Operation Phoenix Comes to SB’s Westside
SAN BERNARDINO - Operation Phoenix, the most acknowledged interruption and intervention program fighting homelessness in the Westside of San Bernardino. The first community meeting stressing there is much to do to.

Looking at the outcomes and the success of the original Operation Phoenix, Elise Bard, the program director and the first thing after the meeting, is to hold a Block Party to meet the neighbors and at the same time give the information that will help them to fix up the outside of their homes and to clean up the neighborhood. Consultant Elvis Van Holten holds community meetings often, Johnson said that he receives the new favorites it is not something that could be the model of a better treatment and interruption .For us the work and believe others have to play for it to work. The event is turned into a reality, "said Johnson.

Bard said that Anne Street Park will host the mobility event. It will be large enough to have eight classrooms and rooms for children.

Bard said it will take everyone and enlisted Andy Brown, the former head of the Delmar Heights Community Center to come out of enemy and help the girl back on track.

"I'm told that the program will be handled in the way Operation Phoenix 1 and 2 will be monitored to ensure the confidentiality of the service. The idea is that we will have a more effective form of assistance for those in need. I am still looking forward to the event and I know that it will help a lot," said Bard.

Former Consultant Betty Anderson said that the was concerned there was not a long term commitment since the funding ended in 2008. She said that she was assured that it would be handled by the government and that the city has to make changes to the city's programs.

Student Faces Suspension For Assault and Battery

The Black Voice News

By Ashley J. Jones

Deborah Watson, a disturbed mother of three, was arrested after her four girls and her fourth girl, a 4-year-old girl, and a 5-year-old boy, were arrested after their home was searched.

According to the allegations, the two siblings were seen playing with a gun in the car. The girls were observed playing with a gun in the car and it was taken from them, but later it was found that the girls were not involved.

"I stand charged with a number of charges," Watson said. "I stand charged with resisting an officer, and it is a very serious charge.

Watson has faced many challenges in her life, including drug addiction and being a drug addict. She says she has been in and out of rehab, but she is trying to overcome her addiction.

The girls were arrested after a description of their activities. They were charged with child endangerment and possession of a firearm by a child.

According to the city's police department, the girls were arrested after being observed playing with a gun in the car.

The girls were placed in the care of their parents, who are currently working to secure their release. The police department said that the girls are being monitored and that they will be taken to the hospital if needed.

We've Come This Far By Faith - The Obama Factor

By B. C. Hopkins, Publisher
Special To The Black Voice News

As a salutary commentary to the current election cycle, I think it is important for those of us who voice support for Barack Obama to bring to mind a few people who are the forebearers in the black community. What is Obama's role in that context? What else do we need to consider when we cast our ballots?

I think of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. What is his role in the context of the Obama presidency? Who are the other great African American leaders who can be termed Obama forebears? What are the lessons Obama can learn from them?

Coping with Holiday Stress

Dear Dr. Levister: The Christmas holiday is my favorite time of the year. I can't believe we are already approaching the end of December. The holiday season is always full of joy, but it can also bring stress and anxiety for many people. For me, the holidays are very stressful. What can I do to cut down on the stress and still enjoy the season?

Dear G.P.

It is possible to survive the holiday season with fewer headaches. Here are some tips to help you cope with the stress of the holidays:

1. Practice mindfulness: Take time each day to focus on your present moment and let go of any thoughts that may be causing you stress.
2. Set realistic expectations: Avoid setting unrealistic expectations for yourself and others. Remember that it's okay to say no and prioritize your own needs.
3. Take care of yourself: Make sure to eat well, exercise regularly, and get enough sleep. These things can help improve your mood and reduce stress.
4. Stay connected: Stay in touch with family and friends. Social support can help you feel less isolated and more supported.
5. Consider professional help: If you're experiencing significant stress or anxiety, consider seeking help from a mental health professional.

Remember, it's okay to ask for help when you need it. Taking care of your mental health during the holidays is just as important as taking care of your physical health.

Best regards,

“Life is Better With Art In It” Is Theme for Poster Design Competition

PHOENIX

There was concern why California Garden was selected and the Back-to-School Napkin Poster Competition winner. According to Mr. Fernandez, the school has the potential to win another competition and create awareness. “The competition is an opportunity for all students to create their own art,” said Fernandez. “We want to see how students can use art to express themselves and create awareness.”

In the competition, students were asked to design a poster that promotes the importance of art education. The posters were judged based on creativity, originality, and the ability to convey the message effectively. The winner of the competition was the student who came up with the most creative and thought-provoking design.

The Back-to-School Napkin Poster Competition is an annual event hosted by the California Garden Middle School. The competition encourages students to express their creativity and promote awareness of the importance of art education.

The Back-to-School Napkin Poster Competition is an opportunity for students to showcase their artistic talents and spread awareness about the significance of art education. The competition aims to inspire students to pursue their creative passions and encourage them to participate in art-related activities.

He said that two individuals had Webster enabled them to do so. The injunction was taking place. That no enforcement involving the injunction had not been enforced as of yet. By police officers and no charges had been filed against anyone in relation to it, although the granting of the preliminary injunction by Riverside County Superior Court Judge Edward D. Wehrer enabled them to do so. Notices of the injunctions were still being served, he said. Several people in the audience including Steve Avila disagreed that no enforcement involving the injunction was taking place. He said that two individuals had been stopped and handcuffed, beaten on the boards. Gonzalez said that the Eastside in all of 2006 according to the CPRC's annual report covering that year. It's not clear if any complaints have been filed since. People in the audience brought up several complaints but when asked if they had filed them through any mechanism, they answered, no. Rucker-Hughes said there were different mechanisms including the NAACP open to them. If there's a complaint, please report it to us," Rucker-Hughes said. This process would be open up to anyone regardless of ethnicity or race. Regardless of race, if someone is taking the letter of the law too far, then speak up," Rucker-Hughes said. Some residents said they felt unsafe to both gang violence and the actions of the police department which would enhance the injunction. I want to feel safe. I want to feel safe with the police department," a woman calling herself Gwen said. She and other family members spoke with Gonzalez a long time afterward. Gonzalez said that there was a process in place for individuals to appeal their inclusion on the gang injunction. Community activist Christine Duran disagreed, telling the officers that they had asked prosecutor Jack Lucky who authored the injunction whether that was the case. I asked Mr. Lucky specifically, he said, "Once on a gang list, you can't get off it."

The crowd roared when Lambert offered a personal tribute: “I'm sure glad to be on your good side,” he said referring to Brown’s take no prisoners editorials published weekly in the Black Voice News. “I'm glad I'm not among that crowd of 'Muppets' you like to opine about.”

“The Black Voice serves as an important social and political pivot point that is a major presence in the city. It's something that everyone pays attention to not just the Black community but those at City Hall and elsewhere,” said Riverside Mayor Ron Loveridge.

“He's my neighbor, my mentor, he's my rock, said San Bernardino City Councilman Rikke Van Johnson. He shares his knowledge and wisdom so easily. Through the Black media he's created a powerful magnet for change. From politicians to business moguls, people are paying attention to the Black community like never before, thanks to Hardy.”

“Hardy Brown is a man for all seasons,” said Southern California Edison VP for Equal Opportunity Frank Quevedo. “He recognizes we are all unique. He respects the ways in which we differ. Simply put he is a champion for all of humanity,” as he presented a $25,000 check to the foundation.

The Foundation provides scholarships and internships, as well as youth workshops dedicated to educating Inland residents about Black history and culture. What started out three years ago as a fundraiser for ALS is today so much more, said Brown-Hinds, “it's a spirited holiday party, community celebration recognizing our longstanding commitment to cultural leadership and a tribute to the unwavering stewardship and humanitarian contribution Hardy brings to the people in this room and around the region. Quite frankly he's a marvel.”

“It feels good to look around and see Nancy Wilson and so many of my friends coming together in my honor. Who would have thought, the Lord who sent so much anger would use me as an instrument of illumination for our people.”

WordUp Productions Interviews Catherine Hicks

The Black Voice presents Sam Hernando

WordUp Productions is interviewing Catherine Hicks who plays the Mother on the TV Series, "Heaven's." The interview took place at the "D" Street Studio. Words Productions is the home of "The Word" in the TV series program hosted by Father Michael Manning, SVD. Father Manning made his Sam Hernando debut with "Run for Dagger" programs in 1972. Words Productions presents a Catholic perspective on life's issues and challenges, while building bridges among people of different denominations and faiths. The TV series brings fresh insights to the Bible and yet faith fill experience. The shows produced at Father Manning's facilities are aired weekly at 8:30 on TBN (Trinity Broadcast Network) as well as the Armed Services Network to several Catholic Armed Forces around the country.

Last week's (December 5, 2007) show was especially interesting with Monsignor Filibagha telling of her forecasting and what faith fill understanding during the Rwandan massacre in 1994. Monsignor's parents and three brothers were butchered along with over one million others in a period of three months. She herself escaped by hiding in a toilet with seven other women for 91 days. For more information on the show please feel free to contact me at 909-383-4333 ext. 9.
