Norton Space Academy Opening Attended by Hundreds

By Chris Lester

Not since John F. Kennedy's speech at the Los Angeles Coliseum in 1960 to the Democratic National Convention has a presidential candidate had so great an appeal for the acceptance speech of the White House nominee. When Riverside County Delegate Laura Frank Bailey entered the Bally Field and home of the Denver Broncos Thursday night her and marine vice's "Obama with aspirations I have never experienced anything like it. I've never seen" won on a higher level last Thursday when the Norton Space and Aeronautics Academy officially opened to a crowd in Apple Valley and garnered attention from the likes of Sen. Barack Obama, the first African American to hold a majority party ticket, accepted the Democratic nomination for president of the United States Thursday night and reaped主义思想, murmur:

"America, we cannot turn back, we must not retreat to the narrow boundaries of the past. We must not abandon the principle of the people's rights to be heard."

The stage was set, the audience was ready. The moment was ripe. The Norton Space Academy held its grand opening ceremony on Thursday night, attracting hundreds of people to Apple Valley for a night of celebration and learning.

The Academy, founded with the idea of bringing space science and technology to young people, has received significant attention in recent months. Its opening ceremony was attended by prominent figures such as Sen. Barack Obama, who delivered a speech highlighting the importance of education and innovation in the 21st century.

The event began with a powerful display of student talent and a dedication to the mission of the Academy. The atmosphere was filled with excitement and enthusiasm as the community gathered to celebrate this new educational opportunity.

After becoming mayor, San Bernardino Judge Pat Moreno visited the center and saw the wonders, exciting and forward thinking programs and spoke with Dr. Herb Fischer, former Superintendent of County Schools about the future Mill School site that was once it's status as a 'front row seat' home of the people's right to be heard.

Dorothy Ingrom's speech was a defining moment, said. Rep. Joe Baca. "He has the Democratic Party staged a spectacular so grand for the acceptance speech time, says. Rep. Joe Baca. "He has the Democratic Party staged a spectacular so grand for the acceptance speech.

Obama’s Acceptance: It’s Time to Work

Last Thursday August 28, 2008 will go down in America’s history as the day that the Democrat Party nominated a woman to seek the position of president of the United States. As such it is a period that will be remembered for years, and as such is the position that Hillary Clinton accepted the nomination to seek the position of president of the United States. As such it is a period that will be remembered for years, and as such is the position that Hillary Clinton accepted the nomination to seek the position of president of the United States.

Barack Obama

Barack Obama is a Democratic presidential candidate who was born in 1961 in Honolulu, Hawaii. He is the first African American to be nominated as a major party’s presidential candidate. Obama is a Harvard Law School graduate and worked as a constitutional law professor at the University of Chicago Law School from 1992 to 2004. In 2004, Obama ran for the United States Senate from Illinois and was elected to the Senate. He served as the senior United States senator from Illinois until he was elected as the 44th President of the United States in 2008.

Barack Obama: Change and Expectations

Barack Obama’s speech did not sit well with everyone. Many expressed that Obama was short on detail and was not specific about what he would do in his first 100 days in office. Others felt that he was too vague and that he did not provide enough specifics about his plans.

Obama’s Victory Speech

Yes it was a night that will be talked about in the Black community for years to come. I can see it in bar yards houses, bedrooms, save salons, bar-b-ques, churches, around kitchen tables and written about in Black owned media. He will be described as this: good looking, well educated, very articulate, confident man speaking with authority while addressing his opponent, I’m here bring it on with my army of supporters and humans of color. I think I recall him say that under President Bill Clinton worker’s wages went up $750 per year while decreasing $2,500 under the Republicans and if you elect him prosperity will come back to the working classes. Many thought he had a great night and it was a night that argumented for the many. Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas, to replace Justice Oakley. "Dan I knew Jack Kennedy," he said. "He did not owe this country a political rope-a-dope of his offering a woman as his sidekick. We have to announce to the public that he had selected Sarah Palin, the largest political organization in the country and Obama is the one to define change in policy terms and fire up the base." Four New Professors Welcomed at UCR's Graduate School of Education

Four new assistant professors—who research areas include successful interventions for English language learners and math and science education for minority students—have been added to the Graduate School of Education at UC Riverside. Dean Steven Bossett spearheaded this effort.

In addition to their research and academic backgrounds, assistant professors Tyrus Castro, Lisanda Lee, Lucia Mandez, Michael Malcom, and Lindsey Meceen bring with them personal experiences that give them unique insight into the area they study.

The professors were introduced by their names and degree advisors, followed by their introductions, which were delivered in the student-friendly format of the Riverside Institute.

"All four of them do research and teach in areas that reflect the diversity of the San Bernardino Empire," Dean Bossett said. "Each of them is a different way to advance our four-focus plan of strengthening English language learners, bilingual parent trainers for immigrant students, and students who come from underserved communitiesbackgrounds.

Tyrus Castro, who grew up in Brazil, earned his master's degree in political science at UCLA. He will receive his doctorate in political science from the University of Oregon, studies interventions that improve the academic outcomes of culturally and linguistically diverse students. He has worked as an intern for eight years and has been a bilingual parent trainer for immigrant families. Castro earned his bachelor's degree in political science from the University of California Los Angeles and his master's degree in political science from the University of Oregon. He will receive his doctorate in political science from the University of Oregon. His professional passion stems from personal experiences that give him unique insight into the area he studies.

Lisanda Lee, a first-generation college attendee, English language learner, and student who comes from an underserved community background, is studying education and psychology from the University of Oregon. She has worked as an intern for eight years and has been a bilingual parent trainer for immigrant families. Lee will receive her doctorate in psychology from the University of Oregon. Her research focuses on the impact of education and psychology on students who have experienced educational and social injustices in underserved communities.

Lucia Mandez, who grew up in Brazil, earned her doctorate in political science from the University of Oregon. She will receive her doctorate in political science from the University of Oregon. joined Congressman Jerry Lewis, former and present students; business leaders, community leaders, Supervisor Jose Gonzales, and Principal Robert Barksdale to open the first phase of the facility and to show the community the dreams of the future while not forgetting the past. Dr. Lachelle Thomas, who celebrated her 10th Birthday in November, was there and humbly introduced the new multipurpose center named in her honor.

Gathering of Black clergy, staff. He's the right man for the job, serving as a teacher, district superintendant. In the past five years with County Schools, his knowledge, expertise and leadership have greatly benefited our district and staff. He's the right man for the job," Fischer who is retiring a gathering of Black clergy recently.

The still affluent Black community knows the challenges that lie ahead. For starters he faces one of the nation's biggest school funding fights in California history, dazzling seven percent from local school municipalities, a nagging "achievement gap" that separates white and Asian students from their Black and Hispanic classmates, a precise drop-out problem, all against the backdrop of an exploding student population, many of whom are unskilled uneducated English leavers, low income and near the bottom of academic achievement. "The funding system for our schools is broken," lamented Thomas. "I find it hard to forget that student funding in California, noticeably urban in areas of relative funding need. On a graph, we rank somewhat in the bottom 10% in a state that easily ranks in the top 10% in state economy." California has more than 6 million students statewide. Inland San Bernardino County's 33 separate school districts. San Bernardino City Schools is the seventh-largest in California, serving more than 56,000 students. Last month, the state reported that 44.5 percent of the County's high school students drop out. The statewide dropout rate is 24.2 percent.

"I'm very troubled by this trend. With the changing demographics in this nation, if we don't do something to reach out and make sure that every child can move forward and make use of education we're going to face a future of terrible realities." On a brighter note, Thomas says he is encouraged by growing parent involvement in County schools. "Our challenge now is to mobilize the parents," he says, "to help make education a priority at home. We've come a long way in closing the achievement gap, so we're looking for a new way to say at home when kids come home from school. We have stable parents in the home today who are struggling just to find the time to help their kids with their schooling. Along the lines of the needs of changing environment, meeting students and increasing parent involvement will continue to be a major focus," he said.

Don't Let Your Teen's Future Go Up In Smoke

It's simple, marijuana and teens are not a good mix—especially when it comes to learning and academic success. We know that all young people face challenges as they grow and mature and that the dangers and temptations of drugs are all around. We also know that as a parent or someone who cares about young people, you want the very best for them; you want them to do even better than you did and lead productive lives.

While overall drug use among teens is down in recent years, there are still too many brilliant young people whose potential is ruined. Don't let drugs destroy their chance of going to college or landing a good job.

MARIJUANA CAN LIMIT YOUR TEEN'S ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT

- A teenage marijuana user's odds of dropping out are more than twice that of a non-user.¹
- The short-term effects of marijuana can include impaired memory and ability to learn.²

Parents and family are still the most important influence in young peoples' lives so keep the lines of communication open, set a clear, “no marijuana” rule, stay involved, and continue to discuss the dangers and consequences of drug use. You make the difference. Knowing that education is the key to a better tomorrow, you have the power to protect their potential and help lead them on the road to success.

Mrs. Leona Grant was honored by the Mary Ella Langston Missionary Society at St. Paul A.M.E. Church in San Bernardino. She was presented by president Marlene Sells as husband, Rev. James Grant, and pastor Larry Campbell choir and congregation sang an opening song.

Mrs. Grant was born on November 14, 1925 in Texarkana, Texas. She was the youngest of four children born to Lebanon and Jessie Bell Gregory. Her mother passed away when she was only seven years old and the family had to relocate to Dallas, TX. In Dallas she won a grand prize of $25 in a Talent Show.

In 1943 she married Paul Quinn, and in March 1943 they moved to Waco, Texas. She attended Paul Quinn College in Waco, TX and on December 15, 1948 she was a proud graduate of sweetheart that she has known since second grade. They will celebrate their anniversary on December 15, 2008. Four years after they were married the couple went on active ministry. The couple reside beside each other to, Pastor, twelve children and one grandchild they raised from the birth, "Now what a lady," said Sells.

You were created for a purpose.

118TH ANNIVERSARY ON SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 2008

Pastor Julio A. Andujo

THE CHURCH WHERE EVERYBODY IS SOMEbody AND JESUS CHRIST IS ALL.

Second Baptist Church of Riverside Celebrates 118th Church Anniversary

Among his many accomplishments, he notably served as the Assistant Director of the Labor Education and Cooperative Extension Service, Pendle Hill School, Wallingford, PA, and was the University Minister and Instructor of Religion, Lincoln University, PA. We are walking by faith and not by sight. We trust that God will impress upon your hearts to come fellowship with our church family and many other saints of God, as we celebrate our 118th Church Anniversary. Come early to get a seat and be prepared to worship together, and praise God together for the past, present and future journeys; The church encourages everyone, young and old, to continue to stand on God’s promises, just as our forefathers did, and always believe, We Walk by Faith and Not by Sight.

Second Baptist Church of Riverside is located at 2911 Ninth Street in Riverside. For more information, call (951) 664-5352 or visit www.secondbaptistriverside.com.
