Bush Chip Vetos Leaves 120,000 Inland Kids Behind In Health Care Care

By Chris Levister

The national program called S-CHIP is aimed at uninsured children.

The Children’s Health Insurance Program, known as Healthy Childrens in California, offers families meeting income criteria to buy insurance for their children. The program pays 75% of the cost of the insurance policy. The insurance companies receive a financial subsidy for each child enrolled in the program.

But some states, including California, have not expanded the program to cover all eligible children.

President Bush signed a bill last week that expands the program nationwide. The bill will provide federal funding for states that want to expand their programs.

The new law also includes a provision that will help states with high costs of providing health care.

For more information, contact your state’s health department or visit the website of the Children’s Healthcare Initiative: http://www.chhi.org.
Obama and Hillary

I have heard from so many of you who are frustrated, conflicted, and torn over the Hillary and Obama campaigns for President. On the one hand, you want Obama to be nominated, because that would allow for sincere and crucial debate on issues of racial equality, justice, and reform. I am sure you would all like to see the country move forward in a serious, intelligent, and non-partisan way. On the other hand, some of you fear that Obama's nomination would lead to a type of politics that you cannot support. You think that he would be too weak, or that he would not represent the issues you care about. I understand these concerns, and I share some of them. But I also believe that the choice between Obama and Hillary is not simply a choice between policies, but also a choice between leadership and values.

The previous post mentioned the importance of leadership in our lives. The truth is, leadership is not just about policy or programs. It's about vision, values, and integrity. It's about inspiring others to join us in the fight for justice, equality, and progress. And I believe that both Obama and Hillary have the potential to be great leaders. They both have a strong record of fighting for the issues that matter to us, and they both have a commitment to making the world a better place.

I think that the best way to evaluate these candidates is not to focus on their policies, but on their leadership style and values. Are they honest and trustworthy? Are they respectful and inclusive? Do they listen to diverse voices? Do they have a clear vision for the future? Do they have a commitment to making the world a better place? I believe that both Obama and Hillary have the potential to be great leaders, and I encourage you to carefully consider their values and leadership style before making your decision.

In the end, I believe that the choice between Obama and Hillary is not just about politics, but about values and vision. And I encourage you to think deeply about what you want from your leaders, and to evaluate them based on their values and leadership style. The choice between Obama and Hillary is not just about policy or programs, but about the type of leadership we want to see in our country.
FIBROMYALGIA

Dear Dr. Levister: I recently saw a television show about which my reasoning muscles ache are referred to as Fibromyalgia. My regular doctor told me all I need is a massage. Where I got the idea of fibromyalgia.

Fibromyalgia: Typically causes sore muscles and lack of sleep. The results remain unknown.

Professor Barbara Bailey, M.D.

Professor Barbara Bailey, M.D.

Fibromyalgia is a syndrome that affects many women. The specific causes of this condition are not known, but it is usually given a diagnosis of arthritis. The syndrome is characterized by widespread pain, fatigue, and other symptoms.

Some patients may experience fibromyalgia symptoms in response to certain events or situations, such as stress or injury. Others may experience symptoms in response to certain medications or environmental factors.

While the specific causes of fibromyalgia are unknown, researchers believe that it may be related to changes in the way the body processes pain signals.

Fibromyalgia is not a condition that can be cured, but it can be managed with a variety of treatments.

Dr. Levister, I wanted to ask you about fibromyalgia. I recently saw a show about it and I was told that it is a condition that affects women. Is that true? And what can be done to manage it?

"It was frustrating, so I blew up a little. But now, it's about taking the team that we have and not missing the boat," said Kobe.

Kobe went where few others can with his commitment regarding an employer. Although any fair minded individual would agree that Kobe's words echoed the feelings of most Lakers' fans. Yet, Kobe still had to make sure the public backing for altering the extremely obvious truth about the Lakers' organization.

To further exacerbate the situation, soon after Kobe's initial remarks, he was caught on tape confessing about the Lakers' organization. His late arrival and behavior following his assessment of team's situation.

The Lakers are all hugs and kisses during the summer and bodies have accepted his apology. Unfortunately, though, Bryant's mentality for help may have fallen on deaf ears.

The team resigned Lake Walton and Chris Minis and brought Derek Fisher back for a second year. But all reported attempts to sign a big name player like Kevin Garnett or Jermaine O'Neal were unsuccessful leaving the team basically the same as it was last season.

The recurring question of the day though was about Kobe's remarks. There had to be a new Galenace, but news drunk on asking the same question repeatedly. All of the players and coaches took a Barry Bonds' way and drove it right out of the park.

"There's a guy and the best in the business. There's a lot of love here," said Brian Cook.

"I don't think it's as big a deal as people are making it out to be. He was just talking about championships. This is the team we have and I think we do that," said Luke Walton.

Derek Fisher said, I'm not concerned about that. My focus is on this team. The guys on this team, we have been pretty good. There are times when we will be frustrated. We will focus and grow together as a team.

"So I don't think we will have any chemistry problems. I got a good guy on my team... the best player in the league. With the best player in the league, there's no team that we can't beat. Kobe has asked me to be a little more selfish with the basketball and I'm going to do that," said Lamar Odom.

Head Coach Phil Jackson said, "I have talked with Kobe. We talked about his trip and his experience this summer (U.S.A). I talked with all of the players. I did not get one guy who thought that anything that happened might be a problem for this team.

The Lakers have been eliminated in the first round in each of the last two years by Phoenix. Other than the addition of Fisher, it's practically the same team. When you ask Kobe about the Lakers this year, he's on the sports talk shows on fire with comment about the Lakers' organization.

Community Action Partnership of Riverside County sent five persons, including Esperanza Fire victim John Robinson of Banning, to a Disaster Preparedness Training in Sacramento. Mr. Robinson gave testimony as to how Community Action Partnership gave him assistance when he and his son lost their home in the fire last fall.

"We were not able to go back up to the mountains until Saturday and my home was in ashes," Robinson said. "My son and I lost everything we owned. I was only partially insured. I got a call from Alida Plascencia of Community Action Partnership. She wanted to know how I was and what could they do to help me. I had become two months behind with my mortgage payment. They helped me with my mortgage and more. Community Action Partnership helped pay my phone bill, propane bill, and other utility bills. Alida also gave me numbers to other outside agencies that helped me. Thanks for Alida and Community Action Partnership. My son and I are back in our new home."

Community Action Partnership of Riverside County provides disaster prevention and relief services as a part of its goal to strengthen family and other support systems. When disaster strikes, people have immediate needs, and Community Action is one of the places where those in need can find help.

The training was provided by the California/Nevada Community Action Partnership and California Department of Community Services and Development, Community Action Partnership of Riverside County representatives at the training were Lois J. Carson, Executive Director; Godwin Aimua, Energy Department manager; Alida Plascencia, Disaster Preparedness coordinator; Information Specialist and Mr. Richard Lemire, Sr. Public Information Specialist.
UCR Students Host Annual Party

By Haiphuong Hua

On Friday September 28, 2007, thousands of UCR students, old and new, gathered together at UCR’s 9th Annual Block Party Concert to kick off the new school year.

The open-party is free, allowing students to bring friends from other schools, making this event the Block Party the kick-off event of the year. The Associated Students Program Board (ASPB) hosted this event and brought three amazing acts, including the (pop rock band) Plain White T’s who performed their #1 hit on the Billboard Hot 100 “Hey There Delilah.” Students were anxious to see their favorite bands.

Hundreds of student organizations like fraternities, sororities, clubs, came out to sell a variety of food fundraisers for their organizations.
