The Framing of Pasadena Dentist, Dr. Druciel Ford

The criminal prosecution of Pasadena dentist, Dr. Druciel Ford, is the kind of case any law-abiding citizen should fear. If you can be criminally accused of, than any time you treat a patient and get an adverse reaction — you could end up in jail with a suspended license.

That's just the face of this case, the presumption of guilt until proven innocent, because a teenager went into area over where the D.A. thinks may have been the site of an unlicensed, clandestine dentistry. But as the facts of the D.A.'s office to prosecute this case.

This is a classic witchhunt, the fabrication of which was a tool in this case, the making that has the collaboration of the Pasadena Police Department, the Pasadena Office of the Los Angeles District Attorney's Office and the Pasadena News, that is the final analysis represents the framing of a case against one of Pasadena's most popular and respected pediatric dentists.

If you have been following the case of Dr. Druciel Ford over the past month, you would assume that this is some piddling dentist who was pulling teeth in the back room of some shady operation and accidentally overloaded some patent that almost killed. If you've been following the media accounts of this story, you would think that the involvement of someone who deserved to be in jail to make sure that the public was safe.

The "public" persona of this case has been "get to the rascals incriminating dentists and make it safe for children to go to the dentist again." The "stop it before it could become public, you will see the making of an underlying time credibility by a Pasadena police officer and an overzealous Deputy D.A. going against the wishes of the D.A.'s office to prosecute this case.

The city council approved two more recommendations submitted to them by the Los Angeles Times, established by Mayor Ron Laverde and at their meeting on March 7, 2000. All of this comes on the heels of the fatal shooting of Tyisha Miller on December 28, 1998. One of the recommendations approved last week deals with placing more experienced officers on the night shift. Many people have expressed the view that these recommendations would travel many miles in building trust and accountability between the citizens of the city and the police department. We agree.

It is written that "when the plowman plows the threshing, they teach us to do in the hope of storing in the harvest." Well, the city council is now paving new ground by approving more of the well-researched recommendations of the Mayors Use Of Force Panel. And, their actions are starting to produce a harvest of safety for the citizens for which the police do not deserve the praise.

As stated by John Holmes, City Manager, "The Police Department has already benefited from the acquisition of lethal equipment and emergency services.

How To Get Better Gas Mileage

By William H. Clark II

Here are a few thrifty ideas to improve your gas mileage, and to go further on less:

- Choose new or used tires with telling pressure. Old, worn tires should be replaced with new ones for better traction.
- Tune up the engine, replace air filter and other maintenance items so your vehicle can burn fuel most efficiently.
- Drive conservatively. Accelerate slowly. Driving at 55 mph rather than 70 will increase your mileage by up to 10%.
- Keep the vehicle clean and tuned to minimize air friction.
- Driving at highway speeds with the windows up and the air conditioning is actually more efficient than driving with the windows down because of lower air resistance.
- Remove excess items from the trunk and keep the fast task at most half full, to reduce vehicle weight.
- Remove luggage racks or other items on the top to lower wind resistance.

Toni Speaks

Back to Riverside after a few days away and I must say, it's good to be back. Let me tell you about the "Trip from Hades." I think that I commented enough on Alexandria, LA except to say that we were departing on Thursday night for Dallas, a series of storms were set and we were kept on the ground for nearly five hours. Needless to say, I did not mind at all considering the choices of the "Trip from Hades." I am thinking of those who were sitting at Jedd and going through trades for a couple of hours. I choose the 3 and 3 route.

Arriving in the Dallas area from Los Angeles after a day or two or three and it was on to all programs and services were available because of the cancellations and storms. The final accommodations were by bringing in costs and baggage. Still the Dallas Hilton (terminal) that night, no cost, in our clothes. Every try to watch your purse and computer and sleep all at the same park.

But on to the good part. Atlanta! Yes a place that you grab your best and sound won't be. Ravis Simmons-Hunter picked me up at the airport and it was a great day except for the weekend of the weekend. Museums, shopping, dancing, shopping, eating, shows, stores, bars. Like I said, it's good to be back home.

I guess a few other people have arrived back from the Pelican State. Told to Leoty Barber and apparently he and Kat had a wonderful time in New Orleans doing the Mardi Gras. Oh I hope they didn't eat the seafood. Many more ideas on saving energy on the road, or at work, visit http://embark.to/save where you can read a free appetizer version of Battening for Energy Conservation, a practical how-to book from McGraw-Hill by William Clark, a nationally recognized expert on energy conservation.

Major boxing contest; however, The Black Voice News, "has hosted more than 140 claimed title of "Home of Champion superstar, who continues to prove eluded fight fans.\n and Olympic Gold medalist Reid, famous outdoor arena became a distraction. \n
Trinidad and Reid took it in attendance in awe. to the street (parking lot), literally, rock 'em, sock 'em brawl that had all in attendance in awe. \n and in the process claimed the more brutal and focused than ever. four rounds on the majority of score-round he sat Reid on the canvas and couldn't put the shots together to away form some of the things we've gathered mom entum . By the seventh round he sat Reid on the canvas and followed that effort up with three knockdowns in the 11th. \n
It appeared that once Reid knocked Trinidad down, he abandoned his boxing strategy and went for the kill. "I think David got a little to comfortable," noted Al Mitchell his trainer and cornerman. "We went away from some of the things we've been working on. I think David gained valuable experience from this." Added Reid "It happens to a lot of fighters...when you knock your opponent down, they get happy and think they've won the fight. I probably fell into that trap a little."

From the sixth round on Trinidad won every round on all the judges' scorecards. In fact, as the fight went on, it became a junior miracle Reid remained upright and finished the fight. The 1996 gold medalist's legs turned to rubber in the 10th through the 12th, as he struggled mightily to hang on to his credit, he could have thrown in the towel, yet he came out in the 12th round and continued to battle. Although experience maybe what Reid is lacking, surely heart is what he has plenty of. "I was so proud of Reid...he came to fight," said Trinidad's promoter Don King. "If you have extended a maximum effort, then there is no shame if you fall in the line of battle. One thing about Reid we now know, he doesn't have any heart troubles. He's a courageous fighter, who is gallant and proud."

With Trinidad's win the options for the future are numerous; however, the man he wants most, De La Hoya, appears headed for a June 176 match with undefeated welterweight Shane Mosley. No matter that a Trinidad/De La Hoya rematch could earn each fighter $20 million, the King and Bob Arum camps can't seem to come together.

One of the main sticking points is that Trinidad has been having trouble getting the 147 pound weight limit and wants to fight at the 134 pound titles. Fernando Vargas of Oxnard, Calif., is the IBF champi on, while Francisco Castellano of Spain holds the WBC title. Trinidad said he's not obsessed with a De La Hoya rematch because he's "already fought him and the world knows that I won." Yet he did admit, "It would be a great fight and the public would live it."

Only time and money and compromise will bring them back together again. It will happen again, it's just when.\n

De La Hoya confirms Mosley fight at Staples Center in June. \n
AS VEGAS – Three-time Olympic gold medalist, Felix "Tito" Trinidad? Well, that's a question a lot are asking, seeing Trinidad unleashed in the post fight press conference: "I've beaten (Per- sia's) Babakhatker; (Oscar) De La Hoya, and now (David) Reid...you can say I've won three gold medals."

Whitaker, De La Hoya and Reid, all have won Olympic titles, as well as world boxing championships.

On a chilly, near-gale windy evening, Trinidad and Reid took it to the street (parking lot), literally, and implemented an old-fashioned, rock 'em, sock 'em brawl that had all in attendance in awe. The Prosecutors, if its self proclaimed "Hollywood superfight," "has hosted more than 140 major boxing contests, however, since 1996, when the Palace under went renovation and reconfiguration, the famous outdoor arena became a distraction.

Trinidad, 27, the Puerto Rican superwelter, who continues to prove he is one of the most fearsome boxers pound for pound in the world, and Olympic Gold medalist Reid, 26, "The America Dream," christened Caesars' new 15,000 seat outdoor stadium with a boxing match, something that has taken place at times in recent times, lackluster efforts have elicited fight fans.

Before a soldout audience and a national showdown, the prominent boxing fan, Canadian Trinidad and Reid encounter was no shoo-in, each fighter was face-to-face in the ring and put it all on the line. In the end, a more experienced "I was so proud of Reid...he came to fight," said Trinidad's promoter Don King. "If you have extended a maximum effort, then there is no shame if you fall in the line of battle. One thing about Reid we now know, he doesn't have any heart troubles. Fashions 2000

Fashionites on the American and European circuit must have heard about "clothes for the millennium" so that's what we're wearing--"what will we wear?" Fashion is inevitably flawed--this year, the moment's dominant look: The most, subtle--undoubtedly no matter what the look, was "revisited."

Domenico Dolce and Stefano Gabbana's glitzy collection featured romantic hand painted butterflies and flowers on lamé stretch silk and sautoir scarf. "Much like Reynolds wrap." Donatella Versace showed a spectacular group of shockingly provocative pieces with toe-curling metallic touches. Lengths varied from high-high to ankle in most collection. Russet's Valentin Fyulinsky showed a marvelous black sheer gown bristled with bugles, rhinestones and black beads. Jean Louis Scherrer designed an extravagant coat trimmed with fox designed by France's Carven. Gaultier's Tom Ford dressed on the casual mood with long black skirts and sidekicked pants. Skinny belts, sequined sweaters, and plastic trimmed shirts, high and low-heeled shoes and casual and exciting wear. Colors ranged from vibrant to softest tones in velvet, satin, silk, and chiffon styles.

Ernest L. Luster, M.D.

Don't Luster: My husband is a physical therapist. Privacy for life? What shall I say?

Dear E.L.: Get out! If you are being abused, you must leave right away. If you feel that you cannot make the move for emotional or financial reasons, it is imperative to live in a domestic violence shelter for counseling. That innocent step or punch, often leads to serious injury and sometimes even death. Recognize the signs of domestic violence. Drinking and drug problems are not issues. Being aware of the "honeytrap" phase, during which the abuse seems to subside, can save your life.

If you find yourself in an abusive relationship, follow these steps. Prioritize: Get out of harms way. Seek support: Legal advice, or a government agency. Your privacy is important.

If you live with children, the secondhand smoke can cause serious respiratory problems, some of them fatal, as well as increased allergic reactions, ear infections and the same symptoms. For your family's sake please don't smoke.
