IE Cities Falling While Elected Officials Bicker

Most of us are familiar with the story "Never Fiddle While Rome Burns". Some have argued that it didn’t happen but putting that aside we do know that Rome did burn and there were in a leadership position. Never was the leader of the Roman Empire during the period of 54 to 68 A.D. The point behind the story was Rome was in dire need of his unbridled attention to manage, give direction, and gather resources to extinguish the flames that were consuming the city; instead, Nero decided to entertain himself with music that was soothing only to him and his friends.

Here in the Inland Empire we have a worthwhile opportunity to build a model Empire if the leadership in the cities of Riverside and San Bernardino can put aside petty political posturing and do the people’s business. In one city the council of the past ignores and limits public participation in city affairs. The other city has in the past held the council meeting to give campaign speeches and take personal jabs at each other. I have witnessed these exchanges and read reports of others. None of these actions have delivered one thing to the table that would benefit the public. Even though I would like to call names I am going to refrain from doing so because we all know who they are.

With the growth in population of our area the leadership must focus their attention on economic development, educating our workforce, alleviating transportation congestion, removing things that contribute to gang violence, upgrading our parks to become family friendly, improving our streets, cleaning our air, revitalizing our inner cities, reducing crime while making our neighbors’ lives safer. I have noted public trust in the government and the list could go on and on. We have the natural resources to turn this into an "Oasis of Greener" with the secondlargest underground water in the area. This can become the land of "Milk & Honey" if we work together and not bicker with each other. We must do this for ourselves and for the future of our children. We have the educational institutions, all we have to do is to teach the students. The work has been laid out to do it. We have the airports, all we have to do is to develop them. We have the experience in our leaders, all we have to do is to lead. We have the taxpayers, all we have to do is to spend it. We have the opportunity in all of the above to do it in set priorities. All we have to do is to make the work and come to work to together.

If Nero had put aside his music and paid attention to saving Rome his legacy would be different. To the elected leaders what will your legacy be, one of a Builder or a Bicker?

Dear Bill Fletcher Jr.

Covina, CA

I find myself astonished, featured on the front pages of the newspapers, as the inappropriate conversation of Senator Hillary Clinton and the President’s former columns. The President. Don’t tell me that you haven’t seen it, because I am sure that someone has not having been cast and with a total of 100,000 copies it is still sold. Senator Clinton is not only the delight of the nation, she is the delight of the nation.

Bill Fletcher Jr.

Covina, CA

I am concerned about global warming. I have heard and read repeatedly that without action, we may face catastrophe. I am disturbed that we have acknowledged this as a potential environmental crisis. I am disturbed about the lack of action that we might take to stop this potential environmental crisis. I am disturbed about the lack of action that we might take to stop this potential environmental crisis. I am disturbed about the lack of action that we might take to stop this potential environmental crisis. I am disturbed about the lack of action that we might take to stop this potential environmental crisis.

I have been concerned that we have not taken the necessary steps to reduce our carbon footprint. I have been concerned that we have not taken the necessary steps to reduce our carbon footprint. I have been concerned that we have not taken the necessary steps to reduce our carbon footprint.

The problem is not just the United States; it is a global problem. We must act together to address this issue. We must take steps to reduce our carbon footprint and mitigate the effects of global warming.

Barack Obama: Whites’ Great Hope?

Barack Obama is not the same as voting for Hillary Clinton. Many whites say they will no longer vote in the primary, and they do not want to support a candidate that they believe is not representative of them. They will more than likely get the nomination.

Background Preparation For Leadership

A hate crime is not easy to prove, in part because students don’t always admit to being victims. The onus is on the prosecution to prove the mindset of the teens involved. Department of Justice guidelines call for the prosecution to prove that the hate crime was motivated by something that is considered hate speech, such as race, religion, sex, national origin, or sexual orientation. But, at my hospital, every attending surgeon had his own way of handling “the bullets” from a gunshot wound. One theory is that music stimulates the part of your brain that controls emotions. The hard and smart workers will be the ones who go after the job. Youth unaccustomed to working hard and smart might begin looking for an easier path. The results may comfortably be handled at a fourth gear level. For the remainder of the cure, the greater your chances of not being involved, the way to balance multiple spinning plates, the harder it is to get people to work together. The Black teens against the attempted hate crime, although the victim was beat with a baseball bat. Are hanging nooses actually a way to protect your identity? Saluting Our Vets

Air Force Captain & Surgeon Bailey, MD Has Done It All

In Black Americas p.371, Bailey states: By means of the Berry Plan, physicians interest were allowed to choose the time they went into the military. My choice was at the conclusion of my internship because this provided the time needed time to get my work (e.g. license) and other "stuff" as a captain. While at the military base in San Antonio, Texas, a Military classroom and I went to a Staff to Staff. Despite being in uniform, they would not serve as "colored people". This took something out of me, as shown in no longer continuing to study for "wings" as a Flight surgeon. It also started driving home the reality of the permanence of racial hatred and the necessity of preparing for it.

In the Philippines, I was in charge of the outpatient department, including some Filipinos physicians and tropical medicine. In medical school, I had learned to pay much attention to tropical medicine. I thought it was a waste of time. I taught that every field of medicine is important if it was to be a good general practitioner.

A Filipino physician under my command was excellent. They had been trained to perfect their observa tion, touch, smell, hearing, and perhaps note stethoscopes applied to diagnostic and treatments. Therefore, I spent time listening, whatever it was to be used to treat patients that instead of using stethoscopes I used 20%. I saw 81. Serving so many patients exposed me to all spectra of medi cine and that was helpful in exposing me to the final field of specialization.

Orthopedics fascinated me because it was the only specialty for which I could get paid. Its variety seemed infinite. So, when ready about it, I started my off duty hours helping the orthopedic team the wounded soldiers coming in directly from Vietnam to Clark Field. The pleasure of learning while doing became a reference which has persisted at an extremely high level in the present. Orthopedics suited my taste for curiosity and doing research on unique problems. Besides, it was so unorganized that it provided me immemorable opportunities to "create" at its natural.

It was in the Philippines that I again came in contact with the Filipinos "White" people and being among them of been allowed to relax and really get to know them. On base, however, I was alone because there were only two or three Black officers among whom I barely saw. Yes, I made several friends with Whites - friendships lasting up to the present. Still, the tension inherent in racism was palpable immediately upon entering to the USA as with the stories of walking down the street with a White girl next to me and her boyfriend on the other side. While in the Air Force I learned the significance of having a "Presence" giving off the essence of being right next to another even though you are standing at a distance) and a "Command Appearance" (the way you carry yourself comes across to respect you and not "mess" with you). To main tain respect requires also taking the language of the listener.

There were many intricate features of the military as in having subordinates do what you commanded them to do. However, I did not like the formality associated with the structure (especially in order to satisfy the grip of Euro-American leadership. Thus, I left after two years and one of the best years I would not want to do it again.

American Legion Post 710 Honors Vets and POW's

The Black Voice News

BAY BERNADINO

Senator Gloria Negron McLand and Assemblymember Winifer Arima Carter spoke of the history of Negro's Day recently at the Westside Morris American Legion Post 710 and thanked their servicemen for the contributions to the community.

Guy Winton Morris was a local veteran who went into the military but was probably drafted. He died in the Vietnam War by mistake that was the near sanser he was back hill one of the founders of the Post and an outstanding citizen. Morris served as the South Pacific, India and died in a military hospital.

After WWII 1945-1946 they decided to form an American Legion Post. They needed a name and the family of Morris labeled to his name. Jack Hill was now in town along with the leggionary and the Guy Winton Morris American Legion Post 710.

James Guy was the only black member of the American Legion Post 106 in Redlands. He volunteered to help the post pay its bill. It was actually the one who got the ball rolling. Prior to that Blacks were not nationally accepted in every group but Redlands accepted him.

So the historically White American Legion Post 14 in San Bernardino was not open to black members but helped in the establishment of Post 710.

No event is complete without thanking the POW's, said Commander James Love.

Other highlights were presentation of colors and the recognition of the POW's.

California community property laws automatically give your spouse an interest in all property that is acquired or owned during marriage. Also, when a divorce becomes final, your former spouse is automatically prohibited, by law, from inheriting any property that you owned before or during your marriage. However, if you are separated, or you are still married, you are free to do this in the privacy of your divorce proceeding. To reduce the risk of a divorce, final, you may want to exchange your real estate tax liability for the real estate tax liability of your former spouse.

If you have adopted children, then you have to check to make sure that they are treated as you desire in your estate plan.

Children are as much a part of your family should have a guardian named in your documents.

For a second year San Bernardino County Supervisor Gonzales is helping local churches and community-based organizations feed disadvantaged families during the Thanksgiving holiday.

Supervisor Gonzales, along with San Bernardino County 2nd District Supervisor Paul Biane, allocated $5,000 to purchase 500 turkeys for City of Colton, Rialto and San Bernardino residents.

"The churches and groups that prepare meals need the food as well as the spirit of our community; they give hope to our residents who need food," said Supervisor Gonzales. "I am fulfilled that I have this opportunity to help our faith and community-based organizations help to meet during this holiday season."

Turkeys were delivered today to:
- Church of All Nations (San Bernardino)
- City of Colton, Community Services Department
- Door of Hope, Faith and Charity Church (San Bernardino)
- Ecumenical Christian Fellowship (San Bernardino)
- Kiwanis Club of East Rialto
- Lighthouse Learning Center (Colton)
- Minnesota for Jesus Christ Church (San Bernardino)
- St. Paul African Methodist Episcopal Church (San Bernardino)
- San Bernardino Schools
- Annunciation Orthodox Church (San Bernardino)

Supervisor gives turkeys to help residents enjoy the holidays during this holiday season."
