"The state highway patrol announced that it will construct a new specialized unit to manage situations involving armed gangs and illegal weapons."

Sponsorship Needed

The $1.2 million campaign - funded by the state highway patrol - will provide training to patrol officers, who will be equipped with specialized weapons and vehicles.

Arms Island

The recent Bobby Brown arrest has sparked a debate about the need for specialized units to handle armed gang situations.

Get Involved

The campaign is expected to be completed by the end of the year, and it is hoped that it will lead to the creation of a new unit.
A Tale of Two Cities, written by Charles Dickens in 1859, is a classic of English literature and was completed in less than a year. The story of Darnay and Sydney Carton, who are both very different in their personalities but share a great similarity in their personal frames of reference for me. It is, however, a book that shares the same theme of redemption and the evolution of the character's moral code. It is a remarkable social commentary on society and the nature of human nature. The book is divided into seven parts, each focusing on a different aspect of life: love, wealth, friendship, and so on. The story of the two cities, Paris and London, is told through the eyes of the characters, providing a vivid picture of the social and political life of the time. The book is a powerful commentary on the importance of personal responsibility and the need for social justice. It is a timeless story that continues to resonate with readers today.
Rhythms In African Rhythmic Communication

African music and dance are not only entertainment but also a means of communication. The use of rhythm, melody, and beat are essential in African musical traditions. These elements help to convey messages and express emotions.

The drums are a significant instrument in African music. They are used to keep time and often serve as a unifying force among the group. The beat is a crucial element in African music, as it helps to create a sense of unity and togetherness.

In African societies, music and dance are often used to celebrate significant events or to convey specific messages. For example, during a wedding ceremony, music and dance are used to express joy and happiness. Similarly, in times of mourning, music and dance are used to express grief and sorrow.

In African music, rhythm is not just a beat, but a complex interplay of sounds and rhythms. It is a way of creating a sense of movement and life. The rhythm is often used to convey a message or to express an emotion.

In conclusion, African music and dance are a rich and diverse tradition that has been passed down through generations. The rhythm is a vital element in African music that helps to convey messages and express emotions.

robes. The first modern urban team was launched by Laod American Federal Commission (Bea Bandy) when she founded the center's first BOM unit during the 1980s riots.

While violent crime rates in many cities are falling, the gang crime is on the rise. In many cases, the gang is involved in drug trafficking. The Commission's approach is to target the root cause of gang violence.

In a recent statement, the Commission emphasized the importance of community involvement in addressing gang violence. They highlighted the role of educators, community leaders, and law enforcement in creating a safe and healthy environment for young people.

The Commission's initiatives have been widely praised for their effectiveness in reducing gang activity. They have received support from various organizations and individuals who recognize the critical role of community involvement in combating gang violence.

The Commission continues to work towards its goal of creating a safe and inclusive community for all residents. They encourage everyone to join in this effort and to support their work in making a positive difference in our neighborhoods.
We are in December and officially in the holiday season. This season represents so many things different cultures. What many don’t realize is that while all cultures celebrate, religious belief or back, typically this time of year brings out the best in mankind all over the world. Without God, nothing matters. As Christians, we see this time as an opportunity to build new relationships, schools and churches for catering and honored families, whatever your needs are. I can say that Muslims are customer friendly too. The food and fruit are of the highest quality. Ms. Flores told of Ramadan while the food was fresh and that you get your money’s worth while driving. Hello Moreno Valley!

Moreno Valley is a follow-up on the grand opening of Jasons Deli, the opening went great all day. Many of the community leaders from near and far were in the Inland Empire for the first franchise in the state of California. You Can Do it!

This holiday season is known as the “Festival of Lights.” It is in tribute to the purification of the Temple of Jesus Christ. December 25th is observed as Christmas and is celebrated on the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ around the world. Although there’s been debate as to when his “actual” birth date is, this day is observed. December 25th ticks off Kwanzaa. This holiday was founded by Dr. Maulana Karenga in 1966 to reaffirm the cultural achievements among African people for the Reproductive. 3nn ameans of news principles:

• Justice
• Self Determination
• Collective Work & Responsibility
• Cooperative Economics
• Purpose
• Patience
• Promise
• Kwanzaa
Wherever your faith and belief system may be, each man and woman must take a moment to reflect on all that he or she is thankful for this holiday season. To reflect on all that we are thankful for this holiday season.

We thank you for supporting those that have worked to make this a better place.

Give yourself all that you do. The happiness you get from the “I am the different” is.

January, marveling at the beautiful trees on a church, I asked, “Ralph, why is there always so much fog?” Ms. Felix, her eyes sparkling, “I never knew my father,” she said. “But I did meet a great carpenter a long time ago. And he still helps me out of the problems. I have all I do to see friends, to make me what I need to know.” And he does. This was my prayer for a long time not his exact words, but I never knew my father, “he said. “But I did meet a good carpenter a long time ago. And he still helps me out of the problems. Dorrell Never Had A Chance

By Gary Montgomery

UCLA's dismissal of Head Football Coach Karl Dorrell Monday as it was expected. It had been widely rumored that Dorrell could be replaced as soon as Monday with USC, as both schools have been interested in hiring him. UCLA would need to beat USC at least six or seven times this season to have a chance of winning the league championship. But he also had to do well in the press and Dorrell's departure always meant that he deserved to see what could be done with the other recruits, which is one of the reasons for him leaving.

Quintero said he left a lack of consistency in the program that attributed less to the loss of lo (. an, and late in the season against Notre Dame, and chronic season ending.

San Bernardino County Supervisor Dennis Hansberger, SANBAG President and Mayor of Barstow Lawrence Dale, Barstow Lawrence Dale, and BAG President and Mayor of Rialto, are participating in the 1-10 Freeway expansion celebration. The area for the event is along the 1-10 freeway.

By almost any comparable metric, Dorrell did a fine job. His first duty was to "clean up the mess." It's easy to see that "Cleaning up the mess" is code for getting rid of the potential or perceived troublemakers or those who generally exhibit some quirkiness that would give the freeway widening would not be possible without the money from the voter-approved half-cent sales tax approved by voters in 2002. The sales tax was to fund transportation improvements in the region, with $1 billion allocated to the SANBAG district.

Hansberger praised the project as "an exciting new corridor" that would improve transportation in the region. He said the project was a "priority for the county" and that it would help to improve traffic congestion.

The upcoming lane opening was scheduled for this weekend, and Hansberger said the project would help to improve traffic congestion in the region. He said the project was a "priority for the county" and that it would help to improve traffic congestion.

Diana Ross

The concert ended too quickly for my taste. By the time she sang, "Touch Me in the Morning," I knew it was over. I was unable to catch the entire show due to my own nature. She has been a constant factor in my life, and I was sad to see her go. However, her performance was amazing. She truly brought the house down with her emotional and powerful vocal performance.

When Diana took her stroll down memory lane with her Supremes and solo classics, it became a sing-a-long for the fans. The fans loved her every move, tossing her big hair and four wardrobe changes, creating her name almost a rumor. It was history in the making, for some, a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to witness and hear up close and personal, an old family friend, the diva who has been named #1 on VH1's "The 100 Greatest Women in Rock and Roll" listings.

Her performance at San Manuel Indian Bingo & Casino featured not only classic songs from her solo and Supremes career, but also from her latest album, "I Love You." This is her first studio album in over seven years, in which the entire album was dedicated to personal, an old family friend, the diva who has been named #1 on VH1's "The 100 Greatest Women in Rock and Roll" listings.

The fans could not get enough of her. They were screaming her name almost nonstop. More than 6,000,000 Californians don’t have health insurance

Over the next few weeks, we’ll bring you some of their stories...

My name is Michelle Reid. I have health insurance. As a SEIU member and long-term care provider, I get the medical coverage I need to see a doctor, fill prescriptions, and in an emergency, even go to the hospital. But this story isn’t about me. It’s about my 23-year-old daughter, Maia. She’s one of the more than 6 million Californians who don’t have health insurance.

Two years ago, Maia was pregnant with her first child. But at five months, she miscarried and ran into some complications. Without insurance, she went to a county hospital, only to be transferred around to three different hospitals in pursuit of the recommended care. Doctors needed to remove the fetus and, at the third hospital, finally performed the procedure.

But the surgery didn’t fix her problems. After the operation, a deep infection developed in her uterus. She spent the next several months in and out of urgent care clinics, alternating antibiotics and potent pain killers. Nothing seemed to work.

Maia has always been independent and motivated, so it didn’t surprise me that through all this, she kept working full time. She was vying for a promotion — a management position that came with health insurance. Eventually, she got it. With the new medical insurance, she was able to see a specialist who informed her that the untreated infection had done serious damage to her uterus. He said she would need a hysterectomy. She was crushed. At 23, she found out she would never have children.

It was a blessing that she got the treatment she needed. But the news that she would never have kids sent her into depression. She began taking anti-depressants, but they didn’t seem to help enough. She became lethargic and moody and eventually unable to work full time — meaning again, she’s without medical insurance.

Maia is a victim of our broken health care system. For Maia, and the millions like her, we need a solution. Now.

We can spend years arguing over the perfect plan, meanwhile the uninsured will continue to suffer. Today, we have an opportunity to reform our broken system and make a difference in millions of lives.

Let’s work together with the Legislature and Governor to start insuring Californians now.
