Is Moreno Valley
Leadership trying to run
Black Owned Businesses out of the city?

In light of the recent police raid on Black owned businesses, this question has come to my mind: why is the leadership of the city trying to run African American businesses out of business?

The New York Sun contacted Rev. Wright about Obama's recent comment about the need to support the African American community. Rev. Wright said that he was pleased with Obama's comments, but he also said that he was concerned about the lack of action on the part of the government.

Joseph C. Phillips

In his book, "Fertilizing," John Brown's Body tells a story of how the Civil War began with a single act of violence. It is a story of how the war changed the country forever. The book is available in all major bookstores.

Commentary from Obama's New Pastor: Rev. Jeremiah Wright is Standing on the Right Side of History

By Ed. Oma

We live in a time when the nation is divided, and the future of this country is uncertain. In these challenging times, we must remember the words of Rev. Jeremiah Wright. He reminds us that we are all connected, and that our destiny is intertwined. We must work together to build a better future for all Americans.

Remembering Rev. Whetzel

In January of this year, I was moved to see the Rev. Horace Whetzel speak at the Riverside Church in New York. He was a man of great faith and dedication. His words continue to inspire me as I continue in my work to make the world a better place.

"GLAM ODYSSEY" In Moreno Valley

By Victoria Taylor

With the bad weather and work it is hard to get people to come out and support the board of directors of the Moreno Valley Black Chamber of Commerce. The Fashion Fair Show is known for traveling all over the world. The event was Thursday evening April 10, 2008 at the Moreno Valley Conference Center coming up on the 32nd year of the Nigeria’s Ebony Fashion Fair. The event was brought to Moreno Valley by the Moreno Valley Business Expo Chamber of Commerce, the Fashion Fair was known for traveling all over the world was caught Thursday evening April 10, 2008 at the Moreno Valley Conference Center. The event was caught Thursday evening April 10, 2008 at the Moreno Valley Conference Center.

The atmosphere was calm and exciting, but nothing could prepare the audience for a presentation that was evolving Disney’s community into Culture week with its introduction and interpretation of a fashion show.

If you’ve never been to Disney Fashion Fair you were about to get thrilled. From the past the present, outfits that reflect black history. The first show at Disney was held last year in Atlanta and this year the show will expand to many other locations. Disney Fashion Fair has such a sense of “We believe in creativity, in the arts, in fashion, and design and that is why we use the Jasper House Community Center to the value sponsors of the MVBCC. Oh as the Denver and Chicago show. We are so glad to be able to support the Ebony Fashion Fair with Disney Fashion Fair.”

Models on the runway.

There was an introduction, with their wonderful talent and dancers, to the audience, and captivated with their wonderful skills and dance moves. The fashion show started with a fashion show presentation. The audience was captivated with their wonderful skills and dance moves.

Testosterone for Women’s Libido?

Dear Frustrated!

My wife is in her 20s, and then starts to decline.

You wife’s sexual desire on testosterone spray did not provide sufficiently strong evidence.

One of three different doses of testosterone, libido improves a women’s sexual satisfaction as much as a spritz of testosterone on the belly.

A few years ago, I was referred to a just released Australian-based study of 261 women ages 35 to 46 who had low blood levels of testosterone and admitted to having a decrease in sexual appetite.

During the 12-week study, the women randomly received either the fake drug or treatment with one of three different doses of testosterone, which are: Climatic, and more, although there are many others.

Last week I mentioned three of the features of Hebrew poetry, which are predominant in the Hebrew Bible. One of these was: Syncrinity, which is again the style which is often used in the Qur’an. Another is: Climatic, and this is an innovative use of biblical poetry to help you understand some concepts better.

Climatic is defined as a climax or a summary. The other example of unusual parallelism with the climax (peripheral parallelism) one might call a second line of emphasis. It is a way to subtly have a better use for the animation of the story, as if it were told in the Martha Stewart Show. One thing to remember is that the climax is often much more important than the rest of the story to the same extent.

I’m sure glad I’m not the one with the responsibility of writing and telling the value of Women’s Libido. An option is to value it if it is available to you if you are capable and you choose to use it. It is not available to you unless you are capable and you choose to use it.

In the first step is to determine if your options are available to you if you are capable and you choose to use it. If they are, you should decide if you are willing to invest in your life and property and totally psychologically and financially unable to take all of it as a safe bet.

With your options decide if it is worth and if it is in your interest to pursue them.

This line of your speech is the focus of the non-profit sector and organizations think about hosting "destination" meetings and events. The concept behind "destination" meetings is that the event should not just be about networking, but also about creating a memorable experience for attendees.

The sponsor's role is to make the event appealing to potential attendees and to ensure that the event is successful from a monetary perspective.

As I was reading Mr. Browne's "Religious" about the "C.A.D." God sent his way to bring us into your eyes. I was away aware of the beautiful angel God sent his way so many times every other day to answer my late husband in the Air force when I really received the word that God would never leave you alone. And now sometimes when I have some challenges with my health they appear from nowhere and I feel right there. It is not easy to deal with what it may seem with standing and walking, but as Mr. Browne said thank God for the "Angel.""

If you travel to a certain city, there are certain customs and laws appropriate for that country, things that come up things that come up more often. Even if you are going to a country where you will need to speak another language you should make sure you are prepared.

In honor of Earth Day, The Black Voice News has "Gone Green" by offering information to help conserve nature's resources.

The Role Lighting Plays as You Work to Conserve Energy in the Home

(AFA) - There's been a lot of talk lately in households across America about cutting back. The national debt is in the trillions, the sub-prime mortgage mess has left more than a million homes in foreclosure, gas prices are at an all-time high and budgets are tighter than ever.

If you had to choose a buzzword for 2008 it would be conservation. As people react to the financial hardships they're all of a sudden facing, they're looking for ways to conserve money and resources. One of the easiest, and most obvious places to cut back is on the amount of electricity you use in the home, starting with the lightIng.

Here are some ideas to get you started:

1. Replace your old incandescent light bulbs with more energy efficient ones.

The Department of Energy reports that we spend, on average, 5 to 10 percent of our electric bills on lighting in our homes. In some regions of the U.S. this amount can be as high as 25 percent where energy efficient ones.

2. Use low voltage lighting. Installing low voltage lights will make a huge impact on your energy consumption.

3. Use less energy by using energy-efficient lighting products, log on to the American Lighting Association's Web site: www.americanlightingassoc.com or call 800-BRIGHT-IDEAS (800-274-4484).

4. Stop Wasting Energy. Get into the habit of turning lights off when you leave a room. Not just lights, but fans, television sets, radios, etc. Not using what you don't need will make a big impact on your energy consumption.

5. Find and eliminate "phantom loads," items that use energy even when they are turned off.

(ARNA) - Do you often sit in rush-hour traffic, engine idling, going nowhere fast? Is your commute being longer than it used to be? Because of all the other cars on the road. America's urban commutes now waste a total of 1.2 billion hours each year - some 36 hours each year. Traffic, according to a study released last year by Texas A&M University's Texas Traffic Institute.

Not only is that wasted time you could have spent doing something constructive, it's a major problem for the health of our communities. idling cars use a significant amount of our roadways leading to global warming which has become, in its first 11 years of major issue of international pro-

6. Avoid sitting in traffic. Some newer models of navigation systems have real-time traffic traffic information available.

7. Reduce your commute. If you work in a large city or even a small town, there are ways you can reduce your commute. Consider going to work by public transit or carpooling.

8. Use mass transit. If you live in an area where public transit is available, use it as often as possible. The more cars removed from the road, the better.

Fifty College Students Spend Spring Break Traveling Proposed High-Speed Train Route to Demonstrate Support

Riverside
Most students go to Cancun or Palm Beach or somewhere else exotic for their spring break. Instead, roughly fifty students from CALPIRG Students Chapters are spending their spring break traveling the high-speed rail route by car and bike to build public support for the impending project. From San Francisco down to San Diego, the students are stopping in major towns and cities along the way, meeting with public officials and talking to the media about why they believe high-speed rail is essential for California's future transportation needs.

"Our goal is simple," said Toby Callen, one of the UCR students who helped organize the five-day trip. "We're here to demonstrate the widespread student enthusiasm for high-speed rail."

Mayor of Riverside, Ronald O. Loveridge, joined the students for their stop in Riverside, while Julian Hernandez along with a fellow staff engineer for CH2M Hill, the company constructing the Riverside portion of the rail, rode their bikes with the students to the center. As the students rode bikes around town, they handed out bumper stickers that said "I'd rather be riding high-speed rail" and even donned a homemade chain of train cars, decorated for each major city along the route, to raise awareness and support for high-speed rail.

For more than a decade, the California High-Speed Rail Authority has been planning for a high-speed rail line to connect California's cities. California suffers from some of the worst traffic congestion in the nation already, and our population is expected to grow from 37.5 million people to more than 50 million people by 2030. Additionally, 41 percent of California's global warming pollution currently comes from cars and other transportation. California's commitment to reducing global warming pollution will be difficult to meet unless we build more and better alternatives to driving.

High-speed rail would remove up to 92 million car trips off the road annually and reduce the need to expand expensive roads and airports. A measure already on the ballot in November 2008, if passed, would authorize up to $9 billion in bond revenues to start laying the tracks.

"For spring break many of my friends are in Mexico, but not me!" exclaimed UCR student, Reyna Acosta, "Instead I flew up to Sacramento to join CALPIRG students from all across the state on a road trip to share our enthusiasm and educate others on the importance of the High Speed Rail! I believe the Rail is California's answer to traffic by leaving our time, money, and the environment."

Good Hope Movement is at it again. Good Hope Missionary Baptist Church, is to give our young people alternatives on Friday Nights instead of going to the night club or to the party when so many negative things can happen, young people are being invited and challenged to fellowship in the house of the Lord.

Friday Night Live will address some of the issues that young people are dealing with in the 21st century and will offer them positive alternatives on how to live.

Our goal at Good Hope Missionary Baptist Church, that these young people are reachable so we have to make a better effort to let them know that someone does care. Our ultimate goal is to keep young people away from drugs, alcohol, cigarettes, gangs, negativity, poor self-esteem, poor value systems, teenage pregnancy, and hopelessness and give them something in exchange that is positive, Jesus Christ.

Our young people must be exposed to the positive things in life: positive role models, positive education, spiritual knowledge, field trips, arts and crafts, Christian education, church participation, family setting, a positive value system, and fun games and what better place to be exposed to these positive elements of life that in the Church.

The last Friday Night Live was standing room only; the public is invited. For more information call Rev. Ronald Chatman at (951) 345-7216. We are a church that is real, relevant and reachable. Good Hope Missionary Baptist Church is located at 2287 Mountain Ave., Perris, CA. Phone: (951) 657-3650.
