DR. ANTHONY H. EVANS APPOINTED PRESIDENT

Ypsilanti, will succeed Dr. John M. Pfau as president of California State College, San Bernardino.

Dr. Evans was appointed last night by the Board of Trustees, concluding a nationwide search that drew more than 160 applicants from colleges and universities throughout the United States. Dr. Pfau, founding president, retired July 30.

At EMU, Dr. Evans was the senior vice president and directed the Academic Affairs Division, which includes six colleges, 60 departments and offices, 125 academic programs and 975 faculty and staff with an annual budget of $35 million. About 5,000 students reside on campus and another 14,000 commute.

Dr. Evans earned a Ph.D. in U.S. history and international relations from UC, Berkeley, an M.A. in history from the University of Hawaii and a B.A. in history and English literature from East Texas Baptist College. Prior to his appointment as EMU provost and vice president in 1979, he had been acting president, executive vice president and assistant to the president there.

Dr. Evans has held top administrative positions in the Peace Corps. As director of its planning office (1973-1975), he headed the executive staff of the Peace Corps director and coordinated all program and budget planning, policy development and evaluation. He was responsible for development of the annual Peace Corps program and budget of $82 million and their presentation to Congress and the President. In addition, Dr. Evans served on occasion as the acting Peace Corps director. His previous experience with the corps included chief of program planning and program officer in Korea.

Earlier, Dr. Evans was director of the Office of Special Projects at the University of Iowa, assistant program officer for the U.S. Department of State Agency for International Development in Thailand, state administrator for Title I at the University of Maryland and an instructor at UC, Berkeley.

Although a U.S. historian, he also is a specialist in U.S. foreign policy and the Far East. For the past three years, Dr. Evans has focused on U.S. policy in countries on the Arabian peninsula, especially North and South Yemen.

His wife, Lois, has taught junior high school, primarily math, for 15 years. Dr. Evans is expected to take office in about two months. However, he will be in the area for two or three days and may return to campus for a brief visit.
