Black Teens Feel the Chill of "Bilingual Preferred"

"Don't speak Spanish... can't get the job?"

When San Bernardino High School seniors Jessica Jackson, Ashanae Brown and Kymien Hawkins decided they wanted to work in nutrition, they left nothing to chance. They knew the job plan would require positive attitude and communication skills.

When they went to the job market, they were told to start their new job search right away.

Complaint Filed Against Police Review Commissioner

By Mary Shelton

A complaint has been filed against one of the Community Police Review Commission members by a community resident, according to statements received by the Black Voice News.

According to a letter submitted by Ana boa Police Department Sergeant and executive member, Todd Billingsley to the CPCR's current Executive Manager Kevin Berg, Commissioner chim West should be investigated by the commission and be voted out. West said, as a member of the community, she has not been satisfied with the way that the reforms have been carried out.

Signed statements from commissioners are supposed to be read during the open meeting of the CPCR next month and a vote to ensure that this is true.

The complaint was filed by a community resident who is a supporter of criminal justice reform.

h 10th Annual Latina Conference Luncheon

By Marcel Cuffia

The Riverside Convention Center was the place to be April 25th as leading Hispanic figures came from all over the state to attend the 10th Annual Latina Conference Luncheon.

According to Tilton, the reforms have significantly reduced the state's prison population, from 173,000 to 170,000, by

Is to reduce recidivism by providing training and jobs, and setting up a new facility in San Bernardino County. It is in these facilities that many of the training and apprenticeship programs will be available to inmates prior to their release into the community. The plan to reduce recidivism by providing training, including skills, counseling, and jobs, is consistent with the needs of the community.

Tilton said that the 13 benchmarks contained in the legislation significantly increase the state's workforce. "We don't have a prison issue, we have a wage issue, and we are all working together for public safety. San Bernardino has already joined us," he said.

Tilton said that he has been asked to continue to provide resources to improve public safety and to continue to support the implementation of AB short-term and long-term solutions.

Because of Tilton's decisions, the prison population in 2007 was very comparable to the way. At 400,000 inmates and programs, placed, cleared, out inmates, the gains, much smaller than, and driven by a risk assessment tool and added to a research component," he said.

Tilton said that he is against the early release program and waive to do away with the smallest risk and frequent flier inmates; these people who come in 3 months at a time returning soon after their release. It is a goal to link inmates to the community. "I ask disciplines, when they return, that they have their release back. How do we do that?" he asked. According to Tilton, the future is the future. They will be stationed, each prison will allow for the development of more in the worst-prone facilities, and when you get to the worst facility, you have to understand, it will act foolishly. How they can have the facility to work during the day, giving them money, to give, to be the group, the bill and a bank account. "When they get in 20 days they will have enough to buy a car and maybe some, they will have a chance," he told the group.

Countrywide B - A Hearing draws homeowner's wrath

By Chris Reiter

Countrywide homeowners and community leaders delivered the Bank of America's copy of its proposed takeover of troubled Countrywide Financial Corp. as part of a series of public hearings in L.A. on the proposed deal.

Citizen shareholders came to the hearing to express their concerns, including championing for homeowners in a "crushing moment" of the housing market. The Reserve Board Countrywide bought the bank and put it under the Reserve Board.

The Federal Reserve held hearings in L.A. this week on Bank of America's planned acquisition of troubled mortgage lender Countrywide.

And a significant number of citizen groups were invited to speak about the Countrywide's loan delinquency.

If the explosion pays money, Bank of America would become the country's largest mortgage lender in addition to the nation's largest commercial bank.

Bank of America's shares closed 18 cents lower at $24.97, wiping out all of the gains it made last week.

Jesus Christ never could have been elected as president of the United States of America

By Richard O. Jones

As the world watches one politician after another consider the democratic nomination of Jesus Christ, there is another side to this coin. The unassailable credentials contained by millions of devout followers in the person of the Messiah has all the makings of a new sect of Jesus Christ, that is strongly supported by the secular world. The new sect is not a cult, but rather one that has grown close to the Jesus that's been revolutionized by a progressive political party. It involves a coalition of progressive political groups, labor unions, and other organizations that are working tirelessly to bring the new Jesus Christ into the political process.

Jesus Christ is popular among the religious right, but he also has a following among secular people who believe in the power of God and the potential for all people to live in harmony. He has been mentioned as a viable candidate for the presidency on at least four occasions, and his name has been discussed in various political circles.

Jesus Christ has never been seriously considered for the presidency, but he has been mentioned as a viable candidate for the Democratic Party nomination. His followers believe that he could unite the country and bring about a new era of hope and change. They see Jesus Christ as a symbol of love, compassion, and justice, and believe that he could bring about a new era of political reform.

Jesus Christ's followers believe that he is the only one who can truly lead the country, and that he is the only one who can bring about the changes that are needed. They believe that he is the only one who can truly understand the struggles of the people, and that he is the only one who can truly represent the people.

In talking to medical students during my orthopedic surgery rotation, I was impressed with the differences in medical education today. The need for the improvement of the medical education system is very apparent. The overall quality of education is much higher today, but there is a need for the improvement of the medical education system.

Creating a 'Health Portfolio' For Family Reunions

Parents who are looking for easy and fun ways to gather information about family medical history can now do it by participating in the National Family History Month campaign. During the month of April, families and friends can use the Family Health Tool to gather information about family members.

The gatherings are fun and give relatives plenty of time to talk about health issues, answer questions and sample family foods. So, what better time to talk about family health?

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) encourages families to work together to develop personalized health strategies, establish a Family Health Portrait and use the information to help prevent conditions like heart disease, diabetes, cancer, meningitis, cystic fibrosis and sickle cell disease.

The Family Health Tool was developed by the National Library of Medicine in collaboration with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. It provides information about family history and health.

Determing What Is Important

April is National Poetry Month: POETRY in the BIBLE is a 4 part series. The main division of the Old Testament is written in poetry. The series includes entire books or sections of the Bible, such as the Song of Solomon, Psalms, Lamentations, Large portions of Job, Isaiah, Jeremiah, and the Minor Prophets are also poetry or sermon-like in form and content. Many scholars consider the Book of Job to be not only the greatest book of the Old Testament but also one of the greatest poets in all time. The history of the Bible is therefore the history of great poetry. The theme of the three main divisions of the Old Testament is the Law, the Prophets, and the Writings. This series continues in the next issue.

Olympic Hopefuls Impress At Mt. Sac Relays

By Gary Montgomery
Staff Writer

A collection of the world’s best athletes and Olympic hopefuls made their way to Walnut last weekend for the 50th running of the Mt. Sac Relays. This year’s event was loaded with athletes tuning up or attempting to qualify for the 2008 Olympic Games.

Among the stars were local favorites Joanna Hayes, 400-meter hurdles gold medallist and Riverside North grad; Tyree Washington, former La Sierra and Riverside Community College star; Pomona’s Torri Edwards; just to name a few.

Southern California’s premier track and field show has provided fans with an opportunity to see track and field’s greatest athletes perform for a half century. The 50th running was no exception, featuring athletes representing every level of competition from elementary, high school, community college, university, professionals and disabled athletes competing throughout the weekend.

With the Olympic games only three months away, athletes were ramping up to prepare for an ever increasing schedule of competition as they head toward the Olympic trials to be held in Eugene, Oregon in June.

Porto Rico native Torri Edwards ran a 2:03.00 in her signature 200 meter dash. "I feel really good, coming here," said Edwards. "I love getting to come back to Mt. Sac. It gives me a chance to run in front of my family and that’s always fun. I grew up just over the hill and I have a lot of good memories from here."

Riverside’s Joanna Hayes, the 2004 Olympics’ 400-meter hurdles champion recovering from an injury plagued season felt much the same. "I love coming back to Mt. Sac. It’s no pressure and great competition," said Hayes. "I’m just trying to loosen up. I feel a little tight right now, but this is a great place to test yourself without a lot of pressure. I’m 31 now and trying to take it one day at a time. I’m sticking to my regiment and doing all the things I am supposed to do. My goal is to get ready to defend my title. I want to repeat."

Hayes ran a leg on the 4x400 and the 400 relay teams. Her Bob Kersee All-Stars team anchored by Allyson Felix ran a 43.12 in the 400 and 3:28.33 in the 400.

Felix, the women’s 200 meter silver Medalist at the 2004 Olympics, ran an unofficial time of 5.8 leg in the 4x400 and a 49.5 in the 400. "I’m just trying to have fun and get used to my surroundings." said Felix. Felix will also compete next month at the Home Depot Center.

Tyson Gay, the defending world champion in the 100 and 200 meters, ran the final leg of the 4x100 for his USA team. "I feel pretty good. Once I got running, I felt relaxed," said Gay. "I’m just trying to work on my starts and making sure I keep moving. I am scheduled to run in the Adidas Track Classic at Home Depot Center in late May."

Felix, the women’s 200 meter silver Medalist at the 2004 Olympics, ran an unofficial time of 5.8 leg in the 4x400 and a 49.5 in the 400. "I’m just trying to have fun and get used to my surroundings." said Felix. Felix will also compete next month at the Home Depot Center.

Tyson Gay, the defending world champion in the 100 and 200 meters, ran the final leg of the 4x100 for his USA team. "I feel pretty good. Once I got running, I felt relaxed," said Gay. "I’m just trying to work on my starts and making sure I keep moving. I am scheduled to run in the Adidas Track Classic at Home Depot Center in late May."

Career Day at Second Baptist Church

Career Day will take place in the Fellowship Hall. The youth of SBCR as well as the community are invited to attend this valuable event. The goal is to provide college bound youth and those who are interested in joining the workforce with a realistic view of what is involved in order to obtain a job in specific fields. During the course of the day youth will have an opportunity to interact with professionals from a wide variety of fields. The Rev. Nathan Smith Scholarship Ministry will also have information from southern California colleges. Since its inception, the Ministry has given over $75,000 and provided over $50,000 in scholarships and book grants to the students of Second Baptist Church. Through generous donations like yours, the Rev. Nathan Smith Scholarship Ministry can continue to provide scholarships and book grants to the students of Second Baptist Church. For more information about the Rev. Nathan Smith Scholarship Ministry, contact Nancy Sabir at (951) 601-1886.
