We've Come This Far By Faith - The Obama Factor

President Obama’s victory not only allows him to continue the great work he started four years ago, but it also provides him the opportunity to ensure that the American Dream is realized for all Americans. This is a historic milestone that has been a long time coming.

As a son of the civil rights movement, President Obama has dedicated his life to making America a better place. His leadership has inspired millions of Americans to believe in a future where we can all achieve our full potential.

President Obama has proven that with hard work, dedication, and perseverance, anything is possible. He has shown us that even in the face of adversity, we can overcome our challenges and achieve our goals.

As a community, we must continue to support President Obama in his efforts to make America a better place. We must work together to ensure that the civil rights movement continues to move forward.

In conclusion, President Obama’s victory is a testament to the power of hope and the dreams of our nation. We must continue to work together to ensure that we build a better tomorrow for all Americans. Together, we can make America a place where everyone has the opportunity to succeed.

"For the day!! I will praise God's name in song and glorifying Him with thanksgiving." Psalm 106:3. What was the last time you sang praises to God? Do you have a church or spiritual service you belong to? I sing and even Health Services.

I don't talk about it. I spoke with the same manager and just told him all and loud that I want to leave.

I want to be able to work.

The only sure thing about me is that I don't want to change. Newness frightens them... they realize that newness frightens them... they must change.

I contacted the number for the corporate office and was called back by the same manager that I had spoken with in the beginning.

It's not only my world that is changing. They go figure . My grandfather was there working to make sure that everything. I was proud to see the Brown sisters taking the ball and running with it as others help us.

I want to be free to evaluate. They cannot be threatened by change. They realize that newness is inherent in life. But if they themselves are going to evaluate, they must change. But they aren't diminished by change—they are free to evaluate, in spite of or as a result, in their own terms. These are the most powerful of the people, and if we are with them in some sense. With God's help, I want to be more like them.

For every thing abiding for this the injunction was taking place. They have played tough teams in all kinds of adverse situations and done real well. You can't play Duke and North Carolina like they did and not come out with some lessons learned," said UCLA Coach Ben Howland.

Tiny Davidson (3-5) gave both Duke and the Tarheels a tough go nearly upsetting both. The Wildcats lost to Duke by only 6 points and to No. 1 North Carolina by only 4 points. After giving the Wildcats a West Coast showcase the Bruins could hardly afford to lose to them.

Yet, UCLA (18-1) found themselves by as much as 18 points during the first half behind the tremendous three-point shooting of the Wildcats.

Davidson Sophomore shooting guard Stephen Curry entered Saturday's game averaging 26-points as a game. A freshman Curry had 123 three's and finished second in the nation in freshman scoring by Texas Kevin Durant now with the Seattle Supersonics.

UCLA started to pickup the defensive pressure late in the first half. UCLA Sophomore Russell Westbrook led the effort. His defense on Curry started the ball rolling and by halftime the Bruins had cut the deficit to 4-points.

"Westbrook did a great job of playing defense on me. He upset my balance and threw my shooting rhythm off," said Curry. "It's very disappoint­ment to have this opportunity and not come away with a win."

In the second half the 17,440 mostly Bruins fans in attendance got to see the kind of defensive performance that took the Bruins to consecutive national championship title games. UCLA outscored the Wildcats 45-29 in the second half to win 75-63.

planned injunctions and that it had taken the department several years to put together a case for the current injunction.

"It didn't just happen overnight," Torres said. "It's been in the works for several years."

Questions about any future gang injunctions could only be answered by the District Attorney's office, Torres said. Gonzalez said that the Eastside Killa was targeted through the injunction because it was the largest gang in the city. It was being implemented now, even though violent crimes including gang-related homicides in the neighborhood have been reduced, because it took several years to complete the work done to implement it.

He said his officers would only enforce, the "spirit of the law" but if there was a lot of shootings in several months, then enforcement of it would be more to the letter.

"We will take everybody in for everything aiding for this injunction," Gonzalez said. Gonzalez said that the injunction had not been enforced as of yet by police officers and no charges had been filed against anyone in relation to it, although the granting of the preliminary injunction by Riverside County Superior Court Judge Edward D. Wehrer enabled them to do so. Notices of the injunctions were still being served, he said.

Several people in the audience including Steve Ariva disagreed that no enforcement involving the injunction was taking place. He said that two individuals had been stopped and handcuffed, broken on the boards. Davidson opened up with and barrage of three-point shots that scorched the bottom of the nets.

"We new this was going to be a tough team to play. They have played tough teams in all kinds of adverse situations and done real well. You can't play Duke and North Carolina like they did and not come out with some lessons learned," said UCLA Coach Ben Howland.

"One thing you can say about this team is that they never stop believing in themselves and give up. To have 18 and 18-point deficit and win by 12 is a 30-point turnaround. (Now) we just have to figure out a way to do that without getting so far behind," said UCLA head coach Bob McKillip.

The Wildcat's last to Maryland in the first round of the NCAA tournament last season and added the touch early season schedule to give the team more experience against big name opponents. "I think we learned a lot of lessons that we would not have learned if we had not played these games," said Wildcat head coach Roger McClanahan.

The crowd roared when Lambert offered a personal tribute: "I'm sure glad to be on your good side," he said referring to Brown's take no prisoners editorials published weekly in the Black Voice News. "I'm glad I'm not among that crowd of 'Muppets' you like to opine about."

"The Black Voice serves as an important social and political pivot point that is a major presence in the city. It's something that everyone pays attention to, not just the Black community but those at City Hall and elsewhere," said Riverside Mayor Ron Loveridge.

"He's my neighbor, my mentor, he's my rock, said San Bernardino City Councilman Rikke Van Johnson. He shares his knowledge and wisdom so easily. Through the Black media he's created a powerful magnet for change. From politicians to business moguls, people are paying attention to the Black community like never before, thanks to Hardy."

"Hardy Brown is a man for all seasons," said Southern California Edison VP for Equal Opportunity Frank Quevedo. "He recognizes we are all unique. He respects the ways in which we differ. Simply put he is a champion for all of humanity," as he presented a $25,000 check to the foundation.

The Foundation provides scholarships and internships, as well as youth workshops dedicated to educating Inland residents about Black history and culture.

What started out three years ago as a fundraiser for ALS is today so much more, said Brown-Hinds. "It's a spirited holiday party, community celebration recognizing our long-standing commitment to cultural leadership and a tribute to the unswerving stewardship and humanitarian contributions Hardy brings to the people in this room and around the region. Quite frankly he's a marvel."
