Compassionate Conservative? We Need to Override the Veto

"I am a compassionate conservative and seek my information for decision making from God Almighty," professor Marianne Milligan began. Professor Milligan was the presiding official of the Riverside County Supreme Court and expressed his concern over the current state of the economy. He believes in providing food to students on the weekends. The student beneficiaries of the program are in need, and he feels it is his duty to help them.

Bernardino, a Christian, who with the stroke of a pen is withholding funds for children, Congress should cut off funds for this war. The Bible that he professes to honor, tells him to give good gifts if your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give good gifts to those who ask Him. What greater gift allows children to strive to become adults. Congress should give them more than health care. Now that they are off health care for children, Congress should cut off funds for their war.

The cost of the war with Iraq has cost tax-payers over several trillion dollars. In an article published in the New York Times, the writer asked an important question by way of a statement "What $2 Trillion can Buy?" When the writer asked if anyone had ever really considered what it can buy because when we in school no one ever taught us that war is expensive, in fact, the two most popular television programs were the "600 Thousand Question" and "The Millionaire." Back then, when children were asked for a million dollars, they would choose races and sports. Little did they know that the two choices would have different outcomes. In New York, it was reported that children would choose to get a million dollars a year in a train. This figure does not include the cost of the war in Afghanistan. The same Bible that he professes to honor, tells him to give good gifts to those who ask Him.

Jena 6: Stepping Up the Step in the Right Direction

The Black Voice News welcomes letters to the editor. Your letter must include your name, address and a daytime telephone number.

Nancy Sherrick, 6912, Macon, GA 31207: This is to your editor. We need to raise awareness of one of the most important issues of our time. The Jena Six have been anything but compassionate. Judge Mychal Bell was bound over to the 12th Judicial District Court on $45,000 bond, which was put up by a local businessman. The judge has a record. They apparently thought that he would not be able to get what he wanted. The more he spoke, the more he was charged with several crimes, including threatening the white student with a shotgun.

Jen is a compassionate conservative and seeks to override the veto.

In 1626, the Morrision Institute was founded by the Reverend Thomas Morris and his wife Mary. It was named in honor of her father, the Reverend Thomas Morrision, a minister and a respected member of the neighborhood. The institute was founded to provide education and religious instruction for the children of the community. It was located on a small parcel of land in what is now the city of Moreno Valley. The Morrision Institute was one of the first schools in the area, and it played an important role in the educational development of the community.

In 1849, the Morrision Institute was purchased by the Methodist Church, and it became known as the Methodist Institute. The name was changed again in 1858 to the Morrision Grammar School. In 1864, the school was renamed the Morrision Academy, and it became a co-educational institution.

The Morrision Institute was later sold to the City of Moreno Valley in 1907, and the building was restored as a community center. Today, the building is a museum and an educational resource for the community. It is open to the public for tours and special events, and it is a popular destination for visitors and locals alike.

The Morrision Institute is an important part of the history of Moreno Valley, and it is a reminder of the importance of education and religious instruction in our community. It is a testament to the vision of Reverend Thomas Morris and his wife Mary, and it is a symbol of the commitment of the Methodist Church to providing quality education and religious instruction for the children of the community.

Grocery shopping is picking up a sting in shoppers' budgets these days and it's not just the poor. Across the nation, food prices are rising, forcing lower class families in towns across the country to the courtroom.

When Rayos and a growing number of price conscious shoppers like them are sliding into the checkout line, filling out their grocery basket with items such as canned goods, fresh produce, meats, dairy and eggs, the list seems to be endless. Americans are becoming more price conscious as their pocketbooks have been reduced due to the recent increase in prices, experts say. Many are looking to higher priced discounters like Wal-Mart to gobble up market share.

People are making fewer trips down their aisles and spending less. Americans are making fewer trips down their aisles and spending less. Americans foods on a weekly basis to reduce the cost of their purchases. Many of them featuring low cost items such as chicken, eggs and bread.

In a nod to upscale markets like the supermarket industry's worst nightmare. Faced with soaring prices for foods and other long term effects to the economy. Fuel is needed to process the foods they use. The federal government says a family of four at $1,37 for a dozen of eggs today that would have cost $2.14 or 56.2 percent more.

The Labor Department reports current food inflation is running 1.2 percentage points above the rate of overall inflation. Nationwide food prices are up 9.3 percent since January. A year ago, U.S.-based shoppers paid 1.1 percent more for the same items this year.

"Inflation remains very low compared to other countries," said Whitt, a physical therapist.

"That's why these task force meetings are needed. They bring the various city and county task forces together to get a more thorough look at the different cities and counties. The city and county task forces are making fewer trips down their aisles and spending less.

"It's outrageous," says David Reyes, a former Riverside attorney, testified that she had represented Ricardo Ruiz for 4 years including his murder trial. The state of the case was eventually settled out of court and Ruiz was latter sentenced to life in prison.

"Chickens are just ridiculous and eggs are even worse," says Ms. Whitt. "I used to shop at Whole Foods and Bristol Farms for organic meats, dairy , produce along with novelties, but they're too much.

is unless you are the opposing team. Such was the case Saturday night when the Mustangs unleashed their full arsenal on cross-town rival Canyon Springs.

Rancho Verde (4-2) beat the Cougars (2-4) 68-12 in their Inland League battle. The Mustangs jumped out of the gate throwing and didn't stop until the third quarter when the game was pretty much out of hand.

Rancho Verde scored on their first two possessions driving the length of the field and capping the first scoring drive with a 19 yard run by Daniel Jenkins.

The Mustangs scored again on a 3-yard toss from quarterback Justin Salazar to Terrence Miller. Salazar threw another TD pass to Andrew Bouvay early in the second quarter to give them a 21-0 lead and they never looked back. Canyon Springs got on the scoreboard before the half with a 51 yard strike from Ryan Warren to Josh Taylor but much too little too late. "We really had a great week of practice and just came out here and let it all show," said Mustangs quarterback Justin Salazar. "If we can keep working hard, we can probably go all the way to a CIF championship, but for now we are taking it one game at a time."

Salazar was 12 of 19 for 189 yards passing. Andrew Bouvay had 5 catches for 84 yards and Terrence Miller had 3 catches for 82 yards. Running back Daniel Jenkins led the Mustang rushers with 62 yards. "We're not good yet, we have a long way to go, but I think we can be very good," said Mustang head coach Pete Kiffin.

The Cougars' struggles continue after opening the season 2-0, they have lost their last 4 games.

Chargers run over the Raiders But what's news about that?

The Black Voice News

By C. Grays and G. Montgomery

Staff Writers

The Chargers have without a doubt been the most analyzed team in professional sports this season. After starting the season with a disappointing 3-2 record the fingers were pointing primarily at Norv Turner. After firing Marty Schottenheimer and replacing him with Norv Turner it was a sure bet that the Organization had lost its mind. With 11 Pro Bowlers on the roster and coming off a 14-2 season under Schottenheimer, it was no question the Chargers were done.

But in just two short weeks the Chargers have started to look like last season's early favorite for a trip to the Super Bowl with a 43-7 win over the Eagles last weekend and Sunday's 28-14 whipping of the Raiders has brought the charges back to the top of those early season wars.

LaDainian Tomlinson rushed for 189 yards and 4 touchdowns. The team had 306 yards rushing their second best performance of the season. Phillip Rivers threw for only 156 yards, but had no sacks and only 1 interception. The Chargers' defense was stellar, sacking Dan Culpepper 6 times and picking off two Raider passes.

Sunday's victory made it 8 straight wins for the Chargers over the Silver and Black. The Raider's last win was a 34-31 overtime game in Oakland back in 2003. "We've had some good fortune that have happened to us. There had been times when the could've won the game, but I think just the little things that we did toward the end of the game that allowed us to score the touchdown or get a big stop with a sack or interception. Little things like that have helped us get over the hump where we can kind of control the game at the end of the game," said LaDainian Tomlinson.

Sunday's win gets the Chargers (3-1) a share of the AFC West lead with Kansas City and serves notice that they are ready to assume their rightful place in the division. There's some doubt about the emergence of this unit. It is difficult to understand just how good the game got out of hand. You know, maybe we're lucky that it wasn't worse because, they went right down the field on us. We were going backwards with penalties and turnovers. We were a bad ball team today," continued Kiffin.

Kiffin's words were scathing but true. The Chargers scored on their first two possessions putting the Raiders down 14-0 with 6:59 left in the first quarter. With 7:07 left in the half Raider linebacker Terrence Howard stepped in front of a Phillip Rivers pass and returned Rivers only mistake of the day for a 66-yard touchdown to get the Raiders on the board. The Raiders got the ball back with 4:46 remaining in the half a moved to the 1 yard after Culpepper completed a 31 yard pass to Ronald Curry setting up a potential halftine tie game. With the ball inside the half Raider linebacker Terrence Howard stepped in front of a Phillip Rivers pass and was sacked losing 10 yards. Culpepper was sacked again on the next snap by Shawne Merriman who knocked the ball loose. Shawne Phillips recovered the loose ball to end the half.

After impressive wins over the Broncos and the Raiders questions still linger, the Broncos seemed to have a horrible day at the office and the Raiders shot themselves in the foot all day. It might be smart to wait a few more games before betting the farm on the Chargers.

The 17 Annual Divas Simply Singing!

By Lea Michelle Cash

It is hard to imagine that 17 years has passed so quickly for Sheryl Lee Ralph's special evening of Diva's coming together to raise money for the benefit of organizations supporting victims of HIV/AIDS. It was then when it started in 1991, and we've been fortunate to support the worthy cause for seventeen years. And, during these years the many Divas to list have joined Ralph in raising their voices to inspire a wake up call to the forever growing AIDS epidemic.

Every year I have been simply speechless in the magical performances I witness, and this year on October 6, at the Wilshire Ebell Theater in Los Angeles, sold out one can believe it... was over the top of all others.

The reason why? Sharing the stage once again for the first time in years were the original Dreamgirls Jennifer Holliday, Lorreta Devine and Sheryl Lee Ralph from the hit Broadway musical, Dreamgirls. Jennifer Holliday belting out their famous song together, but listen, it is not until up close and personal can you understand the power of Holliday's voice, that's something only a true fan can understand the beauty of her performance.

Although each Diva's vocal performance was unforgettable, American Idol Paris Bennett, appearing on stage with her mother, Jamecia and grandmother, Ada Nobly, in their generation of female performers - with full-bodied voices was amazing to witness.

Jennifer Lewis added a hilarious comedy routine to her performance - gospel legend Linda Hopkins remarked the audience just why she is a legend. Sheryl Lee Ralph always delivers a beautiful heartfelt performance and this year the song, "I Could Make You Love Me" while educating the audience about the large numbers of women and young girls now affected by AIDS.

Sheryl Lee Ralph remarks, "The Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has estimated that one fourth of the approximately 900,000 HIV-infected people in the US, are not aware that they are infected. The number of HIV/AIDS cases in women is rising silently and notice has always equaled death when it comes to this disease. DIVA SIMPLY SING! is the longest running HIV/AIDS benefit concert in the country. Ralph has raised millions of dollars over the years and vows to continue the good fight to highlight AIDS awareness and to save the lives of many.

Next year, if you would like to witness the performances of some amazingly talented Divas visit the website of Divas Simply Sing.
Monterey Jazz Fest
Retains Its Magic for 50 Years

By Taylor Jordan

The Monterey Jazz Festival has always been about much more than music. Since its inception, the festival has effectively balanced presentations by premier performers and stately staging of the film, commercial and even weighty art, and it has amply offered intellectually stimulating conversations by such distinguished jazz journalists as festival co-founder Ralph Gleason at the beginning and Orrin Keepnews this year, who sat on a panel with his son Toby and others sharing anecdotes.

Fabled saxist Monty Sall returned this year as the sociopolitical commentator keeping people on their toes. And, for megaphone and storytelling fans from all over the world, it came to mean quite literally socially significant and insightful exchanges.

As identified in Gerald Wilson’s 2007 commissioned composition “Monterey Moods,” there’s a certain eloquence that draws people to the festival year after year. If one comes once, one comes again. Always.

Such concerts at Monterey, passionately presenting really amazing people with the universal truths of jazz, are the kind of music that makes one thank God it had been invented, and it didn’t.

There was the mysteriously unannounced group of violetry harmonica Diana Krall was the only female main-stage soloist present. She and countless others made music because jazz demands differences. Even more dramatically for the first time Friday night and second time Saturday, didn’t always dominate the magic of Monterey’s golden moments.

It didn’t seem possible that the festival’s golden moments could magically surpass its awesomely magnificent 50th anniversaries. And didn’t.

The happening set was too powerful for people to have much time to dance, but that didn’t stop whistle-blowers, arm wavers and seat dunkers from moving among the brilliance, even to the point of blocking view. The music all over the Monterey grounds was simply great. How good was it? A matter of individual taste and looks.

However, tiresome Tauermus was unquestionably the festival’s MVP.

The New Orleans trumpeter took his inimitability to levels normally reserved for movie stars and live on stage. His ability to perform Portnoy’s classic cornet piece seems magical and headlining pre-festival concerts.

Portnoy at the half festival were nearly repeated in Blanchard.

He conducted the emotionally resonant and supersensitive “A Tale of God’s Will,” with his MJF’s “Taste of Life” M. Cuban and Orquesta Sabor, LíderEsquina, and a band of music to every minute of the MJF’s 50th Anniversary All-Stars set featuring latest­comer Steve Coleman, quiet master Blanchard, Green as music director, Wilson’s “Monterey Moods” movement, freshly painted vastly diverse doitson and the Arena’s Jimmy Lyons Stage.

The music of the Monterey Golden Festival was marvelously good. How good was it? A matter of individual taste and looks.

However, tiresome Tauermus was unquestionably the festival’s MVP.

The music of the Monterey Golden Festival was marvelously good. How good was it? A matter of individual taste and looks.

However, tiresome Tauermus was unquestionably the festival’s MVP.

The New Orleans trumpeter took his inimitability to levels normally reserved for movie stars and live on stage. His ability to perform Portnoy’s classic cornet piece seems magical and headlining pre-festival concerts.

Portnoy at the half festival were nearly repeated in Blanchard.

He conducted the emotionally resonant and supersensitive “A Tale of God’s Will,” with his MJF’s “Taste of Life” M. Cuban and Orquesta Sabor, LíderEsquina, and a band of music to every minute of the MJF’s 50th Anniversary All-Stars set featuring latest­comer Steve Coleman, quiet master Blanchard, Green as music director, Wilson’s “Monterey Moods” movement, freshly painted vastly diverse doitson and the Arena’s Jimmy Lyons Stage.

 Sheriff Bill Bratton to reveal patterns of crime so that officers can be quickly and accurately deployed. Measurable benchmark tests, best practices and a system of checks and balances allow us to address the real issues of crime and better protect the community.

Levister: More emphasis on chain of criminal leadership!

Sniff: I intended to empower people from the top to the lowest level.

Levister: Like most American law enforcement agencies, training is a major concern.

Low enforcement is kind of an arcane art. In the 70s you gave a young recruit a badge, a copy of the Penal Code, a gun and put him on the streets. Some of those guys are still around. Today a recruit gets 30 weeks in training.

Sniff: The first thing I want to do is train our people and treat them as a group
as oppose to individuals. We have a duty to protect everybody's Constitutional rights. Just like the military we can do to standard.

Levister: What will the Riverside County Sheriff's Department look like?

Sniff: Ultimately I have a diverse, well trained, principled organization that defends the values and needs of the population we serve. We're a lot of good people doing good work out there that feel we can do a better job and we will.

Levister: Looking about what will cities law enforcement. We don't declare war on members of our own countymen because we could step on people and treat them as a group
as oppose to individuals. We have a duty
to protect everybody's Constitutional rights. Just like the military we can do

Senator McLeod: SB 343 Signed into Law

SAN BERNARDINO

Legislation authored by Senator Gloria Negrete McLeod (D-Chino) and signed into law on Oct. 5 will provide more transparency in the deliberations and decisions of local legislative bodies.

"Senate Bill 343, which was signed last week by Governor Schwarzenegger, furthers the fundamental purpose of the Ralph M. Brown Act," Negrete McLeod said.

The bill requires that any document designated as a public record, pertaining to an agenda item up for discussion or consideration at an open meeting of the body that is distributed to a majority of the members of a local agency within 72 hours of the meeting be made available for public inspection without delay.

"The last-minute release of agenda packet materials impedes informed debate," said Negrete McLeod. "SB 343 requires these last-minute documents be provided for public inspection as soon as they are distributed to the members of the body."

"The Brown Act was enacted in 1953 by the California State Legislature in an effort to safeguard the public's right to access and participate in government meetings within the State. The Brown Act requires, among other things, that local agencies post agendas for their regular open sessions in a public place at least 72 hours in advance to give the public a chance to participate in the decision-making process.

"Writings that are designated public records that are distributed during a public meeting shall be made available for public inspection at that meeting, if prepared by the local agency or a member of its legislative body, or after the meeting if prepared by some other person."

The legislation takes effect July 1, 2008.
Devo & Friends Come Together to Impact Starving Nation

Devo, on his third tour of the United States. He is still unable to travel with his family due to right travel restriction imposed on the majority of Haiti nationals. But one day, God willing, they will be able to experience the unbelievable Christian hospitality that I have felt in while visiting America," said Senat.

"I called to the stage an American record artist, Devo, who has been featured on TBN, BET, JCTV, and the Word Network has worked steadily since his return from Haiti to bring awareness to the dire situation the Haitian people face and the lack of resources they have. "By bringing together all my entertainment friends," states Devo, "we can use our talents to change a nation for Christ."

UCR Sets "Preview Day" for Oct. 27

The University of California, Riverside will hold its "Preview Day" for Oct. 27, from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the University's Student Commons, which opened to the public just this past month.

UC Riverside has been earning praise in the press. The 2008 edition of The Princeton Review says that, "With its beautiful campus, excellent learning environment, and caring professors, UC Riverside now stacks up quite favorably against more famous sisters in Berkeley and Los Angeles." The Chronicle of Higher Education reports that UC Riverside has, "a track record of helping its financially needy students succeed."

"We're extremely proud of these notices," said Merlyn Campos, the interim director of admissions. "UC has grown dramatically in the past dozen years or so and we're still growing. But we've managed to retain that intimate small college feel that makes our students -- regardless of their background -- feel right at home."

Alfonso Grei, a senior Honors student majoring in business, agrees with that assessment. "I came here because I wanted to get real world experience along with one-on-one interaction with faculty and teaching assistants." Grei added that once you find your niche, UCR "doesn't feel like a large campus any more. It feels much more intimate."
