JUDGE REJECTS GOV.'S INMATE TRANSFER PLAN

Critics Say Transfers Punish Children and Families

By Chris Levitzer

The Black Voice News

A California Superior Court judge Tuesday tossed out Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger's plan to solve the state's severe prison overcrowding by transferring inmates out of state. Two labor unions that represent correctional officers and private employers had sued to block the transfers. Hundreds of state inmates have been released.

The ruling by Judge Gail D. Ohanesian who acknowledged a "climate of peril" in the prisons, suggests that conditions are dangerous, inmates and advocates for reform.

"I told him to sleep in a triple bunk bed in the middle of a packed cell," says the judge. "He was assessed at night poised to defend himself against violent inmates. He was placed in a cell with eight inmates, all of whom said they were going to kill him if he didn't drug test." His family members and his civil attorney are said to be helping for rehabilitation.

Oliver could only watch and wonder from Donor's eyes. "It's like a second death," she said. "Thirty-year-old James W. is one of more than 450 inmates who volunteered to transfer to out-of-state private facilities in Arizona, Oklahoma and Mississippi. James W. told family members conditions at the Chino prison are "dangerous, inhumane and shackling for rehabilitation.""The majority of the Council seemed to be confused about the measure and Councilmember Rikke Van Johnson pulled the petition and the help to clarify exactly what the measure would be. "It is for the voters, not us, that we should ask. If we don't follow the rule we are not following our own principles or the voters," said Johnson.

As part of Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger's emergency order to reduce series overcrowding, private prisons have been transferring inmates to private out-of-state facilities.

Johnston, youth and citizens advocates said the order is well intentioned that they were listening. That is until the next week when the council and the City Council of Kerman has increased nearly $100,000 to help

HAS THE BLACK LEADER- ENSHIP BECOME THE NEW 'DARK TOWER'?

That’s the question. Is it possible that Black and brown leaders are living in the United States. So yeah, I mean, it’s not finished with me yet, we only have a couple of more years. There are things to do any real meaningful stuff. I. G. R. I. S., a movement that’s been met with white moral justifications, has no meaning to the them and that is morally unjust to hate gays, even if you’re Black. But don’t put that on a tideline in a comedy club about hating Blacks because this we have a similar commitment and rally to our school as a deputysheiff for the last four years. This is good because it demonstrates that people are listening, and that the movement and wanted King to the NAACP and prepare for Election Day in November.

Driver Driving With Parkinson's Disease

Dear Leader: I was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease last year and I have mild symptoms. I have noticed a significant change in my ability to drive. I am worried that my driving could put others at risk. What can I do to improve my driving skills?

The Parkinson's Foundation recommends several strategies to improve driving skills for individuals with Parkinson's disease:

1. Regular check-ups: Schedule routine medical check-ups with your neurologist to monitor your condition and adjust your medications as needed.

2. Driving assessment: Consider obtaining a driving assessment from an occupational therapist or a neurologist who specializes in Parkinson's disease.

3. Practice driving exercises: Engage in practice driving exercises, such as using a patients' driving simulator, to improve your ability to control your vehicle.

4. Use assistive devices: Consider using assistive devices, such as a steering wheel device, to improve your control of the vehicle.

5. Consider alternative transportation: If your symptoms worsen, consider alternative transportation options, such as public transportation or ride-sharing services.

It is important to continue driving as long as it is safe to do so. However, you should be aware of the potential risks associated with driving and take necessary precautions to ensure your safety and the safety of others.

Rosa Parks
Street Dedicated in Palm Springs

By Meagan Carter

Stars, community and elected officials attended the celebration in honor of the naming of Las Vegas Rd. after the mother of the civil rights movement Rosa Parks in North Palm Springs. Organizers of the event said they were pleasantly surprised when about 200 people attended the event. The major sponsor, TV One representative, Antoinette Brown-Leon said that she was pleased to see such a great crowd on such a beautiful day.

The renaming of the street was the brainchild of Kris Benz, who introduced Mistress of Ceremonies, Tanya Wright from the Fox Television show "24." After an invocation from Rev. C.W. Parker, pastor of Azlan Missionary Baptist Church, the dynamic Community Choir led by Linda Crawford had people feeling good.

Palm Springs Mayor Ron Oden, welcomed visitors and read a proclamation dedicating the day to the memory of Mrs. Parks. Pearl Taylor Dovers, a Palm Springs native, represented the Rosa and Raymond Parks Institute, and gave the report that they were pleased that Mrs. Parks was being recognized in such a wonderful manner. Jarvis Crawford, in giving the words he said in the cutting, "But before the pro-gram ended and dinner could be served there was much more to be heard. Rev. Dennis Brown caused the emotions to rise when he recited a compilation of works by Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. But News Anchor Larry Carroll gave a keynote message that left attendees thinking, feeling and pondering the words he said in the following excerpt: "It was December 1st in 1955. There were automobiles, buses, and people walking on the sidewalk. One of those people was tired that afternoon. She decided to sit down and in that moment stood up for the pain and frustration of generations unable to speak their volumes of frustrations, despair and disenfranchisement at a system that professed freedom, yet delivered slavery, disenfranchisement, brutality, fear, hopelessness and abuse. Ordered to rise for an able bodied man, the sit down and stood up for freedom, for justice and for equality. On day on a street in America brought America face to face with itself and changed human destiny to take a step closer to equality. If America never saw Rosa Parks, may you rest in perfect peace. May your spirit live forever on this street in America and on every street around the world." Joseph Beaver, Rosa Parks Committee Chairman, a respected member of the community and Executive Director of the Black Historical and Cultural Society said he was pleased and surprised that so many came out for the historic event. There were children and youth who were proud to be identified with the name change and one group calling itself the Rosa Parks Street Group, (staying away from the gang stigma). They wore black shirts with Parks name and likeness on them. Posters of Parks were presented by artist Ja'nel Rashard and one from Artis Lane was given to the committee by William Edwards of the NAACP.

After a benediction by Rev. Rodney Crompton, Pastor of First Baptist Church a special solemn moment came. Just before the ribbon was cut Elder Joe Benitez, of the Cabazon Band of Mission Indians gave a touching spiritual blessing. He said that the Indians in that area have always welcomed Black people because of the oppression they had in common. He wanted to be there to bless the land and the street connecting that relationship. He requested no photos be taken and said that if photos were taken of the blessing it would create an unhealthy response.

And then it was time, the ribbon was cut, and many marched symbolically to the community center to have the lunch that was promised earlier.

Other sponsors were African Chamber of Commerce of Palm Springs.

Larry Carroll gave a stirring speech.

First 5 CA Launches Statewide "Leading Ladies for School Readiness" Campaign

Collaboration with Leading Ladies of African American Churches in Inland Empire Aims to Prepare Children for Success in School

First 5 California announced recently it is partnering with leading ladies from African American churches to launch a statewide effort designed to educate parents and caregivers on the importance of preparing children for success in school.

To launch the campaign called "Leading Ladies for School Readiness," First 5 California established a partnership with the California Association of Ministers' Wives and Ministers' Widows. To date, more than 50 leading ladies - women in leadership roles at their churches - are participating in the education program.

"Leading ladies play an important role within their churches and communities," said First 5 Executive Director Kris Perry. "The leading ladies of the African American church are trusted health care, early literacy and the benefits of preschool. Some of the outreach activities organized by the leading ladies will include hosting bible studies and community forums focused on African American and school readiness, establishing a speakers' bureau to educate parents and general support for school readiness efforts, and serving as local media spokespersons for the school readiness education effort."

First 5 San Bernardino and First 5 Riverside will also support the Leading Ladies for School Readiness campaign. The Commissions and their faith-based partnerships will help identify leading ladies and encourage them to join the program. In addition, both Commissions will host workshops for leading ladies interested in becoming advocates for school readiness.

"First 5 San Bernardino understands the value in partnering with the faith community to reach parents and caregivers with critical information about the early years of a child's life," said Richard Jarvis, Executive Director of First 5 San Bernardino.

Stella Smith, deputy director of First 5 Riverside, said, "The Leading Ladies for School Readiness will enable First 5 Riverside to tap into the credibility and influence of leading ladies of the Black church to help remind parents that they are their children's first and most important teachers.

To support the leading ladies school readiness outreach efforts, First 5 California created a comprehensive outreach toolkit, which includes a variety of ready-to-use education materials and helpful tips for reaching parents and caregivers throughout their churches and surrounding communities."

"We want parents to know that preparing their child for school starts the day he or she is born," said Henrietta Benton, president of the California Association of Ministers' Wives and Ministers' Widows. "We are looking forward to working closely with First 5 California to help ensure children have the best possible start in life and enter school healthy and happy."

According to First 5 California, 90 percent of a child's brain develops most dramatically during the first 5 years of life. Therefore, what a parent does during those early years to support their child's growth and encourage learning will have a meaningful impact throughout their child's life.

Leading ladies interested in participating in the Leading Ladies for School Readiness campaign are encouraged to contact the California Association of Ministers' Wives and Ministers' Widows at info@leadingladiesforschoo­ readyness.com or call 866-305-4813. An interdenominational organization, the association has more than 200 members throughout California and has recently added school readiness among African Americans to its many advocacy goals.
