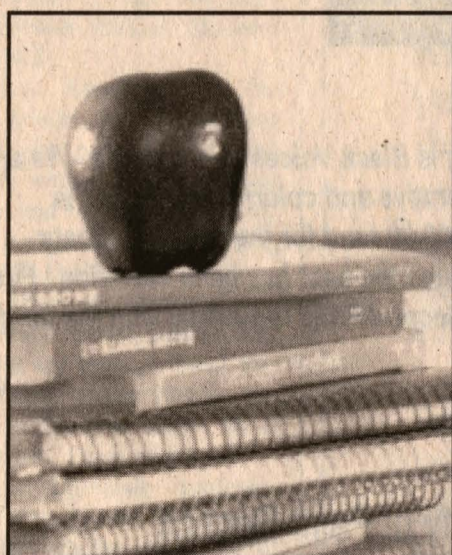

"Each of us had our own strengths and interests, but everyone had to jump in and do triple duty," said Gordon, the writer-director. "We acted; we did location scouting; we did craft services; we did everything just like Robert Townsend in 'Hollywood Shuffle.'" Bostic is the quiet storm in the group who's responsible for creating the original hip hop beats that give "Static" a fresh new urban vibe. "Right now, we're showcasing on the Internet, but we're being approached by studios to take it to the next level," said Bostic. "We're really grateful that the website is a hit and that people like our work"

Rosa Parks Street Dedicated in Palm Springs

PALM SPRINGS

By Meagan Carter

Stars, community and elected officials attended the celebration in honor of the naming of Las Vegas Rd. after the mother of the civil rights movement Rosa Parks in North Palm Springs.

Organizers of the event said they were pleasantly surprised when about 200 people attended the event. The major sponsor, TV One representative, Antoinette Brown-Leon said that she was pleased to see such a great crowd on such a beautiful day.

The renaming of the street was the brainchild of Kris Benz, who introduced Mistress of Ceremonies, Tanya Wright from the Fox Television show "24".

After an invocation from Rev. C.W. Parker, pastor of Ajalon Missionary Baptist Church, the dynamic Community Choir led by Linda Crawford had people feeling good.

Palm Springs Mayor Ron Oden, welcomed visitors and read a proclamation dedicating the day to the memory of Mrs. Parks.

Pearl Taylor Devers, a Palm Springs native, represented the Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute, and gave the report that they were pleased that Mrs. Parks was being recognized in such a wonderful manner. Jarvis Crawford, Manager of the James O. Jesse Community Center gave a welcome to the community he represents and then said the magic words, "you are all invited for dinner at the center following the ribbon cutting." But before the program ended and dinner could be served there was much more to be heard. Rev. Dennis Brown caused the emotions to rise when he recited a compilation of works by Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. But News Anchor Larry Carroll gave a keynote message that left attendees thinking, feeling and pondering the words he said in the following excerpts:

"It was December 1st in 1955. There were automobiles, busses, and people walking on the sidewalk. One of those people was tired that afternoon. She decided to sit down and in that moment stood up for the pain and fatigue of generations unable to speak their volumes of frustrations, despair and disenfranchisement at a system that professed freedom, yet delivered slavery, disenfranchisement, brutality, fear, hopelessness and abuse. Ordered to rise for an able bodied man, she sat down and stood up for freedom, for justice and for equality. On day on a street in America brought America face to face with itself and changed hatred into hope. Turned rage into righteousness and defined heroism for common men women and children of every color in every nation of the world. She never had a struggle to survive in the Coachella Valley, but like her, thousands struggle daily in dignity to reach for America's unique promises in this very special place. Rosa Parks, may you rest in perfect peace. May your spirit live forever on this street in America and on every street around the world."

Joseph Beaver, Rosa Parks Committee Chairman, a respected member of the community and Executive Director of the Black Historical and Cultural Society said he was pleased and surprised that so many came out for the historic event. There were children and youth who were proud to be identified with the name change and one group calling itself the Rosa Parks Street Group, (staying away from the gang stigma). They wore black shirts with Parks name and likeness on them. Posters of Parks were presented by artist Jameel Rasheed and one from Artis Lane was given to the committee by Willis Edwards of the NAACP.

After a benediction by Rev. Rodney Croom, Pastor of First Baptist Church a special solemn moment came. Just before the ribbon was cut Elder Joe Benitez, of the Cabazon Band of Mission Indians gave a touching spiritual blessing. He said that the Indians in that area have always welcomed Black people because of the oppression they had in common. He wanted to be there to bless the land and the street cementing that relationship. He requested no photos be taken and said that if photos were taken of the blessing it would create an unhealthy response.

And then it was time, the ribbon was cut, and many marched symbolically to the community center to have the lunch that was promised earlier.

Other sponsors were African Chamber of Commerce of Palm Springs,

Grandparents Take Center Stage At College Bound's First-Ever Heritage Luncheon

The Black Voice News

CERRITOS

"As I mature with every passing year, I become a better person because I increasingly appreciate what you have done for me in your lifetime. I know it has and will have an everlasting effect on my future, and I thank you with eternal love and gratitude."

Those were the heartfelt words of College Bound senior student Albert Edwards IV, as he read aloud a letter to his grandparents at College Bound's first-ever Heritage Luncheon, Saturday, Feb. 10 at Tom Bradley International Hall on the campus of UCLA. The University co-sponsored the event.

"We strongly believe that it's important for young people to understand and have respect for their heritage," says College Bound Founder/CEO Johnnie Savoy. "We established this event for our senior students to honor and celebrate their elders for their guidance, support and love."

Keith Parker, Assistant Vice Chancellor of UCLA Government & Community Relations says the University is pleased to co-sponsor such an event. "Our grandparents provide us with such an important legacy," he notes. "We don't get here by ourselves...we stand on the shoulders of others."

The afternoon's keynote address was given by College Bound's Development Officer Leslie Poston, who told the students that they would learn their own personal history by listening to their elders. "If you understand your person-

College Bound student Reshona Ross, (r) a Riverside resident, is joined by her grandmother Yvonne Allen at College Bound's Heritage Luncheon. Co-sponsored by UCLA, the event was held at the University's Tom Bradley International Hall. Based upon College Bound's belief of the importance for young people to understand and have respect for their heritage, the luncheon was created as a way for College Bound's senior students to honor and celebrate their grandparents and other significant elders.

al history, it elevates the possibilities of your present--and thus your future--to a much greater level," explained Poston, who holds both BA and-MA Degrees from Stanford University. "...that the depth of who you can be as a person will be much deeper and more meaningful with the wisdom from those who preceded you."

UCLA Student Dasha Chadwick provided musical selections. College Bound senior student Garnette Wood led the opening prayer and fellow College Bound student Mark Robinson read a letter he wrote to his grandparents.

Eta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc. Staying True To Their Motto

By Soror Bettie Bell

Maintaining this sorority's long time tradition of putting the needs of others first, before their self is just one viable and important component that has contributed to their longevity and success.

Eta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc's history can be traced as far back as 1942 when eleven business women having the same vision bonded, and out of that bond they developed a relationship of sisterhood and loyalty toward one another.

Their vision was that the growth and success of the community would be enhanced by promoting higher scholastic standards and career awareness through education and mentoring programs for the community. Eta Phi Beta Sorority Inc provided volunteer services; supported charities, worked with developmentally disabled citizens and assisted agencies, as well as sponsored career development programs for young people.

Eta Phi Beta Sorority Inc, endeavors to improve the community did not go without rewards. They now have many chapters which are located in various regions of the world, and their membership is steadily growing.

The Gamma Omega Chapter located in the Western Region-of the Inland Empire area is currently participating in charitable foundations, as well as providing financial assistance to organizations such as: the Options House Inc. and scholarship programs. The Option House Inc is a program for victims of domestic violence. Gamma Omega Chapter also provides services to various outreach programs such as: convalescent homes and programs for babies with AIDS.

There is no end to the Gamma Omega Chapter's accomplishments. They are currently in the process of planning an induction service for Shads. These are the husbands of the sorority sisters. The Shads will function independently of the Gamma Omega Chapter. They will recruit their own memberships, elect officers and plan their own programs. The goals will remain the same that is to continue to provide opportunities to promote growth and improve community services.

The induction service for these debonair potential Shads is scheduled for March 3, 2007 at the New Hope Family Life Center in San Bernardino, California. What a grand month this will be for the Gamma Omega Chapter. In addition to the induction of the Shads, their will be a big Soiree for potential sorority sister scheduled for March 17, 2007. Keep an eye on the Gamma Omega Chapter. Good things are coming from this chapter.

TECH TALK

Helping Small Businesses and Organizations Bridge the Digital Divide

MOBILE COMPUTING SOLUTIONS

In today's mobile society, it becomes necessary to manage your business from almost everywhere. This is possible with today's technology. There are many ways to achieve this type of connectivity; here, I will give a brief survey of current solutions. In subsequent articles I will discuss each solution in depth.

A laptop is typically used as a desktop replacement when you are traveling. If you do not have a desktop, you can use your laptop as a suitable replacement. As with any other computing purchase, a good question to ask is: How will I need to use this computer? Once you answer that question, most competent computer sales professionals should be able to help you choose the right product for your needs.

If you want similar functionality as a laptop, but in a smaller form, a Pocket PC may be what you need. This pocket sized device allows you to do many of things you would do on your Laptop; albeit on a much smaller screen. I suggest that you go to a local vendor and try several models out for yourself. Some people find it very difficult to work with such a small device.

Smart Phones are similar to Pocket PC's; however, they also double as a cell phone. One advantage is that you don't have to carry a Pocket PC and a cell phone separately. One of the biggest complaints about these phone's is the reduced battery life compared to a regular cell phone.

There are many choices within these three options. In the following articles I will discuss these choices further, along with some usage suggestions.

Please send all feedback, topic suggestions and/or questions to TechTalk@AboveTheLimit.com. Digital archives can be found at www.BlackVoiceNews.com and www.IngleWoodToday.com.

5 a Day Keeps the Doctor Away

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

By C. F. Hawthorne

On February 16, 2007 community and faith based leaders kicked off The 5 a Day Campaign created to encourage African Americans to eat more fruit and vegetables, to get more exercise and to get involved in the community. More than half of the community does not eat five fruits and vegetables a day. The 5 a Day Campaign is a public health initiative designed to improve the health of low-income African Americans.

The campaign works with communities throughout California to create environments where healthy eating and physical activity are socially supported. Strategies for educating adults and youth through advocacy, research, faith-based education programs, community festivals, media, retail and public and private partnerships are being implemented. The 5 a day program encourages the African American community to live, think and grow healthier, get involved in your community, be active, and offers solutions to find ways to be a healthier you.

The 5 a Day campaign has formed a council of concerned California residents, community leaders, educator, ministers, registered dietitians, nurses, doctors and advocates. African American consume only 30 servings of fruits and vegetables a day. More than 34% of African Americans are obese in California, Heart diseases ranks as the number 1 killer of African Americans, claiming the lives of 36 percent of us who die each year. High blood pressure in African Americans in the United States is among the highest in the world. A recent survey of African American adults in Riverside, Fresno, Los Angeles, Oakland, Sacramento, San Bernardino, and San Diego indicated they are ready to take specific actions to improve the health in their communities. Some of these actions included writing, calling, or emailing government officials, participating in a community action group, and even paying more in taxes to support nutrition education and physical activity programs.

First 5 CA Launches Statewide "Leading Ladies for School Readiness" Campaign

Collaboration with Leading Ladies of African American Churches in Inland Empire Aims to Prepare Children for Success in School

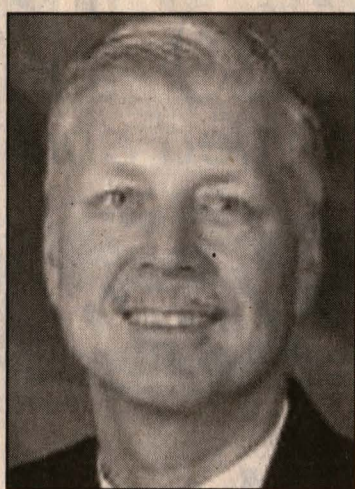

The Black Voice News

SACRAMENTO

First 5 California announced recently it is partnering with leading ladies from African American churches to launch a statewide effort designed to educate parents and caregivers on the importance of preparing children for success in school.

To launch the campaign called "Leading Ladies for School Readiness," First 5 California established a partnership with the California Association of Ministers' Wives and Ministers' Widows. To date, more than 50 leading ladies - women in leadership roles at their churches - are participating in the statewide program.

"Leading ladies play an important role within their churches and communities," said First 5 Executive Director Kris Perry. "The leading ladies of the African American church are trusted and reliable sources for information and our ability to reach parents with important messages about school readiness will be significantly strengthened through this historic partnership."

According to First 5 California, two-thirds of children in the state's high-priority elementary schools do not have the necessary developmental skills to enter kindergarten such as sharing, taking turns or sitting still in a classroom.

As local advocates for school readiness, leading ladies will work closely with church leadership and other community leaders to educate parents and caregivers on topics including good nutrition, health care, early literacy and the benefits of preschool.

"First 5 San Bernardino understands the value in partnering with the faith community to reach parents and caregivers with critical information about the early years of a child's life,"

Some of the outreach activities organized by the leading ladies will include hosting church and community forums focused on African Americans and school readiness, establishing a speakers' bureau to educate parents and generate support for school readiness efforts, and serving as local media spokespersons for the school readiness education effort.

First 5 San Bernardino and First 5 Riverside will also support the Leading Ladies for School Readiness campaign. The Commissions and their faith-based partnerships will help identify leading ladies and encourage them to join the program. In addition, both Commissions will host workshops for leading ladies interested in becoming advocates for school readiness.

"First 5 San Bernardino understands the value in partnering with the faith community to reach parents and caregivers with critical information about the early years of a child's life," said Richard Jarvis, Executive Director of First 5 San Bernardino.

Stella Smith, deputy director of First 5 Riverside said, "The Leading Ladies for School Readiness will enable First 5 Riverside to tap into the credibility and influence of leading ladies of the Black church to help remind parents that they are their children's first and most important teachers."

To support the leading ladies school readiness outreach efforts, First 5 California created a comprehensive outreach tool kit, which includes a variety of ready-to-use education materials and useful tips for reaching parents and caregivers throughout their churches and surrounding communities.

"We want parents to know that preparing their child for school starts the day he or she is born," said Henryetta Benton, president of the California Association of Ministers' Wives and Ministers' Widows. "We are looking forward to working closely with First 5 California to help ensure children get the best possible start in life and enter school healthy and happy."

According to First 5 California, 90 percent of a child's brain develops most dramatically during the first 5 years of life. Therefore, what a parent does during these early years to support their child's growth and encourage learning will have a meaningful impact throughout their child's life.

Leading ladies interested in participating in the Leading Ladies for School Readiness campaign are encouraged to contact the California Association of Ministers' Wives and Ministers' Widows at info@leadingladiesforschoolreadiness.com or call (866) 305-4813. An interdenominational organization, the association has more than 200 members throughout California and has recently added school readiness among African Americans to its many advocacy goals.

CrossWord Presents More than Just a Man

The Black Voice News

RIVERSIDE

CrossWord Christian Church presents an inspiring dramatic musical for the Easter season produced by Lillenas Music. This dramatic musical presentation reflects the ministry, life, death and resurrection of Jesus - as seen through the eyes of Nicodemus and Joseph of Arimathea who are the focus of this touching work.

More than Just a Man provides a compelling glimpse into the controversy surrounding the Messiah and His triumphant resurrection. The songs are dynamic - completing a moving work that powerfully exalts the living Christ. The cast for this production are members of CrossWord Church in Riverside where Pastor Lacy Sykes encourages them to use their gifts to the glory of God. You won't want to miss this extraordinary presentation of the Gospel.

For more information, visit our website at www.crosswordchurch.org or contact the church office at (951) 697-8803.

The worship location, 14950 Riverside Drive, Riverside, CA 92518 (at Riverside & Meyer Drive, east of March Air Reserve Base)

CrossWord Christian Church is a multi-ethnic, multi-generational, biblically-based church that is personal, practical and committed to teaching and preaching for life change.

Also, the African Children's Choir™ will come to Riverside.

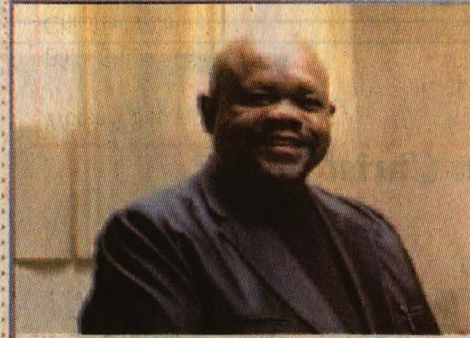

Come hear the wonderfully inspiring voices of this dynamic children's choir - Wednesday, March 28, 2007. Concert begins at 7:00 p.m. at CrossWord Christian Church, 14950 Riverside Drive, Riverside, CA 92518 (corner of Riverside & Meyer Drive, east of March Air Reserve Base). www.crosswordchurch.org

The African Children's Choir™ features delightful African children ages 7 through 11. Many have lost one or both parents through the devastation of war, famine and disease. Their voices sing out on behalf of Africa's 12 million AIDS orphans. They represent the future of the entire continent demonstrating the potential to become strong leaders for a better future in their homeland. This is a free event; however, it is asked that you bring a Love Offering and be a blessing to the African Children's Choir. www.africanchildrenschoir.com
