When Joe Huerta and his long-time friend Alex Acosta stepped across the Mexican border into San Bernardino on April 15, 1982, they thought they were leaving for the Darwinian, imprisoned streets of Tijuana.

These days the two lobbyists are back on the border, this time raising the profiles of the Ku Klux Klan, which just a few years ago seemed a quaint and almost forgotten remnant of the American past.

By some estimates the old Klansmen are re-emerging, bringing a new wave of Klansmen to the U.S., and the state of California is one of the leaders in recent Klansmen activity.

For its part, UNITY and its member organizations, along with the California NAACP, are working to make sure that the Klansmen are not successful in their efforts to win converts and what they hope is recognition as "legitimate."....

The Ku Klux Klan is re-emerging on its own. Experts say although some Ku Klansmen still hold cross-burnings dressed in white and hooded, others claim they are more than just a relic of a bygone era.

The League, which monitors the activities of hate groups, said it has noticed a spike in activity in the last year due largely to the "resurgence" during September and October of the "Ku Klux Klan and other hate groups around the country."

"They are more organized, more visible, and they are willing to assist any newspaper or editor who is serious about achieving that goal."

"We do not call, because they have a fear of being caught," the source added.

Joana Flores who is also in the Ku Klux Klan said the Klan is still "active" but no longer considering the office after her 15-year-old son, "said it's all a lie...a game...a white hood and box."

Local Ku Klux Klans have been contacted by police for contact for Police for fear of being caught,

Our marriage and urban crime are serious problems of the city, but if it is the above or what to do about it, that is up to the immigrants, of which about 11 million are in the U.S. legally that have become the focus for the Ku Klux Klan movement.

San Bernardino Council believe the evidence if not the presenters

As the book of John chapter 14, we find the disciples Jesus and Philebos are having a question session with Jesus and they keep asking him questions to prove who he really is. Finally Jesus responds to this question that if you don’t believe now you will believe, and the power of the miracles themselves should convince you. Jesus was told being answered and believing by witnessing who Jesus is. This is how the mayor and presenters must have been after their speech and before speaking with witnesses after telling truths to the success of the Operation Phoenix program. The people are having a question session with Jesus and they keep asking him questions to prove who he really is. Finally Jesus responds to this question that if you don’t believe now you will believe, and the power of the miracles themselves should convince you. Jesus was told being answered and believing by witnessing who Jesus is. This is how the mayor and presenters must have been after their speech and before speaking with witnesses after telling truths to the success of the Operation Phoenix program.

No one is to do less than this with those rights, there must be a corresponding duty that falls upon negligent neighbors to provide it. Do your neighbors have a duty to pay for your Quantum? What about housing? Food and clothing? One can argue that those things are for neighbors and neighbors ought to cheerfully do for one another. So the idea is clearly different from police that want to use the power of the government to force minorities. The administrative law suit and the rules of interpretation of the policies of some organizations in the workplace have been found.

When someone feels guilty and management does not adequately compensate. Don’t practice “Disparate Treatment” of employees in the workplace.

Over the past several months we have been indebted with complaints of disparate treatment of employees with regards to their productivity factors. These factors have been addressed in the workplace where the productivity factors have been viewed, the productivity factors have been addressed in the workplace where the productivity factors have been viewed. These factors have been targeted where the productivity factors have been viewed. These factors have been viewed.

Obama fundraising rivals Clinton

Democratic presidential hopeful Barack Obama has raised at least $325 million in his campaign fundraising for the 2008 race, his campaign announced Wednesday.

The figure puts him on pace with rival Hillary Rodham Clinton, who has raised $320 million, a record-breaking amount. Campaign sources for Mr. Obama said more than 600,000 people had contributed.

2007 FIRST QUARTER FUNDRAISING

Barack Obama - $25m

Hillary Clinton - $23m

John Edwards - $14m

Rudy Giuliani - $14m

John McCain - $12.5m

Both Republicans and Democratic candidates are keen to show how they can beat the other’s fundraising lead. Analysts say Mr. Obama’s figures show the illness senator, a relative newcomer to the political scene, could be a real factor in the 2008 race.

At least $500m of the money raised so far will be eligible to be spent in the primary season. The primaries will decide which candidate wins the White House.

Mr. Obama’s fundraising response, in just a few short weeks, shows the hunger for a different kind of politics in this country and a belief that the grassroots level can win.

Having suffered from a mental disability for over 20 years, Rivera had tried to start a business of his own. But he was not very successful. He would often lose money because he had a hard time keeping track of his expenses. In fact, he would often spend more money than he had available.

People at Cathedral of Praise encouraged him to become more organized and to keep better records of his income and expenses. They also suggested that he might consider using online banking services to help him manage his finances better.

Rivera said that he had been able to make progress in these areas since joining the church. He added that he was grateful for the support he had received.

"Why do you have to pay for things that you don't want?" - Jennie Rivera

There was a time when a credit card was just a piece of plastic. But now, with millions of cardholders, credit cards have become an essential part of everyday life.

But credit cards can also be a source of trouble. People can find themselves in debt and unable to pay off their credit card balances.

This is especially true for those who are not careful with their money. They may find themselves paying high interest rates and fees just to keep up with their obligations.

To help people understand the risks of credit cards, the National Council of Negro Women, Inc. hosted a National Credit Card Celebration. The event featured workshops and sessions on how to use credit cards responsibly.

This year's celebration was held in Concord, New Hampshire. Attendees were given the opportunity to learn about the dangers of credit card debt and how to avoid them.

During the event, people also had the chance to hear from industry experts and to participate in interactive sessions on credit card management.

Whether you're a student, a young professional, or simply want to improve your financial literacy, this celebration is a must-see.

The great majority of children with sickle cell disease will grow to adulthood with very few serious complications. At some time in their lives, however, many children with sickle cell disease experience a painful episode called a sickle cell crisis. This can happen when the child cannot get enough blood oxygen. Keeping your child well hydrated can help decrease these episodes. Without enough fluids, hemoglobin becomes concentrated and is more likely to assume the abnormal “sickle” shape. Staying hydrated can decrease the number of sickle cell crises. Some parents say that drinking warm fluids helps.

Tim Woods Off And Racing Again

By Earl Heath

The 2007 Racing season is in its infancy but NASCAR driver Tim Woods III got off to a second place finish with a seventh place finish at the Allstate Texas Thunder 250 held in Kyle, Texas.

Woods who had a promising ear-er as he ran second for several laps until a caution flag came out and forced him to the outside on the Thunder Hill three-eighths mile track.

"There are a lot of restarts, there were five or six caution," said Woods. "Most of the time if you started on the outside you get shuffled back because it's a one groove track. With every caution flag, depending if your odd or even you either gain or lose a spot.

He has three new crew mem-Mbers that graduated from North Carolina A & T, Chris Gallow, Russell Wade III and Gary Oatis.

Woods has a top notch crew in T3Motorsports, but like most newcomers, he needs sponsor-ship. Woods, Woods you need to get diversity, you get up and coming driver who's fiery and appears to be born to race. Woods started his racing career at 8 years old on IMSX tracks and is now racing NASCAR divinates with car #54. He is a three generation racer following in his father's and grandfather's footsteps.

Woods is recognized as one of NASCAR's most talented and brightest up and coming African Americans stars. In 2005, Woods received the Most Improved Driver. He finished his 12 starts of 2006 with three Top 5 and seven Top 10 finishes. He will be at Phoenix International Raceway on April 19th.

"We're looking forward to the upcoming season," added Woods. "The whole team is excited about it."

STEREY YOUR CAR IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Most Americans will pay big bucks at the pump this summer, which is why it is more important than ever to save your car maintenance costs. Now is the perfect time to learn new ways to keep your car in better shape, longer and better now. The American Society of Appraisers highlights the top 10 steps you can take to help enhance the value of your car.

1. "Cats are usually the second largest "purchase for most pets, right after their house," said Dave Kinney, assis-tant executive director of the American Society of Appraisers (ASA). "It makes sense to care of your auto-mobile, not only for enhancing its worth, but for safety purposes as well."

The American Society of Appraisers and expert automobile appraiser Dave Kinney offer the following tips to con-sumers.

1. Keep it clean. Aside from car wash operations, one can look very dirty cars.

Keep the clean-up in your car, not only will you feel better about the car, but you will likely keep the trade-in value in time or when you sell it. Those car profes-sionally detailed before you attempt to sell it.

2. Maintain your car according to the manu-facturer's specifications. Find the specifications in the owner's manual. Check in your glove box. You have plugged in over the day you bought it. The oil level should be checked every 3000 miles. Keep an eye on the "charge your oil every three thousand miles" statement in your owners manual. Most manufacturers do not recommend oil changes until 7500 miles and more.

Don't spend money where it's not needed, and you can help the environment as well.

3. Keep it running. When you do get that oil change, consider one of the well-known synthetic oils on the market. They are more expensive, but they also have a longer service life. Synthetic oil is made from pure oil, but it is built so that all the molecules are the same size, increasing...

Sickle Cell Foundation launches "Be Sickle Smart" Campaign at Mission Inn Brunch

By Tia M. Magee

The Sickle Cell Disease Foundation of California (SCDFC) introduced a newly formed campaign entitled "Be Sickle Smart" during a recent luncheon held at the Mission Inn in Riverside. The purpose of the luncheon was to raise awareness and support for Sickle Cell as well as Iron Overload predominantly in the African American Community.

Sickle Cell Disease is an inherited blood disorder that affects more than 80,000 people in the United States, mainly in the Black community. About 2 million Americans, or 1 in 12 African Americans carry the sickle cell trait. While there is no universal cure for Sickle Cell, there are treatments to reduce painful episodes and to prevent or treat complications. "Be Sickle Smart" aims to bring together patient advocacy, health professionals, churches, media, community leaders and civic organizations to raise awareness of these options that are available.

Tina Coleman, in charge of Educational Outreach for the "Be Sickle Smart" Program presented the attendees with information about the history of the disease and the complications Sickle Cell patients have due to regular blood transfusions called iron overload. She also encouraged testing as a routine procedure.

Parents - You are your child's first teacher!

The Leading Ladies for School Readiness want to remind you that reading out loud to your child will help prepare him or her for school.

Reading out loud to children is one of the most important ways to teach children the skills they need for reading and writing:

• Begin reading to your child when he or she is a baby. And, read often.
• Read the same book over and over. It helps a child learn words.
• Let your child see you reading books, magazines and newspapers.

For more information about preparing your child for success in school and a lifetime of learning, call First 5 Riverside 1-800-266-3880 or email first5@rcfcc.org.

If you are a Leading Lady in your church and would like information about joining the Leading Ladies for School Readiness program, email info@leadingladiesforschoolreadiness.com. This message brought to you by First 5 California, First 5 Riverside and the Leading Ladies for School Readiness.

First 5 Presents "Leading Ladies" for School Readiness

Members of the California Association of Ministers, Wives and Widows are spearheading the good word of early childhood development through a partnership with First 5 Riverside.

"The two groups joined forces to create Leading Ladies for School Readiness, a statewide campaign specifically targeting African-Americans," said Mrs. Brackett. "It has talking points to spread the message about the importance of school readiness to African-American families."

The Leading Ladies' mission is to help African American parents and caregivers with the necessary tools.

"Most and some African American children are entering pre-kindergarten unprepared," said Mentee Brackett, Assistant Executive Director for Black należy, in charge of African-American outreach for First 5 California. "It's about talking, listening and encouraging parents to get their children ready to enter kindergarten and succeed from the start."

The Leading Ladies workshop will take place Friday, May 11, from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the San Bernardino First 5 office, 350 N. D Street, fifth floor.
