Making a smooth sound, 6th Ward Councilman Mike Johnson said that the police and fire departments gained 85% of the city budget. “Laws can bore the ears of the working that is putting 65% of our city budget?” he exclaimed.

Wendy McCree took the opportunity to praise the City Council and Peter Fenneman and slammed the state for what she called “the failure to continue” by the State of California. Jan Michel, councilman-at-large for 5th Ward, said the problems with pensions is that City Attorney Fenneman did not bring forth legislation for the council to adopt last year. “My opponent has aligned herself with the City Attorney to continue the lawsuit, if it is not in the interest,” said Michielid. Betty Doe-Burton, a former councilwoman, squarely responded to Johnson’s charge and said that she originally ran for office because of a lack of leadership. Anderson, who was the 6th Ward Councilman and one of the few council members to take issue and take a stand against racism and an effort by Johnson to limit attendance at council meetings.

In July 1999, 99% of citizens and concern are safer for the public. The public health officials have worked with both national efforts and religious leaders to prevent these problems. The new automatic and ignorant food service system will continue for ten (10) years.

“Many of the people of faith are saying that they are tired of the same old song and dance. It is time to move on,” said Mayor Patrick Mike Johnson. “The ongoing concern for the health and safety of the residents in San Bernardino is to work closely with the Black Volney Foundation and the American Diabetes Association to find a way to prevent diabetes and help patients prevent it. We must continue to work on this important issue.”

Riverside Election Council Endorsements

In the past some of the Riverside City Councilmembers have tried to discourage public input at meetings which turn contrary to an open forum, where the public can voice their opinions to America. We hope that the next month of this public body will be more accommodating and "user friendly." We cite that because there are many important issues to address by a community that is diverse as any place on the universe. They come in all shades, sizes, stories, incomes, religious, experiences and political persuasions and the lessons range from business, environment, local taxes, jobs, traffic, land, air, population (growth) , education, health, police, corporations, media quality, and training. Now in order to address these complex issues any government body is going to need input from its citizenry. Having said that I am going to offer from the current field of candidates those three, I believe will help improve our quality of life in Riverside.

Damit Betts has continued to participate in the community he so eulogizes, but his efforts have been strangled by some. This is one of the qualities I also like in Donna "Doty" Michalka who is seeking the seat in the 5th Ward. She has a proven track record in the community and has shown to reach across cultural lines. I also like the approach to government of Rusty Bailey. Ward 3 candidate, and believe he will be able to garner the cooperation of others in helping the council fulfill its mission in tackling citywide issues. Even though he was not always agree with the decisions of Steve Adams he has helped push the council to revitalize its business districts through out the city. The mayor and city council members are the paid representatives of the city and they have given many examples to support that. I believe he is the candidate who will insist that the council members be oriented on that mission.

We are therefore recommending: Damit Betto, Ward 1 Rusty Bailey, Ward 2, Donna Doty Michalka, Ward 5 and Steve Adams, Ward 7.

SB: "When you turn the lights on the roaches will scatter"

During the height of the year long protest in Riverside where four white police officers shot and killed a Black teenager, Thomas Miller in 1999, the Rev. Al Sharpton came to town and stated at Life COGIC Church that when "you turn the lights on the roaches will scatter" referring to the uncovering of evidence during the investigation that led to four police officers being fired and the Miller family eventually being awarded over $30 million. The investigation occurred on many fronts including government agencies civil rights organizations, clergy, the family, the media, and the family’s coverage in the Black Voice News. It was during the year-long protest the police officers’ stories would change and we would shine more light on the evidence as it was uncovered.

We are now seeing the same illumination of the personal and political associations of San Bernardino City Councilmembers as the election draws closer. We have long suspected that there was a close working relationship between Joseph Turner, Chan Kelly, Wendy McCammack, Neil Derry and Jim Pennan and according to Roger Roberts, SB Sun newspaper journalist, there are documents that support that suspicion. Wendy McCammack (a Republican like Turner) voted in a meeting to support Turner. Neil Derry and Chan Kelly signed documents to circulate petitions to not run to illegal immigrants. It was Derry who said in an open city council meeting (and was supported by McCammack) that youth under 18 year of age don’t matter because they know nothing but should pay sales tax and shut up. It was Pennan who tried to block the Black and Hispanic vote by changing the voting districts from "wards" to "at large".

It was also Pennan who told a Hispanic family to shut up and go back to Mexico. It is in fear that they embraced them, but are trying to disassociate with any part of your information, Joseph Turner, Chan Kelly, the right wing groups have been on the same watch with the Ku Klux Klan. Now Turner says he is on the same page with the racist KKK but continues his position on statements as coming from the same play book, just like some of his supporters. Just like a leopards can’t change its spots, just as a horse can’t change its colors. The right wing analysts like the Reagan administration, Richard Clark, a Hispanic, will not undo their racist motivated actions. We acquire enough to know these endorsements are a political strategy to get votes. We know that if they are re-elected they will continue with their same “gimme one is mine and give one is your’s” attitude. People say politics makes strange bedfellows and the Turner, McCammack, Kelly, Derry and Pennan connection is out there, but then dumping Turner and helping in with Clark is.

For several years now, we have been hearing about the moved efforts in the past in the Republican Party for Black voices to be heard back into the fold of the party. The problem with that is the party and its organization of the people that they may have taken theBlack voices under consideration. The good news is that is increasing numbers of the people that that Black voice is heard. Some of these Republican were never committed to the theme of a true of a true need to the party and the community to the party but is now that the Republicans fight for the rights of Blacks and it is true that the Republicans fight for the rights of Blacks. Dogs Of The Ancient World

If you want to know who your dog is, you must understand its origin. Generally, there are two kinds of dogs: working dogs and companions. Working dogs are trained to perform specific tasks, such as herding, hunting, or guarding. Companions are dogs that are owned for their affectionate and loyal nature.

The earliest dogs were domesticated from wolves around 15,000 years ago. They were used for hunting and guarding. Over time, humans and dogs developed a strong bond, and dogs became valuable companions. The domestication of dogs allowed humans to live in closer proximity to each other and to enjoy the companionship of these loyal animals.

In the book "The History of Dogs," the author, R. A. Skelton, provides a comprehensive overview of the evolution of dogs. He discusses the different types of dogs, their behaviors, and their roles in human society. The book also includes illustrations of various dog breeds and their historical significance.

The book "The History of Dogs" is available in both digital and print formats. It is an excellent resource for anyone interested in learning more about the history of dogs and their role in human society.

The one certainty about being on top is that someday you have to fall back into the pack. That day came rather unexpectedly on Saturday for USC. Unable to pull away from lowly Stanford, missteps and lost opportunities combined to knock the Trojans from the ranks of the unbeaten and into an irresistible dogfight for the Pac-10 title.

Gone is the amazing 35-game winning streak, 24 straight Pac-10 wins, the number 2 AP ranking and likely its cloak of invincibility for a while.

Shock and Awe rained down on the coliseum. You could hear a pin drop amidst the 85,125 shocked fans. There was complete stunned silence when Stanford's Richard Sherman pulled down Tavia Pritchard's pass in the back of the end zone to tie USC at 23-23. When Stanford's Derek Belch booted the extra point through for a 24-23 Cardinal lead, the air left the building.

Saturday's Trojan debacle didn't just happen on Saturday. USC had been building toward this catastrophe all season long. It just happened that all of the major components of disaster aligned themselves while the Cardinals were in town. It could have happened to any of the past four opponents.

Let's be fair and give Coach Jim Harbaugh and his Stanford Cardinal team the credit that it honestly deserved for accomplishing something 35 other teams couldn't do. But at the same time let's be truthful. When a 41 point underdog wins, it needs a lot of help from the other team and Stanford got enough to get the job done.

Peter Carroll said as much during his press conference. "They just hung in there," said Carroll, "They just waited. We just made enough mistakes to let them."

This could have happened in either one of USC's four previous games. The Trojans have not been the prolific scoring machine of past seasons. After the season opener, Peter Carroll revealed the need for caution. Carroll talked about the turnovers and missed opportunities that prevented SC from betting the point spread on its first outing against lowly Idaho.

A similar pattern has continued through the following three games, with SC fighting through slow starts or other mistakes before gaining control of the game. USC's offense has failed to develop to its own previously high standards. They lack the deep threat receiver of past years. The running back by-committee plan hasn't produced a consistent running game putting more pressure on early season Heisman hopeful, John David Booty and a fledgling passing game.

As shocked and embarrassed as the Trojans are now, the loss to Stanford may become a season saving wake-up call. Pete Carroll will likely respond with some major changes this week. Arizona could be in big trouble on Saturday.

Loss Troubling forBruins

The Black Voice News

By Gary Montgomery

There were a lot of factors for the UCLA Bruins to consider when turning their attention to today's game against the Notre Dame Fighting Irish. One of the biggest factors was the team's recent performance.

With a redshirt freshman quarterback leading the team, the Bruins faced a significant challenge. The Notre Dame defense was formidable, and the UCLA offense struggled to find its footing. The game was a thrilling one, with the Bruins fighting hard to overcome the Irish defense.

Despite the efforts of the UCLA defense, the team faced a number of turnovers and penalties. These mistakes ultimately proved costly in the end. The Bruins were unable to overcome the Notre Dame defense, and the game ended in a disappointing loss.

The Bruins' defense, led by Ivan Hinderaker, was a bright spot in the game. Hinderaker and his fellow defenders fought hard to keep Notre Dame off the board, but it was not enough to secure a victory.

The Bruins' offense, led by redshirt freshman quarterback Ben Olson, was unable to find its rhythm. Olson had a strong game, completing 20 of 37 passes for 291 yards and two touchdowns. However, the team also had three interceptions and five turnovers in total.

In the end, the Bruins' 20-6 loss to Notre Dame was a tough pill to swallow. The team's dream of finishing the season strong was dashed, and the road to the Pac-10 championship became even more challenging.

Despite the loss, the Bruins remained focused on their goals. They knew they had to regroup and come back stronger in the next game. The team's leadership and determination were evident, and they continued to work hard to improve.

The Bruins' loss to Notre Dame was a tough one, but it was not the end of their season. The team continued to fight and work hard to achieve their goals. The road to the Pac-10 championship was not easy, but the Bruins were determined to make it happen.

The Cos, as he is affectionately known, has established a reputation as a hilariously warm-hearted storyteller. BLACK BOY

From the Novel by Richard Wright
Performed by Charles Holt
Adapted and Directed by Wynn Handmann

November 6, 2007
7:00 p.m.
University Theatre
U.C. Riverside

adapted for the stage from Richard Wright's autobiography, this premiere coming-of-age story traces the many directed struggles of one of the most important African-American writers of the 20th Century. Richard Wright shares with the audience the journey of growing up poor, being abandoned by his father, and facing Jim Crow prejudice, racial injustice, and self-discovering racism. Through his love for reading and writing, Wright ultimately finds the courage and power to rise above challenges and find his own voice.

This American Place Theatre adaptation is based on Richard Wright's semi-autobiographical novel, BLACK BOY. As he struggles with poverty, abandonment, and racism, Wright learns to read, write, and eventually becomes a powerful voice for social justice.

Event Planning

I am really getting excited as I embrace the feelings of Fall all around me. Going back to my youthful days of childhood, Fall represents different types of events, especially as they relate to families and communities.

Let's get excited about October and how it kicks off different types of parties and events. As we look towards the end of October, some will celebrate Halloween, while others will reflect on what's referred to as "Harvest." Either way you look at it, we tend to think of Fall colors as we anticipate decorating around the theme of pumpkins and the colors black, orange, brown & gold.

Many years ago I read an article by Shirley Dobson from Focus on Family where she talked about the importance of capturing memories within your family. She went on to state that memories will often times get lost through the years. So as we travel through this month, let's stop and look at various opportunities that we have before us to create and capture memories through events that start right in our homes.

You don't have to spend a lot of money, just be inclusive and have everyone in your family participate by contributing something to the decor of your family home and then take photographs that you can put into a scrapbook.

Oh yes, and nothing teaches our lessons like food! So whatever is in the "cook" in your family, make your family's favorite meal for the entire time of year and all of you will truly remember the occasion around the family table.

Give your all in all that you do. Then the PLUS won't just be about, it will be the difference.

Have an "Eventful" day!

Citations To Be Issued For School Fighting

The Riverside Police Department and the Riverside Unified School District are together announcing a new plan to discourage student fights at schools. RUSD School Resource Officers will begin citing "mental combats" with citations, or tickets, for participants and their parents to appear in court to address consequences of their actions. Cases will either be heard in Riverside Youth Court or the Riverside Traffic Court. Injunctions currently using this strategy, including the San Bernardino, Fontana and Rialto police departments, report a significant drop in fights on campus.

"The citation program shows we will not tolerate fighting in schools, and that there are real consequences for this behavior," said Riverside Police Chief Russ Leach. "We are very encouraged and supportive of the RUSD's citation program, which should reduce the numbers of student fights and make schools safer," said Dr. Kirk Lewis, RUSD Assistant Superintendent of Operations. "This should serve as a deterrent to kids who choose fighting as their primary means of settling a disagreement."

Serious or one-sided attacks (assault and battery) will still be filed traditionally through the District Attorney's office in the Riverside County Juvenile Court. This new program will be implemented throughout the Riverside Unified School District. The fight citations are not related to the District Attorney's gang injunction.
