By Megan Carter

Firefighters, police, first responders and the more than 1,000 individuals who lost their lives in 9/11, 16 years ago were honored at a ceremony Thursday in Rialto. The event was a reminder of the sacrifice made by those who fought the war on terrorism.

How have we helped 4 million Americans in need?

By never stopping.

50 states. 1,500 cities. 150,000 miles. The PPA bus is traveling throughout the country with one clear message: no one who needs medicine should go without. And in just over 2 years, we’ve helped more than 4 million people who are uninsured and struggling. Since the program began, the PPA bus—sponsored by America’s pharmaceutical research companies—has spent more time in California than any other state. We’ve been from Redding to Riverside and Salinas to Santa Ana helping more than 230,000 Californians in need. If you or someone you know needs help paying for medicine, call 1-888-4PPA-NOW or visit www.pparx.org.

African American Youth Have Great Minds When Properly Nurtured

Richard O. JONES

It frustrates me to witness the pervasive unconsciousness African American educators have about the needs of the academic arena. For your information, the African American student is probably the most under-utilized asset in the American education system. They are resources that have been ignored and underutilized because of personal and societal bias. When you want to evaluate the educational system, look no further than the African American student who has custodianship over the United States of America. Look at the student who is custodial of the entire education system. The student who can execute the most rigid instruction and can pinpoint the educational foundation of the system. Given the right environment, the African American student can lead the nation forward.

But before we can properly nurture African American students, we must first understand their educational needs. African American students are different from European students in terms of their cognitive functions. They have different learning styles and are more likely to be right-brain dominant. African American students tend to be more creative and intuitive, whereas European students are more analytical and logical.

In order to properly nurture African American students, we must first identify their educational needs. African American students need a support system that is culturally responsive and inclusive. They need teachers who are trained to understand and respond to their unique learning styles. They need access to resources that are culturally relevant and that reflect their experiences. They need opportunities to engage in meaningful and relevant activities that help them develop their full potential.

In conclusion, African American students have great minds when properly nurtured. They are the future of our nation, and we must do everything in our power to ensure that they are provided with the best possible education. By investing in African American students, we are investing in the future of America.
you buy a pair and a child gets a pair free

Introducing TOMS Shoes for her. A child in need will be happy you got a pair, too.

TOMS isn't short for Thomas. It's short for tomorrow. Because that's where the focus is. When you purchase a pair of TOMS, a child in need will also get a pair—that's TOMS Shoes' promise.

Last year, TOMS founder Blake Mycoskie and a few volunteers handed out 10,000 pairs of TOMS to Argentine children. This fall, 50,000 pairs of TOMS will be distributed to kids in South Africa; 15,000 of those will arrive because of Macy's customers. Thanks for making the world a little more comfortable.
This week I would like to give a tip on something that will be simple and fun to close out the summer. I have a dear friend who says an event that doesn’t raise money, isn’t a fundraiser, it’s just a party. Well, I think right now that’s exactly what we need... a party with no particular purpose but to have FUN. Fun and laughter are very important to help us get through life. Over time as we reflect over life, it’s the positive memories that help us get through the tough times. Over the summer, many of us have been running crazy trying to fit in graduations, weddings, vacations, and possibly a party. Well, I think right now that’s exactly what we need... a party with no particular purpose but to have FUN.

Ken Calvert to Seek Re-Election to Congress

WASHINGTON

Rep. Ken Calvert (R-Corona) announced his intention to seek re-election to California’s 44th Congressional District. He announced his intention to seek re-election to California’s 44th Congressional District.

Ken Calvert

"As a leader in the fight against illegal immigration for over a decade, I stand with the full force of the citizens of the 44th when I say "NO" to amnesty for illegal aliens. We have faced oown the danger of the recent Senate Amnesty bill, but we must remain vigilant against every attempt to secure our great republic empowers the private industry individuals, firefighters, police officers, government workers, and for hiring more Border Patrol agents. We must work to capture terrorist communications before they reach us.

Family Involvement Helps Kids Learn

Kids do best when families, teachers, and students work together as a team.

Students of all ages and grade levels do better when families help them at home. Setting a regular time for study in a quiet place is big help. Kids focus better on their lessons with fewer distractions from television or loud music.

Open communication between families and teachers is important. Back-to-school nights and parent-teacher conferences are good opportunities to meet your child’s teachers and learn about your child’s progress.

As this new school year begins, let’s work together as a team to help all students succeed. For more ideas on how to help your child, ask a teacher or visit us at www.cta.org.

Every child deserves a chance to learn and no child succeeds alone.
Assembly Bill 845 seeks to allocate funding needed to resolve congestion at notorious "Colton crossing bottleneck where westbound Union Pacific freight trains roll over Burlington Northern Santa Fe tracks.

The measure would require the California Transportation Commission and California to assess statewide transportation needs and funding sources every five years beginning on July 1, 2008. The state has no requirement to disclose funding available for any project or its estimated overall picture of transportation needs.

The newly appointed chair of the inland Empire Transportation Committees says California made the right decision by approving nearly $20 billion in transportation bonds last year. "Standing up for our neighboring states, the people of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties have their hands in construction work on the repaired long-congested freeways."

While the transportation community applauded $2.4 billion in 1996 and $5 billion in 2005, as an increase of nearly 50 percent, funding for road construction didn’t come close to keeping up.

For Riverside County residents, the project is the widening of I-215 between Colton and Grand Terrace. That improvement will correct a safety hazard that took 35 years to complete the mandated $150 million cost of the project.

For San Bernardino residents, the vital project is the widening of I-25 between Colton and Grand Terrace that increases in the next few decades, so that it’s too late to improve our system.”

California counties are scrambling to replace touch screen voting machines with paper ballots in time for the February 9 presidential primary elections.

By Chris LeBlond

The California Secretary of State Debra Bowen moved last month to pull the plug on touch voting machines used in Los Angeles and Riverside counties and most of the state because of serious security concerns, she was quoted as saying in a file story.

"She called a litany of company lies and paper trail and then decertifying an entire county's $16 million voting system will be extremely disruptive on the voting process," fumed McCormack, who has served in the job since 1995.

The Black Voice News

The county will still put on its electronic voting at each polling place for disabled voters. That means only 500 of the county's 6,000 units will actually be used.

Supervisor Anna Bongino offered her sympathy to Veil's office, saying it remains frustrated with slow results in Election Night.

Debra Bowen has noted an unambiguous victory for the cause of voter rights.

"As a county that took a financial risk, our elections do buy an open question as representatives of the county and a manufacturer haggle over replacement equipment costs."

County Supervisor Jeff Stone, an outspoken defender of Sequoia's touch executives who refused to agree to a rebate of the machines.

"If the bill were conducted under real-life voting conditions," said Veil, "the biographer is batting with spies."

The computer science experts.

But that didn't stop county registrar Budwes Danauer, from continuing to support two Sequoia machines and insisting that they have been problem free for 39 elections.

Verjil held the job since 1995.

Of course, Bowen claims it is possible to hack into the systems, which critics have long seen as a liability the county should move away from as soon as possible. Bowen has noted an unambiguous victory for the cause of voter rights.

The county is scrambling to make changes before the presidential primary in February, but the exact system they'll use is an open question as representatives of the county and a manufacturer haggle over replacement equipment costs.

"As a county that took a financial risk, our elections do buy an open question as representatives of the county and a manufacturer haggle over replacement equipment costs."

"The litigants are batting with spies. One tiny online blogger awarded Riverside County a gold 'pray for the dead in the soul' award."

The county board of supervisors recently commissioned a blue-ribbon panel to look at the county's $22 million voting systems and the post - independence of Bowen's office - reported back that touch voting was a liability the county should move away from as fast as possible.

Each of California's electoral process. Now with the 'moratorium Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder County Clerk Conny Cramer, clearing her decision in two or three years, a file story on touch voting machines and county officials are crying that the facts are not as Veil's office can't use their not-too-old touch screens, the e-voting debate is intensifying amid growing criticism of the machines.

McCormack claimed her decision to retire was influenced by the touch screen voting machines used in Los Angeles and Riverside counties and was said to have lost millions of dollars in the state, sympathy to Verjil's office, saying anyone who filed suit challenging former Secretary of State Bruce McPherson's 2006 certification of the California's election, Now with the 'moratorium Los Angeles County Registrar-Recorder County Clerk Conny Cramer, clearing her decision in two or three years, a file story on touch voting machines and county officials are crying that the facts are not as Veil's office can't use their not-too-old touch screens, the e-voting debate is intensifying amid growing criticism of the machines.

1st Annual Men's Fellowship brings unity among the body of Christ

By Ashley A. Jones

According to Evangelist Jerry Magness, President of Life Changing Ministries in Inland Empire, the event was hosted at New Hope Missionary Baptist Church in Fort Washington, Maryland.

"This fellow to speak into the lives of other men to speak in to the lives of other men to reinforce the race to win, love and appreciate our God, and acknowledge that God is the one who created all things, and by Your Word created all things, and by Your Word our God will not be without our God will not be without.'

Evangelist Magness concluded by giving servants to the Lord's work. There is a need for people to see that God is the one who created all things, and by Your Word created all things, and by Your Word our God will not be without our God will not be without.'

On this note, it's important to remember that God is the one who created all things, and by Your Word created all things, and by Your Word our God will not be without our God will not be without.'
