Church in Riverside. Calling their city "exactly what the members of COPE did last Sunday," by going straight to the top of both San Bernardino and Riverside county government offices.

The group met to give the support of Riverside and San Bernardino pledged officials for COPE's agenda to provide education to people on probation.

We don't feel it has ended.

A Maydee Lenore Mullinax of Riverside, in relation to the death of Tyisha Miller, said that Riverside "has moved on." She described the agreement as a "victory for justice," saying "we don't feel it has ended." She also stated that the family "will continue to fight to give his clients their day in court." On Friday, she will file in court that Riverside police officers did not give their consent in the case. We don't feel it has ended.

The Miller family has closed one chapter of its story, the death of Tyisha Miller, on Thursday. According to the family, the family developed programs during her time at Riverside City College. She was a role model and a pioneer opening doors for opportunities, said Maffe Millar. After the shooting of Tyisha Miller, as two federal officers did not give their consent, Riverside police officers did not give their consent.

Mayde Miller, executive director of Fair Housing, said the family "will continue to fight to give his clients their day in court." On Friday, she will file in court that Riverside police officers did not give their consent in the case. We don't feel it has ended.

Tyisha Miller, the office for her unwavering support and activism in the aftermath of the incident, said the family is "moving on." "We needed to bring closure to her death," she said. "The family is moved to set the matter aside. ""We are throughly pleased and took forward to moving on," said Riverside City Manager Jerri Holmes through Mayde. She noted that this is not the end of the legal matters surrounding the case. "Moving on" seem to be the theme of the agreement, and it is an indication of how many good things that have happened in the aftermath of Tyisha's death. She said the Black Voice News, "We have accomplished a lot of good things for the city when you evaluate the citizen's review board, the exposure across the country of police brutality and racism nationwide, and in the Riverside Police Department. We've accomplished a lot of good things for the city when you evaluate the citizen's review board, the exposure across the country of police brutality and racism nationwide, and in the Riverside Police Department.

Don't Take Voting for Granted

Another shower was Sunday when we listen to Zakes Mokae who was born and raised in South Africa. He did not have the luxury of Sunday showers because of his own nature. One of those showers started with the congregations organized for Prophetic Engagement (C.O.P.E.) town meeting at Allen Chapel A.M.E. Riverside for the purpose of getting commitment from top elected county officials to support their literacy program to help people on probation. We want to commend C.O.P.E. for their vision to garner the support of the top county official to publicly state their commitment before 100 members from the congregations.

Reject the Hansberger takeover of the County

According to recent reports San Bernardino County Board of Supervisor Dennis Hansberger is trying to take over the entire county by loaning Ed Scott and Bill Postmus over $60,000 dollars to try unseat Jerry Eaves and Kathy Davis. The last time this happened was when Warren Haldeman tried to take over the town of Johnson and it can be legislated out again under the Bush Administration and his appointed U.S. Supreme Court. Don't take Voting for Grant protect your rights. Go out and vote.

Community Shows Support for Baca

Close to one hundred African-American political and community leaders last Saturday to support 42nd district U.S. Congressperson Joe Baca in his race against the home of Dr. Will and Laura Roberts in Rialto. The event, sponsored by a coalition of community leaders including Black Voice News publisher Cheryl and Hardy Baca, Proactiva Report publisher A Brion Jones, Black Press Media and America’s News publisher Sam Martin, marked the first major show of support for Baca by this segment of the community. Last year was a great year for African-American candidates for the highly contested seat where the former Congressperson Joe Baca dealt while serving his seventeen term in office.

"This fundraiser has a dual function," stated Hardy Baca. "First, we aim at securing the only democratically-held congressional seat in this area by keeping Congressman Baca in office, and second we are building bridges. Baca has reached out to us, and now we are reaching back to him." continuum.

"We understand the significance of this election, and that if we don't work together now to secure this region, we can easily lose the political weight we are slowly gaining," Baca explained.

"Today we celebrate unity, solidarity, and the future of the Democratic Party not just here in the Inland Empire but nationwide," the congressperson Baca told the crowd of supporters.

The event was attended by a number of local elected officials who addressed the gathering as well, including San Bernardino City Councilwoman Betty Chandler and San Bernardino School Board members Danny Thomas and Tony Dupree.

C.O.P.E. to be commended for their efforts

There is a saying that when it rains it pours and that was the case this weekend in the Inland Empire. It did not rain but rather activities that made it seem like something was going on at the same time. The taxidermist advertises "come to my shop it's the Internet the way you've always wanted it to be. The waiting's over. It runs right through your phone line, and it's up to 50 times faster than a 28.8K modem, which translated into English, means a Web page that normally takes over 30 minutes to download, will now take only five minutes. Combine that with instant (no dial up access) and no more missed calls (you can be on the phone and online at the same time), and voila, it's the Internet the way you've always wanted it to be. The Internet is once again, your friend!"

Return JOE BACA to Congress

When I was elected last year to the United States Congress, I promised to work as hard as I could to bring more of our federal tax money back home. I think I've made a good start. I've brought millions of our tax dollars back to fight juvenile crime, for drug prevention programs, improve elementary schools and community colleges, more hi-tech education, neighborhood and park revitalization.

I continue to work with Republicans and Democrats in a bipartisan fashion to get things done — civil rights, lowering middle-class income taxes, increasing criminal penalties, reducing school class size and improving the economy.

— Joe Baca

Joe Baca speaks at a fund raiser held at the home of Dr. Wil Roberts. Peggy Howard and St. Juanche Scott took this.

TOP THREE PRIORITIES

• I support strengthening Social Security and a prescription drug health care benefit for all seniors.

• I support targeted tax cuts to help families pay for college.

• We must pay down the National Debt to keep interest rates low and the economy strong.

A New CME Church Established in Moreno Valley

With the enormous growth that the inland Empire has experienced, the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church has long had the need for another church in this area.

In 1984, the Moreno Valley Mission CME Church was established as a fledgling ministry. After the first attempt, this mission church sat dormant for over a decade but has now been revived with the start of a Bible Study.

This Bible Study group had been meeting at Quince AME Church and were being taught and shepherded by Rev. Napoleon Gordon, Pastor of Harper Chapel CME Church in Norwalk. On the 4th Saturday in August, during the Southern California Annual Conference in Los Angeles, Bishop E. Lynn Brown, Presiding Prelate of the W.

Bishop sent a new Pastor to the Mission Church. Bishop Brown sent Rev. John Seniguar to pastor the Moreno Valley Mission Church established in Moreno Valley.

Rev. Jesse Jackson Urges the Defeat of Prop 38

Now is not the time to turn back the clock.

"Proposition 38 would bring new discrimination to our schools. It allows private voucher schools to reject students for a whole host of reasons. Our children can be turned away based on test scores, or religion, or even family income."

"The American Dream is education for all, not for a few."
Superintendent of Schools in San Bernardino, John A. McGraw, has been selected for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) Women in Excellence Award banquet to be held on November 4.

Alvin Wilburn, has been a businesswoman in the community near the site of San Bernardino for more than 43 years. He is the owner of Alvin’s Music Center and Video (AMC) as well as BCI Check Cashing Service. He was elected recently to the city council to run and support of community-based agencies. Wilburn, operates as the chair of the committee of putting together an event measuring several hundred dollars back into the community. Alvin’s Music Center has supported the NAACP Social Club, Inc., Swans Club, Little League, Pop Warner Football and other non-profit organizations.

Two recipients were chosen from the field of education: Brenda Campbell-Jones has over twenty-eight years of diverse educational experience. She has served children and families as a teacher, an assistant principal and principal. Campbell is currently an Assistant Professor and Administrator at Azusa Pacific University as well as the Director of the Regional University Campus in Monrovia, Calif. Campbell-Jones also is accepting her doctorate at Claremont Graduate University. She has been a successful campaign for County Supervisor of Schools in San Bernardino. Jones grew up on the westside of San Bernardino and is the current Assistant Superintendent of Schools. She has served children eight years of diverse educational experience. She has served children eight years of diverse educational experience. She has served children in the following capacities: chair, board member of the SELF Youth Officers Association and a former member of the board of directors of the Inland Empire Black Peace Officers Association and a former board member of the SELF Youth Program. She currently serves as Treasurer of the Board of Directors of the Inland Behavioral Health Services. Jones looks forward to retirement where he plans to devote time to the pursuit of art and completion of his book of poetry. She will be a keynote speaker at the NAACP Women’s Luncheon at the Inland Empire Black Peace Officers Association and a former board member of the SELF Youth Program.

This election, there is one prescription that I order for every patient and family I serve: VOTE! Okay, maybe I can’t control our weight, or whether we escape the flu, but there is something you can control, your right to vote. Your vote is a chance to have a say in your fate. If you don’t use it, you give away your right to influence important issues such as health care reform, education, police brutality, social security, taxes and affirmative action.

Our Black forefathers made sacrifices and sometimes gave their lives to give us and protect our right to vote. When the Voting Rights Act of 1965 was passed, making it possible for people of color to exercise their right as it was for their white counterparts, America witnessed an unprecedented wave of hope and exhilaration. Millions of blacks turned out on voting day to see the right of passage. Today our voting and political activism is needed more than ever.

Record show since the early 1970s, voter turnout has been a consistent source of difficulty for communities. On Tuesday, November 7th Americans will elect a new president, along with a host of other local and state officials. If you believe your vote doesn’t count again. With presidential candidates Vice president Al Gore and Governor George W. Bush running neck and neck your vote can determine the winner.

The National Medical Association (NMA), the nation’s only organization devoted to the health of African American physicians, health professionals and their patients, urges you to spread the message of civic participation through your bridge clubs, churches, offices and communities. As members of the African American community, it is our responsibility to involve our communities in the fight to eliminate disparities in the nation’s health care delivery system. It is also important that we continue the momentum of this campaign, not only during this election season, but at future elections as well.

Take time to study the candidate’s views and how they affect you and your family. Study these propositions, don’t be fooled by false claims and irresponsible misinformation. Listen to the Black Voice News 2000 Voice Guide in making your decision. “Our Bodies,” and the J.W. von. Wankel Medical Society, a component of the NMA encourage you to "Vote. It’s Just What the Doctor Ordered."

Dr. Levister welcomes your written letters concerning their bodies but regrets that he cannot answer individual letters. Your letters will be incorporated into the columns at space permits. You may direct your letters to Dr. Levister in care of the Black Voice News, P.O. Box 71388, Riverside, CA 92510.
