ICTN Closes Its Doors

By Amber Disney

Extra! Extra! Read all about it! ASI elections are underway and students can pick up packets today.

Packet availability starts Monday, Feb. 23 in the ASI office. The packets are due back in the ASI office no later than 5 p.m. on Wednesday, March 23. There will be two mandatory candidate meetings in April and then campaigning starts on April 17.

Voting begins Wednesday, April 27 and runs through Thursday, April 28.

Election results will be announced on Friday of that week. CSUSB students have the option of working a polling station, if they do not want to run for ASI.

Students working at a polling station will earn extra money. Those CSUSB students looking for a challenge can run for an office, get financial assistance through a monthly stipend and receive benefits from the gaining great experience.

CSUSB President Earl.Broadcast told attendees, “With the current funding crisis that the CSU system is in, the student fees increase in student fees, it is important that CSUSB students know they have the leaders they need to speak on their behalf.

“Local businesses were unacquainted with ICTN’s economically beneficial and high impact media approach Pringle said. Another complicating factor, Pringle said, was the time it took to produce PSA-like segments that were easily received by local businesses, which turned to the existing radio stations, magazines and newspapers that offer60-second advertising alternatives in the Inland Empire.

This was the only television network based in, and catering to, the Inland Empire and surrounding mountain communities.

President Albert Katt said, “CSUSB was uniquely positioned to serve as a catalyst for launching the regional cable network, which is the first in the nation to be initiated by a university.”

He added that “The State was able to secure the collaboration of the cities and their community cable channels to form a regional, non-profit public affairs television network that reached one million citizens on cable alone. To be sure, it was experimental, yet I believe the effort made a significant contribution to the region.”

Any students who have questions with ICTN need to step by their respective department as soon as possible, through, because this closing comes three weeks before the quarter ends.
Internship Opportunities

ACSU Student Ryan McLaughlin, landed an internship at radio station KZAZ.

The Summer Student Program, which uses KZAZ as a communication laboratory, has been viewed by many as a successful enrichment program for students and the community.

"It has been a great experience working with the KZAZ staff," said McLaughlin. "The experience has also taught me a lot about the radio business and has helped me develop my skills as a communication student."

McLaughlin plans to continue working at KZAZ throughout the summer, and hopes to use his experience to further his career in the field.

Unable to Step Up to Plate:
Softball Loses Doubleheader

John Jones Staff Writer

To be the best, you must face the bad and never get too high. The softball team did exactly that as they faced off against the University of Arizona Ladies on Friday night. After getting the chance to meet the previous high for the season, the team was ready to face the challenge of the slightly higher level of play.

The team offense was strong from the start as they scored six runs in the first inning. The second inning saw the team continue their dominance as they scored five more runs. The third inning was also strong as the team scored four more runs. Overall, the team had a strong offensive performance and scored 11 runs.

On the defensive side, the team was equally strong. They made several strong plays and prevented the other team from scoring. Overall, the team had a strong defensive performance and prevented the other team from scoring. Overall, the team had a strong defensive performance and prevented the other team from scoring.

The team played well against the University of Arizona Ladies, and they showed that they are ready to take on the challenge of the higher level of play. With their strong offense and defense, they are ready to take on the challenge of the upcoming games.
The NBA trade dead line has passed and some big names went to some new teams.

The Stern’s scheme in acquiring players seems only to benefit one of the NBA’s best-all-around talents, Sacramento’s Webber, who was traded by the Celtics a few years ago, has returned to Boston, and Baron Davis, the Hornets best player, is now going to drive the rock for the Warriors.

In the C-Wade trade, the Kings got Brian Skinner, Kenny Thomas and Corliss “Big Nasty” Williamson, for second string in Sacramento. Phelps definitely improved with C-Wade royalty, while shipping off three in three cities in the Kings.

The Sterns will need Webber to play big, but because of Alon “Black Hole” Payne’s presence, the team doesn’t actually get to see Webber with backing from C-Wade. C-Wade’s free power will help the Sterns in a few elastic divisional races for the playoffs.

Glenn Robinson was also dealt by the Sterns to Charlotte for two good shooters in Jamal Mashburn and Rodney Rogers. Playoff hopeful Philly is loading up 32 pounds for their three retreating to the year with another.

The trade deadline is at 11:47.

In a three-foone deal, Boston came to their senses getting Walker back, but two great veteran players in Gary Payton and Tim Griffin and journeyman Michael Stewart. These are the type of players who can change the year, but they have something in common.

In another goodgo, the Golden State Warriors acquired Baron Davis who can deliver the ball like a UPS driver during the holidays. Davis joins Jason Richardson a three point threat and the 2002 and 2003 back-to-back slam dunk contest winner. The Warriors are working on the full pips of a 16-36 season, but have a good plan to look around.

“We’re thrilled to be able to acquire a proven talent like Baron Davis,” Mullin said to the Sterns.”

The next move the Warriors made was acquiring two guards in the NBA and we feel that we will be a tremendous addition and we’re not only with what to bring to the table on his game, but also what he can to provide the continued development of our team.”

Many more trades transpired and enorningters there would be interesting games of sand at the beach. However huge these trade gains, only the “07 Cabbage have the face to get the distance, while everyone else seems to be retreating for the future.
